Any changes in government leadership — if contemplated—should be made this week. The session will be the first meeting of the 1,378 member Supreme Soviet since the national elections earlier this month.

After the formal resignations the Supreme Soviet re-elects its two highest states organs, the Praesidium of the Supreme Soviet and the Council of Ministers.

Some Western observers feel the time is ripe for the Supreme Soviet to initiate an appeal to Western governments for co-operation in staging summit talks in the next few months.

In New York, William Ryan, Associated Press news analyst, says speculation is mounting in Western circles that a new premier may be installed in Nikolai Bulganin's chair when the Soviet Union's new Parliament convenes.

"If Bulganin is dropped, his successor may be Alexei I. Kirchenko, 50-year-old former first secretary of the Ukraine Communist party and long one of Khrushchev's top aides."

Expect Further U.S. Tightening Of Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was expected to announce today a tightening of curbs on crude oil imports to the United States as a showdown neared in Congress over extension of the reciprocal trade program.

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, appealing anew for extension of the program, told the House of Representatives ways and means committee Tuesday that the oil import decision had been made and was due for announcement.

His statement came in reply to Republican criticism of lack of tariff protection for U.S. oil and other industries.

Weeks' statement was taken immediately as an 11th-hour concession to domestic oil producers, who have repeatedly denounced the administration's low-tariff policies on imports of low-cost residual fuel oil and other petroleum products.

HEARINGS END

Tuesday's testimony by Weeks concluded more than five weeks of hearings on Eisenhower's request for a five-year extension of the 25-year-old Trade Agreements Act and for new authority for additional reduction of tariffs.

Democrats and Republicans alike agreed that the administration trade bill is in trouble in Congress and faces probable major amendments.

The House committee, however, will not begin final drafting of the bill until around mid-April, when Congress returns from its Easter holiday.

Canada already has protested to Washington against the import cut, saying it would be "unwise to jeopardize this two-way trade which works to the benefit of both countries," but the U.S. has rejected the protest.

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: An extensive high pressure area is centred over Hudson Bay. It continues to bring fine weather to Northern Ontario and also to Quebec and Manitoba. Rain is falling over most of the eastern states and some light snow has been reported north of Lake Erie.

BUDGET DEBATE IN LEGISLATURE NEARING END

Liberals Introduce No-Confidence Vote

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature was to vote today on a Liberal Opposition motion of non - confidence criticizing the Progressive Conservative government for the province's rising public debt.

It was the second no-confidence resolution of the session. The first one, proposed jointly last month by the CCF and the Liberals and having to do with unemployment, was defeated 69 to 14.

There are 81 Conservatives in the House, 11 Liberals and three CCF members.

CCF Leader Donald MacDonald has said he would support the Liberal motion to be voted on today, signalling the windup of the budget debate.

Tuesday, Deputy Welfare Minister James S. Band proposed in a report he tabled that companies be given tax credits for employing persons over 65. He said the forced retirement of workers at that age is a problem and "some inducement beyond sentiment" is required to solve it.

HAS SLIM CHANCE

After he is 65, a man has only one chance in 50 of obtaining a job, the deputy minister's report said, yet 44 per cent of the non-working male population of Ontario still is capable of holding down employment.

At another point in Tuesday's sitting, Mr. MacDonald criticized the province's electoral distribution system under which, he said, votes in some places are worth more than they are in others.

For example, he said, Rainy River and York East ridings each elect one member to the House. But Rainy River has only 12,250 voters while York East has 79,571.

"In other words, a vote in York East is worth one-seventh of a vote in Rainy River," he said. "How can you pretend to be giving representation by population?"

Hoffa Denounced As Master of Hoodlum Empire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rackets committee Tuesday pictured teamster President James R. Hoffa as a national menace—a power-hungry master of "a hoodlum empire" within the huge union.

The committee, in a report to the Senate, said the union has pursued a "blatant public - be-damned philosophy" under leadership permeated by "the strength of corruption." It depicted Hoffa as a betrayer of rank-and-file workers.

Dave Beck, former president of the International Teamsters Brotherhood, was characterized by the Senate investigators as a miserly man "motivated by an uncontrollable greed." They said Beck is an almost pitiable figure who just couldn't resist the temptation to steal from his union.

"Dave Beck," the committee said, "brought shame and disrepute on the American labor movement . . . the labor movement is well rid of Dave Beck."

The committee's findings were keyed, however, to denunciations of Hoffa. He was accused of holding rank-and-file union members in veritable servitude and misusing millions of dollars of their union funds.

Hollywood to Roll Out Glamor For Award-Conferring Ceremony

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's Oscar night in Hollywood tonight and the movie capital will roll out its glamor for the award-conferring occasion.

But the sombre note of tragedy—the death of producer Mike Todd in an airplane crash Saturday—hangs over the festivities.

Todd's widow, Elizabeth Taylor, is one of the major contenders for the best-actress award.

"I don't care whether I won or not," she said Tuesday night while flying home from her husband's funeral in Chicago. "I only care what Mike would have thought if I had won."

Seventy of Hollywood's biggest names will appear on the NBC telecast of the award proceedings staged by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Clark Gable and Mae West, among others, will be making their television debuts.

Miss Taylor has long been a favorite in the actress division because of her performance in Raintree County. Her strongest competition will come from Deborah Kerr (Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison) and Joanne Woodward (Three Faces of Eve).

In the best-actor division the race is strictly between Alec Guinness (Bridge on the River Kwai) and Marlon Brando Sayonara).

The best-picture award parallels the actor race. It is between Bridge on the River Kwai and Sayonara with Peyton Place, Witness for the Prosecution and 12 Angry Men also contenders.

Canadian soldiers from sunny Egypt (top) to the cold barrens of Churchill, Man., (bottom) have begun to cast their ballots in the federal election. A total of 130,555 servicemen, their families and veterans in hospitals vote in advance of the March 31 polling date. (CP from National Defence).

Election Campaign Tightens As Voting Day Draws Near

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister Diefenbaker says Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson is making election promises that can't be fulfilled and "indulging in personalities." Mr. Pearson says Mr. Diefenbaker's public works program is a "fraud and a hoax."

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell says the Canadian economy is sick with a fundamental illness that the old-line parties are incapable of dealing with. Social Credit Leader Solon Low says the Bank of Canada's "tight money" policy has proved to be a remedy much worse than the disease of inflation it was designed to cure.

As the March 31 federal election campaign hustled through Tuesday, the pace was quicker, the tension tighter. Only five more full days remained.

At Yarmouth, N.S., Mr. Diefenbaker referred to a recent Pearson television speech in which the Liberal leader said his party, unlike the Conservatives, has rejected "the cult of personality whether expressed in terms of dictatorship or demagoguery."

Mr. Diefenbaker said "Instead of indulging in personalities, I try to place before the people of Canada the issues—not making promises that can't be carried out."

At Moncton, N.B., the prime minister said a federal-provincial tax - sharing proposal by Mr. Pearson would mean less for the Maritime provinces than payments provided by his Progressive Conservative government.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. Pearson said even a child could be shown that Mr. Diefenbaker's $1,185,000,000 public works program could not provide more jobs in 1958.

The Liberal leader said his proposed tax cuts of $400,000,000 retroactive to Jan. 1, providing a tax holiday starting June 1 for six or seven weeks, are no bribe. He would have been "stupid" to have suggested them if Canada was not in an emergency situation.

In a television speech from Winnipeg, Mr. Coldwell said the "startling" fact is that under the Conservative government, as under the Liberal one before it, the cost of living has continued to rise until now it is at its highest point ever.

Princess Margaret, Townsend Have Tea at Clarence House

LONDON (CP) — Princess Margaret today had tea with Group Captain Peter Townsend, whose love she renounced in 1955 on religious grounds because of his divorce.

Royal sources said Townsend called on the princess this afternoon at Clarence House, Margaret's mansion on the Mall near Buckingham Palace.

The couple took tea together in the drawing room of the princess' private suite in the home she shares with the Queen Mother.

Informants said the meeting was arranged well before Townsend's return this morning from his round-the-world tour.

The Queen Mother was present for the reunion of the 43-year-old wartime RAF hero and the 27-year-old princess.

Margaret renounced Townsend's love in October, 1955, on religious grounds because he was divorced from his wife. The Church of England, of which the Queen is temporal head, frowns upon divorce.

The Associated Press quoted one royal source as saying:

"They have so much to talk about.

"Townsend wants to tell the princess about his experiences during the last two years and more, and the princess has been anxious to hear of them.

"No doubt they will meet again and again while the group captain is in London."

A spokesman for the royal family said: "Group Capt. Townsend arrived at Clarence House at 4 p.m. (11 a.m. EST) for tea with the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret."

Since Margaret issued a personal statement renouncing the handsome war hero who once served as a palace equerry, he has travelled 60,000 miles on a lone tour of the world.

Neither the slim, blue - eyed princess nor Townsend have been reported linked romantically with any other persons since.

Committee Kills Racing Bill

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature's legal bills committee today killed legislation which would permit the Ontario Racing Commission to make regulations and stage secret inquiries concerning any aspect of horse racing in the province.

He said the racing commission will meet with protesting groups such as the Ontario Jockey Club and if necessary prepare new legislation for the next session of the legislature.

The rejected bill drew strong objections from Opposition members when it was presented to the House on March 19 for second reading. They argued its powers were too wide.

GERMAN FOES OF ATOMIC ARMS ASK REFERENDUM

Seek Vote of People After House Defeat

BONN (Reuters) — The opposition Social Democratic party will seek a national referendum on atomic disarmament following its failure to defeat a government bill allowing atomic weapons for the West German army.

The way was paved for West German forces to get atomic weapons when the Bundestag Tuesday night approvad by a show of hands a motion that the army have the "most modern weapons" in the absence of an international agreement on disarmament.

A spokesman said this did not include hydrogen bombs.

The vote came after four days of torrid debate and flashing tempers. Chancellor Adenauer claimed that West Germany would rule herself out of NATO if she refused weapons offered to her.

But the Social Democrat leader, Eric Ollenhauer, called the decision a "national emergency" and said his party will introduce a bill providing for a referendum and "reserves the right to take further steps."

EXPECT PROTESTS

Meetings throughout the country are expected to protest against atomic arms for the army. The leaders of 6,000,000 trade union members will discuss the situation at an emergency meeting Friday.

A taste of what might happen came Tuesday when 1,000 workers in Kassel staged a lightning strike in protest against the government motion.

During the last stages of the debate Adenauer warned that Russia is "armed to the teeth" with nuclear weapons and will not agree to disarmament as long as she can disrupt Western unity.

Ollenhauer repeated charges that if the armed forces were given nuclear weapons the post-war division of Germany would be perpetuated.

Sandercock Asks Aid to Develop Parks on Trent

TORONTO (CP) — Local questions occupied the legislature for a time during Tuesday's session.

Arthur Reaume (L-Essex North) chided the government for buying German-made cars instead of automobiles made in Windsor. This drew a prompt reply from Lloyd Letherby (PC-Simcoe East).

Mr. Letherby said Canadian car makers have been in "a rat race" to provide bigger and more expensive cars while English and German makers built cars tailored to the needs of the public.

"If Canadian companies would make cars to meet the needs and pocketbooks of the people, they would sell them."

W. E. Sandercock (PC-Hastings West) asked the government to help develop camping parks along the Trent River in his riding.

CAPITAL GRANTS

Norris Whitney (PC-Prince Edward-Lennox) suggested that the $1 per-capital grants to counties for administration of justice be raised to $1.25 for counties under 50,000 and $1.50 for counties under 35,000.

"The smaller counties are not being given the same consideration," he said.

Queens Get Bargains in Flowers In Push-Button Sale in Holland

AALSMEER, The Netherlands (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth bought flowers in a "push-button auction sale" today during a visit to this centre of Holland's floral industry.

The Queen, on the second day of her three-day state visit to Holland, came away with a bunch of carnations, which she bought for 51 Dutch cents (about 15 cents) a bloom.

Growers present said the Queen got a bargain, but it did not compare with that gained by her hostess, Queen Juliana. The Netherlands Queen bought some orchids worth about 300 guilders ($85) for 85 guilders by making a mistake in operating the push-button system.

Bids are made at the Aalsmeer flower auction as a pointer revolves around a huge dial. The buyer pushes a button as the pointer reaches the figure he wants, and this cancels out all lower bids.

Queen Juliana should have pushed the button after the 300-mark, but buzzed when it stood at 85 guilders.

The two queens then left for a drive through central Holland to The Hague. Cheering people waved as they passed, and flags fluttered over the entire countryside.

In the royal party was Canada's General H. D. G. Crerar, Elizabeth, who was invited by the Queen to take part in The Netherlands visit because of Canada's part in the liberation of Holland in 1945.

New 'Explorer' Joins Its Twin And Vanguard

Army's Jupiter-C Puts Third U.S. Moon in Sky

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The U.S. Army launched another Explorer satellite today and 12 minutes later the new baby moon apparently was in a successful orbit.

The Jupiter-C launching rocket with the 80-inch satellite tube spinning in its nose roared away from this test centre at 12:38 p.m. EST.

The Air Force announced quickly that the first stage had appeared to operate normally and then within 12 minutes said all stages appeared to have performed as planned.

The perfect performance would mean almost certainly that a second Army Explorer had attained an orbit and was streaking around the earth in company with three other man-made moons.

THIRD JUPITER ROCKET

It was the third Jupiter-C launching in less than two months.

The rocket team fired Explorer I into its orbit Jan. 31. On March 5 a Jupiter-C propelled Explorer II to orbital altitude but the satellite failed to attain orbital speed because the 50-pound rocket in its fourth and final stage did not ignite.

Crusted white with frost on the icy surface of its liquid oxygen tanks, the 70-foot Jupiter-C rocket blasted off at 12:38 p.m. EST.

CLIMBED STRAIGHT

The missile rose straight and sure and climbed swiftly toward an overcast sky.

It was visible for about a minute but the roar of its powerful first-stage engine could be heard for at least a minute after it disappeared into the thick blanket of clouds about 10,000 feet above the launching site.

The flaming tail of the rocket was visible in the clouds only for a brief instant.

New Operation Could Save Half Heart Victims

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A Chicago surgeon believes a new operation that stimulates the growth of blood vessels on the surface of the heart could save half of the persons who now die of heart disease.

"This is our only hope for substantially reducing the heart death toll until we find the answer to atherosclerosis," the fatty "rusting" inside blood vessels regarded as a major cause of heart attacks, said Dr. M. S. Mazel, who helped perfect the operation.

He said the operation, called a cariopexy, has been used on 124 heart patients at the Edgewater Hospital, Chicago, with 98 per cent success. All of the last 00 patients have lived. Patients have gone back to work within three to four weeks after surgery.

Describing the operation Tuesday, Dr. Mazel said the sac containing the heart is opened and scraped. The surgeon then uses an atomizer to spray magnesium silicate, a white powder, over the heart's surface.

The powder produces a severe inflammatory reaction that goads the heart into growing new blood vessels to feed the original coronary vessels.

This Candidate Will Win Even If He Is Beaten

MONTREAL (CP) — At least one candidate expects to be ahead financially whether he wins or loses in the March 31 federal election.

He is Wilfrid Flibotte who decided to contest St. Hyacinthe-Bagot after a group of friends bet him that he would not be a candidate.

In a telephone interview Tuesday, Mr. Flibotte, listed as an Independent Liberal on his nomination papers, said he covered the bet made by his friends. He declined to disclose the amount.

Told there were rumors that the wager now amounted to more than $1,000, Mr. Flibotte replied: "It is much more than that."

Acquaintances say that all it cost Mr. Flibotte to enter the election was the $200 required of all candidates. The deposit is returned to any candidate polling at least half of the number of votes cast for the winner.

The acquaintances said that if the bet amounted to $1,000 and Mr. Flibotte loses his deposit he will still be ahead $800.

Opponents of PC's Rip, Burn Posters

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today they have been asked to check reports of a gang of men ripping down Progressive Conservative election posters in Toronto Trinity constituency.

The arson squad investigated one incident in which a poster was reported burned on the veranda of a house, scorching some paintwork.

Rugby conveners for the season are Jack Sisson for the southern section and Mr. C. Lynch for the northern division.

The badminton tournament date was set for April 24 at 4.00 p.m. The tourney will be held at OSD and will be composed of four divisions, junior and senior, boys and girls doubles.

District Labor Council Backs CCF Party After Hearing All South Hastings Candidates

The Belleville and District Labor Council Tuesday evening placed its official stamp of approval on the C.C.F. national policy and on the candidacy of Howard Weese, standard bearer for that party in next week's federal election.

The action was taken following a general meeting of the council held in the IOOF hall on Front Street which was addressed by Mr. Weese, C.C.F. candidate; Lee Grills, Progressive Conservative, and Dr. D. C. McVicker, Liberal candidate. About 60 members attended the meeting presided over by Don Burshaw, council president.

Both C.C.F. and Liberal political guns were levelled at the Diefenbaker government during the speech - making which saw the subject of last year's Belleville and Trenton dairy strike resurrected as political ammunition.

Dr. McVicker accused Prime Minister Diefenbaker of dissolving parliament without consideration for the rights of parliament and of giving the opposition no opportunity of replying.

He claimed also that the Conservative government had taken no action to ease the unemployment situation, which, contrary to Mr. Diefenbaker's assertion, now saw a larger percentage of the Canadian labor force out of work than at any time in recent years.

"The Conservative government should have known what was happening, but instead of taking action blamed the Liberals," he said. "Instead of having a comprehensive plan for unemployment an election was called.

WOULD BENEFIT LABOR

Dr. McVicker said much legislation benefiting labor had been placed on the books during the Liberal regime at Ottawa and the Liberal program now included new legislation which would further benefit labor.

Claiming that the South Hastings Progressive Conservative candidate Mr. Lee Grills had been unfair to labor, Dr. McVicker referred to last summer's milk strike in Belleville and Trenton when striking workers carried placards bearing the words "Lee Grills Unfair to Lobor."

He invited Mr. Grills "to tell the truth" about why his Belleville dairy had signed with the union, suggesting Mr Grills had been told by Labor Minister Hon. Michael Starr that it did not look good for a Conservative member to oppose labor.

Referring again to the unemployment situation and the proposed plan for public works announced by the Conservatives, Dr. McVicker said "it was odd that Mr. Diefenbaker sees the need for works projects only in ridings not now held by the Conservatives.

He claimed the Conservatives felt Hastings South was a "safe" seat and asked what had been done here to relieve unemployment. Only half a dozen men were working on excavation for the new federal building in Belleville where in certain other ridings such work was being pushed to completion.

SEES RENEWED INTEREST

Mr. Grills, first candidate to speak, saw a renewed interest in political matters in the current campaign. He was proud of his party leader and referred to Prime Minister Diefenbaker as "a man of the people."

He said Mr. Diefenbaker had a definite policy and following the election of last June 10 had kept election promises "to a greater degree than ever before in political history."

He said that even the C.C.F. leader M. J. Coldwell, and Social Credit leader Solon Low had complimented Mr. Diefenbaker on his accomplishments.

Referring to unemployment, Mr. Grills agreed that this was a serious thing, but invited his listeners to weigh the facts. In February, 1957, the Liberal Government had been warned to look for more than seasonal unemployment the next winter.

"But the Liberals appeared to ignore the warning," he said. "They budgetted for a surplus when a balanced budget would have been more in order, and now in their election campaign the Liberals are advocating deficit financing."

The Liberal tight money policy had made loans hard to get and business was adversely affected. Farmers were not getting a fair share of the national income.

Mr. Grills said the Liberal immigration policy had allowed too many people to come into the country for the jobs that were available.

In contrast the Conservative Government had stopped immigration until a balance was reached; had provided $300 million for new housing, had made cash advances to farmers for bin stored wheat; had increased pensions, made loans more readily available, had extended unemployment benefits and increased grants to hospitals.

REPLIES TO STATEMENT

Also the Diefenbaker government had given assistance to Maritime provinces in an effort to improve their economic position.

Replying to a statement made earlier in the week by Liberal candidate, Dr. McVicker, at Trenton that the RCAF Training Command was to be moved to Winnipeg and that he (Mr. Grills) had not spoken against it, Mr. Grills said the matter had never been discussed in the House of Commons.

"The RCAF is capable of running its own show," Mr. Grills said.

He admitted the transfer of the Training Command at Trenton had been considered by the RCAF, but said that Transport Command would be moved to Trenton to replace it. As result the civilian employee list would not be cut and the personnel might even be increased.

Mr. Grills noted that during the June 10th election campaign there was a rumor circulated that No. 6 Repair Depot would be moved out of Trenton unless the Liberals were returned.

"I don't like these rumors, they are not fair. They don't sound to me much like 'Pearson for Peace'," he said.

Later when Dr. McVicker was addressing the gathering he contradicted Mr. Grills' statement that the Trenton issue had not been discussed in the House of Commons. Dr. McVicker said that Hansard for November 4 showed the matter had been discussed.

OUTLINES PLATFORM

C.C.F candidate Howard Weese said he believed the C.C.F. platform offered labor and farmers the best policy of any platform in existence today.

He said the C.C.F. wanted a pension plan for all with a basic pension of $75 per month at 65 years of age.

Its measure to relieve unemployment would be a works program for the construction of low-cost homes badly needed by the low income group. It would build hospitals, highways, build markets and investments.

Claiming that profiteers had placed the cost of a new home far beyond the reach of the average worker, Mr. Weese said no worker could qualify for an N.H.A. home costing $15,000 when costs could not exceed 23 per cent of income.

"It's heart-breaking to see the condition in which many people have to live and it should be disgraceful," he said.

Referring to election promises made last year by Mr. Diefenbaker, the speaker said that only six of 57 promises had been completely kept. Thirteen promises had been completed in part with two being probable. Thirty-six had not been kept.

Motions introduced by the C.C.F. aimed at bettering labor conditions had been "talked out" by the Diefenbaker government and the Trans-Canada Pipeline, big Diefenbaker issue in the June 10th election, was now no longer mentioned, despite the fact that the pipeline promotors had invested a mere $5 million and had reaped $300 million — tax free.

He said a C.C.F. government would favor an excess profits and capital gains tax. "Money raised from this source would build a lot of homes for people who need them badly," he said.

Mr. Weese said the Bennett government during the hungry 30's had ignored labor and charged the Conservatives were still ignoring labor, despite his belief that they had learned a lesson.

He spoke of attempts last year during the local milk strike to have a co-operative dairy established in the Quinte area. An application for a charter had been met with the reply that another dairy was "not necessary or desirable" and letters patent had been refused with no explanation.

Mr. Weese attacked what he said had been an agreement between local dairies which saw other dairies lock out employees when workers of a dairy went on strike.

"If a man says he represents labor, then he should represent labor," declared Mr. Weese "Such an agreement should never been made. That was the time and place when all dairy workers should have had a contract."

Mayor Hyde Sends Message To North Fans

Mayor Gerald Hyde, an ardent hockey fan himself and personally proud of the exploits of the McFarlands to date, believes in publicity. The team, he believes, are "the probable 1958 Allan Cup champions."

The mayor forwarded a quarter-page advertisement to the Timmins Press, inviting the hockey faithful of that district to witness the third game between their "Porkies" and the Macs tomorrow night.

The advertisement read: "To the citizens of South Porcupine and district:—The city of Belleville is justifiably proud of their Eastern Ontario Senior "A" champions who meet your "Porkies" in the third game of their best-of-five Ontario semi-finals series in your arena tonight.

"Known as the 'McFarlands' because the team is sponsored by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company of nearby Picton, the team is managed by Drury Denyes, who also is the city manager and treasurer, and coached by Ike Hildebrand who, as a playing coach, has been one of the outstanding players in the league.

"In goal we have a former professional, Gordie Bell, while on defence are team captain Floyd Crawford, Moe Benoit, Lionel Botley, Joe Lepine and Keith Montgomery. The front line sharpshooters include Paul Payette, Minnie Menard, Bep Guidolin, Barton Bradley, Wayne "Wiener" Brown, Johnny Muretich, Russ Kowalchuk, Eddie Marineau, Davy Jones, Keith MacDonald, and, of course, the coach.

"On behalf of the people of Belleville may I cordially invite you to come to the arena tonight and watch the probable 1958 Allan Cup champions, the Belleville McFarlands, in action.

Gerald Hyde,
Mayor."

Harvard Paper Steals March On Film Colony

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The Motion Picture Academy award presentations in Hollywood tonight will be just so much chitchat to the sons of Harvard University.

The journalistic powerhouses who staff the Harvard Lampoon, the undergraduate humor magazine, have stolen the march on the film colony.

The Harvard editors have named what they believe are the "worsts" to come out of Hollywood in 1957.

The awards:

Worst actress: Kim Novak in Jeanne Eagles and Pal Joey.

Sputnik Dog's Pounding Heart Quieted in Orbit

LONDON (AP) — The Russians report space dog Laika panted furiously and her heart pounded as she rode a rocket out into space in Sputnik II. But once her satellite was orbiting the ride was not unpleasant in the week she lived aloft, they said.

The clinical summary of Laika's last days was broadcast Tuesday night by Moscow Radio.

The report was summarized as follows:

As the rocket bolted upward Nov. 3, Laika's heart thumped three times faster than normal. She gasped but felt no pain. She returned to normal gradually when the satellite got into orbit.

The experiment proved animals can survive in the unknown conditions of cosmic space. Messages flashed back to earth from instruments strapped to the dog's body.

Governor Urges Kiwanians To Widen Scope of Service, Local Club 35 Years Old

Approximately 125 Kiwanians representing 11 clubs from the 6A Division, and distinguished guests, gathered at the Knights of Columbus Hall last night to help Belleville Kiwanis Club celebrate its 35th anniversary.

The gala celebration also marked the official visit of Governor Ken Hibbert of Division 6A. This is believed to be the first time a Kiwanis Governor has made an official visit to the Belleville club.

Other dignitaries on hand for the anniversary celebration included Mayor Gerald B. Hyde and Lt. Gov. Bill Carey, of the Port Hope club.

Visitors represented Kiwanis clubs of Cobourg, Kingston, Madoc, Marmora-Deloro, Picton, Port Hope, Trenton, Tweed, West Kingston and New Liskeard.

In his address Governor Hibbert urged Kiwanians to use creative imagination in attaining their objectives and in widening the scope of community service.

The greatest builders of the past have been those with the greatest imagination, he said. He cited, for example the famous artist Michael Angelo, who worked, not for money but for God.

"We in our building projects should get our inspiration from the same source", he said.

He urged his audience to use their imagination in trying to solve the problems of youth and in helping the senior citizens of each community.

"In this atomic age the problems of youth are intensified", he said. "Every power of the imagination is needed to guide them, — to stir their interest in science, for example, because this country needs scientists".

Regarding the problem of senior citizens, Mr. Hibbert said in 10 years about 20 per cent of the population will move into the 65 or over category.

COMMENDS WORK

"It is our concern to bring happiness to these people," he said.

The speaker warned Kiwanians to continue to build and avoid the state of "levelitis" — of being content with what they have already accomplished.

He commended the work of the local club's "imagineering experts" which resulted in the acquisition of numerous ribbons for past accomplishments.

In discussing Kiwanis ideals Mr. Hibbert likened them to a blueprint for the building of a castle in which each room has a special use. The architectural firms are the Kiwanis clubs which, by practising these ideals, help to "build this castle."

The speaker was introduced by Lt. Gov. Bill Carey, of Port Hope. He was thanked by past Lt. Gov. Bill Slade, of the Belleville club.

Governor Hibbert, a native Nova Scotian, was presented with two products for which this city is noted, to take home with him when he and his wife return to Halifax, following visits to other Kiwanis clubs in Ontario and Quebec.

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde in a brief address extended heartiest congratulations to the local club and best wishes for future success on behalf of city council.

"The people of Belleville have been proud of our local Kiwanis club over the past 35 years, and justly so," he said. The mayor cited some of the club's past accomplishments, which included the establishment of Roblin Lake camp, and the east and west Belleville playgrounds.

The mayor also extended a warm welcome to the visiting Kiwanians.

In his remarks, president Charles Lusk noted the Belleville club's accomplishments also included the sponsorship of the Trenton, Madoc, Tweed, and Picton clubs.

MANY INTRODUCED

He then introduced past presidents and charter members of the Belleville club since its incorporation on May 16, 1923. The Belleville club was sponsored by the Kingston Kiwanis club, he said.

At the conclusion of a lavish banquet a beautifully decorated 35th anniversary cake was brought in, preceded by the swirl of bagpipes. The cake was cut by Governor Hibbert.

Letters of congratulations sent by Kiwanis officials including the president of Kiwanis International, H. Park Arnold, were read by president Lusk, and greetings were extended on behalf of the Kiwanis club of west Toronto, by district secretary, Alf Savage.

Head table guests were introduced by secretary Wilf Mills, in the absence of Les Reid. Invocation was given by Al Drysdale, substituting for Cal Ivany, who was absent due to illness.

Prior to the start of the banquet head table guests were "piped in" by piper Doug Burns in true Scottish style.

Entertainment was provided by local musicians. M. C.'d by Don Rose, the program consisted of two cornet solos by Dave Branscombe, accompanied by music director, Clifford Templer, on the piano, two accordion solos by Chuck Ruttan and a piano solo by James E. Corradi. Mr. Corradi also was pianist for the community singing led by two members each from the Port Hope and Cobourg clubs.

Lt. Gov. Bill Carey extended thanks to the Belleville club particularly to organizer Bill Slade, on behalf of all the visiting clubs, for the invitation to join with their hosts in this gala celebration.

Numerous prizes were drawn for, and the grand prize of a basket of groceries was won by Ted Naylor of the Madoc club.

Labor Council Plans Central Charity Fund

Possibility of a charitable fund being set up from which all contributions to charitable organizations in the area would be made is to be considered by members of the Belleville and District Labor Council.

Operation would be that contributions from workers would be received into the fund, with the council to have control of where the money would go and what charitable organizations would benefit.

Union members would make voluntary contributions to the fund instead of making donations when door to door canvassers made calls, or at the time plants were canvassed for charity drives.

Labor Council member Arthur Whitehead has been authorized to draw up the constitution and bring it back for approval of members.

Child Drops Firecracker in Gasoline Tank

Firemen were called out yesterday to a car parked on Church Street after it was reported that a child dropped a firecracker into its gas tank. The 'cracker did not explode and there was no fire.

It was reported today that a child suffered minor burns about the face in a school yard when a firecracker exploded.

Service, Meals At Hospital Are Discussed

Room service and meals served to patients at Belleville General Hospital came in for both criticism and defence at last night's meeting of the Belleville and District Labor Council.

During a discussion on the possibility of the council setting up a charitable fund from which donations to charity organizations would be made the question of hospital room service and the quality of meals served at the hospital was raised by one member.

The member said that room service at night was such that ringing for hours failed to bring a nurse, while the quality of meals was also lacking.

But Arthur Whitehead, labor representative on the hospital board of governors, quickly rose to question the complaint.

Mr. Whitehead said that frequent polls of patients revealed there were few complaints as to meals served at the hospital. He said the main complaint was that tea or coffee may be cold, especially for the evening meal. Meals were prepared by first rate chefs, he said.

He admitted, however, that because of shortage of staff, night room service might at times not be all that was desired.

Convict 17 Men And One Woman As Dope Peddlers

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal district court jury Tuesday convicted 17 men and one woman of conspiracy as members of a $20,000,000-a-year international dope ring.

Defendants include Harry (Nig Rosen) Strombert of New York, described by the government as a gambler-racketeer and the main financial backer of the narcotics syndicate.

U.S. attorney Paul Williams charged that the conspirators operated the syndicate from January, 1950, to May, 1956, smuggling and distributing heroin and cocaine in Canada, Detroit, Chicago, Washington, D.C., and New York.

Judge Irving R. Kaifman set April 23-25 for sentencing of the defendants, who also included George Brisbois, 51, of Ottawa.

Whitney Defends Mayor of Picton In Legislature

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton, 25 miles southeast of Belleville, was the subject of an exchange between Norris Whitney (PC—Prince Edward-Lennox) and CCF Leader Donald MacDonald Tuesday night in the legislature.

Mr. Whitney extolled free enterprise in a speech during budget debate, mentioning a man in his county who had developed a successful concrete company on his own initiative.

"What's his name?" asked Mr. MacDonald.

"Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton," replied Mr. Whitney.

"He made a million from highway contracts," commented the CCF leader.

"I don't know anything about highway contracts," answered Mr. Whitney. "If you could prove he made any profit he wasn't entitled to we'd all be glad to hear about it."

Diefenbaker Government Said One-Man Show

CAMPBELLFORD — Gus Faux, vice-president of the Belleville Liberal Association, told an audience of about 100 people at a Liberal Rally in the Warkworth town hall on Saturday evening, that "the people really feel that Diefenbaker has just about shot the bolt. He is a man that has always carried on as a one-man show, and in Canada where democracy is the principle of the foundation of our government, I am sure that none of you want a one-man show."

Referring to the crowds that go to hear Mr. Diefenbaker speak, Mr. Faux said that "When the circus comes to Belleville, there are more people go to see the circus than go to church."

Speaking of the Liberal leader, Lester B .Pearson, Mr. Faux said that he is one of the greatest diplomats the world has ever known." Mike Pearson is guided by the philosophy of the party which means the progressive achievement of civil, social, political and economic and religious freedoms within the framework of the moral law." He said there is not a Tory in Canada who could stand up and tell what the Tory party means. He said there was no Conservative party left — only the Diefenbaker party.

EAGER TO DEBATE

Mr. Faux said he would like to meet Ben Thompson the Conservative MP for Northumberland, or any other Conservative to debate the issues of the present campaign, because, he said, he claimed the Conservatives were not telling the truth, merely putting up a smoke screen and dodging around it. The speaker made reference to the "hidden report" on the predicted recession and unemployment situation, but he said there are three other reports that the Diefenbaker party has not mentioned. These reports, he said, warned against inflation, and a false economy as the basic cause of a recession which would follow.

Speaking of trade, he said the United States was the best customer Canada ever had, or ever will have.

CANDIDATE SPEAKS

Wesley Sweet, the Liberal candidate, spoke briefly. He said he was concerned more with conditions on a local level, and reviewed many of the things he said the Liberal party had done in Northumberland.

He said many of the projects completed by the Liberals had created numerous jobs for persons in the country. However, he said, if the Conservative party was returned to power across Canada, there would be tremendous turnover of labor, because it has been Conservative policy to "give to their own and to their own only." He said he had no doubt that many persons would be out of a job because they would be replaced by a Conservative if the Conservative government were elected.

"Every man and woman working in any connection with the government, your rural mail carrier, your man who works sweeping the floors down at the depot at Cobourg, and your men and women as clerical help in these government projects were all warned, not verbally, but by letter, telling that if they took any active part whatsoever in this campaign, if they were found in a meeting hall, a Liberal meeting hall, they would lose their jobs."

REFUSED RIDE

Mr. Sweet told of one man in Campbellford to whom he offered a ride but the man refused, saying "If some of those Tories saw me riding downtown with you, I'd be fired on Monday morning."

He said the Liberal party did not think along these lines.

Mr. Sweet referred to a meeting a few nights ago in the same hall when he spoke to the audience while Professor A. W. Baker of Beaverton, a prominent Progressive Conservative in that town, spoke in support of Ben Thompson, MP. Mr. Sweet said he found Ben Thompson to be a gentleman in every sense of the word and that there was nothing he could say about his opponent's personality.

"But," said Mr. Sweet, "he pulled a ringer on me by hiring this professor from the OAC to come down and talk for him. The outcome of that meeting was that it convinced me that the Tories would stoop to anything."

2 Plead Guilty To Theft Charges Sentenced Thurs.

TRENTON—Two men facing charges in connection with different thefts were remanded to Thursday for sentencing after pleading guilty before Magistrate T. Y. Wills here yesterday afternoon.

Roy Deshane, 35, of Carrying Place, appeared in connection with the theft of three outboard motors of various sizes, and valued at $685.

Constable Bruce Westfall of the Trenton police force testified, telling the magistrate of the investigation which followed the thefts. Constable Stinson of the Brighton Provincial Police also testified.

Testifying in his own defence Deshane told the magistrate he had received the outboard motors in a trade for his car and had taken them not knowing they were stolen. When he sold one of the motors, he said, it was then he found out they were stolen. He testified he gave the other two to a friend of his to take to the Provincial Police in Brighton. This was done. Asked by the magistrate why he decided to get rid of them, Deshane said he knew he would get in trouble if he kept them.

Deshane also told the magistrate that he had beep held in Toronto jail for three months concerning the breaking of a window. He said that each month his case was remanded and at the end there were no charges laid or were dropped. But he said he was held in jail all the time and there has still been no action taken.

In the second theft case, Jim Brunton of George Street, a 43-year-old father of two children, was also remanded until Thursday for sentencing after pleading guilty to the theft of three electric drills, an electric fan, several bits and some wrenches from a break-in at Riverside.

Inspector Rutherford of the Trenton police testified in the case concerning the investigation of the theft. He told the court the items in question had been recovered from various places, where the accused had apparently sold them. He said two of the drills had been sold, one other and the fan had been found in their hiding place and the bits and wrenches were located in the home of the accused.

Both men will appear in Belleville on Thursday before Magistrate Wills for sentencing.

St. Clair River Closed by Ice For Ten Days

DETROIT (CP) — The United States Coast Guard has advised closing of the St. Clair River to shipping for 10 days and at its advice the Imperial oil tanker Imperial Quebec headed back for Windsor.

The advice to close came after the icebreaker Mackinaw radioed it had encountered heavy windrowed ice in "a bad ice jam" in the lower Lake Huron cut, just above Sarnia.

The Mackinaw radioed the coast guard that unfavorable winds were complicating ice jams.

Economics and not weather will keep most Great Lakes ports from opening early, however, the United States department of commerce weather bureau said Tuesday.

It said warm weather and favorable winds have helped break up ice on all the Great Lakes, and have prevented windrowing. In addition, icebreakers are operating in Thunder Bay, Georgian Bay, Saginaw Bay and southern Lake Huron

However "economic conditions are unfavorable for necessitating early opening of most ports," the bureau said. Detroit, Windsor and Cleveland ports opened with vessel arrivals in mid-week.

Insurance rates will reach their low summer levels in mid-April when major shipping will begin.

Navigation aids on the St. Lawrence are expected to be placed in the next few days. The U.S. Corps of Engineers Tuesday began placing buoys marking shipping lanes in the Detroit River.

Tariff Board Opens Cotton Issue Hearing

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, (CP) — The tariff board today launched a public study, expected to last more than three weeks, to determine whether increased tariff protection is needed by Canada's cotton textile industry.

In a 200-page submission to the board, the Primary Textiles Institute said its share of the domestic market is being seriously curtailed by mounting imports.

The industry claims that unless some action is taken to reduce imports from the United States, the United Kingdom, western European countries, Japan and India, a lot of Canadian textile workers may be thrown out of jobs.

"Our basis of appearing before the board with our proposals is that the Canadian textile industry, by virtue of Canada being a high-cost economy, is at a competitive disadvantage which requires more adequate tariff protection, if the industry is to exist in a healthy condition," the institute said.

The brief argued that increased duties are needed to counteract "the high price of being a Canadian."

ASK TARIFF CHANGES

Its proposals called also for a modernization of the tariff schedule which was drafted 30 years ago. Some import duty increases are asked, but there are also some decreases and in a few cases no changes are proposed.

Primary Textiles Institute statistics showed Canadian production of broad, woven cotton fabrics supplied roughly half the domestic market of 540,000,000 yards, compared with two-thirds in the pre-war years.

Canadian cotton markets were described as being more open to imports than those of any other major cotton manufacturing country.

Canada was the world's third largest importer of cotton fabrics.

MANY PLANTS

The Canadian cotton industry is made up of 76 mills employing about 23,000 persons. The latest published figures, for 1955, show the gross value of production was roughly $248,000,000.

Employment was described as being only at the same level as 20 years ago, "in spite of the growth of Canada and manufacturing generally in that period.

The institute said the domestic manufacturers are hampered by textile wages which are higher than those in most countries and a reduction of the wage-cost advantage Canadian industry had had over that in the U.S.

Most of the domestic plants are located in Ontario and Quebec.

Three Children Receive $13,662

TORONTO (CP) — Judgments totalling $13,662 have been awarded to the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson of Guelph, who were among 79 persons killed in the crash of a Maritimes Central Airways plane near Quebec City last Aug. 11.

Anti-Federation Forces Strong In West Indies

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — The Federal Labor party held a slight lead today in vote counting for the West Indies federation's first legislature. Returns from Barbados will decide the outcome.

The Federals in Tuesday's elections took 21 seats to 18 for the Democratic party in the lower house of the legislature which will lead this new island federation toward full independence in the Commonwealth.

Supporters of the federation suffered a sharp setback in Jamaica, the largest colony with half the fledgling federation's 3,000,000 people. Out of 17 seats an anti-federation movement affiliated with the Democrats won 11, one-quarter of the new 45-member House of Representatives.

WINS SIX SEATS

The Democrats also won six seats out of 10 in Trinidad and nearby Tobago. Trinidad is the second largest of the federation's 10 colonies and the site of its future capital.

Opposition to federation has been strongest in the larger and better developed colonies, which feel they stand to lose by joining with the heavily over-populated and economically insecure little islands forming an arc between Trinidad and Jamaica.

Fort Defenders May Lose Fight To Progress

TORONTO (CP) — Old Fort York's latest battle has erupted anew with a chance that its defenders may lose for the first time in nearly 150 years.

The Ontario legislature's municipal law committee is reconsidering its decision not to allow an elevated expressway to sink one supporting pier into the historic fort grounds.

The expressway, being built along the lakeshore, seeks to cross one corner of the fort which was used to defend Toronto, then York, during the war of 1812.

Tuesday committee members agreed to a suggestion by Metropolitan Toronto Chairman Fred Gardiner, for whom the expressway will be named, that they go to the fort today for a study of the situation.

"If you say, after looking at it, that we've got to change our routing of the expressway, we'll change it somehow or other," Mr. Gardiner said.

"Personally, my view hasn't changed from yesterday," said A. H. Cowling (PC — Toronto High Park). He said the expressway means "desecration" of the fort. He agreed, however, to consider it again after the inspection.

FOR MORE INFO

One of the committee members, W. J. Stewart (PC—Lanark) said earlier that Tuesday's meeting was to obtain further explanation of the proposed expressway plan.

Gordon Clarry, chairman of the 15 historical committees opposed to taking land from the fort, said Premier Frost was trying to reopen the question with "Hitler tactics."

He said Mr. Stewart telephoned Mrs. Jessie McTaggart, a Historical Society supporter, asking her to come to a meeting in the legislature buildings "in the middle of the night."

Mr. Stewart said the call was merely to invite Mrs. McTaggart and other Historical society people to be on hand when the committee goes over the expressway plans.

GUILTY AS CHARGED

We have received from the South African Information Adviser at Ottawa a copy of "South Africa Today." Perusing it, we have reached the conclusion that the 91 persons indicted in the Transvaal on charges of high treason are almost certainly guilty and that their trials, while a necessary formality, are almost certain to lead to their conviction.

The Crown, in its formal charges against the accused, listed two alternatives. The first alternative reads: "In that during the period and at the places mentioned in the main count the accused did wrongfully and unlawfully perform acts which are calculated to further the achievement of any of the objects of Communism."

This alternative requires the commission of an "act" and it is possible that some of the 91 have never acted. But the second alternative takes care of that possible evasion. It reads: "In that, during the period and at the places mentioned in the main count, the accused did wrongfully and unlawfully advocate, advise and encourage the achievement of any of the objects of Communism or any act or omission which is calculated to further the achievement of any such objects."

Without bothering to refresh our memory by re-reading the original Communist Manifesto of Karl Marx, we feel safe in asserting that one of the objectives of Communism therein stated was the promotion of the equality of all races.

It follows that anybody guilty of urging racial equality is guilty of the crime of high treason, under the South African Government's interpretation of this crime.

Various individuals in high places, notably Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Adlai Stevenson, M. J. Coldwell and Senator David Croll, to name only a few who have been vocal on the subject, had better take warning and stay out of South Africa.

HOW'S THAT, AGAIN?

"The (U.S.) Administration feels itself under considerable and increasing international pressure to change the U.S. attitude toward a nuclear test ban as a first step toward disarmament. The official position is that a test ban is unthinkable unless it is coupled with steps to stop the production of further nuclear weapons everywhere." - - - Philip Deane, Toronto Globe and Mail staff reporter in Washington.

"Persistent Washington reports that the United States may be prepared to agree to a ban on nuclear bomb tests for a period of two or three years indicate a buildup to prepare American public opinion for this first step on the disarmament road. Such reports do not come about by accident. They are based on hints dropped by officials, some highly placed, who are in a position to know the trend of government thinking." - - George Kitchen, Canadian Press staff writer.

These reports were published the same day.

After reading them, the average citizen may be pardoned if he wishes that spring would hurry up and reach us, so that he could imitate Eisenhower and spend some time on the golf course. In the face of reports like these, he might think that he could learn more about world affairs there than by staying home and reading the papers.

NIX ON NAGGING

To the bomb shelters!

Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev and Lady Dorothy Macmillan have been invited to unite in a crusade. The Association of Angry Young Women of Scarborough, England, has asked them to nag their husbands into organizing a summit conference.

We are not questioning their ability to achieve the desired result if they band together under the Angry Young Women's slogan, "Naggers of the world unite."

What we are questioning is the likelihood of any accord being reached by three men who have been nagged into meeting each other. They would probably snap each other's heads off.

Which would be a very bad thing all around, if there was anybody at all around after the bombs stopped falling.

PROPHECY

I hate to think that this is true,
As some of the producers say,
That people will not pay to view
A really clean and wholesome play;
That what is sweet has lost its charm,
And innocence no more attracts.
I'd view this world with some alarm
If they were really stating facts.

I'd hate to think the times are such
That only sordidness will pay,
That dramas with a decent touch
Win no applause from men today.
Producers murmur this is so,
And sneeringly their lips are curled
I'd hate to own a modern show
And have such notions of the world.

So, notwithstanding what they say,
I still protest the world is fine,
That some day one will write a play
Without a single doubtful line;
One with a wholesome plot and clean,
A tale of love that's pure and sweet
And we shall once more view the scene
Of people fighting for a seat.

Boiling Egg Is Not Easy

Peterborough Examiner

We note that the United States patent office has given a patent to a device which will fry 24 eggs in three and a quarter minutes —and this has probably made the inventor very happy. We get less joy out of it because frying an egg, in any manner does not present much of a problem to one who is handy with a frying pan.

A man, on the other hand, who could invent a foolproof device for boiling an egg, so that when the shell is cracked and the firm white at the top is removed, the yolk is found to be thick and creamy, would earn our heartfelt thanks.

We have one method which is nearly foolproof, but not quite, which might be worth passing on.

The egg is put in a pan of cold water which is rapidly brought to the boil. The moment the air bubles in the water begin to rise vigorously it is necessary to time the rest of the operation. Give the egg three minutes and 17 seconds and then remove it immediately from the boiling water.

To delay in the removal is to ruin the finished egg; to remove it too soon means the warm egg can be sucked through a straw.

We must warn, however, that this does not always work; the speed of the initial boiling may vary enough to ruin the finished job as may the age of the egg.

To forestall anyone who is, on reading this, thinking of sending us news of a device already in production, we must say that we have tried four—one of which makes an extremely good steam inhaler.

Slap Really Compliment

Toronto Telegram

Most inhabitants of the skillfully contrived world of fantasy that is the legitimate stage must rest content if their performance is one to stir the audience to applaud with some vigor, to sigh, to groan in anguish, to laugh in the right places, to dampen their cheeks with tears.

And it might have been thought that the supreme tribute to an actor's genius was to sit hushed and tense on the seat's edge or to hold a moment's golden silence before erupting into a rising crescendo of applause at the end of his performance.

But it was a rare tribute indeed which awaited British actor Kenneth Haigh as he played the role of a cruel philanderer in John Osborne's "Look Back In Anger" in New York the other night. A distraught young typist, Joyce C. Greller, clambered over the footlights and, with cries of "he left me, he left me" and "why do you treat this girl this way?" rained blows at the astounded Mr. Haigh until fellow actor Alan Bates came to his rescue.

Later, calmed by the thespians in the wings, Miss Greller said she had identified her own life with the scene from the play. Mr. Haigh may approach the same scene in future with some trepidation — what if the scene had been identified with the life of a well-armed or well-muscled male?

A shattering experience, true, and yet one from which Mr. Haigh must draw great personal satisfaction, for what better compliment to an actor's skill than to live the drama with him?

Blames Sack On Mansfield

Atlantic Journal

After laughing through a couple of decades at them, and considering ourselves blessed they were a thing of the past, we're downright dashed to see women's fashions of the 1920's being revived.

These whachamacallit dresses do what they shouldn't do to the female figure. They accentuate the negative and practically eliminate the positive. We thought women would have better gumption than to advance into shaplessness again.

But you never can tell, and you never should underestimate the distaff side. Women have decided the chemise, or sack, dress will do, and that means the American male, like it or not, will pay through the nose to revamp milady's wardrobe all but completely.

There will be individualists among the women who will resist the shift of fashion away from more fitting attire. In fact, we have heard of one. Miss Jayne Mansfield declares that she bought one but quickly became disgusted with it and gladly gave it away.

This will please Miss Mansfield's fans. But we can hear the women spiffing. In fact, the thought occurs that women will even put the blame on Jayne for the return of the chemise.

After all, competing with Miss Mansfield was a pretty tough thing for the average woman.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 26th., 1938

The first daily issue of the Ontario (formerly weekly), was printed 68 years ago today, March 26th, 1870. It was printed on a flat-bed steam press which was quite a wonder in that time. Copy for that first daily issue was written in pencil and set by hand. There was not a typewriter, a telephone or a linotype machine in the Ontario office. Those were the days when the "pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow" was sought assiduously by many in Hastings County and many promising prospects uncovered in Marmora, Madoc, Elzevir and Hungerford townships, while "El Dorado" was a magnet for fortune hunters. In 1870 the Red River Rebellion made news and Louis Riel was "Front Page". After 68 years the Daily Ontario (now, Ontario Intelligencer) wears its years lightly. We feel that these are good times to live in. We look forward confidently to a greater Belleville and to a future that will offer us opportunities for public service as yet unsuspected. Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ONE GOD

There is a quaint story in the 20th chapter of first Kings, which reveals the infantile reasoning of pagan peoples of old about the nature of God and divine things.

Ancient peoples, for the most part, believed that different gods presided over different sections of the world. Each nation had its own god. The Syrians, after being defeated by the Israelites, concluded that their defeat had occurred because they had fought them in the hills. The Israelites are hill people, they reasoned. We fought them in the hills where they had the protection of their God, Jehovah, who is a hill god. Our gods are valley gods. Let us get them to fight us in the valley, and then, under the protection of our gods, we shall win. "Their god is the god of the hills," they averred, "but He is not the god of the valleys."

Many people today continue to have hill gods and valley gods — a God for the hilltop experiences of life, such as worship, spiritual deliverance, inspiration; and then gods of the valleys, the everyday experiences such as carrying on business, securing relaxation in leisure hours, meeting the ordinary problems of life. In these more "common" experiences they have a set of valley gods, much lower in their ethical standards than is the God of the mountain tops.

But the Biblical declaration from beginning to end is: "The Lord our God is one God."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

More than a year, maybe two years ago, the Packsack mentioned buying a bunch of violets for sentimental reasons and discovering, too late, that the violets had no perfume whatever, except for a faint suggestion of mildew, which can be detected on a great many species of commercial flowers.

By air mail yesterday, from Mr. McTavish, of Sidney on Vancouver Island, all the way to Toronto, came a box of violets with which, Mr. McTavish's letter said, his garden right now is carpeted.

When the box was opened, the house was filled, in moments, with the glorious, unforgettable but almost forgotten perfume of violets, a scent which can never be captured really by the manufacturers. Mr. McTavish, in his garden, remembered the old Packsack, and sent this reminder that all violets have not been caponized.

This same week, I went into a flower shop, and at once detected a most glorious perfume.

"Freesias," explained the florist, when I enquired; and he showed me the beautiful rich white and orange blooms. "I get them from a couple of Dutch gardeners who haven't been here long enough to have found out about forcing."

So I bought a bundle of them, in the hope of encouraging the new Dutch Canadians never to find out about forcing.

Or to be scentlessly up-to-date, all show and no essence.

Politicians Work Hard

Ottawa Journal

Here come the footsore heroes of the election.

Mr. Coldwell, suffering the fatigues of the campaign, has a medical check-up.

Mr. Low, who had a heart attack a few years ago, hastens along the election trail at risk of his health.

Mr. Pearson, new to this competition but a middle-aged athlete, bounces from coast to coast with ten thousand handshakes and a hundred speeches.

Mr. Diefenbaker criss-crosses a continent, his endurance matched by that of Mrs. Diefenbaker who has travelled every mile with him, felt the clasp of as many hands, assisted in every reception.

The Whitby Dunlops, good enough to beat the world in hockey never faced prolonged tests of physical endurance such as the no-longer-young politicians must endure in the two months of campaigning.

Of course they brought it on themselves and will continue to bring it on themselves.

The dissolution of Parliament was announced on February 1, giving the Chief Electoral Officer the time he required to have the election machinery set in position by March 31.

Mr. Diefenbaker opened his campaign on the evening of February 1. The other leaders were off the mark as quickly as their organization allowed. Each of them, irrespective of years or condition, has gone all out until, as in the case of Mr. Coldwell, health caused a small revision of programs.

No law requires the politicians to dart about the country for all the two months as if they were commanded to "the wonders of each region view, from frozen Lapland to Peru." There might have been logic in foregoing a few calls and spending the time in reflection, reading mystery stories or playing checkers. Obviously they cannot, even with airplanes, television and tea receptions, round up every voter; but they are driven by the compulsion of competition and to rest seems like treachery to the cause.

Parliament is scheduled to resume on May 5. That date is not final and there may be alteration but the fact remains that Parliament has an extra-ordinary amount of work to do, cleaning up the unfinished business of 1957-58 and getting the 1958-59 program started. After two elections in less than two years, a trying session and the labor of politicking, the leaders and the members at large, will return to their tasks in Ottawa in no great form.

Not that we think anything can be done about all this. Competition is the life of politics and, as we have said before, it is fortunate for democracy that so many, not all of whom can be elected, are prepared to make such effort and sacrifice in the chancy contests of elections.

Life Changes Down on Farm

Dayton Journal Herald

Life isn't what it used to be down on the farm. That's what the 1958 mail order catalogues lead us to believe.

Horseless barns, new-fangled machinery and hybrid corn are common in rural areas these days. But such gadgets as automatic egg washers (10-dozen capacity) are almost beyond imagination.

There's a "high-low stock feeder" in which the hoity-toity steer drinks from an upper trough while a hog daintily drinks from a lower trough just large enough for its snout.

Another contraption is a hog trap. Porky enters a chute and when he pushes his head through a door he's caught and held tight, ready for the fellow who clamps a ring in "Porky's" nose.

Despite one's amazement at such catalogue items as these, a change in the farmer's work pattern may be part of the answer to his problem of making a living on the soil.

But what about calf weaning pails? This is a tricky affair with a rubber nipple and regulating valve. Is the farm boy going to be denied the fun of pushing a calf's nose into a milk pail?

The climax comes with a glimpse of garden items. A new line of seven-horsepower tractors with all kinds of quick-hitch plows and gadgets is advertised. And there is a $37.95 tiller that "banishes hard work with its backaches, blisters and callouses." The catalogue says: "Just plug it into any electrical outlet."

Little attention is given to the old-fashioned hoe, which was so much fun to lean on in the shade of a tree.

It's Not Funny

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

THERE ARE MANY DIFFERENT KINDS OF ARTHRITIS

"Dear Dr. Molner: How many kinds of arthritis are there? I've heard people say they were cured with cortisone; others say it made them sick. What is your opinion? — S. E."

How many kinds of arthritis? I don't believe anyone can say we yet know all of the varieties and sub-varieties. For a start, there are rheumatoid arthritis, osteo-arthritis, tuberculous, gouty and a number of other well-known types. There are cases of bursitis, of muscular strain, and other disorders that result in painful joints and are incorrectly called "rheumatism" or "arthritis."

I could mention plenty of people who believe they had "arthritis," and following examination by a physician, discovered that it was some other trouble. Arthritis, in its various forms, however, is still very prevalent indeed. Different forms need different treatment.

In rheumatoid arthritis, in the severe, acute stage, the patient needs a great deal of care and sometimes hospitalization. The first task is to halt the active inflammation, and prevent the joints from being seriously damaged.

Later the patient may (and probably will) have twinges or more severe pain in the joints, but the disease won't then be continuing to spread at rapid rate.

On the other hand, with osteo-arthritis, you don't have this acute phase, and you don't have the danger of having the inflammation race from one joint to another. Rather, in the osteo form, some of the joints have become somewhat out of shape, and hence creaky and painful, from wear and tear over the years, accidental injuries, etc. In such cases the aim is to keep these people as comfortable as possible, and passably able to get around, although without any prospect of complete "cure."

THERE'S NO FIXED RULE

Now with cortisone, there isn't any fixed rule. It helps some types and not others. It agrees well wth many patents, yet some can't tolerate more than a small amount. It is a very useful drug but it has to be watched carefully, and it doubtless will take a long time to learn all we would like to know about it — how to get the best possible results from it.

I doubt that people have been permanently cured by it. For whatever reasons, cortisone generally has effect while the patient continues to take it; this effect wears off when it is stopped. And, because it is a powerful steroid, it can't be taken indefinitely.

Occasionally cortisone can be used to "get a patient over the rough spots,' 'and between times the patient learns how to keep the joint mobile, and the net result is very good.

For others — and there has been a great deal of study and testing which supports this — simple aspirin will do just as much as cortisone. Plus the other simple but important rules of keeping arthritis under control.

What's best? I say that no general rule will work. You have to observe each patient and gradually find out what works best individually. In fact, that's one of the most important things a young doctor has to learn. You can't sort people like oranges or tacks.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I drink a quart of no-fat milk a day. Is there more calories in this than in regular milk. I have gained from 90 to 120 pounds in four months — S.H."

Since the fat has been removed from the milk, there would be fewer calories; however, milk in any form is a good, nourishing food.

Note to M.L.: I can't give you "the symptoms of hepatitis" because it would require too much space. Your friend was told that he has it, and his doctor should know. It is not a "withering" of the liver, but a virus infection —usually, that is. There are different types. For ordinary purposes, you can say that jaundice, or yellowing of the skin, is the principal symptom.

Why suffer from sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and it is explained in my booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive your copy, write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Fire Closes Graveyard

The Times of London

Because of an underground fire, a section of the parish churchyard at Netherton, near Dudley, has been closed to the public. Smoke is pouring from beneath blackened memorials on two graves from an area of about 200 square yards where scorched earth marks the path of the fire as it has slowly crept across the churchyard.

Pit-mouth fires are common in Dudley; some have been burning for 20 years or more.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHAT YOU CAN DO

None of us is expected to do what is impossible for us to do, like writing an immortal poem or playing a piccolo. Themistocles said: "I cannot fiddle, but I can make a little village a great city!" There are many who would not know how to build even a small city. Perhaps you can't even sing or orate so as to inspire a great audience, but you can saw wood! There are parts of the earth where it is very necessary that a great deal of wood must be sawed. I can see why wood has to be sawed in New England, for example, for the long winters. There are worse things in life to face than an appealing wood pile.

If you can't do what you wish most to do, then why not do what you can do? What a multitude of things there are to be done in this world, that are helpful and even essential, but which do not get done. The people who tell about finding their place usually fit that place, and that is what makes them so valuable and their work so important.

People surprise themselves when they discover how to do certain things they never dreamed they could. As a matter of fact, there are more geniuses and great potentialities that have been buried than lived and wrought! John Galsworthy had this line in one of his beautiful poems: "Death is such a waste of me." Life is, too, if you put nothing into it, or personally enrich it. Our influence may only send its rays of hope and comfort for but a brief distance, but if that influence is all you possess, you have given much. We never know just how helpful or inspiring our influence has been.

Compensation Board Head Says Foremen Responsible For Reducing Accident Toll

The chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario last night issued a warning to Quinte district factories which have enjoyed months and years free from industrial accidents.

Eugene Sparrow, who spoke to the monthly meeting of the Quinte District Foremen's Club in the YMCA said: "The longer your firm goes without an accident, the sooner you may have one unless you stop relying on the law of averages."

Mr. Sparrow, who is an honorary life member of the Toronto Foremen's Club, has had an active interest in industry since 1917, when he joined the Imperial Varnish and Color Co., Ltd. He was with that firm until 1948, retiring as vice-president and sales director to take his present post.

"There is plenty of evidence among firms with a year's safety record that the foremen are directly responsible for the clean slate," continued Mr. Sparrow.

He was pleased to announce that because 31 Ontario firms sent foremen to accident prevention courses in 1956-57, monetary awards made by the Workmen's Compensation Board to injured workers had dropped from $760,000 in 1956 to $424,000 last year. Mr. Sparrow credited the courses and the foremen as being the agents which contributed immensely to reducing the toll.

Asked to speak on safety in industry, Mr. Sparrow decided against discussing the mechanics of accident prevention because there are too many facets to be considered to embrace the many varieties of firms in the province. Instead, he divulged a few facts and figures.

The Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario has listed 100,000 firms with a total personnel strength of 1,750,000. In 1957, $4,673,000 was received by the board from the incomes of those workers. This amounted to an average rate of $1.19 per $100 of assessable income which every employee paid to the Board that year. The lowest rate was 50 cents per $100 and the highest $16 per $100.

ACT PASSED IN 1915

In 1914 Sir William Meredith recommended through a royal commission that his Ontario Act be put into effect to protect workers. As a result, the Act was enforced as of January 1, 1915, and, but for a few changes, remains in effect today.

When the Ontario Act was first introduced it was fought by some employers who felt its adoption would ruin manufacturers. Sir William, therefore, inserted a clause permitting employers to form advisory accident prevention associations to consult with them on matters of safety in industry.

Today there are eight such advisory accident prevention associations in Ontario, and every worker, either directly or indirectly, is a member of one of them. Although these associations are not members of the Workmen's Compensation Board, their powers are limited. They were designed to give advice.

Every employer in Ontario pays to the Board three cents for each $100 of his employees' assessable income to help finance the annual Board grants to the eight accident prevention associations. This year they will receive a total of $1,300,000 to continue operations.

Mr. Sparrow called for continued support and continual use of these associations.

He remarked that the Department of Labor can prosecute employers for any violations of the Factory, Shop, Office and Building Act, which was designed to protect one branch of employees from industrial accidents. Penalties are usually an increase in the amount of money employers pay towards the Workmen's Compensation Board's annual grant to the eight associations.

The Board does not deal with negligence on the part of workmen, even if an injured workman violated the safety regulations of his firm. Employers are always liable for injuries to their employees, he concluded.

Once a year the Foremen's Club recognizes past-presidents with a meeting in their honor. Last night past-president Frank Grandame (chairman of the meeting), Jim Dalgleish, Hugh Jones and Paul Cleary were on hand for the occasion of Past-Presidents' Night.

Head table guests were P. Cleary, K. Broadworth, Rev. K. Daniel, H. Jones, Mr. Sparrow, Lionel Blaker (club president), J. Dalgleish, D. McLean and Fred Hall.

Doug McLean received the Canadian Council Membership award for proficiency. It was presented by past-president Jim Dalgleish. Mr. McLean was credited with being a major influence in increasing club membership from 78 men to 124.

The invocation and sermonette were given by the Rev. K. Daniel of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. In his sermonette, Mr. Daniel appealed to the club to contribute to the world service committee of the YMCA. As a result, members passed a hat and collected $37, which was turned over to D. G. Diamantides, secretary-manager of the Belleville YMCA.

A minute of silence was observed in memory of Walter A. Johnson, a charter member of the club, who passed away on March 3.

Alex Hodgkiss, of Ontario Hydro, played after-dinner music on the piano and the quartet of past-presidents favored the assembly with a song.

Hugh Jones introduced the special speaker and Paul Cleary extended the club's appreciation to him. Mr. Sparrow was presented with a desk set as a memento of his visit to the club.

Thanks to the Comrade Club of Tabernacle United Church, which prepared the dinner, were extended by President Lionel Blaker.

The Ontario Hydro Commission set up a display in the meeting room to drive home a few of the hazards high-line workers must face almost every day. It was demonstrated by Bill Phillips and Tom Bennett.

Labor Council May Exhibit At Fall Fair

For the first time in the history of Belleville Fair, fair-goers next year will in all probability have the opportunity of seeing a special exhibit of the products of organized labor in the Belleville area.

The Belleville and District Labor Council are considering having a special booth at the fair which would show union made goods or labels of union organizations in the area.

For example workers at Canada Cement might have a display showing the way which cement is put up, or lock workers might have a display of union made locks or other hardware.

At last night's labor council meeting President Don Burshaw noted that a request had been made for space at Belleville Fair. The fair secretary had written in reply that tent space could be made available near the grandstand.

Final decision on the matter will be made later by the labor council.

On The Hustings

Pearson Claims Tax Holiday Is Not a Bribe

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson says his tax holiday proposal is no election bribe. He would have been "stupid" to have proposed tax reductions at all were they not so urgently needed to get Canada out of its present economic troubles.

In contrast, Prime Minister Diefenbaker's $1,100,000,000 works program was a "fraud and a hoax." Not even a child could be convinced that the program could cure unemployment in 1958, the Liberal leader added as he was boisterously cheered by an overflow crowd of more than 1,000 persons in a local high school auditorium Tuesday night.

Supporters of George Nixon, member candidate for Algoma West, gathered in a hotel lobby, cheering and singing until Mr. Pearson appeared from his room. Then they escorted him through the streets of this Northern Ontario steel community in a 100-car horn-honking motorcade.

TRIED TO APPEAL

Mr. Pearson said he had tried to appeal to voters not on the basis of passion but on that of rational thinking. And he believed this kind of approach was finally "getting home" with the voters. They realized how important it was to have a government that could act responsibly, steadily and progressively; with force and imagination; working with a firm plan and not on a "hit-and-miss" basis.

They realized, he believed, that the Liberals do have a platform and a policy: "the best policy for Canada at this time." The proposed retroactive tax reductions to stimulate the economy and create new jobs would stand out in their minds on election day.

Moving by plane and by car, Mr. Pearson Tuesday swung north from Toronto, touring the ridings of Bruce and Grey North on the southern shores of Georgian Bay.

His chartered DC-3 aircraft was delayed in its takeoff from Toronto's Malton airport while Canada's CF-105 Arrow jet took to the air in its first test flight.

PONDERED LONG

After observing the flight, Mr. Pearson told a noon rally of some 2,350 who jammed into the town hall at Wiarton how the previous Liberal government had pondered long before deciding to invest in the "very expensive and very experimental" jet project. He was glad it was a success.

The next jets likely would be all missiles which could carry nuclear bombs over vast distances. Two or three of them could poison the air and prevent all life over an area of hundreds of miles.

That was why peace was so essential: to prevent that from happening; and enable diversion of defence funds from such projects as the CF-105 into things that could bring a better life.

At Owen Sound, he drew an overflow crowd of 700 at a mid-afternoon rally. His proposed tax holiday on personal income taxes for six or seven weeks beginning June 1 was "good business and good economics," he said.

From Owen Sound, Mr. Pearson swung back to Wiarton, speaking to a group of schoolchildren along the way. Then he boarded his plane for Sault Ste. Marie, landing on the American side of the border. This community of 35,000 is building its own airport and Mr. Pearson said he would like to call it Nixon airport in honor of George Nixon, Liberal MP, who, he said, had done more than anyone to get it started.

Diefenbaker Says Innuendoes Are Liberal Weapon

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staf Writer

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has spoken sharply against what he calls personalities and innuendo aimed at his Progressive Conservative party in the closing days of the election campaign.

In speeches here and at Yarmouth, N.S., Tuesday he made what apparently was intended as a reply to a Monday night speech by Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson.

Mr. Pearson said the Conservatives are seeking votes with passion and personality while the Liberals are offering policies and programs. He also said his party, unlike the Conservatives, has rejected "the cult of personality whether expressed in terms of dictatorship or demagogueary."

Before a capacity audience of 1,400 in the Moncton High School, Mr. Diefenbaker said he detected "that frustration that brings about last-minute innuendoes."

READ REPORT

At Yarmouth, to an afternoon audience of some 1,500, he said he had read a press report of Mr. Pearson's speech.

"Instead of indulging in personalities, I try to place before the people of Canada the issues—not making promises that can't be carried out."

Mr. Diefenbaker, his campaigning in the Maritimes ended, was scheduled to fly to Montreal today for a major evening rally there. Of the 21 Montreal-area ridings, Conservatives won two in last year's election.

His appearances Tuesday were in ridings held by Liberals for years. Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare, one of the two Nova Scotia ridings which returned Liberals last year, hasn't elected a Conservative since before the turn of the century. Westmorland riding here stayed Liberal last year. New Brunswick's 10 ridings were divided equally between Liberals and Conservatives.

FISHING RIGHTS

At Yarmouth he said his government would protect the rights of Canadian fishermen in a dispute over territorial waters limits now before an international conference at Geneva.

The subject has been a sore point among fishermen. Foreign trawlers fish to within three miles of the Canadian coast—the now recognized limit of national sovereignty — while Canadian deep-sea fishermen are required to stay 12 miles out.

Mr. Diefenbaker said his government is proposing that national jurisdiction be extended to 12 miles offshore in relation to fisheries matters only.

In this city, the CNR rail hub for the Maritimes, the Conservative leader also hinted at improvements in pensions to retired CNR employees.

Pensions of retired employees were out of line with present conditions. Many had lost some pension rights through layoffs in the 1930s.

He said CNR officials and labor representatives now are reviewing the pension plan so that "fair and proper" government consideration could be given to a pension revision.

Bank of Canada Policy Assailed By Solon Low

CALGARY (CP) — Social Credit Leader Solon Low said Tuesday night the policy of the Bank of Canada during 1955 and 1956 brought about restricted purchasing power and an over-all increase in general interest rates in Canada but did not cure the problem of inflation.

Speaking during a nationally-televised political broadcast originating here, he blamed the Bank of Canada for bringing about a period of "tight money" and said this remedy for inflation in many respects has proved worse than the disease.

"We all realize today that the result of this monetary policy, formulated and imposed upon this country by the Bank of Canada, although it may have been designed in all sincerity and honesty for the purpose of combatting inflation, has proved to be a remedy much worse in many respects than the disease it was designed to cure."

He said Canada's monetary policies should be formulated by Parliament" and not by the Bank of Canada."

Text of Mr. Low's address was released to the press before delivery.

Economy Sick Says Coldwell In TV Address

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian economy is sick, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell said Tuesday night.

Speaking on a live CBC free-time political television broadcast from Winnipeg, Mr. Coldwell said:

"There is the startling fact that under a Conservative government, as under a Liberal government, the cost of living is continuing to rise. It now stands at its highest in history.

"And at the very same time unemployment is at its highest since the war and the agricultural crisis continues.

"Plainly the economy is sick. Something is fundamentally wrong, something that no matter how sincere some of their members may be, the old parties are incapable of dealing with because they believe in a system that permits the highest cost of living in history, the highest unemployment in a decade and declining farm income, and then permits something else, the accumlation by a few people of the biggest fortunes in years."

"The answer, of course, is that the old parties are not controlled by the people. They are not controlled by the farmers and workers but the millions of money they spend in election campaigns come from privileged interests, the names of which they refuse to divulge. There is the secret power of money behind them."

The statements were included in excerpts from a text of the speech issued to the press before delivery.

BOOST RATES

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons Monday night approved increases of national health service assessments by £24,000,000 a year to keep the program out of the red. The government's bill, costing an extra five pence a week for every contributor, was passed 307 to 237 in voting on party lines, and now goes to the House of Lords.

Surest Sign Of Spring Seen

One of the surest signs that spring has arrived is when children are seen about town lighting firecrackers. May 24th is not that far away that some stores have not already stocked an ample supply of the explosives.

Yesterday in the vicinity of Henry Street, a number of preschool age children were noticed lighting firecrackers, Youngsters of that age should not have matches, let alone firecrackers, in their possession.

Perhaps the old adage "a stitch in time saves nine" is applicable here. Parents, it might be wise to hold a family conflab about safety and firecrackers immediately, before someone is injured.

At the corner of Pinnacle and Dundas Sts., late yesterday afternoon, a small group of little people were seen throwing lighted firecrackers under cars and trucks as they swept around the corner.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police reported another quiet night Tuesday night with only a few occurrences recorded and those of a minor nature.

An attempted break-in was reported from the McCarthy Milling Company, while a rear end collision at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets caused just under $100 damage to both vehicles. One car stopped for the warning signal light and the following vehicle was unable to stop in time.

Churchill Has Good Night, Back at Work

ROQUEBRUNE CAP MARTIN, France (Reuters) — Sir Winston Churchill "passed a good night," a member of his household said today. Now recovering from a slight recurrence of pneumonia, he was back at work again and dictated a heavy mail to his two secretaries this morning.

Tuesday night the 83-year-old British statesman came down to dinner with Lady Churchill, Lord Moran, his personal physician and Mr. and Mrs. Emery Reves, his hosts, in the dining room of their Riviera villa.

As proof that he was well along the recovery road, Churchill dressed in dinner jacket and black tie for the family dinner.

An official bulletin issued Tuesday said he is thinking about returning to England as soon as the weather improves.

BLAST INJURES 20

TOKYO (Reuters) — A violent explosion in a tourist bus here today seriously injured 20 passengers, including 11 children. Police said the accident was caused when a passenger dropped a container of methyl chloride, an explosive liquid, on the floor of the bus.

Vota Vita M.C. Holds Meeting Views Films

The monthly meeting of the Vota Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church met recently with 35 in attendance. The meeting opened with the president, Nellie Wynne, in the chair and after a short devotional the business of the evening was as follows:

It was decided to send $15. to Bolivia to purchase a radio in connection with the Southern Cross Radio Station. The reading course was to be continued, and the treasurer's report given.

Mrs. L. K. Daniel presented Joyce Stovell with a life membership and pin. Wanda Patterson presented the "Light House Flashes."

Peggy Gemmell's group was in charge of the remainder of the evening with Ruth Campbell in the chair. After a devotional service and season of prayer, Marjorie Hales rendered a lovely vocal solo.

Jerry Morrell introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Williams of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatic Society. An interesting film was presented of a patient with rheumatoid arthritis and the care and treatment administered by the physio-therapeutist.

Refreshments were served.

Mother Agrees To Give Away Unborn Child

TIMPERLEY, Eng. (AP) — A 25-year - old mother who has agreed to give away her unborn child glared out the window at a crowd of neighbors staring at her from across the street.

"I hate babies," shouted Mrs. Sheila Winkley, a mother of three. Then she turned to a reporter and shook her mop of hair.

"I just couldn't face the thought of washing those diapers again," she said.

"Babies! You wheel them around in the pram and people peer at them . . . They're just babies, all alike and made to a pattern. I loathe them."

She looked out the window.

"What are they staring at? What's it got to do with them? It's my baby and it's my business what I do with it."

ABUSIVE LETTERS

Mrs. Winkley, whose 27-year-old engineer husband, Roy, earns £15 a week, started the controversy by stating she doesn't want to keep the baby due next July. Every day the postman brings her abusive letters. When she goes shopping, she is ignored by neighbors. Someone recently heaved a brick through the door.

"I've always loathed babies," said Mrs. Winkley, "and so does my husband."

She looked across the neatly kept parlor at her three-year-old daughter, Annette, playing beside the television set.

"Of course, I just love her," the young mother said. "and her big brother, David, who is seven, is just a pet. But there, they aren't babies any more."

Another child, 15-month - old Christine, is being looked after by welfare officials.

St. Joseph's PTA Presents P.S. Prizes

A general meeting was held on Thursday in St. Joseph's school hall. The meeting was opened by the president, Mr. T. Kelly.

Mr. Kelly introduced Dr. Ryley, who spoke to the members regarding the Red Cross blood bank which has been set up in Belleville. He asked if at any time anyone decided to make a blood donation, they get in touch with the blood bank and they would be given an appointment at a time convenient to them and would not be kept waiting.

The treasurer's report was given with a balance on hand to date of $69.29. It was decided to purchase the typewriter on hand and that the executive decide on a delegate to be sent to the OEA convention to be held in Toronto during Easter week, also that a letter of thanks be sent to the city council alderman of traffic for the erection of a school zone sign for Hastings Drive.

Mr. Kelly turned the meeting over to Mr. S. McKenna, who introduced the oratorical contest entries, who in turn gave their talk on their chosen subject. There were four girls and four boys from grades five, six, seven and eight.

The judges were: Mr. Buckley and Mr. Langabeer. It was a hard decision to make as each speech was so well given.

While the judges were making this decision, Donna Doran was called upon to render a solo. She graciously came forward and sang that lovely "Tammy." As she finished her song the four girls taking part in the contest joined her and they sang "Tammy" again. It was most enjoyable.

Mr. Buckley gave the results of the contest, first complimenting each boy and girl who had taken part in the contest.

The winner for the girls was Jane Doran, who spoke on "Tobacco." The winner for the boys was Michael Armengaud of grade 7; he spoke on "Planets."

Mr. Kelly presented each with a prize of money with the compliments of St. Joseph's P.T.A.

The attendance prize was won by Mrs. Pelow's grades.

'Anaesthetic Fatalities' Talk At Nurses' Meet

Tuesday evening, Dr. Russell Bateman, speaking to nurses, chose as his subject, "Emergencies and Anaesthetic Fatalities."

Dr. Bateman said: "Nurses have their share in preventing these fatalities. Some patients are toxic to different types of anaesthesia. In recent years new drugs have been discovered to counteract these conditions. Team work between doctors and nurses may help prevent many fatalities."

In preparation for anaesthesia it cannot be too highly stressed the importance of withholding all food and liquids from patients. It is the duty of both the doctor and nurse to check equipment prior to anaesthesia. Every doctor and nurse should be prepared to cope with emergencies during this period. All nurses should know how to administer oxygen. Following an anaesthetic, patients should be encouraged to practice deep breathing, move about and to take fluids.

This was the third in a series of educational lectures sponsored by the Belleville Community Nursing Registry. The fourth lecture will be held on March 31, and will deal with nursing procedures.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Our March issue of the News Bulletin from the Committee of Correspondence contains an interesting article entitled "As We See Little Rock." The author, a director of the Committee, Miss Dorothy Height, is described as a "bright-eyed friendly person with dimples and a zest for living." She is Director of Leadership Training for the U.S.A. National Y.W.C.A. She taught for a year at the Delhi School of Social Work in India. She has travelled extensively for the YWCA in West Africa. She has been honored by being elected President of the National Council of Negro Women.

Miss Height writes:

"The situation at Little Rock has to be seen as part of a world struggle through which people are trying to move from old, outmoded ways into new realization of the meaning of freedom and equality. For those who have cherished the old 'separate but equal" idea, stressing the separate but seldom the equal, this is a last chance to hold on to ideas and customs that seem dear. This is not a dramatic situation that flares on the horizon, suddenly gets better, and then disappears. In many respects it continues to be the same. There is a standstill. Little Rock is a symbol of both progress and resistance to progress, as we are in the process of becoming an integrated society."

Miss Height outlines briefly the constitutional arguments about state rights and federal rights. She quotes a southern judge and then goes on to relate the moro human and basic aspects. In previous reports we had never before read about Mrs. Daisy Bates, the leader of the controversial nine Negro students. She is the mother of a twelve-year-old boy; she was the only woman pilot in Arkansas in the Civil Air Patrol during World War II. She is president of the Arkansas National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Miss Height says she is a very courageous woman.

The author pays special tribute to the thousands of people who courageously carry on the moral struggle and who never make headlines. Also she mentions the women of Little Rock.

"In late September 1957, the church women of Little Rock issued a statement reflecting their concern over the situation which had developed in their community. They publicly admitted their failure to live as children of one Father and they asked fellow citizens in Arkansas to join them in a special time of prayer and meditation when they would ask God's guidance and wisdom, particularly for those people whose responsibility it was to find a solution to the situation. They publicly expressed their confidence in the education officials who had tried to comply with the law of the land. Finally, they asked each citizen of Arkansas to treat every person as he himself would like to be treated and to join them in refusing to be a party to any act or work or idle rumor which will give rise to tension between groups in our communities.

"Miss Height points out that anyone who has read about the explosive situation will appreciate the courage these women had to make a public stand such as they did.

She then gives facts backed up by figures which illustrate the progress being made in the United States. She closes her article in these words: "It is almost inevitable that more Little Rocks will occur before the task is completed. They should be understood as regrettable but probably inescapable incidents in the progress of a nation which believes in, and is struggling to achieve, true equality among men."

T & T believes that Canadian women and men will be happy to read news that does not seem to make headlines. Who will gainsay that the fire of hope is kindled by the aspirations and work of women who make up groups like the Committee of Correspondence, with directors like Dorothy Height, and those brave women of Little Rock. They refuse to be cowed by impossibles and work in the certain knowledge that if all is not perfect in this best of worlds, then life would not be as rewarding had they not persevered. They are realists in the finest sense of the word. They do not confuse realism with apathy.

We have not forgotten shopping news but frankly when we made our weekly rounds of the stores, we had a feeling of expectancy. Spring is definitely in the air. The merchandise seemed to be saying "don't blame me; blame the weatherman; we are waiting in all our varieties to help usher in the warm weather." And since there are negligible changes in the food line, we decided to wait with the merchandise. Soon there will be great activity in the shopping world.

21 Leaders Attend Leaders' Conference

'Tranquilizers Can Wreck Your Life' States Fred Edge

The March meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the "Y" with the president, Mrs. E. Farnsworth, in the chair.

"This is the season of hope, a time when faith and hope are revived as soon all Nature will be seeking an outlet of new life within. The spring of 1958 brings marvellous inventions which startle: the guided missiles, earth satellites and space ships for interplanetary travel, whereby we encircle the globe.

"Let us also learn that the power of God's spirit encircles the globe, and through prayer and His abiding Spirit in the heart of man, power is given to us according to our faith. Let us launch our guided missiles of love and blessing."

The devotional period was a study of the "Parable of the Sower," and conducted by Miss Johns.

Tribute was paid to Dr. Little, an untiring temperance worker and one who helped launch A.A. in Ontario.

Miss Clazie had charge of the clip sheet study on "Tranquilizers," assisted by Miss Barnum, Mrs. Calnan and Mrs. Bennett.

TRANQUILIZERS

"In a recent Canadian Home Journal, an article by Fred Edge 'Tranquilizers Can Wreck Your Life,' we were startled by the question, 'Can this happen to you?'—These new 'Happy Pills' were introduced in 1953-54 as an aid to calming violent mental patients.

In 1955 a milder form of tranquilizer was introduced and there are now over 20 different kinds which may be bought over the counters of drug stores without a doctor's prescription. The use of these pills has quickly become widespread.

The public health service of the United States was concerned to learn that over five million had become addicts. In Ontario it is estimated one-tenth of those admitted to mental insituions are pill addicts. It is estimated that 18 tons of barbituate sleeping pills and tranquilizers are used in Canada.

PILLCOHOLISM

These estimates place pillcoholism next to alcoholism as a threat to the national health and welfare, and more serious than narcotics.

Used as prescribed, these pills are not dangerous. Properly prescribed and administered, they are a useful and necessary part of medical care, particularly in mental hospitals. As there is no moral stigma attached to their use, many keep them on hand to calm nerves or for an extra strenuous day. The dose needed for the desired effect grows larger until it is hard to do without them.

In 1956 in Ontario two people died and three went to mental hospital through an over-dose of this drug.

"There are difficulties in dealing with this problem, but we are thankful our lawmakers are becoming alert to this danger. — Our busy doctors should receive all information available and the public should be warned of the danger."

Woman Failed To Beat Stork

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — After safely delivering almost 100 mothers to the hospital, William C. Cooper, 41, failed Tuesday to beat the stork with his own wife. Mrs. Cooper, 43, gave birth to a daughter while being rushed to a Windsor hospital from their home in Edgewater Beach, Amherstburg. It is her first daughter and fourth child. Cooper said "during the war, I was about the only one around here who had gas and tires. And there were no ambulances available, so I used to take as many as four or five mothers up to Windsor every week . . . We never missed once."

Low Calorie Sweets

By Mary Moore

"Two years ago I saw some recipes for diabetics in your column, but did not clip them—never thinking that I would have a diabetic patient to cook for . . ." Wistful sentences similar to that are in readers' letters I have on my desk now.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Homemade Split Pea Soup; Breaded Pan Fried Smelts, with Lemon or Tartare Sauce; Tomatoes au Gratin; Mashed Delicate Turnip; Rhubarb Crumb Pudding with Pouring Cream; Tea.

As you know, I am not an authority on diets for the sick. I can give you though some help with low calorie dishes that will ease the worry of cooking for a diabetic patient. I have not given any such dishes for a long time and I hope those of you who are interested will see and clip this — and that includes the reducers.

CRANBERRY COCKTAIL

This keeps well and makes 12 servings. One pint cranberry juice (cook 2 cups raw cranberries in 1 cup water until mushy and strain), 10 oz. fresh orange juice, 1-2 cup water, juice from 1 large lemon, unstrained, 16 crushed sucaryl tablets 1 1-2 cups low-calorie ginger ale. Mix in order given all but ginger ale. Chill. Pour over ice in glasses. Add ginger ale just before serving.

APRICOT BAVARIAN

One 1-lb. can dietetic apricots or equivalent in stewed dried apricots unsweetened, 4 teaspoons gelatin, 1-4 cup cold water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 14 crushed sucaryl tablets (or less), 1 cup skim milk powder, 1 cup ice water. Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve by stirring over boiling water. Cook apricots to a soft mush and force through sieve. Add the lemon juice, sucaryl and dissolved gelatin to the apricot puree and cook gently 5 minutes, stirring. Remove from heat. Let stand 10 minutes, then beat hard until light and fluffy. When cooled to congealing constituency beat the skim milk powder with the ice water until stiff. Fold in gelatir and chill in moistened mould.

ZESTY APPLESAUCE

Wash, pare, quarter and core apples and put in saucepan with water, lemon slices, salt and sucaryl. Cover and cook over low heat until apples are tender — about 10 to 15 minutes. Force through sieve. Add orange rind. Chill. Store covered.

LEMON WAFERS

One-half cup melted butter, 1 tablespoon each lemon juice and grated rind, 1-2 cup all-bran, 2 eggs, 14 crushed sucaryl tablets, 2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon making powder. Beat together the butter lemon juice and rind all,-bran, eggs and sucaryl until thoroughly mixed. Sift in flour and baking powder and mix well. Shape in roll 2 1-2 inches in diameter. Wrap in wax paper and chill overnight . With very sharp knife cut into 1-8 inch slices. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet at 400 deg. Fahr. about 5 or 6 minutes.

Mother's Helper

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Rose R. — I would be afraid to tell my mother.

Dora M. — She's such a coward.

Rose R. — My friend Dora and I are two girls in our mid-20's. We go out on double dates together very often and hang out with the same crowd.

We have known a couple of boys for several months. We've gone out with them and have had very good times and they have behaved like perfect gentlemen.

Now, these fellows share an apartment together and have asked us to come up and see their place and have dinner with them there. I don't think that would be at all proper and I would be afraid to tell my mother about it, but Dora is furious at me because she wants to go, but won't go alone.

Dora M. — Rose is such a coward! Her mother is the worst prude and she thinks that anything she can't tell her mother must be wrong.

As a matter of fact, I think it's downright rude to turn these fellows down. They have been so nice to us, it is a shame to treat them as if they were ordinary wolves or something. They know the kind of girls we are and they have told us that they are simply eager to have us see their place and sample their cooking.

These fellows are really the domestic type. They are far from home and say they miss feminine company around the place. What's the harm?

Rose's mother may be a prude, but she wouldn't have to be much of one to object to this dinner party.

We suspect that these young men are capable of being perfect gentlemen at some times and the reverse at others. We think it is possible that if they get a flat "sorry, no" to their invitation, they will fade away.

If they don't fade away and keep taking the girls out and showing a strong interest in them, we suspect that they may find a way out of their unhappy situation — the lack of feminine company in their home. They may begin to think of the possibility of marriage. It is an institution especially contrived to take care of such cases.

We suspect that Dora is being a little dishonest with herself and that she is a bit of a tease. She is too old to be so naive as to think the situation is quite as simple as she has outlined. She seems to relish the possibility of an out-of-the-ordinary adventure — within bounds, of course. She insists upon taking Rose along for protection. That's how sure she is of her young men friends!

Eggleton M. B.

MADOC JUNCTION — On Friday afternoon the March meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held at the school, with Audrey Stapley presiding.

Sharon Reide presided at the piano.

The worship centre at the front of the school was lovely. The open Bible in front, a picture of colored spring flowers in the background; and a vase of pussy willows gathered by Sheila Clarke, at one side.

The leader had Sheila read the verse, and all the pupils memorize it "He has made everything beautiful in His time".

For the Scripture lesson, Beverly Stapley read Psalm 101. A reading, "The man who could not move", was given by Diane Prest.

Next meeting to be held at the school on Friday afternoon, April 18th, when the Easter Thank-Offering envelopes are to be handed in. Keith McMullen gathered the offering.

Glen Stapley offered to arrange the worship centre for the April meeting.

There were 19 children and three adults present.

A reading "Preserved from Sickness", was given by Isabelle Prest. The leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, told in story form, the chapter from the study book — telling how busy Hana's mother had been making new clothes for Hana and Taro to wear to school: Describing the children's first day of school in the city: Also how the minister had invited all the family to attend church.

The papers, "World Friends" were distributed by Marilyn Stapley and Glen Stapley.

Two games were played. The Japanese game of "Thunder and Lightning" with all the pupils forming a circle and Sharon Reide as leader in the centre. A second game "African Number Game" was also enjoyed.

Crying Women Should Be Fired Seminar Told

CALGARY (CP) — Three of four women panelists have agreed on a cure for the businesswoman who has a habit of bursting into tears—offer a handkerchief and then follow it up with a dismissal slip.

But one of the panel members at the second annual seminar on mental health in industry was more sympathetic to her kind. Florence Thorpe, women's editor for radio station CFAC here, said the crying girl should be ignored.

Mrs. John Gorman, a lawyer, had a quick answer for men who find their female employees repeatedly in tears. Help wipe away the tears and then fire them, she said.

She drew unqualified support from Mrs. Beryl Rowland, business manager of the Calgary Philharmonic Society. Mrs. L. S. Willmore, women's editor of the Calgary Herald, said it depended on the reason for the tears and how frequent they came.

WOMEN'S PROBLEMS

The panel was considering the problems of women in industry.

Mrs. Rowland said some women found difficulty in the business world because most men resent newcomers, male or female, until they prove their ability. Some men have such high standards that it was almost impossible for a woman to meet them.

"Most women can get further by coaxing than by brow-beating," Miss Thorpe added. "A woman would be a fool to use wiles without anything to back them up, and she'd be as equal a fool to let men forget she is a woman."

GOOD MANNERS

TO HAVE PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN BEFORE RECEPTION BEGINS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our home is not large enough for our daughter's wedding reception and so we are having it in a private suite of a local hotel. We are uncertain how to fill the gap between the church ceremony and the time it will take to have photographs taken of the bride and groom (we plan to take informal flash pictures ourselves, so do not want this coverage from the photographer). Under these circumstances, how should the receiving-line be handled? Should we have the receiving-line at the church after the ceremony, or later at the reception at the hotel? If at the hotel, how should it be handled? — Reader

Do plan to have the receiving-line at the reception in the hotel . . . do not have any receiving-line at the church. And make most efficient plans for the time-allowance between leaving the church and having the photographs taken, asking for the co-operation and quick action of all concerned. The bride and groom are the first to leave the church and so should arrive well ahead of the guests from the church. The photographer should be all ready, camera set and lights in place, to take the photographs where the couple are to stand in the receiving-line. In the meantime you and your husband and the wedding attendants will arrive. While the photographs are being taken, you and your "assistants" will be assembling the receiving-line and the guests-line, and planning for the reception to begin. After the photographs are taken, the photographer's lights and other equipment can be very quickly removed . . . and you will find that the guests have not been kept waiting. (If the bride is to have an individual photograph taken, this should be taken either before the wedding day, perhaps after the last fitting of her dress, or on the morning of the wedding day.)

SHOULD BRIDE'S FATHER STAND IN RECEIVING-LINE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell us if it is correct for the father of the bride to mingle with the guests at the reception rather than to stand in the receiving-line? — Bride's Parents.

Yes. It is optional whether the bride's father stands in the receiving-line . . . depends on his preference. Very often the bride's father prefers to mingle with the guests, making introductions, and seeing that all the guests are happy, well-taken-care-of.

WHO PAYS TRANSPORTATION EXPENSES OF BRIDAL ATTENDANTS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In your column last week you helped us very much by explaining that if out-of-town bridal attendants (maid or matron of honor, or bridesmaids) cannot be put up at the home of the bride or a relative or friend of the bride, and so must stay at a hotel, it is the responsibility of the bride's parents to make the hotel reservations and to pay the bill for these accommodations. Thank you for making us clear about this. But now we have another question concerning the several out-of-town bridal attendants: Are the bride's parents also expected to pay for the transportation (by train, plane, bus, or whatever) of the out-of-town attendants, to and from the town in which the wedding is to be?
— Bride's Mother

No. Each out-of-town bridal attendant pays her own transportation expenses to and from the town where the wedding is to be held.

THIS BRIDE'S GRANDMOTHER GIVEN HONOR PLACE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother is coming several thousand miles for the wedding of our only daughter, her granddaughter. My mother is a widow, and we would like to know how she should be seated in the church, as there will be no other relatives to seat her with. Is it permissible to seat her in the pew with my husband and me?
— Bride's Mother

You should give special honor to the bride's grandmother by having her seated in the first pew, on the left of the aisle, with you and your husband. She should be escorted up the aisle by an usher (the head usher, if possible) before the bridegroom's mother is escorted up the aisle, and she should take a seat well into the pew, so that you, when you enter, can take your place next to her (nearer the aisle), and then the bride's father, when he has finished his part in the ceremony, can take his place at the end of the pew nearest the aisle.

A donation is to be made to the Women's Institutes of Ceylon for assistance to their people following the flood disaster. Several articles for the layette were handed in and also several sweaters.

The members were reminded that the extension service will be held April 15th in Marsh Hill church.

Conveners of standing committees are to meet Wednesday evening, April 9th, at the home of Mrs. Grace Bartindale to prepare their reports.

Mrs. Bartindale, district director, reported on the district executive meeting which had been held recently in Belleville. It is expected the district annual will be held on June 11th at Wallbridge.

The members are to consider what extension service they want for next year. The conveners of standing committees reported.

This was the story of a lady who refused to drive her children to school, who were able to run, jump and play. Mrs. Detlor gave a paper on "Education," stating a few of the problems of the teacher and the board of education.

"Would You Give Your Child Progressive Education?" was read by Mrs. Harry Coulter. Mrs. Farley Lindenfield read "1900 Waists — 1956 Wastes."

Talk on Costume Jewelry Topic At Ladies Guild

The regular monthly meeting of the Albert College Ladies' Guild was held on Thursday at the Manor with Mrs. C. Hyde presiding.

The meeting opened as usual, followed by business.

Further plans were made for the annual "Dessert Bridge" to take place in Ackerman Hall in April.

Mrs. May reported for the house committee exhibiting the purchases they had bought for use of the Guild and for the students.

Mrs. Gillis expressed the thanks on behalf of the students.

Mrs. Williams led in the devotional, having as her theme, "Being a Good Neighbor". Mrs. Wilson read the Scripture on the Parable of the Good Samaritan.

Mrs. J. G. Demeza delighted everyone with her solo, "Think on Me", accompanied by Mrs. T. K. Franklin.

Mrs. Williams introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Mr. A. Mazer, of the Avon Jewellery Limited.

"There is no such thing as [illegible] in costume jewellery," said [illegible] Mazer.

It has always been the desire of man to wear decorations. Chain stores were the first to sell costume jewellery and it took many years to persuade jewellery stores to stock it. Owing to this type of jewellery being within the reach of most people, it far outsells watches and diamonds.

The first moulds were hand made of bronze but these were expensive — now rubber moulds are used and many patterns can be made much cheaper from the same mould.

Twice a year a complete new range is made, hundreds of designs being used. There are forty colors of stones — the advent of Aurora made it possible for ten new colors. Canadians prefer the simple standard designs and many of the original patterns are still being sold.

A social hour followed with Mrs. McMullen and Mrs. Spragge as hostesses.

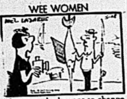
WEE WOMEN



"Sure you don't want to change into your elevator shoes first, Albert?"

Napanee Lady Will Be 110 On Thursday

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP) — Miss Nellie Clarke believes she will celebrate her 110th birthday on Thursday (March 27).

Miss Clarke is confident of the number of years, and a friend, Ed Hagerman, 59, of Kingston, vouches for it. Actual proof was lost 78 years ago when a fire in her home destroyed the family Bible in which her birth date was recorded.

Another who vouched for Miss Clarke's age was a schoolmate, Mrs. Nelson Sharpe, an aunt of Mr. Hagerman. Mrs. Sharpe died last year at age 108.

GOOD APPETITE

Miss Clarke has lived in this area all her life. She now lives with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Howse near this town, almost 19 miles west of Kingston.

Her birthday will probably be celebrated quietly. Mr. Howse said she has been ill recently and is confined to bed. Her hearing and sight now are weak, but she was up and around until a month ago.

Her speech is slightly impaired since she was shocked by a fall through ice into a creek, but there's nothing wrong with her heart or her appetite. She eats up to four meals a day.

Miss Clarke can recall the first time a wood-burning locomotive came through the district, and she remembers hearing a speech by Sir John A. Macdonald, first prime minister of Canada. She last voted in a federal election in 1949.

She was born in nearby Pittsburgh Township, raised in the Wilton and Odessa districts and educated in Link's Mill school. She became a housekeeper on the farm of Mr. Hagerman's grandfather, and then kept house for the late Mrs. Sharpe for about 40 years. On the latter's death, Miss Clarke moved to the home of Mr. Howse, whose wife is a daughter of the late Mrs. Sharpe.

Miss Clarke says modern automobiles are "all right," but she describes television as "just a fraud." She also considers oil burners as "a lazy man's fire" compared to the old days of cutting and splitting wood, carrying out the ashes and keeping a pile of cordwood in the kitchen.

VOTE YOURSELF A "TAX HOLIDAY"
ADD $100,000,000 TO TAKE-HOME PAY
BOOST INCOMES · SPENDING POWER · JOBS

The Liberals will make tax cuts effective from January 1, 1958

This means a tax refund of $100 million on personal income taxes alone. Beginning June 1, 1958, it means no payroll income tax deductions for over three million Canadians for a period of seven weeks. And it provides similar relief for the self-employed. After the "tax holiday", taxation will be at the new lower rates.

And it means small businesses will get the benefit, for the full year, of a 50% tax cut on their first $10,000 profits — down from 20% to 10%.

The whole purpose of immediate tax cuts is to create jobs — and create them quickly. People will be able to spend more of their own money on the goods Canadian farms and factories produce. That is what makes jobs.
We must make up the ground lost through months of faltering and confusion in our national affairs. We must start Canada humming again.
The Pearson Plan is a bold and practical course of action to do just that.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE PEARSON PLAN FOR CANADA, FOR YOU

1. MAJOR TAX CUTS to increase your income this year, create more jobs. You save $1 of every $4 you now pay on your first $3000 of taxable income.
2. THE DOWRY — Newly-weds will pay no taxes on their first $4000 income during first three years of married life — pay $90 instead of $480 if their income is $5000. More than 350,000 couples married since Jan. 1, 1956, will benefit.
3. SICKNESS INSURANCE — Pay unemployment benefits to people who are out of work because of illness.
4. NO EXCISE TAX on cars.
5. FOR FARMERS—
   1. Set up Farm Development Bank to assist farm improvement.
   2. Extend support prices for wheat, oats, barley, rye, flax and butter.
   3. Pay compensation to farmers for cost of storing grain on their farms.
6. LOW DOWN-PAYMENT HOMES—Change National Housing Act to make it easier to buy homes without large down payments.
7. FAMILY ALLOWANCES—Continue family allowances to the age of 18 for boys and girls who are students.
8. SCHOLARSHIPS, BURSARIES AND LOANS—To give youth equal opportunity for higher education. 2500 scholarships and 7500 bursaries awarded annually.
9. INCREASED SOCIAL BENEFITS — Old age assistance for widows and unmarried women to start at age 60. Right to transfer total pension when changing jobs.
10. FULLER, FREER, TRADE between NATO nations including U.S. and Britain. Increase food and other shipments to needy or undeveloped countries. Trade development—not restriction or diversion.

6th SIDNEY

Uniondale W.I. Sponsors 'Family Night'

SIDNEY 6TH — The "Family Night" for Uniondale Women's Institute was held at Scott's Church hall 6th concession of Sidney, with approximately 104 sitting down to a sumptuous pot-luck supper. Nearly every family was represented along with a few invited guests and friends or past members of the Institute.

Following the supper all gathered in the Scott's United Church for a program planned by the convener, Mrs. Morley Sine.

The opening number was "O Canada" with Mrs. M. Grills as song leader, and Mrs. Avery Martyn as pianist. A sing-song followed with the series of verses from the popular number S-m-i-l-e, (Smile), after which Mrs. A. Martyn introduced the speaker for the evening, Harriett Stevens, commentator from C.J.B.Q radio station. Her talk took one back 20 years, when she and 44 other ladies were in competition choir-singing across the ocean to Wales, England. Harriett Stevens was a member of this Ottawa choir at that time; but now resides near Belleville.

Her address was interesting and some members of the Uniondale Women's Institute were quite familiar with the name of 'Wales', as this had once been their home. She told of the wonderful and beautiful churches they visited; the ups and downs they had; how they were left in darkness, and how 45 women as a choir in competition kept on no matter what came in their way.

Mrs. G. Herrington thanked the speaker for her talk and a small gift was presented to her in appreciation.

Another important guest, who was introduced by Mrs. George Pollard was Miss Alva Laughlin of the ninth concession of Murray Township. Miss Laughlin is a missionary nurse who is now home on furlough visiting her parents, and is spending a great deal of her time showing slides to many organizations and churches. This evening she visited the Uniondale Women's Institute, and showed slides, assisted by Mr. Sam Caskey, on "Nazareth in Israel" where she is engaged as a missionary nurse in the hospital there. Her work is to help serve the Arab population. Other pictures were of the "Dead Sea," where, on account of the salt water, no person can drown; pictures of Nassau; Galilee, also many Biblical places in Jerusalem.

Mrs. M. Sine thanked Miss Laughlin for her efforts and a small token was presented to her from the president, Mrs. F. Loney. Mr. Caskey was also remembered for helping with the program.

Mrs. Milton Grills sang a solo, "The Holy City," with Mrs. Avery Martyn as pianist, which was appropriate for the evening.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Joe Morris, 4th of Sidney, with the paying of membership dues; the collecting of layette for Korea, and also election of officers for 1958.

Refreshments will be served by Mesdames. M. Bird, V. Bush, M. Sine, A. Sine, G. Bird, G. Pollard.

Identical Twins 'Shock' RCMP Commissioner

MONTREAL (CP) — Assistant RCMP Commissioner Jim Lemieux did a double-take Monday when he interviewed recruit J. O. R. Tessier, 20, of Windsor, Ont.

Or was it recruit J. E. C. Tessier, 20, of Windsor, Ont.?

Interviewing one of them here after they finished training at Rockcliffe, Ont., Assistant Commissioner Lemieux left his office for a moment, to be met in the hall with a snappy salute from the man he thought he had left at his desk.

"It was a shock," he said. "I did a couple of double-takes through the partly opened door before I was certain I was not seeing double."

It turned out the men are identical twins, Clifford and Ronald Tessier.

The draft log had shown two men of the same name, but Tessier isn't unusual in this part of Canada, and there was no indication they were related.

Assistant Commissioner Lemieux said they are the first twins to serve in the RCMP.

Balance of Power One of Chief Stumbling Blocks in Path

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The problem of maintaining the military balance of power is one of the chief stumbling blocks in the path to an East-West disarmament agreement.

Neither side in the tortuous search for a basis for disarmament wants to sign a treaty that would leave it weaker than its potential enemy. Each side wants to remain just a little stronger than the other or, at least, keep the military balance of power equal.

During the last year the Russian leaders have made it plain on numerous occasions that they believe their intercontinental missile has shifted the balance of power to their side.

CHANGE OF HEART

This explains why the United States has been so cautious in its approach to negotiating an agreement with the Russians to ban nuclear bomb tests. On the basis of what its scientists told it, the Eisenhower administration was afraid the Russians would conduct tests secretly, gain new and useful nuclear knowledge, and thus tip the nuclear balance of power in Soviet favor.

Now, however, there are reports the U.S. may be preparing to agree to a trial test suspension. It apparently feels that its spring schedule of atomic tests, to take place in the Pacific, will take it far enough along the atomic road that a two- or three-year suspension will not harm the U.S. defence position.

The question then would be whether the Russians would accept such a suspension—after the American tests—or whether they, too, would stall the issue, until they had had a chance to conduct another test series of their own.

The same thing applies to proposals to prohibit the use of outer space for military purposes.

POSITIONS REVERSED

The U.S. called recently for outer space controls. Russia's Nikita Khrushchev accepted but attached the condition—an impossible one for the West—that the U.S. must dismantle its overseas military bases.

With the U.S. still lacking an intercontinental missile, the situation now is similar to that which existed after the war when the U.S. held exclusive possession of the A-bomb and Russia, working feverishly to achieve atomic equality, stalled on the question of a disarmament agreement.

The ideal disarmament arrangement would be one that maintained absolute equality in arms at each stage that the participants shed their weapons. That is difficult to achieve at any time, especially in this age of rapid and constant scientific and technological development.

BIG ENOUGH FOR BOTH

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Tom Ngwenya, a leading member of the African National Congress, said Monday night it never had advocated the ousting of the white man from South Africa. The country is big enough for all to live in happily together, Ngwenya said.

COLD SPELL ENDS

LONDON (Reuters) — Warmer but wet weather with some fog spread over the British Isles today after a cold spell lasting almost three weeks.

McAree Funeral Well Attended

TORONTO (CP) — Several hundred persons filled Wesley United Church in suburban Mimico Tuesday for the funeral of J. V. McAree, a daily columnist with The Globe and Mail for 55 years.

Mr. McAree, whose work appeared regularly on the editorial page, died Saturday at 81. His last column appeared Tuesday.

Said Rev. Harold Stainton Tuesday:

"Year after year, for more than 50 years, he talked about people. He loved people and people loved him. He believed in the Golden Rule, and he tried to incorporate the principles of the Good Samaritan in his own life."

Burial was at St. James' Cemetery.

MONEY FOR EARLS

LONDON (Reuters) — Impoverished viscounts, earls and barons will be able to get bread-and-butter money in the future if they belong to the Socialist party. Labor party members of Parliament agreed Monday night to set up a special fund for the benefit of needy Labor members who serve or have served in the House of Commons or the House of Lords.

By BOB THOMAS

At a time when many feared motion pictures would follow vaudeville into the grave, Todd came along to point the way to salvation.

He pioneered the wide screen. He sold his Around the World in 80 Days with a hoopla that harked back to his carnival beginnings. Because of this, and because it is top-notch entertainment, the movie may well be the greatest moneymaker of all time. He demonstrated that there is still a vast audience for the right kind of movies.

Hollywood at first viewed Todd with derision. He was regarded as a blustery graduate of peep shows and was scarcely invited into the better homes. At his death, he was on an equal basis with the kings and queens of the town.

FOUND INNOVATIONS

It was Todd's nature that he had to find his way alone. He was one of the developers of cinerama. But he was impatient with the travelogue limitations of that medium—and with the brass-heavy firm. He sold out.

He developed his own wide-screen process, Todd-ao, and helped screen Oklahoma but again he found himself with too many partners and got out. It appeared Todd could never stick with a good thing.

But he had his own vision, and only he could accomplish it. That was Around the World in 80 Days.

Todd at full steam was a marvel to behold. Not long ago I spent a couple of hours with him at his studio office, in his car and in his hotel suite.

MARVEL TO WATCH

He sat by the window of his office, facing a half - dozen employees. He shot orders at them between phone calls. In a voice that almost shook the room, he spoke to France, Hawaii and New York. He stopped now and then to shout out the window to Sam Goldwyn, Gregory Peck and others who were walking by.

During the ride he told of the millions that were coming in from his movie. He said one of his biggest thrills was catching the Saturday morning showings he arranged for poor children. The one-time poor kid from Minneapolis cautioned me not to print anything about it, lest he be considered going soft.

While he shaved and showered in his hotel suite, Todd talked about the future. He was enthused about doing Don Quixote and said he had gone back to the Cervantes original to lick the story. He was going to make two other films—one the life of Arturo Toscanini, which would unfold the world of opera on the screen.

"Then I'll quit and enjoy life with Liz and the kids," he said.

But the plane crash Saturday morning erased all the plans, robbing Hollywood of a showman and colorful figure it needed badly.

Man-Made Flood to Create New Lake 35 Miles Long

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Seaway and power engineers agreed Tuesday they'll be ready for the big flood next July.

After the man-made flood, a new lake 35 miles long will wash over the countryside from Cornwall to Iroquois in Ontario's rich seaway valley 75 miles west of Montreal.

The flood is to start July 1 when a 2,200,000 - horse - power hydro dam on Barnhart Island near Cornwall blocks the St. Lawrence River like a concrete tourniquet—forcing the turbulent river to back up on both sides of the border between Canada and the United States.

Top officials of the Canadian and United States seaway and power authorities, meeting here Tuesday with the St. Lawrence River joint board of engineers, declared all construction schedules will meet the target date.

SPECTACULAR SHOW

What is expected to be a spectacular four-day show will halt all river navigation between Montreal and the Great Lakes and in a matter of hours change the face of the district.

The rising river water, controlled to a fraction of an inch, will slowly climb up the river banks and spill over old farmlands where United Empire Loyalists pioneered new homesteads almost two centuries ago.

Thousands of persons are expected to watch as the torrent inundates the low ground.

Seven low historic river towns have already been abandoned. Inhabitants moved lock, stock and homes to higher ground where three new towns were laid out by Ontario Hydro, partner with the New York State Power Authority in the $600,000,000 project.

Even old cemeteries were moved.

St. Lawrence islands will vanish and new ones will be formed, creating a river playground for tourists. A series of bridges will string them together like a necklace, forming a resort region with picnic spots, historical sites and seaway scenery.

The flood will also inundate the old 14-foot-draught ship canals from Cornwall to Iroquois—used for decades to pass the rough International Rapids.

For the rest of the 1958 navigation season, canal freighters upbound from Montreal to Cornwall will use the present 14-foot route. But from Cornwall west to Lake Ontario they will sail the new St. Lawrence Seaway, which will operate at a 14-foot depth until winter.

Two U.S. built locks and a 10-mile canal will take the 250-foot canalers around the flooded power pool and into the Canadian lock at Iroquois. This new lock, typical of the large seaway structures, will be able to accommodate 750-foot ocean ships when the full seaway opens for 27-foot navigation in April, 1959.

A new highlevel bridge from Cornwall Island to the U.S. mainland will not be finished before the flooding starts. A temporary ferry service is to keep traffic moving.

Canada is building the substructure while the U.S. is to add the super-structure. It replaces a low-level bridge.

A name for the international lake hasn't been selected yet but it may be called Lake Elizabeth in honor of the Queen, who will officially open the seaway next year.

Quebec East Scene of Pitched Political Battle

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec East, Liberal fortress for more than 75 years and political home of Quebec's Liberal greats, is the scene of a pitched political battle that has the provincial capital figuratively sitting on the edge of its chair.

The sprawling, white - collar worker district that has been represented by former prime minister St. Laurent, the late Ernest Lapointe and Sir Wilfrid Laurier has seldom seen anything to match the fight that is being waged on behalf of the Progressive Conservative and Liberal candidates.

At grips are Yvon Tasse, Progressive Conservative candidate, backed to the hilt by Premier Duplessis' Union Nationale party, and Maurice Lamontagne, young economist who was one of Mr. St. Laurent's advisers until the downfall of the Liberal government in last year's federal election.

The contest has become more than a straight federal election fight.

A TOP PRIZE

In the books of any political party Quebec East would be a top prize and worthy of special efforts but what is giving the 1958 political fight added zest is the fact the Union Nationale is, quite openly, bent on the personal defeat of Mr. Lamontagne.

In previous elections Progressive Conservatives gave token opposition to the mighty Liberal figures in Quebec East. Liberal rallies were thinly attended. Meetings were about as exciting as parish card parties.

But all the excitement of typical Quebec campaigns with its train of door-to-door workers, flamboyant oratory, and nightly meetings has descended on Quebec East.

Newspaper campaign advertisements are in the majority directed to Quebec East voters. So are televised speeches.

Transport Minister Antoine Rivard, a top man in Mr. Duplessis' cabinet, has been pulled out of St. Lawrence south shore ridings where he was campaigning earlier to set the pace of the Union Nationale party's onslaught on Mr. Lamontagne.

OTHERS JOIN IN

He is seconded by Emilien Rochette and Armand Maltais, two members of the Union Nationale party representing Quebec seats in the provincial legislature and both citizens with considerable prestige in the city. Fisheries Minister Camille Pouliot made an appearance on the hustings Sunday.

All have said over and over again they are not linked with any federal party. They say Mr. Lamontagne must be defeated because he is the author of a book opposed to provincial autonomy, because he stands against provincial rights.

The book — Le Federalisme Canadien — dealt with federal-provincial taxation problems and supported the federal-provincial taxation agreements which Mr. Duplessis rejected as encroachments on the province's constitutional powers. The book said the Quebec government's stand was wrong.

HIT AT PROFESSOR

Broadsides delivered aaginst Mr. Lamontagne now have extended to his former Laval University professor, Very Rev. Georges-Henri Levesque one time dean of the faculty of social sciences at Laval and now superior of a nearby Dominican retreat house.

Father Levesque was a member of the Massey commission on arts letters and science which recommended federal grants to universities, a measure which Mr. Duplessis has described as an invasion of a provincial domain.

Mr. Lamontagne, campaigning with a smaller organization, has challenged Union Nationale efforts to represent him as being opposed to provincial rights. As an economist at Ottawa, he said, he had a hand in working out federal equalization payments which gave Quebec an additional $40,000,000 annually.

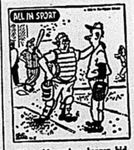
The visitors led 1-0 at the end of the first. Cape Breton tied it in the second and went ahead 2-1 at 6:10 of the finale when Buckingham was shorthanded.



"Now this guy's a slugger, kid. Give him your best pitch, then run in an' back me up on the peg to home!"

'Tale of Two Cities' Show Of Month on TV Thursday

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—A television adaptation of Charles Dickens' A Tale of Two Cities is the ambitious undertaking of Show of the Month (CBS-TV) Thursday evening.

Its large cast will include Rosemary Harris, Gracie Fields, Eric Portman, Agnes Moorehead, Walter Fitzgerald, James Donald and Denholm Elliott. Robert Mulligan is the director.

Because A Tale of Two Cities is required reading in high schools almost everywhere, just about everybody has read it and vaguely remembers that it concerns a group of English and French people in the French Revolution.

To retell the story now probably would spoil the adaptation made by Michael Dyne for the David Susskind TV production. The novel is so large in scope and diffuse in scene and character that it sounds like an awesome task to adapt for a 90-minute television drama.

"The London scenes are heavily cut," Dyne said. "We're cutting the burning of the chateau in Paris. But we are doing the storming of the Bastille — with 50 people, not 5,000."

Will a head actually roll from the guillotine?

"The present plan ist hat there will be a head dripping with raspberry jam. But it will be seen in shadow.

"Usually I'm against that sort of thing, but it's essential in this case in order to portray the horror of the revolution."

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You might at first pooh-pooh the report that Walt Disney is importing real leprechauns from Ireland.

But can you really discount the possibility, considering the other wonders that he has accomplished?

He recently returned from Ireland to scout talent for his new film, Darby O'Gill and the Little People. To get the story, I gave him the Mike Wallace treatment:

Q. Now, Mr. Disney, just how did you establish contact with these alleged leprechauns?

A. It wasn't easy. I tried it first in 1948, and I've been back to Ireland three times since. I even talked to De Valera and people in the government. But they've sorta lost contact with little people. On this last trip, I finally got to Brian, king of the leprechauns. He found out my people were from Ireland, so he agreed to talk to me.

WILL EMIGRATE

Q. And he actually agreed to bring his group here?

A. Yes, they'll be arriving on the 18th or 19th of next month. By pooka.

Q. Oh, you mean that king-size rabbit, like Harvey?

A. (annoyed) No, no, a pooka can be anything — Horse, rabbit, whatever.

Q. Where will the leprechauns be staying?

A. I'm not at liberty to divulge that. The only reason King Brian would come was because I promised him the leprechauns would not be bothered. They don"t like that. They'll only work in the picture. (To his publicity man.) And I don't want you having any press conferences or cocktail parties with starlets and that sort of thing. Leprechauns aren't interested in sex. That's why they live so long.

LIKE WHISKY

Q. What are they interested in?

A. Whisky, dancing and horse racing.

Q. Just how old are they?

A. About 5,000 years. They used to be in heaven, you see, but they refused to take sides in the battle of good vs. evil. So they were banished to earth. They looked down and saw the greenest part was Ireland, so they settled there. They don't age, the way we do. They pick the best possible age and stay there. About 56. (Note: Disney is 56.)

Q. How big are these leprechauns?

A. Some get as large as 24 or 25 inches. But most of them are the same size as King Brain—21 inches.

Q. How did they get so small?

A. That's not the question. It's: How did we get so big?

I suppose Hollywood has seen stranger things than leprechauns. Let 'em come!

AWAY THEY GO!

The McFarlands entrained for South Porcupine this afternoon, brimming confidence but no cockiness over their chances to take the all-Ontario senior "A" semi-finals in three straight victories. While they swept past the plucky Porkies, Northern Ontario champions, in straight victories in the first two games of the best-of-five series at home, they are not selling the northern puck-chasers short in their own backyard.

However, the general consensus is they will take the series and if high spirits and confidence are any criterions they should take the third game in the "South End" arena tomorrow night. If necessary, they will battle the series out Friday and Saturday nights.

The Macs are "up" for tomorrow night's game. They left Toronto this evening at six o'clock and will arrive in Timmins tomorrow morning at nine o'clock. Then a full day's rest and they should be ready and rarin' to go for the important third tussle. They will play in the South Porcupine arena, some five miles outside of Timmins. It is reported the Porkies' management has arranged a tour of a gold mine for the Macs.

It was not known at this writing if Joe Lepine would make the trip. Joe injured stomach tendons in the first game and was unable to play last night. The big defenceman has been a tower of strength to the Macs in the playoffs and playdowns and he will be missed by the blueline corps. Otherwise the team is in good shape physically.

ATTENTION BOOSTERS

Don't forget the club meeting in the city hall council chambers tomorrow night at 7.30. President Dick Beare and the executive have important matters on the agenda and would like to see as many members as possible at the meeting. Be there, eh?

HOLMES WAS NEVER LIKE THIS!

Back Madoc way the hockey fever has subsided for the nonce, the Blues warriors are resting on their laurels and licking their battle wounds, Ken Holmes is selling insurance again—and all's right with the world.

But it is only temporary. The hockey bug is just taking time out for a fresh start. By the time the boys get their income tax returns filed, the fishing tackle overhauled and the seed catalogues back in the mothballs, the puck fever will break out afresh.

The Blues are the 1957-58 OHA intermediate "C" group champions down thisaway. Call it the Hastings-Northumberland League if you will, but at the moment they are catching up on their calories, recharging their batteries and readying for the tough playdowns trail.

They've got the nice new, shining Rutherford Trophy standing proudly on a mantel with the name of the Blues the first to be engraved on its plaques. They are justifiably proud of it for they won it the hard way with a club rated the best to wear Madoc colors for many a moon.

The Blues will need their well-earned respite for they face the winners of the Huntsville-Minden series now in the throes of trying to declare a winner. Either of these clubs will be tough nuts to crack and the Blues will need all their ability to get by this threat to their aspirations for the OHA intermediate "C" championship.

And "Connie" Holmes will need all that strategy he used once to capture the Cornwall Training Centre singlehanded after it had been invaded by a group of souped-up army adjutants. The names are withheld to protect the innocent.

The Blues are worthy group champions. They battled hard for the honors and were pushed to the wire by a gallant team of Marmora Millionaires, who went down with all colors flying. The Millionaires were a credit to the league, their village and themselves.

SOCCER

John Bennett says the Belleville Northern Football Club is holding its annual meeting in the YMCA here Friday night, starting at eight. All interested are invited to attend.

Speaking of John, his daughter Barbara, nurse-in-training at Kingston General Hospital and a sister of Anne, one of our favorite nurses while a paying guest down there two years ago, recently won the Honeysett Trophy, emblematic of the best player in the Kingston Ladies' Basketball League.

By JERRY LISKA

SUGAR RAY

Basilio, making his first defence since he dethroned Robinson in New York last Sept. 23, was a gargoyle - like fighting gnome peering out of one eye for the last 10 rounds of the bitter scrap.

Robinson, who now has recaptured the 160-pound crown four times, tried desperately to knock out his courageous little foe, but although he jolted him time after time he never floored him.

Summoning tremendous courage, Basilio even stunned Sugar Ray several times.

Both judges voted for Robinson under the five point must system by decisive margins. But referee Frank Sikora called it for Basilio 69-66.

REVERSES PREVIOUS

In the New York bout, the referee voted for Robinson and the two judges called it for Basilio. Tuesday night judge John Bray went for Robinson, 71-64 and Judge Frank McAdams gave it to Sugar Ray, 72-64.

The turning point came late in the fifth round when Robinson scored a jolting left to the jaw and then crashed a right high to the head which started closing Basilio's left eye.

By the time the sixth round started, there was scarcely a slit in the champion's puffed left eye. It seemed it would be only a short time before Robinson would blast his handicapped opponent to the canvas.

But Basilio fought savagely in round after round. Robinson was content to jab at long range through the seventh and eighth. Then in the ninth, Basilio fought with renewed fury and Sugar Ray seemed to tire.

MOST EXCITING

Basilio hurt Robinson with a left to the jaw and a moment later with a whistling right to the head. But Robinson wound up the 10th with a vicious combination that stunned the champion.

In the 11th, both fighters cut loose with punishing blows. But each time one was hurt, he fought back with fury.

In both the 12th and 13th rounds the champion — fighting purely from instinct—and the stalking challenger flayed away with jarring punches.

In the 14th, Robinson staggered Basilio twice and the crowd, sensing the kill, screamed for a knockout. But the round ended with Basilio bobbing and weaving low as Robinson swished at him with punches that failed to hit their mark.

FIND IT TOUGH

The fight was tough in both cases.

Robinson was exhausted at the end of the 15 rounds in taking a split decision. He was so limp he barred the press from his Chicago Stadium dressing room and held a news conference two hours later in his hotel suite after regaining composure and breath.

Age (he will be 38 in May) nearly caught up with him. But this was something 30-year-old Basilio, a 2-1 favorite, couldn't do.

The fight actually was between a good welterweight and a good middleweight. Basilio came in at 153 pounds. Robinson weighed 159¾.

But the Harlem Dandy couldn't put his courageous little opponent away. The steam of a former day was gone, and Basilio's raw tenacity made it all the tougher.

The ingredients are present for another rematch, which the International Boxing Club hopes to stage in June in New York, Robinson willing.

ALL READY

All the fanfare is there for a promotion. Basilio lifted the 160-pound title from the Sugarman in New York last September on a split decision. This time it was in reverse, the referee again being in the middle.

Undoubtedly, Basilio would have been much more effective if the curtain had not dropped over his left eye. There were no knockdowns but both fighters landed enough blows to rock each other occasionally.

The fight was a financial success although it fell far short of the IBC goal of breaking the indoor record gate of $422,918 set in Chicago Stadium 11 years ago for the Tony Zale-Rocky Graziano scrap.

Paid attendance was announced as 17,976 but there appeared to be a standing - room gathering that would top 20,000. Gate receipts were $351,955 with a net of $278,108.

In 150 fights, Robinson has lost only six times. Basilio now stands at 13 defeats in 72 bouts.

Priest Scores Two Goals in Habs Victory

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — The Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens defeated a Kirkland Lake Legion team 11-9 Tuesday night in a free-scoring exhibition hockey contest that saw a 27-year-old Roman Catholic priest score twice for the losers.

Rev. Les Costello, onetime Toronto Maple Leafs player, shared the Kirkland Lake scoring lead with Bob Tilley and Bill Kawalla, who each got a pair.

Ralph Backstrom and John Longarini led Ottawa with two goals apiece. Chuck Hamilton, Gilles Tremblay, Johnny Annable, Claude Richard, Billy Carter, Wayne Connolly and Don Gray got singles.

Lennie Speck, Pat Charbonnau and Bob Power also scored for the Legionnaires, made up of juvenile players, two Senior A performers and four players from Abitibi Eskimos of the Porcupine Mines Senior League.

Canadiens Rout Wings 8-1, Blueshirts Whip Bruins 5-3 In Stanley Cup Semi-Finals

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Rookie Phil Goyette surprised even himself with a three-goal performance as he joined Montreal Canadiens' big guns Tuesday night in an 8-1 rout of Detroit Red Wings in the opening game of their Stanley Cup semi-final.

Canadiens, National Hockey League champs, got the jump on Wings in the best-of-seven series with a spectacular five-goal production in the first period, led by the veteran Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

Before the game was five minutes old, the 36-year-old Rocket, idol of Montreal fans, had exploded for two goals.

Jean Beliveau, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Dickie Moore—all big names in Montreal's scoring power over the last few seasons—had a hand in one of the worst drubbings suffered by a team in the annual post-season competition.

The teams meet here again Thursday night.

POWER PLAY

The Red Wings' lone goal came on a power play in the second period, Johnny Wilson letting go a 40-footer that was screened all the way and plopped into the net behind startled goalie Jacques Plante.

It just wasn't the Red Wings' night. They tried hard enough, but after the Rocket had sent the crowd of 13,908 into ecstasties with his two goals the Detroiters were on the way out.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers, off to a fast start in their semi-final Stanley Cup set against Boston, will have to get along without captain Red Sullivan for the remainder of their best-of-seven series with the Bruins.

The second - place Rangers whipped Boston 5-3 Tuesday night before a capacity crowd of 15,925 in Madison Square Garden. But their enthusiasm was tempered by the triple fracture of the jaw suffered by Sullivan.

Sullivan, who fell heavily when he was checked by Bruins' Vic Stasiuk midway in the first period, was resting in a hospital today. His jaw was to be wired by a dental surgeon. There is a possibility he will return for the final National Hockey League playoff if New York eliminates Bruins.

Veteran Dave Creighton was the Rangers' big gun. He scored twice and assisted on one of three first-period goals that enabled to second-place Blueshirts to come from behind.

Fleming Mackell and Jerry Toppazzini gave Boston a lead in the opening minutes only to have New York tie the score on goals by Larry Popein and Andy Hebenton.

Camille Henry's marker, on which he was assisted by Creighton and Hebenton, with less than two minutes left in the first period, put the Rangers in front to stay. Bronco Horvath, a former Ranger, scored Boston's other goal.

McFarlands Head For South Porcupine Seeking 3rd Straight Victory

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The McFarlands boarded a CNR train this afternoon for South Porcupine confident they can sweep the all-Ontario semi-finals in three straight victories over the plucky Porkies from the northern town.

Last night they unloosed their heavy artillery in an easy 9-2 second-game triumph, exploding five and three-goal barrages in the second and third periods, after being held to a first-period one-all stalemate.

They fired 44 pucks at Frank Kobe in the Porkies' nets, who played a brilliant game despite the fact nine of them whistled past him. Gordie Bell, at the other end, was the target for 23 shots.

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand and his linemates, Wiener Brown and Barton Bradley, again led the McFarlands' scoring parade, the trio collecting 14 of the Macs 23 points. Ike hit the rigging three times with one assist; Wiener had a goal and five helpers, while Bradley contributed a goal and three assists.

JONES GETS PAIR

Davy Jones, playing his first game of the series, scored twice with Minnie Menard and Moe Benoit getting the others. Marineau had two assists, Muretich, Guidolin and Benoit one each.

DAVY JONES
Raised Deuce

The Macs were minus the services of Joe Lepine who was sidelined with strained stomach tendons while the Porkies played without their star defenceman Donovan who fractured a thumb in the first game. Kobe played with a swollen right hand.

Mac Chevrefils, who formerly played with the Kingston junior "B" club scored both the Porkies goals with McKay getting two assists and Hunter one. McGinn played a sterling game on the Porkies defence.

Referees Jack Shropshire and Larry Lewin handed out eight minor penalties, seven of them to the McFarlands. The Macs scored one of their counters with a man short.

MINNIE MENARD
Flying Wing

McGinn and Marineau went off within a minute of each other and eighteen seconds later the Porkies scored their first goal on Belleville ice. Mac Chevrefils broke into the clear from left wing on a pass from McKay and beat Bell cleanly with a hard backhand drive.

Eleven seconds later Montgomery went off and Payette, Botley and Benoit held the fort until Marineau came back. The Macs threw back the Porkies until the sinners came back and then took over. They had by far the margin of play outshooting the Porkies 15-7 with Frank Kobe again coming up with another brilliant effort in the Porcupine net.

The Macs again dominated the play in the second period outshooting the Porkies 16-6 and breaking out in the five-goal rash.

Minnie Menard, playing a brilliant game, started the parade at 33 seconds with Benoit and Guidolin. Then Benoit was heaved with no damage done and the Porkies turned on the offensive, Mac Chevrefils scoring his second goal of the game with Hunter and McKay.

Frank Kobe rose to some sort of heights kicking out the McFarlands bid for markers until 16.07 when Hildebrand's shot hit his pads, dropped to the ice and trickled over the line. Menard swept through the Porkies team but Kobe smothered the puck as the winger drove in.

Hildebrand started the late-period three-goal eruption at 18.56, sweeping in Bradley's pass. Twenty-six seconds later Bradley shook his checks and raced in to beat Kobe with Wiener assisting. And eleven seconds later Benoit fired the fifth Macs goal of the period with Wiener Brown drawing his fourth assist.

The Macs hit for three goals in as many minutes starting the third period, Hildebrand scoring from Wiener Brown's pass while Guidolin was sitting out a sentence. Brown stole the puck from a Porkies defenceman at their blueline raced in and slipped the puck to the coach.

Two minutes later Davy Jones ripped down the left wing boards and his high shot from a difficult angle beat Kobe for the second goal of the frame. Thirty nine seconds later Davy fired his second marker to give the Macs a 9-2 lead with Marineau and Johnny Muretich assisting.

The Porkies put up a plucky battle in an effort to cut the margin but they failed to get the puck past Bell even with the Macs a man short on two occasions. With seconds to go Brown put the puck in the net but the referees ruled he kicked it in and disallowed the marker.

The Macs meet the Porkies in South Porcupine tomorrow night in the third game of the series, with the other games slated for Friday and Saturday nights if necessary. Slightly over 2,000 fans saw last night's game.

Manchester U Meets Arsenal In Semi-Final

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Less than three months ago, Matt Busby's talent-packed Manchester United lineup defeated Arsenal 5-4 at Highbury in one of the most thrilling matches of the current soccer season.

The red-shirted United side returns to Arsenal Stadium in North London today with considerably more at stake, and with most of its starting roster tragically absent.

The occasion is the replay of last Saturday's football Association Cup semi-final against Fulham, in which the South London club fought the Football League defending champions to a 2-2 draw on neutral ground in Birmingham.

FORMIDABLE ARRAY

Apart from Johnny Haynes, their talented inside right who is a regular starter for England, few members of the second division London club would have been in a class to match the formidable array with which Busby opened the current season.

But eight United players lost their lives as a result of the Munich plan crash Feb. 6, five days after the Arsenal match. Six other players, and Busby himself, have not yet recovered from their injuries.

The patchwork United side—three plane survivors, two newly acquired veterans and six juniors was barely able to cope with Fulham's promotion-minded second division side at Birmingham. This time they are 205 miles from home while their opponents have a short trip on the underground.

Hart, Tombstone Fight Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Welterweights Garnett (Sugar) Hart and Charley (Tombstone) Smith clash tonight for a chance at moving higher into the division rankings and nearer to a title bout.

The two figure to put on a good show for those at ringside in the arena and for the national television audience (ABC, 10 p.m. EST) in their scheduled 10-rounder.

Smith, 24-year-old Los Angeles resident, is an aggressive fighter given to punching in bursts. Hart, 22, of Philadelphia, is a standup fighter who likes to counterpunch. Both have power.

The National Boxing Association ranks Hart seventh among the welterweight contenders while Ring magazine places him 10th. Smith is ranked eighth by the NBA and fourth by Ring.

Boyer Switches From Joker Into Top Ace of Cards' Deck

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals is almost 27 years old and is in his fourth season in the majors. But he's a full-fledged "pheenom" this spring.

He's also the fellow who could propel the Cards to the pennant. He had a bad year in 1957 (.265), and considering the fact the Redbirds finished eight games behind Milwaukee Braves, Boyer's batting average certainly could take some of the blame.

But it's a new year and a new Boyer has emerged. For one thing, he is a full-time centre fielder. Up to now he has spent most of his time at third base.

Boyer had one hit in three tries against Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday, but it went for naught. The Dodgers won 8-0, but it was close until the ninth when they scored six runs off Bob Kuzava. Charlie Neal hit a home run in the outburst.

There were a couple of sharp pitching performances and some long distance clouting in the other games.

At Tampa, Bob Purkey went all the way doling out only five hits as Cincinnati Redlegs defeated Washington Senators 3-1. Dave Sisler ran his hitless pitching streak to nine innings while Boston Red Sox edged the Braves 4-3 Philadelphia Phillies stopped New York Yankees 5-4 at Clearwater.

Brooks Robinson hit two home runs to lead Baltimore Orioles to an 8-5 triumph over Cleveland Indians at Tucson; big Dale Long blasted three homers in the Chicago Cubs' 15-4 slaughter of San Francisco Giants at Phoenix and Kansas City As licked Detroit Tigers 8-6 at Lakeland, with each team clubbing three homers.

Two of Long's blasts came off the Giants' ace lefthander, Johnny Antonelli, and the other off Pete Burnside, each with a man on base. As if that weren't enough, Chuck Tanner, Ernie Banks and John Goryl also homered. It was Banks' ninth of the spring.

HOAD EVENS SERIES

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lew Hoad matched Pancho Gonzales service for service Tuesday night in a pro tennis tour appearance here, beating Gonzales 10-8, 2-6, 6-3. The victory evened the 100-match tour at 22 matches each.

Robinson Plays Champion Role To the Hilt

CHICAGO (AP) — Fabulous Sugar Ray Robinson played the role of a six-time champion to the hilt Tuesday night by barring reporters from his dressing room and holding a press conference hours later in his hotel suite.

"He's just too tired to talk now," said manager George Gainford right after Robinson had bettered Carmen Basilio for 15 round to regain the middleweight title of the world for the fourth time.

Sugar Ray, the one-time welterweight champion and five-time winner of the middleweight crown, was whisked to his hotel room. Lying in bed, the weary champion answered questions softly and briefly.

"It was one of my toughest fights," said Robinson. "I'm tired, very tired. I haven't made up my mind what I'm going to do."

Robinson said Basilio "hurt me several times," but he said he was "very surprised" when he learned referee Frank Siora had scored Basilio the winner.

Basilio, his left eye closed, swollen and discolored talked about a return bout with the man whom he dethroned in 15 rounds in New York last Sept. 23.

Carmen said his vision was impaired from the fourth round on and kept him off balance. By the sixth round the eye was shut completely.

"I couldn't get my distance right," said Basilio. "If you can't get distance, you find yourself off balance."

While Basilio and his handlers talked freely of a possible third fight, there was no indication from the Robinson camp that there would be another one.

Gerry James Signs Contract With Leafs

TORONTO (CP) — Gerry James signed a 1958-59 contract with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League Tuesday, ending months of uncertainty over whether he would continue playing hockey.

James, star fullback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, will report to the Leafs after the conclusion of this year's football season. The right winger joined the hockey club on that basis last fall.

Acting manager Stafford Smythe also announced the signing of centre Brian Cullen for next season.

Woman Ordered By Court to Sell 27 Dogs

HARTLEY, England (Reuters) A woman ordered by a court to sell her 27 dogs plans to petition Queen Elizabeth because the dogs have royal relations.

Miss Ida Somerton Bellerby said: "I shall fight to get my darlings back. I shall petition the Queen, for after all they are related to her dog."

The "darlings" are rare Rhodesian ridgebacks.

Magistrates fined Miss Ballerby £2 Monday for causing unnecessary suffering to the dogs. They also banned her from keeping dogs for 25 years and ordered their sale.

She said "It is ridiculous to suggest I don't know how to look after dogs. I have won prizes at Crufts (England's major dog show) for my dogs."

Miss Bellerby recalled that when she brought her first ridgeback Lady of Emasne from Kenya, the Queen agreed to the bitch being mated with her champion ridgeback, Just of Bamba.

The litter was the foundation of Miss Bellerby's kennels.

She lamented: "There are only 100 ridgebacks in Britain and I own 27 of them. Now these beautiful creatures are going to be sold to people who may know nothing about pedigrees."

FASHIONS ARE A-BLOOM FOR SPRING!

. . . Spring! . . . bringing with it a promise fulfilled . . .
a flowering forth of new ideas for you, your family and home . . . expressing excitement and pleasure that's younger and gayer than springtime itself!

Belleville stores are brimming over with the smartest new styles and merchandise for Easter and Spring — stores have gone all out to present the finest array ever . . . Be sure to shop in Belleville . . . that ultra smart Easter outfit is waiting for you at one of the Belleville stores.

"IT'S WORTH YOUR WHILE TO SHOP IN BELLEVILLE"

Upholstered Furniture Is Pointed Up by Color And Novelty Fabrics

Larger fabric patterns and new ways of using them give many chairs and sofas a new look this year. One trend is to contrast plain and patterned upholstery on a single piece of furniture. Another departure: unusual pillow shapes.

Plain and patterned upholstery are used together — in one trend. A combination of different textures but in the same color — is another trend.

Bold stripes, abstract patterns are executed in combinations, or are achieved by textural interest — and grace more-modern stylings.

Spun and filament nylons, nylon-acetate and the more classic yarns weave these exciting fabric trends.

Graceful, curvilinear patterns — some on a small-scale, others boldly - delineated are seen everywhere.

More and more sofas and chairs are appearing with loose pillow backs — giving a new dimension to upholstered pieces.

Color-fastness, resistance to dirt, easy-cleaning are all pointed up in new coverings, thanks to the greater use of miracle fibres — or in blends with the traditional wool, cotton, linen, rayon and silk that make up the coverings.

From "soft" to "shocking" is the range of the palette—clear, medium blue and cranberry often appear on flat-surfaced fabrics while apricot and gray show up on textured or pile types.

Other dramatic and new-for-spring color combinations are greens with blue . . . rust with beige . . . tawny orange and deep blue! Colors that lead as accents or dominant tone are periwinkle blue, true greens and blue-red!

'Cool, Ma'm, Cool' Is Word For Spring's 'Hot' Colors

Off-beat combinations — use orange to combine with pink, with lime, with greys and blues — with a gay indiscretion that is unusually, smartly most appealing.

Orange and white — cool as a frappe —will lead in casuals and sportswear themes.

Vivid reds, brilliant blues, warm sunny yellows and a thermal purple are a gay kaleidoscope of the summer colors

Greens too, from the pale tints of lime to the terreverte tones, will be seen in a gay viridescence this new season.

Chanel's touch is seen in color, too, with blue, following her nautical theme, a prominate color in navy or flag blue.

Yes, spring fashions "have many pleasant colors and lustres to recommend them" — and bespeak a prismatic elegance to the fashion scene.

COCOON SILHOUETTE: pretty coming, pretty going, is this youthful coat loomed in worsted and silk with the squarest of patch pockets, showy pearl buttons and an inverted back-pleat for flare.

Use Jewelry With Strategy

Use strategy with your placement to make jewellery the most stunning part of your ensemble.

Wear a scalloped-shape, dainty rhinestone necklace at the base of the throat. You'll discover many in this new shape.

If the neckline of your new cocktail dress is high in front, dipping in back, place a "jewel" at the end of the V for exciting "back interest!"

Since a great many new pieces of costume jewellery are light and airy, put one or two in your coiffure to catch a curl.

For dressy occasions, be a vamp! The look of the gay 20's is so popular now; wear the longest most dangling earrings you can find! Make them a focal point of allure for your face!

This season the fashion-wise woman will place her jewellery with imagination!

There's Cool Comfort in Men's Garb as Fabrics And Colors Are Lighter

Lighter - than - ever with greater - than - ever comfort — this is the story of male apparel for the longer days and balmier breezes of spring and summer.

The fibre and fabric scientists, working with combinations of natural and test-tube fibres, have created modern tropical-weight fabrics only a third of the weight of some of those just a few years back, without sacrificing wearing quality, durability or good looks.

Thanks to the designers, there's more than practical hot-weather comfort built into this season's clothes! For males of all ages, there's also new trimness and neatness of appearance.

SUITS ARE SLIMMED

In suits, lines are slimmer, and this is especially evident in trousers. The dominant suit coat style is the three-button single-breasted type — some in Ivy League models but chiefly on modified versions of this one-time campus exclusive.

Look for shades of gray, tan, blue-grey — this last one really on the rise now — to lead the spring-summer color parade, with navy blue continuing to come on strong in its comeback.

There's news in topcoats, too. They're shorter, by an inch and sometimes more, to give the appearance of added height and more freedom to today's man of action. They're also lighter in weight and tailored for comfort.

An interesting new style of topcoat — virtually a cross between the popular "car" coats and more conventional tweedy types — will likely be seen in increasing numbers.

SILKS GO WITH TWEEDS

Silk, showing continuing popularity in warm-weather suits, is also being used in topcoats in blends with tweeds.

NEW SPORTSWEAR THEMES

Partisans of bold sportswear and those who favor more conservative outfits will each find the right styles to suit every leisure activity . . . : informal, relaxed and the most comfortable ever.

Sportswear takes to lightweight knitted apparel — both in sweaters and shirts. Cardigan and pullover styles are available in lightweight yarns and can be worn casually, comfortably and handsomely now, and practically all summer long.

NEAT LOOK SHIRTS

Nearly all shirts now boast collars that are firm and neat' Most new shirts have button-down collars, or stays —tabs or pin fasteners are revivals that are becoming particularly popular.

HATS TRAVEL EASY

Low crowns and narrow brims are the substance of the hat story, except for one important feature — the traveling man can now take with him an extra hat that can be rolled up neatly and packed in a suitcase, and— out again ready for wear. These hats are newly, smartly light in weight!

WASHABILITY KEYNOTED

The popularity of wash-wear garments continues on! Some new wash-wear suits emerge from the washer-dryer ready to wear — no ironing needed. This is also true of many sportswear items — jackets, ties and even hats.

So, it's "Dress Right Time" for men and boys this spring and summer, thanks to the practical comfort and neat good looks of the new season's clothes.

'A Hint of a Tint' Flatters Spring Hosiery Collections

Another aspect of this new feeling for color is found in the combination of colors in prints, in jewelry, and in shoes.

NEW HOSIERY HUES

Color in hosiery for spring continues with the dark tones, the off-blacks and blacks, browns and navy stocking shades. It includes red tones, from bright pink to palest rose, blue, and green, generally grayed or olive in character, but occasionally brightened to a true spring green shade.

Yellow to orange citrus tones are considerd most promotional for early spring, are represented in stockings to blend or accent these colors.

The feeling given by these colors is that they are definite colors, but at the same time, extremely wearbable colors.

BLEND, MATCH CONTRAST

The three best ways to wear hosiery color for spring — to blend, to match or to contrast—give colored hosiery additional fashion value for the new season.

COLOR CUES IN HOISERY

Some of the hosiery tints for spring include — silvery blues to wear with grey—soft orange to wear with all the beiges and tan tones — rosy pinks for the spring "reds" — bronze to blend with all the browns, nut tones and orange hues—neutral grey, taupe, rose-beige and beige for wear with black, navy, the banker greys and the more brilliant blues.

COLOR — HEM TO TOE

The fashion rightness of a blend of color from hemline to shoe has been established. This spring is the season to carry the look of color even farther, to add to the possibilities for new fashion adventure with stocking tints.

Patent Pending for Spring — yes, patent leather shoes are shining complements to this season's fashions. Here, crushed gun-metal patent wears slim, pointed toes with cut-steel buckles . . . mid heel height for day and evening.

NEWS FOR TOTS TO TEENS!

Young World Of Fashion Is Copy Cat Version of All Important Style Notes

News for the six through sub-teen age group this spring focuses on the chemise — as it does for the older groups, too. However, the chemise line is modified progressively and proportionately down through each group.

Because of its definite and popular styling with the more mature, the chemise is a favorite of the younger set who want to look like mom or sister.

FOR YOUNGEST "SOPHISTICATES"

Lines for the youngest ladies begin with the chemise, but are softened by flat pleats that provide "romping room." Other times, this style is eased with a slightly flared skirt.

NEW, NAUTICAL NOTES

Chanel's nautical theme is almost as strong as it was last season, with the grade school set. Washable white sharkskin is most important here. A blazer jacket with brass buttons may become a "can't do without"! Middies come forward in gay, new guises.

"MAJORS" FOR MINORS

Suits, before a minor part of the fashion picture for minors, will be highly suitable for them this year. The eased lines of the classics, produce a freshness and youthfulness that is really new! Boxy jackets in a longer length with the belt dropped to the bottom are good lines for young figures.

Coats start flaring several inches above the waist and are more colorful this year. The most important raincoat, for examole, is bright red with brass buttons. The bright duster, to team with exciting prints, remain as a style leader. Fabrics are softer, lighter and many are spot-resistant.

COLOR CUES FOR YOUNG FRY

"Orange Ice" leads the ice cream colors in all lines. Red, white and blue combine in the nautical lines — or each stands alone, with white running first as favorite.

Prints of every description, usually big, are prevalent in all fashion lines.

SUNWEAR IS FUNWEAR

Delightfully-different sports clothes win their place in the sun. "Duffle bag" is the name of an outsize jacket or sweater that is tight at the hips. A one-piece shorts outfit with tight legs in a "beach bag". The detachable sash lets you tie it where you want. Below the waist, loosely, is the newest way. Boldly-patterned sun dresses appear again, too.

Fabrics that love soap and water, hate ironing boards — are being used in every item, coats included!

Hats take shape from adult millinery, fashioned mostly in white. Six of the outstanding styles are the disk, bowler, cloche, beret, maid's cap and "Caribbean".

The teen will be on the scene this spring with fashion freshness that's so exciting — since the starring role is an understudy straight from the adult fashion page.

The chemise — Big News — is designed to present a smooth flowing line from shoulder to hem and is exactly right over the teen's slim, less curvaceous figure.

The chemise, and its variations, some following it only in being slightly eased — are appearing in coats, suits and play togs as well as dresses. The half belt and drawstring are strong among these chemise versions.

GENTLE COATS FOR TEENS

Semi-fitted coats, dominating the collections, go a step farther with ease — as softer fabrics win out over the heavier tweeds of last season.

Colors will range from gray to brilliant orange . . . but if not pastel in hue, the names carry a hint of the gentle. "Lemon fluff" and "apricot sherbet" will appear alone or as exciting touches with gray.

SOFT SUITS ARE FAVORED

Eased to the hip, marked at the bottom with belts and bows is the trend in suit jackets this season. Most skirts are slim, but pleats, carried over from Chanel's influence of last year, remain.

Suits and suit dresses will be widely shown and widely sought after. The classics will stay, especially in the dressier lines.

"PLIABLE" PLAY TOGS

This summer, sun wear will be more fun-wear with more fashion flair! Design eases here, too — and is less conservative with lines. Styles are so new, so different — they must be seen to be appreciated. Shorts, for instance, appear disguised as short skirts. Stripes go largely in every direction with two color themes dominating.

COLOR NEWS IS BRIGHT

White gains status as a color alone or with the shades of nautical red and blue. Surprise combination is yellow, orange and deep pink.

White's popularity is largely due to the development of washable sharkskin — which introduces new uses for this marvelous fabric.

Wool has been given spot-resistant as well as washable properties — and its use ranges from casuals to coats. Genuinely no-iron fabrics are with us, too.

"Watery" prints in vivid colors steal the limelight in the after-five show. Co-starring are nylon with the new look of organdy, pure silk prints and silk organdies, Dracon and cotton, and watery nylon chiffon print in shades of deep blue.

BLACK OR WHITE, AFOOT THE LOOK IS BRIGHT!

TWO-TONE LOOK IN SHOES — The long, lean and lithe silhouette of shoes is shown in stark white calf with an underlay of dark calf that highlights the lacy perforation motif . . . so smart for spring and into summer!

COMPLIMENTARY NOTES IN LEATHER

COMPLEMENTING THE CHEMISE LOOK is the big, bold bag that adds a note of drama to slim, narrow lines. Shown here, a big bag in grained leather. Shorty gloves of butter-smooth leather takes on detailings of scallops and stitching. Handsome accessories for any gal's handbag are printed-leather purse extras such as cigaret case and French purse also shown.

Dramatic Coats Nominated For Top Fashion Honors

Unlike many of the seasons past, this one looks like a good coat year — for there's a good look to the coats of the new season.

News in coats is not only focused on the many easy-fitting silhouettes but on unusual and exciting fabrics; new feeling in textures; bold moods in color and individualized trims and detailing.

MORE NEWS IN NECKLINES

Fashion interest begins at the top of the new coats . . . especially in necklines! Some set back and are low in front; others have button-down, cowl collar effects, others are expressed in standaway detailing.

Wide, low-laying revers dress some coat styles, while fringed ends lend drama to draped cowls; there are flat crescent mandarin necklines — and other face flattering styles.

BEHIND YOUR BACK

Back interest is paramount and is expressed in a myriad of dramatic ways.

Bloused-back coats are full and flattering . . . draped details frequently start just below the collar to continue on to sleek slimness . . . bloused backs that dip low are flattered by a dipping band or bow detail.

High belts, pleated backs and low, curved inset bands that have released pleats, gathers or drapes worked from it are all important.

BELTS! BELTS! BELTS

Low and loose belts of self-fabric, newly slip thorugh low-placed openings in the coat to achieve the "Norfolk" look, or are placed low and loose on double-breasted styles. Belts stand high above the waist above pleating; somtimes the belt is only at the back, or wrapped at the lowest part of the waistline to give a bloused-top look.

SLEEVES LOOK DIFFERENT

Armholes are deep, although sleeves have a slimmer look generally — or, dolmans give emphasis to the cocoon wrap — sleeves end just above wrist . . . or, just below the elbow or may be cuffed back to above the elbow . . . (wonderful show-off possibilities for the many longer, lavish glove styles).

EXCITING FABRIC LOOK

Soft-looking, luxurious and lightweight are the keynotes of coat fabrics: most-misty mohair novelties . . . lacy-looking tweeds . . . airy hopsacking and basket weaves; linens, silk, stripes and herringbones; gay checks in all sizes — and — subtle blends of silk and wool . . . linen, silk and worsted . . . linens and linen-look coatings — are fresh expressions for spring.

NEVER MORE CAREFUL

Particularly new are the greens — from soft, greyed-green to spring-hued emerald.

The most delectable offshoots of orange speak up in apricot, shrimp and tangerine tones. Amber and tortoise wear the palest orange tint too.

White is everywhere — whites are especially good in such coatings as cashmere, hopsacking and basketweaves. Ivory white, oyster tones and the truest, brightest white are all spring right!

Beiges too, take on golden overtones, and the ever-terrific trio of black, navy and grey wear new faces for the coming season.

POET DIES

DUBLIN (AP)—The death of Dr. James Sullivan Starkey, Irish poet and writer who used the pen name Seumas O'Sullivan, was announced today. He was 79. Starkey was founder and editor of the Dublin magazine.

Fashion Says It's Very Right To Team-Up Black 'n' White

In a season where dramatic accents of color blaze across the scene, quieter reflections, in black and white join to cast their patterns under the sun.

Black and white combinations long have had the "city look" in crisp cottons for day and date time wear. This year, there's smart punctuation of this black and white team, in day wear for the office, marketing, just relaxing, leisure time activities for getting into the swim . . . and for after - 5 wear.

In one-piece dresses, playsuits, coats, suits, swimsuits and a wide assortment of sun casuals and handsome ensembles, white on black patterns — or black on white — or black tops over white "bottoms," and vice versa — will lend quiet elegance to spring-into-summer wearables.

From early morning 'til the wee hours small hours of a festive night, these flattering color twosomes, point up the glow of tanned skins and go forth coolly on the hottest of days.

Gay Blade's Newsy Look

With a look that's borrowed from the turn of the century, the "gay young blade" steps into the fashion spotlight — complete with blazer jacket, white flannel pants and sennit straw, snap-brim hat.

Seaside or poolside — young, gay blades will plunge into the fun in knee-length swim pants . . . yes, we said "knee length."

In addition to knee-length styles, swimwear will go to the mid-calf; or be abbreviated or boxer-styled — and, all will be bright! Most all will have matching shirts, too.

And, don't forget the snap-brim sennit straw with white flannels, shirt and shoes — newly-topped by a red blazer piped in blue!

EASTER TIME is DRESS-UP TIME!
FASHIONS for all the YOUNGSTERS!

Gloves Go Hand-in-Hand With Color

The spring leather glove for 1958 will provide a blaze of color in tropical hue or in the fresh spectator look of red, white and blue tri-colors.

Softness and washability too, are stressed for spring.

Brilliant blues and tropical reds are the top "bright" shades.

Soft, subdued tints will express the beige tones in such neutrals as "bone", "flax", taupe, malacca, "blonde mocha" and "burned toast".

TO ALL LENGTHS

With such color variations, classic styles with button closing and elastic shirring in shortie fitted styles are offered, while flared cuff treatment is new looking in the more styled gloves.

Discreet touches of rows of pearl buttons, twin bows and embroidery provide detail interest with ceramic motifs and pearl jewel-set buttons for eye-catching appeal.

Longer lengths are classic, and range up to the 16-button length.

DELICATE DETAILING

Tiny bows and vents touch the simple styles in capeskin and kid which make up many spring lines. Pale watercolor pastels, a wide range of neutrals and hot bright oranges and green appear in shorties and up to 16-button lengths.

Classic styles come in fine suedes and doeskins, while the pigskin line is newly pale and interesting in off-whites, bone and willow shades.

More Elegance Graces Dinettes

Elegance is apparent in the use of materials rather than in any radical changes in design. Dinettes take on a golden look.

Brass is used for structure as well as for decorator accent. Plastic table tops and upholstery carry gold-flecked accents. "Gold" is used for trimmings in many ways.

Many new lines point-up a gold-with-white look; combining brass with white table tops and chair seats.

Wood dinettes continue to appear in all collections and are keynoted in Early American themes.

Tables are generally smaller —yet can be enlarged for more space by use of extra leafs, drop-leaf, or slide-out extensions.

There's Daring Plunge to New Styles in Bras

As necklines continue to plunge, fore-and-aft, in lateday fashions and in incoming summer wear, the foundations industry has come forth with the right bras for the barer decolletage designs.

The deep, wide cut of the marquise neckline, deep plunging fronts, and deep, deep cowl neckline treatments all call for radically-new bra stylings.

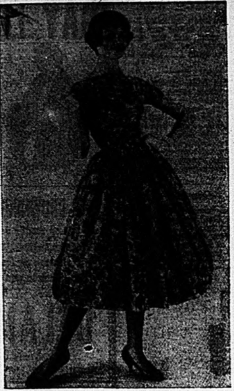
To underscore even the deepest "plunge" . . . special new design are featured: these swoop low in front and back, and have deep centre V's . . . usually wired for support.

Slit-back styles, low-plunging neckline backs and other decolletage extremes are suitably punctuated with special bra designs that are very low-cut, comfortable and "invisible" for the most daring, baring necklines.

Bloused Silhouette Vies for Top Honors

The bloused form of the more easily fitted silhouette looms larger this season, often as a palatable alternative to the chemise. The bloused back especially, or as in a number of afternoon crepe dresses the cowl-drape that approximates the bloused look, is very much in evidence: front is either straight or fitted.



NYLON CHIFFON — matchmated with printed Dacron goes coolly into warm weather in neat sophistication. High in front, the back swings into a low square neckline. The full skirt is in the new soft bell shape.

Leisure Shoes Step Gaily Into New-Season Spotlight

Cinderella's slippers couldn't have been gayer, more colorful or more frolicsome than the new leisure flats you'll wear from now through summer!

Designed to make feminine "gum-shoes" of us all, casual flats walk like a whisper on rubber soles and heels.

The slim, tapered soft look steals the scene in the wee-heeled, dressy leisure shoe. Narrower toes have definitely "in" on casual slippers.

Colors are more vivid and varied than ever, with red, in every shade from pink to cerise, far and away the leader. Proving that two are better than one, many shoes combine two shades of red or pink for unusually smart effects.

Stripped sandals, backless mules and thongs vie for leadership with low-shell T-straps, sandalized patterns and skimmers, in the sport shoe class.

Close runners-up for material honors are glossy patents, light-weight textured leathers, closely woven straws, and fabrics in bright shades.

Style leaders in town and country, the newest leisure flats let you float through warm-weather in cool, cool fashion!

SPLASHY PRINTS

Bold, splashy prints are part of the important color story for summer sportswear and casuals sometimes contrasted with stark white, as in patterned top with white shorts or skirt.

A FABULOUS SHOW OF FABRICS:

Exciting Color, Flowers and Textures Spark All, From Silks to Synthetics

Whenever a fashion season puts particular emphasis on fresh, brilliant color, the fabric artists, too, dip into their palettes to shape and drape the styles of the day.

Again this season, fabric is keyed to the fluid, easy lines of the season's relaxed silhouettes. Fabrics are the lightest ever, the breeziest, most elegant and flattering! Needless to say, they flaunt their color fancies with the gayest abandon.

SHARKSKIN FOR SUN DAYS

White sharkskin, a favorite fabric of the Thirties, staged its comeback last year and is assured star-billing for 1958! Crisp as before, sharkskin now particularly in pleated styles, holds its shape "tenaciously," thanks to the miracle fibres.

Sharkskin appears in smart suits . . . in blazer-topped skirt duos . . . in tennis outfits, play suits, sun suits and swim suits . . . in elegancies for after-five and in every conceivable fashion trend!

SILK SETS THE SCENE

The fabric that lends itself so perfectly to spring-and-summer's soft fashion feeling is silk. And, when rich silks abandon themselves to imaginative patterns, prints and color . . . it is fashion at its best.

Silk crepes, shantungs, taffeta, warp prints, dupoini, surah, silk linens slubbed silks and silk broadcloths are the "lightest of heavyweights in the silk family."

For the sheerest delights in silk, there are filmy organzas, chiffons, georgettes, mousseline and marquisette — all of them pointing-up the loveliest silk season of all!

COTTON BEAUTIFUL!

Cottons are polished as in steens; crisp as in broadcloth, pique, cotton cords and madras; supple as in chambray, combed cottons and knits; sheer delights in powder-puff muslin, organdy and batiste!

Cottons shape up playwear and at-ease wearables in crisp twills and duck; poplin, denim and like-linens; a sailcloth and cotton homespuns.

Specially-processed to resist shrinking and creasing — often so easily washable that you just dip and dry them, cottons continue to blend wisely, miraculouly with dacron, with rayon fibres, acetate or orlon.

CONTEMPORARY JERSIES

Jersey — in handsome cottons and the most elegant wool versions — looms importantly on the spring scene.

In suits and coats, in whispery-weights for dresses, and best of all — in the most vibrant colors, jersey is important in the spring picture.

Cotton jersey shapes-up handsome cardigan toppers, overblouses, T-type tops — in shorts, walkers and capri pants, other separates and a host of casuals.

SO-WEARABLE WOOLENS

The wonderful world of wool is fabulously-lightweight, colorful and dramatic in suits and coats for spring.

In coats there are the lightest of fleeces . . . tweeds of airy wools or blended with silks . . . homespuns, hopsacking, and basketweaves . . . the "yummiest" chasmeres, vicunas and camelshair, lots of sheer wools and other wonderful woolen novelties.

SOPHISTICATED SUITINGS

Speaking of fabrics and speaking of suits — here, silk link the two together. Whether used alone, or to blend with woolens, silk is the important textural note in suits.

Small checks, herringbones and plaid are spun into the suit story. Pure wool flannels, dacron-worsted blends, wool jersies and the sheerest of woolens come to the fore for spring suitings.

So — no matter what silhouette you may choose to be your very own this season, lovely fabric will weave its magic, enhanced by smartest-ever color!

Color Is Key To New S[illegible] Complexions

Born to be worn with a flair and flourish spring's bright new fashion-shades call for complete color coordination in accessories and makeup in order to achieve maximum, eye-catching glamour.

From the tip of your new season millinery to the stiletto-toes of your new slippers, your entire outfit, including filmy, tinted h[illegible]

Smart [illegible] call for a new coral [illegible] toned lipstick, while the newest blues go best with any one of the numerous pink tones that have a touch of purple added.

Accessories and fashions are "going-steady" this spring in a romance that calls for a carefully-matched look from the top of your head to the tip of your toes.

THE NEW AND NEAT LOOK IN MALE ATTIRE

COOL, COMFORTABLE AND EASY TO WEAR this summer is the light-weight tropical all-wool worsted suit. Suits pictured has a bluish-gray cast, and the slubbed effect of the all-wool fabric adds to the dressed-up look. Shoulder padding returns, along with pleated trousers, preferred by more mature men.

Necklines Are Dramatized With Scarfs

Spring and gay scarves always seem to go together in a mood of happy harmony.

This season too, there are many, many fresh colors and new design treatments to spark new silk squares and ascots.

Fruit prints, paisley and large florals are the fashion leaders in brilliant-hued silk squares.

Dots — from dainty to dramatic — come to the fore on white grounds or on color. Abstracts, spaced geometrics and stripes continue to hold their own in spring's newest hues of sea, and sand and surf.

Softest crepes, silk chiffons, crisp foulards and twill, and whisper-weight satins are the fabrics shaping the scarves of the season.

Oriental Moods

Adaptations from the Oriental themes or authentic items from the Far East, lend themselves to contemporary settings with complete harmony.

Their restrained, mellow lines rich finishes and classic design often help keynote the curves, lines and color that are integral to contemporary stylings.

Lads from under six to past sixteen wear a neat, trim "Beau Brummel" look in handsomely styled variations on men's wear themes for spring.

In spring-weight wool flannel suits, navy is favored for Sunday dress-up in the world of young men's fashions.

Styling continues in the "Ivy" vein. Stripes retain their importance in gray and white, gray and olive and gray and maroon combinations. Lads seem to take to olive.

Lightweight all-wool flannel blazers in fireman's red or navy spark summer sports apparel for growing boys . . . ideal dress-up notes for important occassions even during July and August.

Boys too, heartily endorse authentic all-wool shetland crew-neck sweaters. Gray, tan, light blue help keep them happy and well-groomed in warmer weather. Mothers prefer wool sweaters since they feel light yet give maximum warmth with minimum weight at the beach or in the country.

Include several sweaters into the camp trunk to keep lads healthy and comfortable when away from home.

Wool flannel slacks follow "Ivy" styling, with an unpleated front and back-strap with buckle and are still first choice with most boys.

Clothes make the man —even if he's just a "little fella!" Even the youngest menfolk like the jauntier, more-dressed-up look of male fashions.

He may be more interested in an ice-cream cone than in what's what in the major leagues, but he'll like the sheen that silk has added to his suit, 'cause it's so much like daddy's.

Junior will look elegant too in the lowcut, three-button sweater . . . in the Ivy look . . in striped shirts that top textured pants (short or long).

He'll look natty as can be in the Easter parade in coordinates that mix or match . . in blazer-type jackets with double-breasted buttoning in brass.

If he's young enough he will like the brother-sister matchmated outfits for fun-time and leisure wear.

Predicted for the Play Pen

Set: Brother and sister duets in diaper sets and play-clothes Sometimes only the color differs; sometimes the addition of ruffles denotes the feminine attire.

'Clash' Is Bold Fashion Note

Orange particularly, is a wonderful, fashion color for dramatic impact.

There's a real "smash" to orange in combination with reds and pinks — in vibrant opposition to bamboo, ivory and bone tones — or to offset the palest neutral — string."

More Color Animates Casual Wear

Color especially comes to the fore as news in men's casual wear and furnishings in themes that stress the "Caribbean" — particularly noteworthy are the hues of bright red, green, yellow, blue and white to be seen everywhere!

Featherweight wools, know no pattern-bounds with gay-colored paisley, native prints and plaids appearing in sports shirts as well as in jackets.

WHITE IS SO RIGHT

White is seen everywhere out front and as a background. For example, white wool flannel shorts go with a red knitted wool pull-over jacket, short-sleeved shirt; or, a white wool challis sports shirt is contrasted with black tropical wool-worsteds slacks or walk-shorts.

FASHIONS FOR "MER-MEN"

Swimwear ranges from all-wool briefs that barely reach the waist to the snug-fitting wool skin-diver's pants that extend below the knees to mid-calf. Wool trunks stay snug in the water and dry quickly. Swimmers feel best in them. White, again . . . blue, black, too.

That touch of white is the dominating theme in the new shrink-resistant all-wool socks, too. Why wool socks? They absorb perspiration, thus preventing many summer foot ailments. They also cushion the feet for active summer sports.

"COMPROMISING"

The "compromise silhouette," with fitted front and loose back shows up as a stronger seller in many cities and is considered one of the most wearable chemise-inspired fashions.

MASCULINE THEMES FOR SPRING

Straight, Slim and Restrained Look Gives Men's Suits a Light, Well-Groomed Ease

Navy returns in the spring line-up of medium - weight wool-worsted suits . . . solid navy and navy with white, black or other color stripes.

Charcoal gray with blue stripes comes in a hard-finished all-wool worsted fabric as well as brown suit tones. Overplaids, glen plaids, broken herringbones in a wide range of suit shades give pattern interest to a man's wool suit wardrobe.

Look for the "wigige weave" — a new texture. It's a raised surface pattern that emerges for the first time in men's spring and summer tropical all-wool suitings.

Spring '58 wool suits combine many looks. Outstanding is the "American" look emphasizing some shoulder padding and indentation in the cut of the suit jacket . . . for mature men. Trousers are trim and tapered; slim men perferring the plain front, while the more portly look best in the pleated front. Three-button suit jacket is most popular. However, here are two and four-button suits to satisfy the suit preferences of all men . . . . with the "Ivy" type for recent college graduates. Wool tailors to perfection, and therefore looks best. The new wool suitings are wrinkle-resistant, too, because of the natural springness of the wool fibre.

For summer . . . the coolest, lightest 8½ and 9 ounce wool suit weights should keep men comfortable when temperatures soar. Successful , businessmen prefer the wonderful tropical all-wool worsted business suits because of the ability of the wool fibre to hold its shape and retain that unmussed look throughout an active day. Navy forges ahead. Another commuter tone for summer is gray. The three-button jacket has a more cut-away front with flapped pockets and a narrower lapel. Minimum shoulder padding keeps men cool.

TOPCOATS

Classic lines spark lightweight wool topcoats. Style leader is the single-breasted a fly-front model, which can be worn for business or dress. More formal boulevard air for town is the set-in sleeve as compared to the more easy-going raglan-type sleeve for the suburbs. Topcoat lapels this season are modified in notched as well as in peaked models. Important . ... coats are shorter in length. Topcoats wardrobes interpret soft herringbones, smoother cheviots and coverts in softer muted tones.

FORMAL ATTIRE

Complete revolution in formal wear brings into the spotlight new lightweight tropical all-wool worsteds in light and dark to jet black shades. Tuxedos are comfort-cut, just like business suits, to insure enjoyment and compleet relaxation. Navy and black go into spring but taper off with warm weather, when white tropical wool-worsted dinner jackets with navy or black trousers take their place. Narrow shawl collars and the new angled shawl provide that "look of elegance" so essential to formal attire. Trousers have slim lines with the plain, unpleated front most popular.

A sportier, more rugged-looking wool tweed sports jacket belongs in a man's wardrobe plan for spring's cool days. And, for summer's warm days, a lighter-weight jacket— perhaps a breeze-cool wool challis is the ideal choice!

Soft shetland wool sports jackets fit, most comfortably, in spring. "Lovat" — that heather mixture of full blue or dull gray — leads.

Plaids, checks and herringbones in Scottish-looking wool tweeds are important and look "restrained". Tweeds in blue-green or gray, with lots of olive, harmonize handsomely with gray wool-flannel slacks. Stripes stay muted.

Look for white in summer sports coats in either solid, or black and white, brown and white or blue and white combinations — in stripes or plaids. White is new. It's new in fashion, new as a color.

If a man's loyal to the three-button, lightweight wool flannel blazer . . . he'll strut around in navy, white or red. To contrast the navy blazer with white slacks, or the red blazer with navy slacks, is a rich and sporting look.

Slim look prevails in lightweight wool slacks. New details in tailoring dress-up sports slacks with the addition of the western-type pocket and the three-quarter top pocket. Slanted welt pockets are another fresh interpertation.

Range of all-wool fabrics is limitless, starting with flannels and moving on to the finer sheer weaves of wool-worsteds, as weather gets hotter.

Look-Alikes For Mothers And Daughters

Like mother, like daughter, the old saying goes, and it was never truer than now, in the fashion story this spring.

Styling and fabrics are so often identical, but colors are "shocking."

Look for deep vibrant orange ice. It leads the color parade. Also important are yellows, bright as the sun, or tangy as a lemon, daringly bold pink, and greens plucked from lush meadows or towering tropical forests.

In styling, all little girls want to look exactly like Mommy, so there are chemises galore; semi-fitted coats; blouson or gently belted suits; middy dresses; dresses with pleated skirts, or boasting a draw-string waist.

Fabrics include many new miracle blends that can be fearlessly thrown into the washing machine, or quickly washed by hand.

Whatever she looks for in spring fashion, mother will find that daughter will be a happy gaily dressed miniature of herself!

What a beautiful picture they will make when they both go out promenading or shopping together!

Good news for new mothers! More and more miracle fabrics are appearing in infants' clothing this sping.

Ensembled for Spring — An easy-fitting jacket-dress points up the relaxed lines of the season. Assembled, too, are good-looking travel-wise beauty and wardrobe cases. For car travellers, a roomy, zippered travel bag for dresses or suits, with room for shoes and extras, is a practical accessory.

Men's Shoes Look Smarter In New Stylings

Sweater for growing boys in long-wearing lamb's-wool. It's in the popular sand shade for spring with dark brown and yellow trim around V neck.

Gentlemen, step forward. Your new spring shoes offer texture interest combinations bold simplicity in styling, lightness and fine craftsmanship!

That men's shoe-making is a fine art is pointed up by both fashion and construction that owe their beauty and success to the influence of the fine Italian hand.

There are a lot of moccasin toes, even on dress shoes.

Two or three eyelet closings are favored; the one eyelet closing no longer is tops!

Shoes that are correct for both town and country wear get star billing in slip-ons with plain or moccasin toes; perforations for comfort; with handsomely-stitched detail — here too, there is an over-all look of simplicity.

Leathers continue to feature texture, and a combination of leathers such as: reverse leathers with a deep plushy nap, smooth leathers, morocco grains, soft glove leather, and nylon or shanting.

In the luxury class are alligator, reptile and ostrich. These too have uncluttered lines, and show off with eyelet and tassel lacings.

Hot weather shoes feature the "cool-look" in brown, and black or blue with the all white is predicted to become a summer star!

Blues, from light to midnight, and navy, are the new high fashion shade for men.

The dark horse on the fashion scene in shoes, is the squared-off toe. The men to wear these will be leading the fashion parade, and perhaps will set the pace for styles to come, in seasons ahead!

Men's Informals Really Go Native For Fun in the Sun

For fun days and sun days, Canadian men will have a fashion fiesta in a host of gay wearables that "go native."

Travel to the Caribbean area as well as other tropical islands continues to increase year-around! Style-wise travelers, enchanted with the characteristically-rakish, carefree air of native costumes have come to look to American fashions for adaptable, practical copies for wear at home!

Fancy pants come straight from the Haitian jungles . . . gay, knitshirts take inspiration from Jamaican and Dominican stevedores and seamen . . . fabulous silk and cotton shirts wear multicolor striped, vivid prints, paisley-patterned novelties, or regimental colors, so very reminiscent of the British colonial influence.

Polynesian native prints imaginatively - borrowed from South Pacific lava-lavas and authentic tapa-cloth patterns, batik and other native sources, show up as trims or whole cloth for some of the smartest sport shirts on the new-season scene!

You'll see them in foulard patterns; "screaming" India madras plaids in such wild-impulse combinations of scarlet, gold and bright blue; yes, paisley prints too, and tri-color checked patterns.

Tropical straws top leisure-wear ensembles — there are cocoanut palm, raffia, silver palm and other exotic fibres woven into clever combos of natural colors and vividly dyed-ones . . . and are all authentically-styled!

Designers beat out a native rhythm in new beach outfits of vividly-colored, to - the - calf knitted pants in bright stripes and top them with a bold-color sleeveless or poncho - styled shirt — in off-beat combo's called the "Bongo" outfit.

Remember this — you can make the biggest, newest fashion splash ever when you get into the swim for summer-season fun in wearables that "go native".

ANCIENT TREES

Gaunt, eroded pines in the Inyo national forest in California include specimens estimated more than 4,600 years old.

A Traditional Elegance Helps Set Pretty Tables This Spring

In the over-all trend on traditionalism in home decor this season dinnerware too, takes on a more elegant look.

Whether in china, earthenware or moulded plastics, table settings will show up with more pattern, more color and trim!

Panels, scalloping and fluting will be shown on shoulder pattern rims, Florals will be most sought-after, especially those with roses! They are new softer-hued, airy and have a special feeling of elegance and grace.

Here and there on rim shapes, formal medallions and fleur de lis motifs are shown.

However, the small floral pattern on a plain or colored rim, and the center floral spray, are considered to be the favorites.

Glass and stemware will also take on gold decorations for a more lavish look. Stemware will look heavier, more ornate and will convey a mood of elegance too.

Teens Like Tight Pants

The pants worn by the teenage crowd are growing more and more snug. Newest are elasticized, or of stretch yarn, in the manner of ski pants. If any of the girls care about revealing too many curves, there are below-knee-length pantie girdles to do some figure controlling underneath, which are suggesting as pants-beneath-the pants.

THANK YOU FOR BUYING OUR CARS AND TRUCKS!

You're keeping General Motors people and our suppliers busy all over Canada

From the beginning of the General Motors Golden Jubilee year, we have firmly believed that our Golden Milestone cars and trucks are outstanding. And the overwhelming enthusiasm of your response, as proven by actual sales, has fully justified our optimism.

Latest available figures show that you bought 35,706 General Motors cars and trucks from January 1st through March 10th this year. This is 4,406 more than the number sold during the same period in 1957 —an increase of 14.1%. At the same time, the unsold stock of GM vehicles on hand across the country is practically the same as it was last year.

Thanks to your magnificent acceptance of our products, GM plants in Oshawa, Windsor and St. Catharines have been hard at work keeping up with the demand. Currently more than 18,000 people are employed by General Motors making cars and trucks in Canada.

All this activity—the direct result of your purchases —means that our many suppliers, employing thousands more people, are busily at work across Canada. To maintain this activity, General Motors plans to spend more than four hundred million dollars for goods, services and wages in Canada during 1958.

To our thanks to you, the public, we add a special word of gratitude and appreciation to the great family of General Motors dealers and salesmen. Their confidence, optimism and hard work are making significant contributions to the communities in which they live, and to our entire national economy. To them, to our suppliers, to all GM people and to you, we publicly express our gratitude.

ELECTION

NEEDS NEW POLICY

In a television speech from Calgary, Mr. Low said it was clearly evident that Canada needs "a new financial and monetary policy."

Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said in a recorded radio speech the CCF party is emerging as the only real opposition to a "Tory landslide."

Labor Minister Starr said at Whitby that unemployment is levelling off faster than he had expected.

Mr. Storr told a service club meeting the most recent statistics show 550,000 unemployed in Canada in mid-February. "I expected the figure would be more than 600,000," he said.

POLITICAL POLICIES

At Niagara Falls, Earl Rowe, Progressive Conservative member for Dufferin-Simcoe in the last Parliament, said "this election isn't a case of personalities. It is a case of political policies."

Speaking in support of Robert Hamilton, who succeeds Mr. Rowe as Conservative candidate for Dufferin-Simcoe, he said the history of Conservative governments from Canada's earliest days has been one of development.

Later, at Peterborough, Mr. Rowe criticized the Liberal party for the amount of United States control he said it allowed to develop in Canada. He was speaking at an election rally in support of Gordon K. Fraser, Peterborough Candidate.

Mr. Rowe quoted statistics he said indicated more than 2,000 American cities depend on Canadian markets for 75 per cent of their sales of exported manufactured goods.

Walter Harris, finance minister in the last Liberal government, said at London that this coming Monday, the Canadian people have a choice of continuing under the present government and thereby hastening the deterioration of the country, or restoring the Liberal to power, bringing back good times to Canada.

Mr. Harris, who is not a candidate in Monday's balloting, was speaking to a gathering in support of Harry Plewes, Liberal candidate in the Middlesex East riding.

BUDGET DEBATE

He proposed that Ontario adopt the Manitoba system whereby ridings are allocated to urban and rural areas on a 7-to-4 basis to take into account the larger areas of rural districts.

Premier Frost disagreed by saying: "The minute you start cutting across county boundaries and town boundaries you lose the aspirations of the people—you get them very much disturbed and very much upset."

In other business, the legislature's select committee on labor brought in an interim report which contained no recommendations for changes in the provincial labor laws.

Chairman James A. Maloney (PC—Renfrew South) requested a fresh mandate to clean up the inquiry which heard held 35 meetings and heard 70 submissions during the past year.

Mr. Maloney said 18 submissions have yet to be heard.

In budget debate, Harry Nixon (L—Brant), a member of the legislature for 37 years and premier for a while in 1943, berated the government for the rising public debt and pledged his allegiance to Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver at the party's leadership convention April 18.

In reply to taunts from government supporters about Mr. Oliver's future as leader, Mr. Nixon said:

"I would not count him out yet."

Ron McNeil (PC — Elgin), elected to the House in a byelection last fall, in his maiden speech reviewed government agriculture policies and praised Agriculture Minister Goodfellow for his handling of the recent dispute in the tobacco industry.

At that time, he said, only 1,000,000 pounds of tobacco were being sold each day in 10-bale lots but now that 30-bale lots are being sold 2,500,000 pounds are being moved each day.

"Some growers have reported an increase of five cents a pound in selling price of their crop compared to last year."

(ADVT.)

U.S. Plans Five 'Moon Rocket' Firings

New Satellite Dips And Soars In Weird Orbit

Short But Useful Life Predicted for Explorer 3

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States said today it will make up to five attempts to send space vehicles to the vicinity of the moon.

The White House and defence department issued separate announcements of the plans.

Defence Secretary Neil McElroy said that with President Eisenhower's approval the defence department's advanced research projects agency "will proceed with several programs for launching a number of small, unmanned space vehicles."

An initial allocation of about $8,000,000 has been made to start the space program.

STUDIES BENEFICIAL

The U.S. thus moved to follow up Eisenhower's statement Wednesday night that studies of outer space can provide benefits for the world's people and their children.

McElroy said the Army, Air Force and Navy are being issued instructions to undertake the new programs.

The defence department announcement said:

"The programs authorized include both scientific earth satellites and efforts to determine our capability of exploring space in the vicinity of the moon, to obtain useful data concerning the moon, and provide a close look at the moon. In technical terms these programs are called 'lunar probes.'"

MAY HIT MOON

A defence department spokesman said the present intention is not specifically to hit the moon but "it is possible that one of these vehicles could hit it."

The spokesman said the ground-scanning system for mounting in the space vehicles will be a "primitive TV" device, sufficient to provide a relatively-crude image of the geographical features of the moon, on its now unknown far side.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Explorer III, the world's newest satellite, dipped and soared today through the strangest orbit pattern man has yet established.

Unseen but overheard as its radio voice untiringly transmits information on its out-of-this-world environment, the new American moon 12 times each 24 hours staggers up and up until it is about 1,700 miles out in space.

This is a more far-reaching journey than accomplished by any other satellite, among the five that have achieved orbits, except the United States Vanguard sphere and tube which fly out to a distance of 2,500 miles.

Twelve times a day, also, Explorer III zooms earthward to entangle itself with the thin upper reaches of the earth's atmosphere, only 110 miles above the ground.

Because of the increasing atmospheric drag and the greater pull of gravity as the satellite approaches the earth, Explorer III is expected to have a relatively short life.

Maj.-Gen. John B. Medaris, commander of the U.S. Army ballistic missile agency which fired the new Explorer Wednesday, told reporters it probably will not live longer than two weeks.

Asked if there was disappointment that Explorer III did not attain a higher, more nearly circular orbit that would have assured it of longer life, Medaris said that on the contrary the men in charge were happy.

He pointed out that the satellite, while venturing far out into space, also would explore air densities at the lower altitudes where it would overlap a region that had been measured by high-altitude sounding rockets such as the Aerobee.

Thus for the first time science would have important measurements in the fringe areas that are difficult to study but are highly important both to manned and unmanned aircraft.

Lucile Wheeler To Be Received In Mohawk Tribe

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucile Wheeler, Canada's world champion skier, is to get two more honors and a jaw-breaking name tonight.

Chief Poking Fire of the Caughnawaga Indian Reservation is to perform the ceremony and christen Miss Wheeler at Princess Ta-Wa-Tia-Nen-Ta-Ko-Wa, meaning "one who comes rapidly down the slopes."

Miss Wheeler won the downhill and giant slalom competitions in the world championships last month at Bad Gastein, Austria.

Although young, unmarried Indian women are only allowed to wear one feather in their headbands, Miss Wheeler will get two, to signify her two great victories, Chief Poking fire said.

Miss Wheeler will wear a white bucksin costume made for her by the Mohawk women.

Today's Chuckle

The man drove his sleek, powerful car into the filling station. "Fill 'er up," he called to the attendant.

After a while the attendant called out to him, "Better shut your engine off . . . you're gaining on me."

ONTARIO HOUSE PROROGUED BY LIEUT.-GOVERNOR

Royal Assent Given 186 Bills

TORONTO (CP)—The 1958 session of the Ontario legislature was prorogued today by Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay after he gave royal assent to 186 bills.

The 7½-week session, sprinkled with discussion of federal election issues, ended four days before Monday's balloting and permitted members to take to the hustings for last-minute campaigning.

Premier Frost goes to Arnprior, Pembroke and Renfrew Friday and will speak in the ridings of Ottawa West, Ottawa East, Russell and Carlton on Saturday.

The proroging address written by the government praised the session's deliberations for producing "a many-sided program to promote the economic and social well-being of our people."

NON-CONFIDENCE MOVES

The Progressive Conservative government's 67-seat majority in the 98-seat House easily crushed opposition non-confidence motions advanced during the session.

Budget debate ended Wednesday with a 73-to-12 defeat for a non-confidence motion presented by Liberal Leader Oliver. It was the session's third non-confidence motion and the second by the Liberals.

Reforms Minister Dymond concluded debate on the budget, declaring the government is facing the future with vigor and confidence while remaining alive to the problem of unemployment and recession.

Referring to the rising provincial debt, he said: "Our total debt is equal to less than 1½ years of our total revenue. I know many people who would be proud and rightly—to find themselves in such a position.

LABOR COMMITTEE

Following the tabling of the interim report on the provinces select committee on labor relations Premier Frost said the committee will be reconstituted and continue its deliberations.

The committee asked for an extension in its report, which did not make any recommendations for changes in labor laws.

The Premier said James A. Maloney (PC — Renfrew South) will continue as chairman and the 10 other members will be reappointed with the exception of Mines Minister Spooner. Mr. Spooner, appointed to the cabinet since the committee was appointed last year, will be replaced by George Wardrope (PC Port Arthur).

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver accused Mr. Frost of "selling out" the people of Ontario in a deal with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Dutch Fisherwoman Kisses Queen After Putting Shawl Around Her

ROTTERDAM (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth visited the small home of a Dutch clerk here today and sat in a chair chatting as one mother to another with his wife, Mrs. Ronny Dodemont.

The visit to a working-class home in one of the great modern apartment blocks which have arisen on the ruins that Hitler's bombers left behind in this great seaport was a surprise item in the British monarch's state visit to The Netherlands.

Queen Elizabeth, with Queen Juliana of The Netherlands and her daughters, Princess Beatrix and Irene, walked up a short flight of stairs to the two-room-and-kitchen flat. Mrs. Dodemont invited them to sit down on two hard chairs while she herself, an attractive woman of 26, sat in an easy chair.

On a baby's high chair at the side of the Queen's, the Dodemonts' 15-months-old boy, Paul, sat playing with a toy train.

"He looks a very strong little boy," said Queen Elizabeth, smiling at the child.

During her visit Wednesday to the colorful fishing village of Schveningen, a motherly old fisherwoman threw a shawl over the shoulders of Queen Elizabeth and kissed her on both cheeks.

Elizabeth appeared nonplused by the incident. But Queen Juliana laughed heartily.

"That always happens in Holland," she explained.

Hundreds of fishermen and their wives turned out in the rain to greet the two queens as they stopped on their way from Aalsmeer to The Hague.

Elizabeth was given another tumultuous welcome in The Hague as she drove with Prince Philip to see an exhibition on the Age of Shakespeare at the municipal museum. Despite threatening skies, she insisted that her car be kept open.

Elizabeth also asked that the procession go slowly and was 20 minutes late reaching the museum.

Pearson and Diefenbaker To Give Final TV Talks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The final national television broadcasts of the March 31 election campaign will be made tonight by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson.

Mr. Diefenbaker will speak from Quebec City at 10:15 p.m. EST, Mr. Pearson from Ottawa 15 minutes earlier.

Mr. Diefenbaker drew an audience of 6,000 at Montreal Wednesday night.

He invited Quebec voters to "embarrass" him by the number of cabinet - calibre Conservative members of Parliament it elects. Nine of 75 Quebec MPs in the last Parliament were Conservatives, three of them cabinet ministers.

The prime minister spoke in French and English and was given a two-minute standing ovation at the end of his address.

At Windsor, Mr. Pearson said the Conservative government could have taken diplomatic action to remove barriers on the sale of Canadian cars to Communist China but that there was no record of any action taken.

Earlier, Mr. Pearson addressed meetings at two other Ontario centres—Chatham and Leamington.

At Winnipeg, Mr. Coldwell said in an interview he has no intention of retiring either from Parliament or as CCF leader. He resumed campaigning this week after a 10-day rest at Ottawa to recover from a cold and fatigue.

At Transcona, Man., Mr. Coldwell said the recession has hit railway workers harder than any other labor group.

He urged an open-air meeting of 900 CNR employees to support the CCF and said his party has a long tradition of labor activity and labor support.

At an Edmonton press conference, Mr. Low said that if Premier Duplessis of Quebec can "deliver" the Quebec vote to the Conservatives they will get a majority of seats in Parliament.

Social Credit Premier Manning of Alberta said at an Edmonton rally that neither the Liberals nor Conservatives have been able to solve the cycles of boom and bust because they don't know the cause and have no solution.

At Gananoque, Ont., Liberal Senator David Croll said the Liberal party "can bring back the thing the Canadian people want most—good times."

In a national CBC radio broadcast, Works Minister Howard Green said federal expenditures on defence projects this year will total about $100,000,000. They were being undertaken now to create employment.

Speaking on the same broadcast, Trade Minister Gordon Churchill said "1958 promises to be a good year for Canada."

At Montreal, Hon. Gaspard Fauteux, former Quebec lieutenant-governor, said the former Liberal government had directed the economy to reduce inflationary pressures and make it "healthy."

Award Joanne Woodward, Guinness, River Kwai Oscars

The Bridge on the River Kwai was voted the best picture Wednesday night at Hollywood's 30th awards presentation, a show that many critics called one of the best ever.

Red Buttons, a comic unwanted by television, won the supporting-actor Oscar for his first movie and first serious role. Buttons played the American airman who married a Japanese girl in Sayonara.

Miss Woodward bought $125 worth of material and whipped up a dress and coat that looked all right among the high-priced creations of the other movie queens.

"I didn't think I had a chance," she said. "So I didn't want to invest too much. Even when they called my name, I thought they said 'Deborah Kerr'."

Miss Woodward had an actress' tour de force in The Three Faces of Eve—and she did it the hard way. The picture was a true-life psychiatric study of a Georgia woman with a triple personality. Miss Woodward, a Georgian herself, did the sudden changes in continuity rather than shooting each personality separately.

Guinness, usually a master of satire, played a hard-nosed British colonel in Kwai. His award was accepted by actress Jean Simmons, an old friend. Guinness wanted to fly over for the academy awards but an insurance policy of his current movie prevented him leaving England.

Miyoshi, a Japanese singing star, said: "I didn't hope to win. I just happy to be nominated."

For Buttons, the award was the culmination of a career of ups and downs.

"I feel this should serve as an inspiration for every guy who has been written off in this business as I was," he said.

Other top awards went to David Lean, the British director of Kwai, and to song writers Sammy Cahn and Jimmy Van Huesen for their hit, All the Way.

Princess' Stand Not Altered By Visit States Townsend

LONDON (CP)—Group Captain Peter Townsend said today that the fact he has seen Princess Margaret again does not in any way "alter the princess' statement in the autumn of 1955." In that statement the princess said she did not intend to marry Townsend.

Through his lawyer, Alan Phillpotts, Townsend issued this statement:

"There are no grounds whatever for supposing that my seeing Princess Margaret in any way alters the situation declared specifically in the princess' statement in the autumn of 1955."

The princess in October, 1955, said she had decided to place duty above all else and not to marry the 43-year-old Townsend.

Townsend's statement was released a day after his first open meeting with Princess Margaret since she renounced him because he is a divorced man. His visit had revived speculation the romance was being revived.

Townsend had arrived back from his world tour with relatively little publicity. But news of his call on the princess sent reporters hot on his trail once more, in car chases reminiscent of the days in 1955 when the world wondered whether the princess would marry her airman suitor.

Reporters took up the chase again this morning as he set off from his London club on a business trip around London.

Asked when he will be seeing the princess again, he replied "I really cannot say."

Speculation regarding the reunion dominated almost every London newspaper.

Need Dollars to Buy Wheat, Wood, Metals

OTTAWA (CP) — Japanese exporters warned today that if Canada increases protection of domestic industries Japan will be forced to look elsewhere for wheat, lumber and minerals.

In a brief to the tariff board, the Japanese cotton textile industry said Canada sells the Asian country more than twice as much as it buys from it.

"Japan prefers to trade with Canada," the brief said. "But if she is unable to sell to Canada, she will be forced to look . . . to countries that are willing to buy her products in order that they may sell to Japan."

"The decision is Canada's—not Japan's."

The submission, opposing Canadian cotton industry demands for sharply increased protection, was made during a board study of the cotton textiles tariff.

The hearings are a phase of a study of the entire textiles tariff structure ordered last year by Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

CANADIAN VIEW

During hearings Wednesday, the Canadian industry said the United States is the dominant source of import pressure faced here, but added that imports from Japan, India and the United Kingdom also pose a threat.

The Primary Textiles Institute claims that the domestic industry's share of the market is being seriously curtailed by imports and says that unless some action is taken to reduce them, a lot of Canadian textile workers may be thrown out of jobs.

The Japanese textiles delegation argued that because of export controls and the nature of the country's cotton textile exports, imports by Canada do not and will not be a threat to the domestic industry.

"In times like these, when there are complaints abroad against Canadian imports, it would seem that it is in the self-interest of Canada to refuse to consider any action which might be construed in any way as making it more difficult to trade with Canada."

The Japanese brief contended any tariff increases or other trade restrictions may provide justification for other countries to curb imports from Canada.

FIND LAST BODY

MONTREAL (CP) — Divers Wednesday recovered the last body from the bed of the Riviere des Prairies at a highway bridge site where 11 construction workers were drowned March 5 when a coffer dam in which they were working collapsed. The body was identified as that of Girard Lanteigne, 34, of Valleyfield, Que.

Studies of Outer Space Can Bring Benefits to Earth-Bound Laymen

WASHINGTON (AP) — American scientists hold out to all the world's people the promise that studies of outer space can provide benefits for them and for their children.

Within hours after the United States had put its third satellite into orbit Wednesday, President Eisenhower made public a document in layman's language prepared by his science advisory committee—an Introduction to Outer Space.

Tangible benefits from better weather forecasting and communications are listed along with military advantages and less-definite gains in scientific research as possibilities of the future.

Satellites used as relay stations for radio and television can link all the corners of the world; they can watch, from out in space, the whole intricate pattern of the earth's weather, can spot gathering storms and hurricanes.

The report emphasizes scientific opportunities. It says there would be military advantages as well, especially in communications and reconnaissance, but tends to discount talk of such things as satellite bombers and bases on the moon. It says these "appear to be clumsy and ineffective ways of doing a job."

It offers as a rough estimate that about $2,000,000,000, spent over a period of years, could make it possible to send a man to the moon and return him safely.

But it adds that much more could be done by sending smaller space vehicles, with robot controls, to carry on explorations and radio data back.

Eisenhower made the report public and recommended that it be read by everyone. He called it "a sober, realistic presentation prepared by leading scientists."

Forced To Submit Resignation To Supreme Soviet

Khrushchev Takes Over Position, Holds 2 Posts

MOSCOW (CP)—Nikita Khrushchev today took over personal control of both state and party in Russia, replacing Nikolai Bulganin as premier.

The stocky little Ukrainian hitherto had not held formal office in the Soviet government, although his power as first secretary of the Communist party was enormous.

Now he holds both posts as Stalin did at the height of his power. Malenkov also held both for less than a month in 1953.

Khrushchev was elected premier at a joint session of both houses of the Soviet parliament, the Supreme Soviet.

THUNDEROUS APPLAUSE

The crowded Kremlin chamber fell silent for a moment after the announcement was made. Then thunderous applause rose from the 1,378 assembled. To a man they rose to their feet, clapping wildly.

His selection was announced by President Klementi Voroshilov, who had himself been re-elected a few minutes earlier.

Bulganin submitted his formal resignation as premier—a post he had held since February, 1955—as the joint session of the Supreme Soviet began.

Then Voroshilov, named Khrushchev as the new head of government.

HOLDS BOTH TOP JOBS

Bulganin's eclipse had been widely expected because of his virtual disappearance from public events since March 16.

Bulganin appeared today at the session of the Council of Nationalities of which he is a member. His face was grave although he smiled at the applause as he entered.

After Voroshilov's statement, which amounted to nomination, the parliamentary machinery went into action to make Khrushchev head of government. As such he will face Western leaders across the table if a summit conference is held.

The Moscow Communist party chairman, I. V. Kapitonov, speaking on behalf of a group of Moscow deputies, moved a resolution accepting Bulganin's resignation and approving Voroshilov's new council of ministers with Khrushchev as chairman.

BULGANIN APPLAUDS

Khrushchev himself did not join in the applause but stood quietly with his head bowed.

Voroshilov began his statement by declaring that all Soviet people know Khrushchev as an outstanding statesman in the Soviet government and the Communist party.

He gave the new premier the assignment of naming members of his government and presenting them for the approval of the Supreme Soviet.

NUCLEAR POLICY

Also high on parliament's agenda is the question of a ban on thermonuclear weapons. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will make a statement on this.

Supreme Court Approves Sale Of Toronto Star

TORONTO (CP) — Sale of the Toronto Star, largest daily newspaper in Canada, has been approved by the Ontario Supreme Court for the highest price ever reported for a single newspaper property.

A $25,555,021 offer by the Hawthorn Publishing Company was endorsed Wednesday by Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan after a two-hour hearing.

Hawthorn Publishing is a new company set up by five trustees of the Atkinson Charitable Foundation—Joseph S. Atkinson, William J. Campbell, Ruth Atkinson Hindmarsh, Burnett M. Thall and Beland H. Honderich—and Harry A. Hindmarsh, a grandson of Joseph E. Atkinson, publisher of The Star before his death.

Mr. Justice McLennan said the Hawthorn company will agree that if the newspaper or any of its assets are resold within the next five years any profit from such sale will revert to the Atkinson Charitable Foundation which has held controlling interest in the newspaper enterprise since Mr. Atkinson's death.

NO QUICK PROFIT

The condition was proposed by Hon. R. L. Kellock, counsel for Hawthorn Publishing, who said it would give assurances that the company was not buying the paper to realize a quick profit.

ATTEMPT MADE TO FORCE REAR DOOR OF THEATRE

Scouting the area officers found a knife in a nearby alleyway which apparently had been used in the unsuccessful attempt to force the theatre door. Paint adhering to the knife matched that on the door.

Police said the knife had apparently been stolen from a nearby restaurant as it matched the cutlery in the cafe.

BEN CORKE'S RINK WINS AT COBOURG

The rink, consisting of Don McNevin, lead; Ken LaPalm, 2nd; Danny Cox, 3rd, and Ben Cork, skip, won all three of its games but failed to take the top prize, losing out on points. An Oshawa rink also won all three games and took first prize with a better points total than the Belleville foursome.

Mr. Cork's rink defeated Peterborough and two Cobourg squads over the day's play.

Various Terms Given Accused By Magistrate

Two Quinte district men were sentenced to six months in jail by Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning after being convicted of theft. Roy Deshane, 35, of Carrying Place, and Jim Brunton, 43, of George St., in Trenton, were tried in Trenton on Tuesday of this week and were remanded for sentencing today in Belleville.

Joseph Maracle of the Tyendinaga Reserve, was given one month in jail for beating his 85-year-old father about the head a few weeks ago. An argument over Joseph's privilege of driving his father's truck sparked the assault.

Albert Maracle, 40, of R.R. 1, Deseronto, was fined $50 and levied costs of $5.50 on a conviction of operating his car while his ability was impaired. His operator's permit was lifted and the markers from his car were seized by the Minister of Highways.

Charles Aldread, 41, of R.R. 2, Trenton, was sent to jail for 21 days to date from March 21st after being convicted of driving an auto while intoxicated. He was involved in a minor collision at the No. 6 Repair Depot intersection, failed to remain at the scene, but was apprehended at his home a mile or so east of the 6-RD road.

George Joseph Howard of Shannonville, was given two months in jail for committing an indecent assault against a 53-year-old woman.

County Museum To Be Discussed By Authority

Executive members of the Moira River Conservation Authority, together with county council representatives and other interested persons will meet at the Thurlow township hall on Wednesday evening, April 9th., to consider the possibility of establishing a museum for the county of Hastings.

The meeting is being called on the suggestion of county warden Lloyd Price with representatives of interested organizations being invited to attend. Among organizations invited are the Hastings County Historical Society, the United Empire Loyalist Association and Women's Institutes.

Included on the agenda for the meeting will be discussion as to the need for a county museum, possible location, the scope, size and type of exhibits as well as administration of such a project.

If the scheme for setting up a county museum is approved a resolution will go forward to county council asking that it be carried out.

All persons interested in preserving the history of the Quinte district will be welcomed at the April 9th meeting.

CLAIMS TREATMENT CURING BALDNESS

As revolutionary, in its own way, as the atom bomb was 13 years ago, is the discovery claimed by Dr. Thanos A. Beskos, U.S. educated plastic surgeon of Athens, Greece. He has dozens of testimonials from persons who say he had grown hair on their pates which were formerly as bald as Khrushchev's. Dr. Beskos says he will announce the proof of the treatment to the Greek medical association.

Two Youths In Stolen Car Make Escape

Two unidentified youths racing away in a stolen car from the Sidney Inn service station west of the city after purchasing gas which they failed to pay for, made good their escape last evening after their car went out of control and toppled down an embankment onto the ballast at the CNR double tracks at the edge of the city.

Police said the car had been stolen from Trudeau's Station Street used car lot about 8.45.

The two youths pulled into Sidney Inn and ordered three dollars worth of gasoline which they failed to pay for. Then, gunning the motor they raced out of the service station lot immediately losing control of the car which went across the ditch and toppled onto the railway right-of-way. The youths then ran away in the darkness.

Provincial police said about $100 damage was caused the vehicle.

Spring Meeting Of Naturalists Much Enjoyed

The first spring meeting of the Quinte Field Naturalists was held on Monday evening in the Conference Room of the Entomology Building on Dundas St. E. The president, Miss Joy Nichols, welcomed members and visitors and gave the following announcements:

On Friday night, April 11th, Mrs. Alma Wallis, Trent Road is to speak to the Peterborough Field Naturalists and members of the Quinte group are invited to attend.

At the next regular meeting of the Quinte Field Naturalists on April 28th. Mr. Austin of Wooler is to show some of his very fine nature pictures.

April 12th, was suggested as a date for the first field outing to Presqu'ile to see water birds.

May 19th to same location to see warblers and other spring birds.

Also some moonlight night in April, members of the club have been invited to the home of the Irwin Knights on the Trent Road to watch ducks in migration.

Miss Nichols then turned the program over to Mr. Knight. It took the form of a picture nature contest and was much enjoyed by all in spite of the fact that it showed few real experts present. Seventy-two colored slides of plants, birds, caterpillars, butterflies, beetles, snakes, spiders and fungus had everybody guessing. Prizes for the top scores were won by Mrs. Nellie Anderson and Dr. Morris Smith.

While lunch was being prepared Mr. Knight entertained the members by showing other beautiful colored slides.

W. Elmer Sandercock Praises Road Work in This District

Following is the text of an address in the Ontario Legislature on Tuesday of this week by W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings West.

In speaking on the Budget Debate, I would like to compliment the Government on the assistance the municipalities are receiving. Year after year, these grants are increased by tremendous amounts of money, thus relieving the property owner of taxes that would be staggering.

With the generous grants that have been made to schools in the riding which I have the honor to represent, new schools have been built from one end to the other of the riding, which is well over 100 miles long. These schools are modern in every way; buses transport students to and from classes morning and night, winter and summer; and there is not a schoolroom lacking a teacher. This system provides opportunity for all to obtain an education if he or she so desires.

PRAISES ROAD WORK

We in our part of Ontario appreciate the large sums of money that have been spent on highways and development roads. We expect the No. 401 Belleville-Trenton by-pass will be opened this year which will relieve the ever-increasing traffic problems of these two cities. The municipal council of Trenton is greatly worried about the condition of the bridge over the Trent River in the centre of the town. This bridge is in need of extensive repairs and was never constructed to carry present-day traffic of the No. 2 highway. The city of Belleville is faced with a large expenditure on city streets, as the heavy truck traffic continues to break up the pavement. A great deal of patching has been done, but the time has come when a complete resurfacing is required. We are looking to the government to pay a substantial share of this work. The people of our ridings are very grateful for the money received for development roads. The county — with a long mileage of county roads that have to be maintained to a good standard, winter and summer — finds it impossible to do as much construction of new roads as it would like, due to a limited budget. The same problem applies to the townships, but a few thousand dollars of development money spent on cutting of dangerous corners, straigtening odd sharp curves, and repairing some bridges would change the whole appearance of the roads and make them much safer ones to travel, without costing a large sum.

While on the subject of Highways, we realize that everything possible is being done by this branch of the government for the safety of those using our roads. Signs of every description, guardrails, lights of all kinds, highway crews patrolling night and day, snow-plowing, salting, sanding, bulletins, radio warnings of road conditions, and many other safety measures have been adopted by the Department to try to cut down accidents. With all the safety precautions conceivable, the accidents still occurring on our highways are alarming, to say the least. So many times we are stricken with grief to read in the paper, or hear on the radio, that some of our friends, relatives or neighbors have been killed in a car accident. The riding that I represent has been thrown into a state of sadness many times when one or more of its promising young citizens have been killed on the Highway. No one seems to have the answer. It would appear almost beyond human power to control.

INDUSTRIES VARIED

As the riding of West Hastings is over 100 miles long, many types of industries and occupations are carried on. The northern part of the riding is a tourist paradise which, with its many beautiful lakes and streams, has attracted people who have spent large sums of money on cottages and equipment. Lumbering and pulp still is a very important business. One of the greatest assets to this part of the riding was the discovery of uranium by one of our local citizens. The uranium mines have been developed and huge, modern processing plants built, which give employment to hundreds of men. The Faraday Uranium Mines Limited have been very community-conscious and have built a number of beautiful homes for their staff near the mine and a large section of very modern homes for their employees in the village of Bancroft, where a new curling rink also has just been completed. The whole community is most grateful to the executive of these mines for their public-spirited attitude

The Village of Marmora on No. 7 highway was very fortunate in that a few years ago a large iron ore deposit was discovered in that locality. The mine has now been developed, and is known as the Marmoraton Mining Co. Limited. This is an open pit mine, the ore being processed to a higher grade and shipped in pellet form by train to their storage docks at Picton where it is shipped farther by boat. The project cost many, many millions of dollars and has been a great boon to the community. The officers and employees of this mine take a very active part in the community life of the district by helping any worthwhile project.

FAMED FOR FARMING

The three southern townships of Hastings West Riding consist of good farm land, used for mixed farming, and known for its high-grade cheese and canning products, as well as being a great livestock producing area.

Stirling, a beautiful village 15 miles north of Belleville situated in one of the most fertile valleys of this province, is celebrating its Centennial on August 3rd to 6th of this year. Its citizens are very progressive, and are making great preparations for an outstanding event to which everyone will be made welcome.

The cities of Belleville and Trenton are located on the Bay of Quinte, with many industries providing employment for their citizens. These two large centres have steadily expanded, year after year, until they are now surrounded by new housing developments.

We are most fortunate in having some very scenic spots in this riding. One of the most outstanding is the Trent River which starts at the village of Hastings and winds its way through the Trent Valley finally flowing out through the centre of the town of Trenton into the Bay of Quinte, and on to Lake Ontario. This is a navigable river, where scores of pleasure boats travel from Trenton to Georgian Bay. Leaving Trenton and travelling north a distance of only seven miles to the village of Frankford on No. 33 Highway, which closely follows the west side of the river, sometimes called the Iroquois Trail, you are in view of two Hydro generating plants, three railroad bridges, three road bridges including the monstrous No. 401 Highway bridge high above the Trent River, and six dams where the white foaming waters tumble over. There are, in addition, six locks where boats are locked through. Also on this stretch of road is the Glen Miller paper mill, an old established business that has been a landmark for many years. Next, Batawa, the home of the Bata Shoes, with their huge modern factory towering skyward, surrounded by their community buildings and homes. In this factory the shoes are made for their 100 stores across Canada.

URGES CAMP SITES

On the east side of the river, a county road follows the river quite closely back into the town of Trenton. On the drive around this section of the river, many camping parks could be established. At this time Trenton and suburban planning board, and local municipalities are negotiating with the different departments of the government for financial assistance necessary to develop this scenic section of the river into one of the most outstanding beauty spots and tourist attractions in that part of Ontario. I would like to congratulate the Planning Board for making a start. We are hopeful that the government will see its way clear to help in carrying out this project to make it into a very fine park and camping centre, which will attract thousands of tourists and be a great benefit to the public.

Mr. Speaker: On behalf of the people of my riding, I would most sincerely like to thank the provincial treasurer (the premier) for the very generous financial assistance we have received, and also the ministers of every department of the government for the co-operation we have received at all times.

Mr. Speaker: During the present Session, the different members on rising to take part in the debates have expressed the great respect they have for the Prime Minister personally, and for his achievements, and also the warm regard they have for him. I of course share very fully in these sentiments. In addition, I should like to say that it is with the greatest pride I hear Mr. Frost's name mentioned in the same way by the people of my riding, wherever I go.

I would equally like to join in the sincere expressions of appreciation extended to the Speaker of the House for the impartiality with which he has conducted the affairs of this and past sessions.

Car Demolished When Hit by Passenger Train

Carried three-quarters of a mile down the track by a locomotive of a C.N.R passenger train, which struck the vehicle after it stalled on the track, a car owned by Mrs Rita Dunley, 87 Southview Ave., was completely demolished Wednesday afternoon.

The accident occurred on the double C.N.R. track east of the city about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The westbound passenger train which was to carry the McFarland hockey team on the first leg of their trip to Timmins was delayed about 20 minutes.

Mrs. Dunley was driving up a private driveway near the north end of the Purdy sideroad when she stalled her car on the track. When repeated efforts to restart the engine failed, Mrs. Dunley went to a nearby house to get assistance and during her brief absence from the car it was struck by the speeding passenger train.

The empty vehicle was carried nearly a mile down the track before the train was brought to a halt.

Provincial Police Constable Ivan Tinkness investigated.

IN MEMORIAM

SHERRY. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Edward Stanley Sherry, who passed away March 27th, 1957.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In my lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er me,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Ever lovingly remembered and sadly missed by his wife.

BOURETTE. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph Bourette, who passed away on March 27th, 1956.

Beloved husband, sweet and happy memories cling around your name.
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection who love, you in death just the same.
You left behind a broken heart that never did forget you and never will.
And who always thinks of you and who tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face I loved so dear and silent is the voice we loved to hear.
Sad but true, we wonder why, that the best are always the first to die.
I hope to meet you some day, I know not when,
To clasp your hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

CAMPOLI. — In loving memory of a dear wife, Violet Rosetta Campoli, who passed away March 27, 1954.

God gave me a wonderful wife,
Her memory will never grow old;
He fashioned her smile out of sunshine,
He molded her heart of pure gold.
He needed a new star in heaven,
A beautiful light to shine;
So out of this old world of sorrow,
He chose that dear wife of mine.
—Ever remembered by husband Rocco and family.

BELATED—BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

BROOKS. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, John David Brooks, who passed away March 23rd.

You left sweet memories to blossom,
Bearing fruit for the years to come;
In the lives of those who loved you,
Precious memories of days that are gone.
—Ever rememered by Mother, Dad and brothers.

Advance Polls For Federal Election Open

The advance poll for Monday's federal election opened this afternoon at the Engineers' hall on Pine Street and will be open also on Friday and Saturday.

Hours for the advance poll to be open are from 2 p.m. until 10 p.m.

There is also an advance poll at Trenton at the home of Mrs. F. Wessel, 31 Cedar St. Same hours and dates as for the advance poll in Belleville will be in effect.

On Monday all polls will be open from 8.00 a.m. until 6 p.m. Reason for the apparent time difference for poll hours is that recent federal elections have generally occurred during the summer months when Daylight Saving Time was in effect. Polling hours for federal elections are held on Standard Time.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Stock market prices were irregularly lower today in quiet morning trading.

Index losses were recorded by industrials, down nearly a half point, and base metals, off more than three-quarters of a point. Western oils added a quarter point while golds were ahead a few decimal points on index.

The 11 a.m. volume of 393,000 shares was the lightest in six sessions as interest among low-priced speculative mines dropped off after moderate activity Wednesday when total sales at the same time were 504,000.

Price changes in all sections were generally narrow.

Placer and United Asbestos were strong among medium-priced mines, each winning 40 cents. Uraniums were mixed to lower.

Triad was up 15 cents to $4.35 and Asamera 10 cents to $1.80 to lead western oils narrowly higher.

There was much speculation in Western circles that the Soviet Union might announce it is halting further hydrogen bomb tests in a dramatic bid to break the world disarmament deadlock.

The Council of Union, the first house in Russia's Supreme Soviet, met for 56 minutes in a Kremlin hall with party chief Nikita Khrushchev smiling over the proceedings.

BULGANIN ON HAND

Despite the expectations of Bulganin's replacement in the government, he was on hand three hours later for the opening of the other house of Parliament, the Council of Nationalities, of which he is a member. There was warm applause as he entered with other members of the ruling Praesidium who are on the council.

Khrushchev led a group of high officials into the hall as the Council of Union opened its session. With him were the Soviet president, Klementi Y. Voroshilov, and its chief woman official, Praesidium member Ekaterina Furtseva.

The Council of Union adopted an agenda presented by the party leaders which included four topics for joint sessions: Election of a Praesidium of the Supreme Soviet to act in the Parliament's absence; appointment of a new government; discussion of Khrushchev's plan to reorganize the agricultural machinery system, and discussion of a ban on thermonuclear tests.

British Liberals Hoping to Win In Byelection

TORRINGTON, England (Reuters)—The Liberal party, now holding only five out of 630 seats in the House of Commons, today hopes to show Britain it is headed for a big revival by ousting the Conservatives from a seat in a byelection here.

Liberals have not been Britain's ruling party since a coalition government headed by David Lloyd George broke up in 1922. They know they have no chance of gaining power at the next general election—due by 1960 at latest.

But their big polls at the expense of Conservatives in byelections over the last 12 months have convinced them that they could become the balancing party in next Parliament. Any mass Liberal intervention would assure a Labor party victory.

GIVEN EDGE

Today their candidate, Mark Bonham-Carter, a 36-year-old publisher, is given the edge by opinion polls, straw votes and political pundits. His win in this agricultural area would be the first Liberal byelection victory since 1929.

The Conservative candidate is 31-year-old Anthony Royle. Labor contender Leonard Lamb, 40, remains the unpredictable factor since the Liberal intervention could give him a "minority win."

Present state of the House now: Conservatives and Allies 334; Labor 279; Liberal five; Independents nine; vacant seats three.

Federal Labor Leader Named Indies Premier

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — Sir Grantely Adams, leading West Indian lawyer, was confirmed today as the first prime minister of the newly proclaimed federation of the 10 major British Caribbean islands.

His Socialist-inclined Federal Labor party won 24 of the 45 seats in the first legislature in final results announced overnight, following elections held Tuesday.

Of the remaining 21 seats 20 were won by the anti-Socialist Democratic Labor party, led by the flamboyant Sir Alexander Bustamante, opposition leader in Jamaica. The other seat went to the Barbados national party.

Council in Lengthy Session Set Same Rate as Last Year

TRENTON — Town councillors went into session yesterday at 11 a.m. and never moved from the board room until 6 p.m. but they came up with a tax rate, which will remain the same as last year.

There will, however, be a slight reduction in the levy on the industrial and commercial rate. This will go down by .06 mills from last year's 79.38 to 79.32. The levy on residential will remain at 73.00 mills. The credit by unconditional grant ($41,212) accounted for the 6.32 difference between the two rates.

In keeping the mill rate the same for another year was considered by many local citizens, as worthy of praise for the men sitting on the council and for Councillor Vagn Lange, chairman of the finance committee.

Last year the mill rate was increased seven mills from 66 to 73.

Helping the finance committee to maintain a steady standing in tax rates was the fact the town school board had asked for nearly $34,000 less for operational expenses this year.

It was pointed out, however, the school board will be spending more money this year than last but an increased grant from the province has enabled them to cut the town's obligation to the above amount.

The report from the school board showed that last year public schools had spent $270,534.31, during this year they will only need $246,439.92, a drop of about $24,000. For the high school, $109,868.55 will be needed this year which is about $9,000 less than the $118,887.48 which was required last year.

The only break the councillors had during the seven-hour session was when sandwiches were brought in for them.

Work Started On Cleaning Up Farrar Property

TRENTON — Work has begun on the cleaning up of the Farrar property on the corner of Ontario and Dundas Street East where fire left nothing but a heap of rubble during January.

The work is being done by Harold Bassett and he is using a four-foot shovel along with dump trucks.

The Farrar block was destroyed by flames during one of the cold snaps in January leaving about 11 families homeless and with damage estimated as high as $150,000.

Following the fire only rubble was left and has been there all during the winter months to become an eyesore for the town. It was only a short time after the fire that the property between the Farrar Block and the Electrical Appliance store was cleaned up. It had also been levelled in the same fire.

Recently town crews had moved in to finish clearing the rubble away from the sidewalk. They had pushed it back off the walk the same night of the blaze but with the arrival of spring weather they pushed it back still further.

Plans for the future use of the property have not been officially made but it has been reported the owner is asking upwards of $60,000 for it.

It is expected the debris will be cleared away entirely in about another week.

The block of buildings in Front Street which were badly gutted in a second fire this winter and estimated damages at about $250,000 is under re-building action. Crews have finished cleaning up and carpenters have moved in to replace the roof and upper sections of the building which housed three stores and a restaurant, plus several new apartments over top of them.

In other store re-modelling ex-councillor Bert Strong said yesterday his property on Dundas Street East, near the municipal building has now been completely done over and is ready for rental. The property concerned was the store formerly owned by W. J. Kirk, at 39 Dundas Street East. Mr. Kirk died suddenly a few weeks ago.

PARTY FOR TEAM

TRENTON — The Red Wings, local champions of the Bantam League, will be feted tonight by the members of the Kiwanis in a banquet at the Hotel Gilbert. The lads are being honored for their good play and show of sportsmanship during the season. Paul Tripp is chairman of the Bantam League and took care of minor hockey for the Kiwanis Club.

MOVES TREES

Fire Chief Clarence Orser has been having some tree-lifting done on his property at the corner of Dundas Street West and Catharine Street. The chief felt the white cedar trees were a hindrance to the view of motorists when turning onto the other roads and had two of them moved back and the corner tree removed. The tree removed will be replanted in Belleville today. Work is being done by the Quinte Nursery at Bayside. The chief said the work was being done while there was some frost left in the ground which would aid in the trees taking root in their new beds.

ACCIDENT FREE

Yesterday was again an accident free day within the town limits of Trenton as far as motorists were concerned. Police officials said this morning there has been only one mishap reported in the last four days and this was of a minor nature. Inspector Rutherford also reported "nothing doing" in the break, entry or theft department.

GAS WAR

Although the gas war is still "raging" on the outskirts of Trenton it is having very little effect on service stations within the town. Some operators report they have lost some sales during the past week but on the biggest part their regular customers are still pulling up to their pumps. Service stations concerned with the war are selling gas for 39.9 cents per gallon with one as low as 34.9 cents. A meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward County Garage Operators slated to be held last night was cancelled.

Heated Pipes Cause Run

TRENTON — Firemen quickly attended to overheated stove pipes in the home of R. W. Mills, 21 Quinte Street, yesterday about 1.30 p.m. before any damage could be done.

The pipes concerned were in the upstairs part of the house and the excessive heat seemed to be in a section of the pipe about two lengths long. Firemen removed the section of pipe concerned, took them outside and gave them a cleaning after they had cooled them off.

The alarm was not sounded and the two firemen on duty at the time and one volunteer who arrived on the scene behind the pumper quickly had the heated pipes under control.

RCAF Planes Guide Gosport Fishermen Home

BRIGHTON, Ont. (CP)—Three brothers reported missing on Lake Ontario were guided to shore Wednesday by RCAF search planes.

The brothers, Howard Cooper, 30, Douglas, 26, and Leonard, 17 of nearby Gosport left at 7 a.m. Wednesday in a motor - driven punt to check their whitefish nets.

When a 35-mile-an-hour wind blew up and the punt failed to return, friends became alarmed. The trip normally took only two hours.

FO Bob Seeley, of the RCAF station at Trenton, 10 miles east of here heard about the missing men while he was here shopping. He notified the station and two Dakotas were dispatched. They located the punt and guided it into harbor.

ASKS RULE CHANGE

LONDON (CP) — The government has been asked to tighten regulations governing shipment of livestock, particularly ponies, to Canada and the United States. A spokesman for the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said Tuesday it has asked the ministry of agriculture to change the present regulations as a result of its investigations into the export to Canada of unbroken Welsh and Dartmoor ponies.

Eisenhower Further Curbs Imports of Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today cut down allotments under the U.S. government's voluntary crude oil import program and barred non-complying companies from getting government oil contracts.

Eisenhower issued an executive order and approved a cabinet committee report applying further curbs effective April 1 on the inflow of foreign oil, as a national security measure.

His action means that petroleum companies which now import crude must reduce their foreign purchases by almost 15 per cent.

The order does not alter the voluntary quotas previously established for the Pacific coast states, Arizona and Nevada. But from the Rocky Mountains east, total imports will be reduced from the 771,400 barrels-a-day average now in effect to 713,000 barrels daily.

The countries chiefly affected are Canada, Venezuela and the oil-rich Middle East.

The action, however, did not bring about the long-threatened imposition of mandatory import controls on crude petroleum. There had been talk of a mandatory program because some firms have not complied with the previous voluntary allocation.

BUY AMERICAN ORDER

Eisenhower's executive order invoked the "buy American" act to induce such companies to come into line.

It instructed government agencies—in this case, chiefly the armed forces—to buy domestic petroleum unless it is unavailable or unreasonably priced, or unless the foreign oil they buy is brought into the country by an importer who is complying with the voluntary program.

The clinching-up of oil imports was recommended by an Eisenhower cabinet committee assigned to investigate crude oil imports.

That group is headed by Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks.

The new arrangement reduces oil imports entering the United States east of the Rockies to 713,000 barrels a day—starting April 1—from 771,400 barrels.

THAT CHINESE AUTOMOBILE ORDER

Most Canadians, we suspect, were startled when George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers Union, declared that the U.S. state department had vetoed the sale of 1,000 Canadian automobiles to Communist China. Many of these startled Canadians probably got another shock when the accuracy of Mr. Burt's charge was quickly confirmed at Washington.

Few of us had realized the existence of this U.S. control over Canada's exports. Let it be noted that it is not a new development, but has existed for years. It dates back to the days of the Korean War. Then the nations which joined in the United Nations intervention against the North Korean Communists agreed on the ban of exports to Communist China. For a considerable time, therefore, the barrier against the sale of Canadian cars built by firms which are subsidiaries of U. S. companies was just as much a Canadian as a U. S. prohibition. Today, though, the situation has changed. Canada, like Britain and most other countries of the West, has relaxed her restrictions on trade with China. The United States has not. Although no application was made for a Canadian licence to export cars to China, it is stated at Ottawa that such a permit would likely have been issued had the application been made. The application was not made because the Ford Motor Co. of Canada is considered by the U.S. government to be a subsidiary of the U.S. Ford firm within the meaning of the U.S. "Trading With the Enemy Act" and that would mean that officials of the Ford firm in the U S would be liable to penalties under that act, a fine of [illegible] and up to ten years in prison if a U.S. permit was not obtained for the sale by the Canadian subsidiary. The fact that no application for a U.S permit was sought is immaterial. We are entitled to assume that the Ford officials in the U.S. believed making such an application would be a waste of time.

If we dislike this situation, we should first decide on what grounds we base our objections.

Is it on the practical grounds that Canadians have been deprived of work by a ruling of the U.S. state department? If so, we find ourselves squabbling over an insignificant incident. A thousand cars sounds like a huge order to the average citizen, but Ward's Automotive Reports, on the same day as Mr. Burt made his charge, listed Canadian production for the week as 7,080 passenger cars and 1,165 trucks. The Chinese order thus represents considerably less than one day's work for the Canadian automotive industry as a whole, although more than a day's work for Ford of Canada.

The difficulty with this approach to the problem is that there is no assurance that this is an isolated instance of U.S. control over Canadian exports. Indeed, Marshal Johnson of East-West Import-Export Ltd., which tried to place the order, says that there have been several other instances in which he was unable to fill Chinese orders. In some cases Canadian export licences have been refused. Though we may quarrel with these decisions, any criticisms in these cases must be directed at authorities at Ottawa, not at Washington. In other cases firms have refused to consider orders. One is justified, in the lack of evidence to the contrary, in suspecting that in some of these cases, at least, the U.S. "Trading With the Enemy Act" was behind their refusal.

Mr. Johnson says that "trade with Red China could put Canada back on its feet and keep us busy for the next 50 years." We do not think that many will accept this statement at its face value. Indeed, it so happens that, a couple of days after Mr. Burt's charge, The Sunday Dispatch of London declared Communist countries are planning a drive into the international automobile market. If this is true, we may be sure that orders from Communist China for Canadian automobiles will be few and far between.

None of these facts have any bearing on the protests of those Canadians who object to U.S. control of Canadian exports as a matter of principle. Here, though, the issue becomes exceedingly complex. What if a U.S.-owned subsidiary in Canada did not wish to accept an order from a country which the U.S. government officially considered an "enemy?" Should the Canadian Government force it to do business against its will? We suspect that many Canadians will answer this question in the negative. How can one possibly determine when a subsidiary is acting of its own free will and when it is responding to pressure on the officers of its parent company in the U.S.?

This is another one of those cases where it is much easier to protest against conditions than it is to suggest any effective remedial action open to the Canadian Government.

THE STATESMAN

[illegible] statesman rose and cleared his throat,
[illegible] thus his speech began:
"[illegible] been attacked by bitter
foes,
Who roast whene'er they can.
Now, honest criticism I
Most heartily invite."
By that he means the critics who Declare his conduct right.

"I must denounce with all my strength
The slanders that are hurled
At me by men who write for gain.
This is a wicked world.
I welcome honest censure,
though,
If such a thing there be,
For all the honest critics, you
Will find, agree with me."

The statesman very human is,
Let's not be hard on him.
The man who dares to see our faults
Is villainous and grim.
We welcome honest critics, too,
And hug them with delight,
Because the only honest ones
Are those who say we're right.

Newsmen Spoof Mighty

By I. Norman Smith in the Ottawa Journal

This reporter has just returned from a few days visit in Washington, somewhat optimistic about the state of the nation. Reason for this unwonted buoyancy is two-fold: instead of the sticky heat of the Potomac flats there was snow, and I was a guest at the 73rd annual dinner of the Washington Gridiron Club.

There must be hope for a nation which can spoof itself and be spoofed at its capital by a press club which seems to owe no allegiance except to truth and the right. The club's rule is to sear but not burn — a nice distinction born in nicer days.

The president didn't attend this year (he's taking things easier) but Vice-President Nixon was there and all the Supreme Court and most of the Cabinet and that vast bevy of czars and expediters and controllers and decontrollers, admirals, tycoons, governors, senators, congressmen scientists, Harvard presidents and a few selected ambassadors including the Russian and the Canadian.

Benjamin McKelway editor of the Washington Star, president of the Gridiron Club, opened with a witty and wise speech, made in the dark. Every light in the room was out and he read with a flashlight. "We find ourselves as we often find ourselves in Washington, completely in the dark."

But this was the age of discovery, he went on; discontented Republicans can take their troubles to the President, provided they can discover where he is. And the Supreme Court had even discovered things in the Constitution that nobody knew were there before.

Mr. McKelway free-wheeled across the political scene with mischievous abandon, and then the club's 50 members (it is held to that figure) went to work on the stage, searing things on their gridiron with more delight than anyone has cooked since the three witches toiled over that open cauldron in Macbeth.

Opening skit showed that every politician now had become a scientist and warned that soon every scientist would have to become a politician. "The country may run out of cash but we'll run outer space."

From then on my memory is a little vague a sto which skit came after which, but in the course of the evening these things tumbled out:

Dr. John Hagen, director of the Navy's Vanguard project, was singing: "A tisket, a tasket, I think we blew our gasket; we had a gasket for our missile, but on the way I dropped it, yes on the way I dropped it."

The three chiefs of staff sang, to the tune of "We Three Kings" a sad lament winding up:

We three chiefs of services are,
Each of us an absolute czar.
Ne'er unitin', feudin', fightin'
Three diff-rent wars — hurrah.

(The Air Force man was short-handed tonight, 'twas said, for "he's got three combat wings on the Ed Sullivan Show".)

• • •

Where's Dulles someone cried. "He's out there practising a new hex on the Russians — the power of positive waiting."

When would Dulles negotiate with the Russians, nagged George Kennan.

Sang Dulles in retort, bundled up to the neck in his casual brown raincoat and stolid black hat:

No, no, a thousand times no.
Quote me on this for the press
No, no a thousand times no.
I'd rather die than say yes.

Ambassador Lodge hove in sight to ask Army Secretary McElroy when he thought he'd hit the moon.

"Moon? Son, I've got higher ambitions. I'm gonna hit the White House. Ask yourself — how many divisions has Nixon got? Why, I've got enough assistant secretaries to stack the 1960 Convention."

The Supreme Court got into the act, with wigs, gusto and tell-tale red underwear showing beneath their robes, to the tune of the Battle Hymn of the Republic:

Mine eyes have seen the glory
Of a civil rights decree,
We have trampled on the Democrats and also GOP.
As to who is going to make it work
I'm glad it isn't me.

Harry Truman was there too, singing he was gonna sit right down and write some one a letter. And Adlai, of course, Senator Humphrey said Stevenson was the best shot the Democrats had, he's been shot in 42 states. Humphrey sang a touching song to the tune of poor Butterfly: Poor Ad-a-lai.

Another songster was Governor Faubus, the man who was going to resist the powers of the nation in that desegregation row last year in Little Rock. With his geetar by his side he reflected it hadn't been so bad, really for he'd surely get re-elected.

President Eisenhower's assistant Sherman Adams, was presented as the king behind the throne who really ran things—but all the while, two places up the table from me, Mr. Adams ate up his dinner with relish and didn't appear to get any on him.

Harold Stassen's impersonator appeared bloody and bandaged, a victim of the White House boot. Senator John Kennedy sang a song of praise to his father's ability to pay his bills, and he was later lauded as the presidential candidate who makes the best speeches money can buy. Lyndon Johnson seemed to come out of it as the most potent Democratic candidate.

Vice-President Nixon, enjoying it all from the head table, saw himself singing, down on the stage, that lovely tune from air Lady with slightly revised words: "Getting to know me". Yes, here was the Nixon, making friends and influencing people, kind to dogs, old ladies and anything else that came around. Everything is new in the new Nixon except ambition, ran the lampoon.

The President himself? He was often in the rough. One song found him to be working every day but labor day, "but every day is labor day with him"; and when a group of the folks in Washington were discussing who was running things and someone mentioned Eisenhower's name it struck no familiar chord. "Eisenhower? Eisenhower? Who's he?" Eisenhower was the big boss, remember? "Oh him!"

There were many human frailties seared on the gridiron; sometimes neatly, as for instance the man who was typed judiciously as a fellow of considerable inability, sometimes, I thought, a trifle roughly.

But the visitor from Canada didn't feel that anyone was really hurt. The arrows flew fast and with unerring accuracy, but they seemed not dipped with poison. Also, one noted the lack of cynicism and sarcasm. With the possible exception (to my mind) of the tarnishing of the prestige of the Supreme Court, there was nothing implicit in the burlesque that could lessen unity or resolve.

On the contrary, it all seemed to be a most useful and fortune-sent method of correcting malpractice in administration and political custom not unlike our Parliamentary Press Gallery dinners. Humor is an engaging investigator. When not accompanied by bitterness it can work wonders.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GIVE HIM A HAND

We hear and read a great deal these days about scandal magazines. These abominable publications peep into the privacies of life, haul out all the dirt they can collect especially about people of prominence, and then sell their magazines by the hundreds of thousands.

Of course, if we want to deal in dirt, we can find plenty of it in this sinful world. If we want to keep our eyes glued on the mistakes of our fellows and brood over their evil, we can find our time fully occupied. But what an employment! There is so much more to life than its scandal, so many more interesting things in life than dirt and the misbehavior of prominent people. There is more to our lives than the weaknesses and evils of which we are so conscious, and there is vastly more to our friends lives, and the lives of prominent people we have never met, than their failings and their sins, both petty and lurid.

It is interesting and inspiring to realize that in spite of the large circulation of the scandal magazines, the magazines of the greatest circulation in this country are magazines that deal with wholesomeness — home life, entertainment, interior decoration, and the desire almost everyone has to be entertained and stirred by the reading of a good story.

Man is an evil creature, but he is an evil creature trying to surmount his evil. He needs help.

Merchants are busy, following the flood, in clearing ice and rubbish from the basements of their stores and back yards. The task is not easy and far from being pleasant.

Backward Orientals!

Vancouver Province

At a time of year when all good B.C. gardeners are poking over their compost pits with a practised eye, we are intrigued by a little news item about a composting plant being built by a British firm for Bangkok, Thailand, which used to be known as Siam.

Bangkok's collected household refuse will, after processing, pass out of the composting plant in the form of clean granulated material, sterilized of germs and seeds and ready for sale to farmers and gardeners instead of being dumped in various parts of Bangkok's suburbs.

Sale of the material, it is claimed, will more than cover the cost of the composting plant and its operation. Each year the plant will produce 80,000 tons of humus. Only a horticulturist will be able to compute how much additional foodstuff is represented by this figure.

We in enlightened North America usually burn our refuse, dump it in ravines or discharge it far out at sea. But it is interesting to see what the backward countries like Thailand are doing about it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The place to see the new and mounting revulsion on the part of the public to what is called "moddun" art and moddun design is in the chinaware departments of the big stores. A year ago, all the spectacular displays were devoted to nothing but the darndest looking dishes, vases, platters, bowls, and those other indefinable creations known as objets d'art. Every piece had to be distorted. It had to have the cramps. The agony it suggested was easily conveyed to the beholder. You broke out into a mild sweat, merely walking through the chinaware.

The colors were in keeping with the shapes. Most of the articles would have won prizes in avant garde exhibitions if labelled "bilious attack."

Now, the china departments have swung to the opposite extreme You might think you were back around 1898, when every home had a whatnot crammed with hand-painted vases (by Aunt Minnie), lacy little figurines in pink and forget-me-not blue, and on the mantel shelf glass domes imprisoning stuffed birds or wax flowers (by cousin Amy). So help me, I saw a whole counter filled with imitation do-it-yourself hand-painted chinaware in gold, purple, pink and mauve. Roses.

This is what the public wants; or it wouldn't be there.

The lot of a manager or chief buyer of a china department must be a harried one.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SOME PATIENTS REQUIRE LOW - SALT DIETS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Your column has helped me many times. I thank you. Since my husband is now on a salt-free diet, I would appreciate knowing what foods to prepare for him. Everything seems to be salted. —H.L.C."

Reduced salt is required in a number of conditions, among them being congestive heart failure, cirrhosis of the liver and cases in which kidney disease causes swelling; likewise high blood pressure, pre-menstrual swelling, and some consequences of obesity.

Note that I say reduced salt, although the common term is salt-free diet. Attaining a salt-free diet is difficult. Salt, or the equivalent of it, appears in varying quantities in all sorts of food.

However, some salt is essential to the body, and if you were to contrive a diet that was completely devoid of natural salt, the patient would be in danger of collapse. As it is, patients on low-salt diets should be careful in hot weather when perspiration carries salt out of the body. Under such circumstances a small amount of salt is desirable.

Therefore, the patient who is put on a low-salt diet usually finds it sufficient if he avoids foods to which salt has been added. Butter ordinarily has a lot of salt added to bring out its flavor; however, it is not too difficult to find "sweet butter," or butter without salt. The same is true of bread — some bread is made without salt, for just such cases as your husband's.

Other foods that must be avoided are certain types of prepared meats, sauerkraut, salted fish, pickles, relishes and so on.

It goes without saying, of course, that salt shouldn't be added to anything, either in the cooking or at the table.

DON'T TAKE SODIUM

Here's another important point, too: It isn't the salt itself which must be avoided. It is the sodium, and this may be gotten from sources other than ordinary salt. Bicarbonate of soda, for example, contains sodium. So do some other things, ranging from soft drinks to some laxatives. Remember that the only reason for avoiding salt in such cases is its high sodium content.

It happened that some patients, even after adopting a low-salt diet, still have to be treated periodically to remove the excess fluid which accumulates in their bodies because of sodium in their systems (it collects water) plus the disease which is attacking them. That's the heart of the matter — some of these diseases make it difficult to throw off water, and any sodium in the body tends to cause the water to stay rather than to be thrown off. Hence the low-salt diet.

If the low-salt diet still does not do as much as you might hope for, if you've done the best you can, that's enough. If fluid still accumulates too fast, then the doctor will have to step in, either with drugs or at times with a "tapping" operation to draw off the excess fluid.

When your doctor orders a low-salt diet, do the best you can. Use the information I've just given you. If you still need further tapping or other dehydration, it doesn't mean you've failed with the salt control. It means the case is more rugged than mere salt control can handle.

Virtually none at all.

Cracked Tongue: In reply to several similar requests, deficiency in Vitamin B usually is behind this sort of trouble, but allergy also is surely a frequent offender too. Some persons have been known to develop a sore, cracked tongue promptly after eating nuts. This could apply, of course, to other foods to which the person happened to be sensitive.

Measles can be fatal to young children! For an explanation of the seriousness of this disease, write me in care of this newspaper, requesting my pamphlet, "Measles, the 'Harmless' Killer" and enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Education Defined

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Much has been written and spoken about education in Canada in recent months. It has been the subject of a national conference and much community discussion.

But possibly nowhere has the position of education in any community been better defined than by Carmel White, a grade 9 student in the West Bathurst Superior School.

Writing in an essay competition on the subject of education from the students' point of view, she said.

"Education is the basic industry in any community and without its normal functioning no other industry, trade or profession can long survive."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE NEW

We are all more or less slaves to the old. We shy at the new. And yet the old at one time was the new. The most marvelous and interesting period of anything, be it a thought, a plan, or a human being, is at birth. For at that time it is the new. All attention and all eyes centre there and then.

Get acquainted with new ideas, new viewpoints, new angles of vision — new people.

You may be dealing with the same things day after day. But seek each day to look at them from new viewpoints. Get back of them and discover new angles. They contain elements that you never suspected. They contain possibilities of which you never dreamed. Train your mind to discover. Even the people with whom you come in contact hourly may hold within them wells of priceless inspiration that you have never tapped.

Your personal growth and high standing in the business of this life depend upon the willingness and openmindedness with which you take to new things. Be ever ready to move alongside and under cover of progress by grasping eagerly at the new in whatever shape it is handed to you. If you feel yourself held in the monotony of your work as though in the grip of a vise, get loose. Hunt out the new — renew your strength in its pursuit.

Be not afraid of the new!

o Wheat Pact ith China Says beral Leader

By HAROLD MORRISON
anadian Press Staff Writer

WINDSOR (CP) — Lester B. arson says that contrary to tements by Prime Minister fenbaker, Canada has no wheat eement with Communist China. nist China.

What's more, he says, the Progressive Conservative government apparently has taken no lomatic action to counter ited States policy which had erfered with the sale of 1,000 nadian automobiles to the Chi- e Reds.

The Liberal leader, ending a -mile whirlwind tour of four thwestern Ontario ridings, ticized Conservative trade pol- Wednesday night in a permance that had its displays of ection and opposition.

Just as he entered the vocanal school auditorium where a pacity crowd of 900 cheered n, Mr. Pearson was met by out 20 union pickets, some of om booed him. Reported to be F supporters, the pickets card placards calling for the reoval of the excise tax on autobiles, the elimination of high ofits and unemployment, the tribution of surplus food to the edy.

LSO GREETED OPPONENT

Similar pickets had greeted the rival of Mr. Diefenbaker at ndsor earlier this month. Mr. earson smiled and stopped to ake hands with some of them. On the auditorium stage, he sed for photographers with his m around Paul Martin, former beral health minister who lost e Liberal leadership race to r. Pearson last January.

In speeches they complimented ch other in an expression of orking solidarity. Mr. Pearson id Mr. Martin, member for Esx East, was one of his closest iends. He had made a magnifint contribution as head of the anadian delegation to the United ations. He had helped work out me of the Liberals' election oposals.

The two would work close tother in the future as members a Liberal government, Mr. earson added as his audience plauded enthusiastically.

Mr. Pearson said he doubted hether the Conservative governent could do business with the inese Reds after Mr. Diefenker had stated he would not nsider diplomatic recognition of e Chinese Reds until they had expiated their sins."

AD A CHANCE

Canada had a chance to sell 000 automobiles to the Reds. ut U.S. state department policy, xpressed through an American arent company, had forbidden e Canadian subsidiary from mpleting the sale.

Legally, the Canadian governent could do nothing about the uation, Mr. Pearson said. But iplomatically, the government ould have discussed the matter the highest level at Washingn. There was no record that id been done.

Mr. Pearson swung through the Kent and three Essex ridings by automobile after flying down from Sault Ste. Marie. The bumpy air trip made him slightly ill, but he soon recovered.

He drew his biggest crowd of the day at Chatham where 1,200 persons filled the armories in a mid-afternoon rally. Mr. Pearson pledged price supports for corn and soybeans and promised that a Liberal government would remove inequities in freight rates on farm products.

Socred Leader Fence Checking In Home Pasture

EDMONTON (CP) — The national leader of the Social Credit party moved into his Peace River constituency today to do some "fence checking in the home pasture" before the federal election voting Monday.

Solon Low ended his major campaigning Wednesday in Edmonton where, in a day crammed with meetings with party organizers, radio and television interviews, a press conference and a public meeting, he:

Accused the Progressive Conservatives of "argument by insult" rather than by logic and reason;

Said a minority Parliament is not a good thing for national stability;

Said he feels there will be no stalemate in the House of Commons after Monday's vote;

Accused the Conservative and Liberal parties of bringing Canada to "the brink of depression;" and

The 58-year-old party leader shared the platform Wednesday night with Premier Manning of Alberta and both addressed the 900 persons in the 1,000-seat auditorium.

Deviating from a prepared text Mr. Low said it is time the people of Canada demanded that their representatives in Parliament get down to business with study by logic and reason of the solution to problems that have led the country to "the brink of depression."

Progressive Conservative supporters, he said, had handed pamphlets to persons outside the auditorium, pamphlets entitled What Does Social Credit Offer? and on the inside stating "funny money."

Mr. Low said this was using "argument by insult" rather than by "logic and reason" and said the Conservatives resorted to this method because they "have nothing solid to offer and when they find they have nothing to offer, they always resort to insult."

Prime Minister Makes Big Play For Quebec Vote

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has urged Quebec voters to send a Progressive Conservative representation to the next Parliament "in keeping with the contribution which this province makes in the building of a united Canada."

He told a giant Conservative rally Wednesday night that he wanted to be "embarrassed" by the choice of high-calibre Quebec members when he forms his next cabinet.

Speaking in French and English, Mr. Diefenbaker reviewed his government's record in social security, finance, public works, resources development and in coping with unemployment.

He also ridiculed Liberal campaign literature as "undiluted fiction."

The prime minister drew an estimated 6,000 persons to the rally, 4,500 of them seated inside the auditorium and 1,500 outside in the 40-degree weather listening over a public address system.

FROM MONTREAL AREA

About 150 persons shared the rostrum, mainly candidates from 21 constituencies in the Montreal area and officials of their party associations.

The Montreal area returned two Conservative supporters in the last election, one of them Postmaster - General William Hamilton, who also spoke last night.

Mr. Diefenbaker received a two minute standing ovation from the crowd when he ended his address. Earlier it sang Il a Gagne ses Epaulettes (He's Won his Laurels) when he completed his 15-minute French-language portion.

During his speech Mr. Diefenbaker held high what he said was a French-language Liberal election pamphlet, cut out in the form of his own silhouette. He invited the audience to read it. He said it contained "quotations from a Liberal newspaper of what I would have said, if I had said it, but never did say."

"It is a literary masterpiece of deception and indicates the degree to which the Liberal party fears for itself next Monday. I ask you to read this if you want some undiluted fiction."

Barons and TPT's Win Squirt and Midget Titles

The Barons and the T.P.T.'s are the squirt and midget champions of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association for the 1957-58 season.

Barons won the squirt title by tying the Red Wings 1-1 last night, thus taking their two-game, goals-to-count final series 7-6. T.P.T.'s whipped Booth Radio-TV's 8-1 in the second game of their midget set to capture the title 15-6.

The peewee and bantam champions will be declared on Saturday morning. Canadiens and Rangers are battling in the peewee division while Bruins and Canadiens are fighting for bantam honors.

Gary Lucas, scoring ace for the squirt Barons, fired the lone goal last night to provide his club with the tie game and the title. James Pringle netted the only Red Wing goal but his club could not score another marker necessary to knot the series. Barons won the first game by a narrow 6-5 score.

Jim Dahl sparked the TPT's to victory, hammering home four goals. Moe Hunter had a pair while Billy McGuire and John Graham each clicked for one J. Fuller tallied Booth's lone goal.

In an exhibition squirt game played in Trenton on Tuesday night, Belleville and Trenton All-Stars fought to a 1-1 stalemate. Brennan bagged the Belleville goal while Young scored for Trenton.

The Bolshoi Ballet

By EUGENE LANG

Can you imagine yourself being fortunate enough to have a choice seat in London's renowned Royal Opera House in Covent Garden to see the world's most famous ballet company perform? It's not impossible, because I was there in Covent Garden last evening to see the fabulous Bolshoi Ballet in all their splendor. I had many seats to watch from — from the loges, the first and second balconies, the dress circle, the orchestra, and even from the conductor's podium. Why all those different seats to watch from? Because the motion picture camera was my guide and from all these various choice locations in Covent Garden the camera caught in vivid color the clarity of detail, the gracefulness of motion, the supple agility of the dancers, the harmonious texture of bodies in perfect rapport to the music, and the wizardry of the many artists that make up this great Ballet.

The program is made up of seven characteristic numbers for which this Bolshoi has become world famous. The wild orgy of movement portrayed in "The Dance of the Tartars," the rhythmic pulsations of "The Spanish Dance", the vernal freshness of "Spring Water", the colorful vibrations of the "Polonaise and Cracovienne", the wild revelry and sensuous appeal of "Walpurgisnacht" (set to the Ballet Music from Gounod's "Faust"), and the beauty of form and movement by Galina Ulanova, the world's greatest dancer in the tender depiction of "The Dying Swan" — all of these are moments of such grandeur of conception and feeling that one is haunted by the remembrance of these scenes long after they have passed from view.

The narrative ballet "Giselle", perhaps one of the finest of all classical ballets, is given a performance that defies description it must be seen to be appreciated. One can only wonder how the precision of the dancers was ever achieved to such perfection, resulting in a production that is breathless in its grandiloquence. The musical scoring is supplied by the full sonorities of the Royal Opera House Symphony Orchestra, done in such way to make it a vibrant performance from beginning to end. Choreography of dazzling dimensions is supplied by Russian leaders in this field of art.

Missionary Convention to Be Held Here

Beginning Sunday there will be two weeks' series of Missionary meetings at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, Coleman and Moira Streets, with the Reverend and Mrs. Harold Catto, and the Reverend and Mrs. Donald C. Ward who will be telling of their work in the regions beyond.

REV. H. CATTO

REV. D. C. WARD

Mr. and Mrs. Catto have been laboring among the world's most primitive people the stone-age men of New Guinea, who can be reached by plane only, and once on the island, through the interior by foot up steep mountains, down narrow valleys, along the beds of streams to the solitary huts scattered over the wild terrain. The people are friendly but extremely superstitous and in constant dread of evil spirits. Sickness and death are attributed to the power of demons in the bodies of the afflicted.

Evangelism has enlightened their minds and opened their hearts. Workers have been trained and the Gospel translated; houses of worship have been established and are supporting or contributing to the native pastors' support.

AMONG THE ARABS

Mr. and Mrs. Ward, have been serving among the Arabs, particularly among the nomadic tribes living in black goats-hair tents on the deserts. During World II, Mr. and Mrs. Ward kept "open house" for the boys of the Allied forces where many of them found Christ. While stationed at Kerak and Madaba a new station has been established in the Jordan capital of Amman.

Most of their travelling is done by horse or camel and on foot where 900,000 refugees have been visited. Sometimes members of the Alliance churches are found, depressed and broken in spirit, whom they comfort, and for whom suitable places to live are fonrid.

During the meetings slides in color, and curios will be shown of the work done in obedience to the great commission: "Go Ye into All the World and Preach the Gospel to Every Creature."

Y.F.G. Holds 'Western Nite'

Belleville Youth For Christ held a "Western Nite" in the auditorium of the Quinte Secondary School on March 22.

The platform was decorated to suit the occasion, and also the ushers were dressed in cowboy costumes and several participating in the program were dressed in Western style.

The rally program opened with the theme chorus "Christ For Me." Several songs were sung under the direction of Mr. E. Belch, after which Carl Green led the choir in a number. An important time in the rally was prayer time, and Mr. Archie Campbell, from Oshawa, led in prayer.

Calvary Temple presented a musical ensemble with several instrumental numbers and duets by Mr. and Mrs. David Dow and a solo by Mr. Robert Noyes.

BIBLE QUIZ SCORES

Students from Belleville Collegiate Institute, Picton High School, Napanee High School and Deseronto High School participated in the Bible quiz. The scores were: Deseronto high school 120 points; Napanee high school 120 points; Picton High school 110 points and Belleville Collegiate Institute 80 points.

The special feature of the evening was the film "Danger Trail." This was a western type gospel film featuring Bill Rice, an evangelist. Bill was speaking to a group of cowboys at a campfire after they had been on a long trail. As Bill spoke to them he told them of the story of his father and the danger on the old-time western trails. Pictures were shown of the damage the lions did and how dangerous they were. This was illustrated to show how sin, as a lion, is on one's track and how important it is to be on the gospel trail with Christ as friend and not as an enemy.

At the conclusion of the film, Jim Blackwood gave an invitation to accept Christ as a personal Saviour and many responded to the invitation.

Mr., Mrs. Ira Pymer Mark 57 Years of Married Life

A pretty March wedding was solemnized 57 years ago today by the Reverend R. Bamforth, pastor of the Methodist Church of Gore circuit, at the old homestead in Gore of Ameliasburg, when Orminta Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Fox, became the bride of Ira Pymer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pymer, of Mountain View. They were attended by Miss Ordella Pymer sister of the bridegroom, and by Mr. Willoughby Fox, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the young couple left for Toronto, where they resided for a number of years, where Mr. Pymer worked at the trade of carpenter.

Since retiring, Mr. Pymer has made his home in Belleville, at 19 Frank Street. They have one daughter, Mrs. M. Bass, and one grandson, Alex Bass, and three great grandchildren, all of whom reside in Sudbury, and who were pre-anniversary guests of their grandparents, over the weekend.

Since Mrs. Pymer is not enjoying the best of health, the anniversary was a quiet one, with a buffet luncheon served to the several guests who called to congratulate them, and to wish them a happy diamond anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Pymer were the happy recipients of many cards bearing good wishes, as well as useful gifts from loved ones.

St. Joseph's CWL Plans Easter Bazaar

On Monday evening in St. Joseph's School, there was a fine spirit of enthusiasm shown by the members of the Catholic Women's League, planning their popular Easter bazaar and tea to be held early in April. A new attraction for this bazaar will be a "delicatessen booth." Along with this will be the usual booths of hand-made articles, bake table, candy booth, fish pond and draws for various worthwhile items.

The president, Mrs. J. Hanley, presided at the monthly meeting and requested the various reports.

There are 112 paid memberships as reported by Mrs. P. Halloran, convener of memberships. A list of the members and their record of attendance at meetings during the past term has been posted for the elections to take place at the April meeting.

In preparation for the elections, the president announced the appointments of members of the nominating committee as follows: Mrs. J. C. Baker, chairman, with Mrs. C. Murphy and Mrs. S. Klazek. Nomination forms will be mailed to members who are unable to be present at the meeting on Monday. The forms should be returned to Mrs. Baker, or to other members of the committee, before April 14th.

All officers and conveners are requested to have their annual reports in at the April meeting to the recording secretary, Mrs. D. Duminie.

Mrs. T. Kelly, corresponding secretary, gave her report and Mrs. E. Hopkins, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Reporting for the league magazine, Mrs. C. Murphy would like the fees still outstanding, in as soon as possible.

It was decided to send donations to the "Good Thief Apostolate" and to the Father Byrne Memorial Seminary Fund.

Mrs. T. McQuaid and Mrs. B. Beirne are pleased with the work of the Brownies, which is progressing favorably. At the present time, the girls in the Brownie group are learning the useful craft of knitting. A sleigh-ride party was arranged for them during the winter.

Mrs. H. Carr-Braint, for the League of the Sacred Heart, advised the subscriptions are now due for the "Canadian Messenger" magazine.

Following the meeting the Reverend J. J. Buckley conducted a question and answer period which all enjoyed as interesting and informative.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Janice F. — We should ignore his parents and get engaged.

Mrs. L. F. — They should break it up.

Janice F. — I am 19 and I have been going with a boy of 20 for the past year. We are very much in love and want to be married.

Alan's parents seemed to like me very much at first, but when he told them he wanted to get engaged, they turned against me. They said they don't want him to get married until he is over 21. That's okay with me, but I just wanted to be engaged now.

My parents were very fond of Alan, but now they are angry about his parents' attitude and they want me to break the whole thing up. Alan and I feel the same about one another and I think he ought to ignore his parents and we should go ahead and get engaged.

Mrs. L. F. — It is true that my husband and I liked Alan and felt that he would be a suitable husband for Janice, but after what has happened we are inclined to feel that his parents are the kind who could make a lot of trouble for a young couple.

Ever since Alan told his parents he wants to become engaged they have treated Janice very slightingly and have said cutting things to her. Their attitude seems to be that she is trying to "hook" him before he has a chance to know his own mind.

We feel that Alan is quite mature for his age, but his parents' hostility could have a very bad effect on him and the marriage. Janice should reconcile herself to giving him up.

The Council: The L. F.'s may be taking the "slight" to their daughter a little too hard. They should recognize that 20 is really a very young age for a man to commit himself to marriage. They have adjusted to the idea of losing their daughter to a husband in the very near future, but Alan's parents probably find it somewhat of a shock to think of their son as a married man.

If Alan's parents believe he has not yet had "a chance to know his own mind" they may have good reason for this theory. Probably they know the youth a little better than either the L. F.'s or Janice. Probably they are concerned about his ability to take on the responsibility of a family and feel that he should first be more firmly established in a career.

In any case, there doesn't seem to be any reason for rash actions such as getting engaged without Alan's family's approval or breaking up the relationship. Since Alan's parents have shown friendliness toward Janice in the past, they might be open to discussion of the whole problem with the L. F.'s. After talking the matter out a little further, they may be willing to settle on a reasonable date for an engagement.

Until an engagement does take place, however, the L. F.'s would be wise to encourage their daughter to see others. It is quite possible that she, too, can benefit from the opportunity to get to know her own mind betetr.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

HERE'S A BRIDE-TO BE WHO THINKS RIGHT ABOUT HER WEDDING PLANS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Because of family circumstances, I must pay every expense for my wedding in May. I'm not complaining, dear Mrs. Beeckman — just explaining my question. My fiance's family, whom I dearly love, have a fine, large house which they have most generously offered to me for our wedding reception. But I agree with you when you so strongly advise a bride-to-be against accepting this offer, however sweet and kind the intention.

I love my mother and father and our home, and although our home is very small and couldn't be simpler, I want to have our reception there, inviting only our attendants (one or two each) and the few close relatives and intimate friends we can accommodate, serving only the wedding cake (to be made by my very-good-cook aunt) fruit punch, and coffee.

Before the reception we're to be married in the church we both belong to, and although the wedding will be very informal and simple, we'd like to invite lots of guests, both families, of course, relatives of both families, family friends, our mutual friends, "his" co-workers and mine, some neighbors.

Do you approve of all of these plans? If so, will you please point to the wrong ones and I'll change them. And thank you a million times!

2. We are having our wedding in May because then we both can have our 2-weeks vacation-time for our wedding trip and to begin to furnish the small apartment we can rent from May first. Now another most important question. My fiance's kind mother and father, understanding why I want to give my wedding reception in my own home, now have another wonderful suggestion: that, as soon as we wish after we have returned from our little trip, they have a large reception for us in their house, inviting all relatives and friends of both families. In your opinion would it be all right for me to accept this wonderful offer of theirs? — Bride-to-be

1. What a fine, right-thinking bride-to-be you are . . . my deep salutations to you. I'm sure you have made your devoted mother and father happy .. . I'm sure you'll make your bridegroom supremely happy . . . and I'm just as sure you have won the love of your inlaws, and now, by your decision, their deep regard. You were so very wise to make the plans you have made for your wedding and reception, giving honor to your mother and father and to their and your home. It is apparent you explained so graciously to your fiance's mother and father your reason for not accepting their kind and generous offer that they completely understand, and I know it deepened their devotion to you, their respect for you, their pride in you.

2. Do most appreciatively accept at once this suggestion of your fiance's mother and father that they give a reception for you and your bridegroom in their house after your return from the wedding trip. This "second reception" is, I think, one of the most charming of occasions, and it will be a memorable one. God bless you for your goodness.

The Ham of Your Choice For Easter

By Mary Moore

How we keep our heads at all with all the plugging of products by TV, radio, billboards, and ads, is a wonder. If we did as they say "Buy it now", we would have nothing left for staple grocerics.

Is there anybody in this audience who would consider serving a fresh ham for Easter dinner? If it were all dressed up for a party? With a glaze and rosy apple halves for a border? A fresh ham, bone in, rind on, would cost between 5c and 10c less per pound than it's classy sister, smoked ham. The still more elegant boneless, rindless, smoked little numbers would cost about 25% more in most communities

I'll give you times and temperatures for all, and glazes that you can spread on the ham of your choice.

GLAZED FRESH HAM:

Place a fresh ham, room temperature, about 11 pounds, on a rack in a roasting pan. Bake in moderately slow oven, 325 degs. Fahr. Fresh ham should be baked about 35-40 minutes per pound. For an 11-pound ham, it would take 6½ to 7 hours' baking time. A 5-pound picnic shoulder will take about 3 1-3 hours. An 8-pound one, about 5 hours. One half hour before time is up, cut the rind off the ham and score the fat into 1" diamonds. Stud the squares with cloves. Pour 1 cup cider over the ham and sprinkle it with 1½ teaspoons salt and ¼ cup dark brown sugar. Turn the oven up to 400 degs. Fahr. Bake ½ hour, basting frequently to make a fine glaze. Garnish with rosy stewed apple halves.

BAKED SMOKED HAM:

If ham is 12 pounds or undc. and at room temperature, allow 18-20 minutes per pound at 300 degs. Fahr. Place fat side up on rack in shallow pan, covered with heavy brown paper. Do not add water or put on lid. Thus a 12-pound smoked ham requires between 3¾ to 4 hours. Forty-five minutes before finishing time, remove rind, carefully score into squares or diamonds, and spread with Glaze: One cup pureed apricots (Note: use dried apricots which have been stewed and sweetened and sieved or, if you care to afford it, 2 tins of baby food apricot puree.) Insert 1 clove in each square of fat and bake uncovered at 325 degs. Fahr. for remaining 45 minutes.

BAKED BONELESS ROLLED HAM:

These must be baked according to packer's instructions on casing — because some are smoked longer than others. Smoking partially cooks the meat, so only a comparatively short baking and glazing period is required.

GLAZING:

One-half hour before baking time is up, grate rind and squeeze juice from 1 large orange. Stir this into 1 cup brown sugar and spread on top and sides of ham. Return to oven and continue baking for ½ hour.

NOTE:

Pineapple crescents with maraschino cherries at centre may be arranged on top of glaze to give professional appearance and delicious accompaniment.

Only 9 Women Reached Parliament as Members

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — More than a quarter-century ago, four women tackled a federal election campaign for the first time in Canadian history.

It was in 1921, the first election in which women had the franchise. Only Agnes Macphail, 31-year-old school teacher representing the United Farmers of Ontario in Grey South-East, made the grade to become the first woman member of the Commons.

In the 37 years since then, only nine women have reached Parliament Hill as elected members, although women make up about half of the voting population.

FEW CANDIDATES

One reason so few make it is that only a small number stand as candidates. Seats at stake have ranged from 235 in 1921 to 265 today, but the record number for women candidates, set in 1953, is only 48. In this year's election, only 21 of the 832 candidates are women.

Miss Macphail died in 1954. Sometimes termed an out-and-out reformer, she was the lone woman in the house for 14 of her 19 years in Ottawa.

She was joined in 1935 by Mrs. Martha Louise Black, nearly 70 when she was elected as an Independent Conservative from the Yukon to stand in during the illness of her husband, former Commons Speaker George Black.

Mrs. Black died last November at 91, a colorful woman who trekked with the Klondikers into a man's land and for five years served as Commons representative for what still appears to be a "man's land."

TWO IN LAST HOUSE

Only two women served in the last Parliament, both Progressive Conservatives. Both State Secretary Ellen Fairclough from Hamilton West—first woman federal cabinet minister—and Margaret Aitken from the Toronto area's York-Humber are among 21 women candidates for the March 31 general election.

Other women who have held seats in the Commons:

Mrs. Dorise Nielsen, United Progressive member for North Battleford, Sask., 1940-45; Mrs. Cora Casselman, Liberal MP for Edmonton East, 1941-45; Mrs. Gladys Strum, CCF member for Qu'Appelle, Sask., 1945-49; Mrs. Ann Shipley, Liberal member for Northern Ontario's Timiskaming, 1953-57; Sybil Bennett, Progressive Conservative member for Halton, Ont., who was elected in 1953 but died in 1956 before completing her term.

Four of the nine were defeated at general elections after serving one term. Miss Macphail held on for four elections and was defeated in 1940. Three years later she made a political comeback and was re-elected as a CCF member in the Ontario legislature for two terms.

Mrs. Black didn't run for re-election in 1940. Mrs. Fairclough and Miss Aitken have not been defeated since their first victories in 1950 and 1953, respectively.

NOW IN CHINA

Of the former women members, teacher-housewife Mrs. Nielsen, 55, has gone the farthest afield since her 1945 defeat. She now is teaching English in Communist China at the Institute of Foreign Languages, Peiping.

Mrs. Shipley, 58, an able backbencher with long experience in municipal politics who was defeated in last June's election, now takes no active part in politics. She holds two part-time administrative jobs at Kirkland Lake, a Northern Ontario gold-mining centre.

Sitting in the Commons with an unprecedented number of women members — four were elected in 1953—Mrs. Shipley in 1956 became the first woman to present the formal motion to launch the throne speech debate. She also represented Canada at the United Nations General Assembly.

Mrs. Casselman, now 69, became the first Liberal woman MP when she won a by-election in 1941 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband, F. C. Casselman, elected in 1940.

She contested no more elections after her defeat. Active in Edmonton community and welfare organizations, she also is an officer of the National Federation of Liberal Women and since 1948 had been Alberta's representative on the federal district commission.

Mrs. Strum, now 52, followed her 1949 defeat with an unsuccessful bid for the Vancouver-Burrard seat in the 1953 general election.

Now she is studying for a Bachelor of Education at the University of Saskatchewan, plans to continue for her master's degree and then write biographies of prominent Canadian CCF women.

E. Margetson Marks 83rd Anniversary

A happy event took place recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hardy, Consecon, when 40 friends and relatives gathered to honor the 83rd birthday of Mr. Ernest Margetson, and to present him with many gifts and cards.

St. Patrick's Day shamrocks were the theme for the prettily decorated room and the table was lovely with spring flowers and centred with a large birthday cake, complete with candles.

Miss Gail Margetson, Frankford, read the address to her grandfather, and presented him with the gifts.

He received an electric blanket from his children, a travelling clock from his grandchildren and great grandchildren, and a pigskin overnight bag from other friends and relatives, besides other numerous gifts and cards, some of which arrived from his daughter and granddaughter in England.

A social evening was enjoyed by all present. Bounteous refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Mathews, Mrs. Don Charlton, Miss Jean Hardy and Mrs. Ralph Margetson.

Mr. Margetson, who is in the best of health, was born in London, England, and is a veteran of the South African War and World War I. He has resided in the Melville district for thirty years.

Carpet Dealer Says Women Not Worth Salt

CAIRO (AP) — A 43-year-old Egyptian carpet dealer, who believes women are not worth their salt, has married 31 times and is aiming to wed some more—just because he strives to be a good Moslem.

He says he does not believe in marriage for love. His only love marriage was at 26 when he was "green." That was his first.

"It was my only love marriage out of the 31 and it did not endure long," Hajj Rizk says. It was to a lady doctor whom he divorced after two months because she was "too busy to be a wife."

El Manakhly justifies his frequent marrying by quoting the prophet Mohammed's words in the Korean: "A Moslem may take four wives at one time."

ONLY THREE NOW

Hajj Rizk, who at present has only three wives, says he has had no favorite wife.

"They are all alike to me. I do not discriminate between one and the other. I whisper romantically in each one's ear that she means all my life . . .

"Once in a fashionable department store, my eyes hit upon a beautiful woman. I approached her, talked to her, she responded. I dated her and on the following day we were married."

His busiest day: Divorcing four wives in one day and replacing them.

A.O. Drysdale Discusses Problems of Education

Ever since the Russian Sputnik shattered the atmosphere and North American complacency, the problems of educating young Canadians have been a prime topic for discussion.

At the monthly meeting of the University Women's Club, the most recent and most authoritative ideas on this topic were reported by Mr. A. O. Drysdale.

Mr. Drysdale was one of Belleville's five delegates at the national conference on education held in Ottawa last month; the biggest and most representative conference ever held in Canada.

EDUCATION PROBLEMS

Canadian education has problems both in quantity and quality. An unprecedented increase in the birth rate, combined with considerable immigration has resulted in a situation where one-quarter of the population is under 15 years of age. This proportion of children to adults presents serious difficulties in obtaining an adequate supply of teachers.

Furthermore, to educate such a large number of children requires a great deal of money. Some delegates felt that more money alone would solve most educational problems — notably oversized classes and shortage of teachers. Dr. Bissel, the new president of the University of Toronto, felt that more sources of revenue should be found, particularly from industry. In actual fact, only two and one-half per cent of the gross national income is spent on education.

When the delegates to the conference considered the quality of Canadian education, radical differences concerning the purpose of education became evident.

Sir Ronald Gould, the guest of honor at the conference, pointed out that as far as education is concerned, all people are born unequal. A Russian guest at the conference emphasized that education must concern itself with the intelligentsia. Many deelgates stressed the view that specially gifted children should be in separate classes and that slow learners be taught at their own level.

ADOLESCENT PLAY PENS

Dr. Eugene Forsey described present high schools as adolescent play pens where the teachers act as babysitters. Several plans for improving this situation were suggested. A streaming system whereby students of varying abilities take different courses has been successfully used in some parts of Canada. It was pointed out that 70 per cent of Ottawa's pupils complete public school in seven years, while only 20 per cent of Belleville pupils do so.

One of the chief purposes of the education conference was to bring the problems of education before the Canadian public. Mr. Drysdale showed his worth as a delegate, in the compelling report he gave the University Women's Club.

He was introduced by Mrs. A. Gillis and thanked by Mrs. R. G. Walsh.

Churchill P.S. Holds Fine 'Fun Fair'

The annual 'Fun Fair' at Sir Winston Churchill school, under the auspices of the Home and School Association, was held on Friday evening. The halls were gaily decorated with colored pennants that gave a festive air and cheery note of welcome, [illegible] daffodils garnished the [illegible]ous booths and coffee bar, adding a flourish of spring.

A large crowd waited entrance at 7 p.m. when the doors opened, and from that moment on until the last article was gone and the last film over, gleeful squeals and shouts echoed through the halls, depicting the children's delight.

Mrs. Bruce Kerr convened the 'Fair' with the assistance of co-conveners for each activity.

Mrs. B. Nemtin was in charge of the home baking counter which had many delcacies to offer, and in such an attractive manner.

Mrs. Donald Grant convened the candy counter, where adults and children alike took advantage of the bags of fudge and other delicious varieties of home made candy.

The fish pond, under the leadership of Mrs. A. M. Green, was a popular spot with a con[illegible] line of eager kiddies wait[illegible] to try their luck.

Mr. Barry Simpson operated a most successful puppet show and gave several performances before his audiences were satisfied.

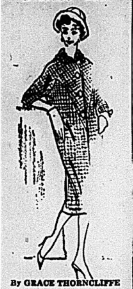
WHITE ELEPHANT

The "white elephant" counter with Mrs. John Gardiner in charge, furnished a good variety of articles, making each child happy as he proudly clutched his own purchase.

Other events of interest were the theatre held in the auditorium under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowe; the refreshment booth with Mrs. W. L. Canniff in charge, where soft drinks, ice cream, pop corn and potato chips were sold; and lastly, the coffee bar with its cheerful and spring like appearance, where many found relaxation for a few moments while Mrs. Don Maddocks and her assistants served coffee and cookies.

[illegible]e general atmosphere throughout was one of gaiety and fun and a good time had by all.

Chemise Coat



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Many women prefer a coat cut on chemise lines to its dress counterpart. This one is done in a shadowy gray - and - white checked wool, set off by large white pearl buttons. The straight line of the chemise look is relieved by the deep V yoke with the sleeves cut in one, a neat device.

Fashion Says 'No' To Waistlines But 'Ayes' the Hipline

If there is one spot in the daytime silhouette that draws attention this year it is the hip, and mostly because it so different from hippy hips of recent past. Now everything is done to make hips look narrow and flat.

Jackets are wider at top to make hips dwindle; belts placed at hips are loose so that hips almost disappear; bloused bodices make hips look smaller, and chemise dresses hang straight from the shoulders at back, again making hips invisible.

Mother's Helper

IF YOUR son sometimes takes his lunch to school in a paper sack, be sure to print his name on the sack in large letters. If two or more lunches look alike on the outside, an argument about ownership may very likely arise.

HASTINGS COUNTY MUSEUM

The Moira River Construction Authority, under the leadership of Mr. Lloyd H. Price, Warden of Hastings County, are sponsoring a special meeting at Thurlow township hall, Cannifton, to consider the possibility of establishing a museum for the County of Hastings.

The meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, April 9th, at 8 p.m. Mr. Michael Chubb, secretary -treasurer of the authority, has forwarded invitations to executive members, the Hastings County Historical Society, the United Empire Loyalist Association, also to the press, the radio, and they hope this will be a significant meeting in order that a worthwhile venture of a special museum to house articles of value to posterity, can be established.

TWEED

TWEED — Last Saturday, Achievement Day for North Hastings County, was held in Madoc, for 4-H Club members and their leaders. Four car loads from this district wended their way in that direction and seven clubs were represented: Chapman; Cooper-Remington, Eldorado, Maynooth, McCarthur's Mills, Queensborough and Roslin. Out of the seven present, six clubs had their 100 per cent completion. All girls who had signed up last autumn had completed record books, and attended the Achievement Day programs.

There were approximately 80 girls and their leaders in attendance, registration was open from 9.30 a.m. until 10 a.m. after which the program of judging classes got under way. Each girl was required to take her own baking, four whole wheat or graham muffins. The girls were given initials and in this way were selected to be in the diferent groups according to the initial they were given. There was judging of menus; muffin and the cereal shelf quiz, from their year's work on this project. When the judging was finished, reasons had to be given to Sandra Thibaudeau, the home economist, as to why they were led to judge the different classes as they did. The home econnomist is for all of Hastings County and Lennox and Addington as well, Miss Lambton, her assistant, in turn had a discussion as to how the girls had placed their reasons.

Adjournment took place at 12 noon for lunch. Classes were to continue at 1.15 p.m. After lunch, demonstrations and skits were presented from each club. Next was the comments on the club exhibits which were interesting.

CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

Program planning for 1958 came next, the presentation of certificates and sterling silver spoon with the 4-H crest on the handle, which is donated and presented by the Department of Agriculture, to 4-H clubbers and their leaders.

If the girls complete two projects they get a certificate —If they complete six projects — they receive the County honor certificate and are also presented with a pin — one girl from Chapman Club received this honor — Gail Holmes.

To complete 12 projects, they get a provincial honor certificate and a pin. Two girls were awarded this honor — one was from McArthur's Mills, and the second was from Chapman's Club, -- Barbara Blakely, who is employed at the local hydro office here in Tweed. It will be recalled that Miss Blakely was the young lady who was chosen "Queen of the Ball" at the Junior Farmers' Dance, in December 1957 in Belleville, and who also participated in the Christmas parade in Tweed on a float which was sponsored and built by the Kinsmen Club of Tweed, and which was also in relation to the "doings" of 4-H Club work of which Miss Blakely is "tops".

LEADERS TRAINING SCHOOL

The Leaders' Training School will be held in Stirling on April 3rd, and the three leaders from Chapman expect to attend, they are, Mrs. Isobel Martin, Mrs. Bernice Booth and Mrs. Doris Lawrenson.

TO MAKE PACIFIC FLIGHT SAFER

A system of helicopter rescue operations is being devised for the long stretches of the Pacific airlines routes. The system is to assure rescue if a plane is forced down and the survivors manage to inflate life rafts. Survivors signal their position by dye markers and flares which, easily spotted from the air, bring helicopters to the rescue. The 'copters take on their passengers from the surface of the sea.

CAMPBELLFORD

Full Agenda Discussed by H-S Board

CAMPBELLFORD—The regular meeting of the North-East Northumberland District High School Board was held in the Campbellford high school with all members present.

Mr. E. Darling, principal of Campbellford high school, reported on a meeting of the Headmasters of Eastern Ontario held in Peterborough last month. The position of the gifted student and the slow learner in Grade IX is becoming a problem of considerable debate throughout the province. In the general course, the effect of the slow learner on the progress of the more gifted student, and in larger classes on the effectiveness of the teacher, is producing disastrous results. It is suggested that terminal courses be established in Grade IX and X whereby the slow learner could be provided with a more practical curriculum made up of double periods of English, commercials and shops rather than a curriculum of Latin and French as provided by the general course.

A good deal of concern was expressed for the over-age and academically unfit pupil from becoming a permanent drain on the community and it was urged that the Secondary Schools and Board of Education Act of 1954 be enforced. This act provides that boards may claim fees from parents of students attending secondary schools beyond six years.

Promotion at the end of grade XII was the subject of more discussion. The fact of mere credit in a Grade XII subject does not justify the hope of success in the subject in Grade XIII. Experience has shown that a mark of at least 60 per cent in particular subjects and an even high percentage on the total gives a more realistic indication for advanced work.

NEEDED RIFLE RANGE IMPROVEMENTS

A letter from Eastern Ontario headquarters was read, stating an inspection of the rifle range in Campbellford high school had been made and recommended certain improvements. Mr. Darling stated that the utmost caution is exercised at all times and it was decided to carry on in the same manner until the present program is completed.

Mr. Chynoweth reported that, due to weather conditions, the average attendance in Warkworth high school for the month of February was a low of 84.33 per cent.

LARGER GRANT IN 1958

D. H. Meyers, chairman of the finance committee, reported that new regulations concerning grants had been received and, after studying them, he expressed the opinion the grant received in 1958 would be somewhat greater than in 1957. It was decided that the finance committee meet to familiarize themselves with the new grant structure.

There was considerable discussion on establishing a commercial course. W. R. Loucks, chairman of the management committee, asked if the board would favor a meeting of the management committee with the teachers' committee to ascertain if the teachers would be willing to allow some resilience in the salary schedule in engaging a teacher of special commercial.

The proposed addition to the Campbellford high school was again discussed. In order to provide accommodation for the increased enrollment in this high school district, the board feels this matter must be decided upon as soon as possible. Comparative figures on costs and alternate plans will be presented directly to the municipalities.

Accounts presented at the meeting were approved for payment.

Will Need Man to Experiment With Total Weightlessness Solving Space-Age Problem

ALAMAGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The prime space-age problem can be posed in five letters. It's zero-G.

Zero-G means no gravity. When man gets far into space, away from the earth's pull, he will weigh nothing.

Colonel John Paul Stapp puts it this way:

"We must find out how well man can change gravity. climates. A 150 - pound man on earth would weigh 25 pounds on the moon, but during his flight from the earth he would weigh nothing.

"There is no way to experiment with prolonged absence of gravity except with an orbital satellite research vehicle. We can learn a good deal with animals, but eventually we will need man to experiment with total weightlessness."

MANNED SATELLITE

Putting it another way, the first step to the moon — or to anywhere in outer space — will be a manned satellite. Then, says Stapp, it will be a space platform.

The next probability, he believes, would be a moon landing and exploration — "and that is about as far as we can conjecture at this time."

Stapp is head of the aero-medical laboratory at the air force missile test centre here. Next month he goes to Dayton to take over a similar laboratory at the big air base there.

A 47-year-old physician, Stapp first won fame in 1954. Then he travelled 632 miles an hour on a rocket sled designed to see whether a human could survive the jarring starts and stops of a rocket into space.

Weightlessness can occur for a fraction of a second when you drive at fairly high speed over a comparatively sharp rise in a highway. As the car clears the bump and starts down the other side, your body rises for an instant off the car seat. Roller coaster riders know the same feeling.

WEIGHTLESS PILOT

Capt. Joe Kittinger is an air force pilot who has done considerable experimenting in weightlessness. He also has taken a balloon up 96,000 feet to test human reaction to high altitudes.

Kittinger will climb to 20,000 feet, level off, fly at top speed, then put the plane into a climbing angle of about 70 degrees, push the stick ahead and go over the same sort of hump that a roller coaster rider would.

Anything not fastened down goes to the top of the canopy above his head. So would he, if his seat belt didn't hold him.

But the longest Kittinger has been able to maintain this weightlessness is 35 secoonds. That's not long enough, says another captain who won a Ph.D with a thesis on weightlessness.

Capt. Grover J. D. Schack of the missile centre space biology branch says: "Long-term exposure is something we know very little about."

CAN'T DRINK

Schack has made many flights with Kittinger. He has found that man can't eat or drink in the usual way while he is "in zero-G.

Open containers just don't work. Squeeze bottles or tubes will. Water won't flow. It will roll out of an ordinary glass and be suspended on globules. To get a drink, you splash it into your mouth.

Put a peanut in your mouth and it's apt to float back out.

"An ordinary meal would be all over the cockpit," he says.

An exhaled puff of smoke would remain where it is. There are no air currents, and no gas is heavier than another. A man might sit in his own cloud of exhaled carbon dioxide and gradually asphyxiate himself.

DEPENDS ON FLUID

Man depends for balance on fluid in a curled little tube inside his ears. When he stands, the fluid is at the bottom. When he lies down, the fluid moves, and tells him the position of his head. Gravity keeps the fluid down, so man knows even when he's upside down.

But in zero-G, there is no force to do the job. What is the answer? Shack thinks it lies in instruments.

In instrument flying during bad weather, pilots must learn to trust the instruments completely. They are told to forget about flying "by the the seat of the pants." A plane's instruments may show an aircraft turning to the right, but man's complex nervous system may make him feel it's level.

Pilots have learned to trust instruments, and he believes man's adjustment to space will come in the same way.

THERE'S A SPRING TWINKLE IN HIS EYE

Spring is busting out all over and with the camel at the Bronx zoo it shows up in an extra twinkle in his eyes. For this is the season that a young camel's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

TO ENLARGE CATECHISM

LONDON (Reuters)—Church of England authorities Wednesday appointed a commission of six bishops and eight other clergy to modernize and enlarge the catechism and rewrite it "in language more suitable for present conditions." Anglican laymen and women professionally engaged in giving religious instruction to children and young people will be invited to join an advisory panel to assist the clergy in their task.

SHOT, DIDN'T KNOW IT

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Determined to learn the cause of a persistent stomach ache, Ernest Miranda went to the doctor Wednesday and learned he had been shot 11 days ago. An x-ray disclosed a small-calibre bullet had entered his abdomen. Miranda told police he had the pain since March 15. His last previous recollection was drinking in a tavern the night before.

Stand by Dulles Reflects Confidence of NATO Support

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The new tough-talking stand by State Secretary Dulles on the issue of a summit meeting reflects his confidence of support from other NATO governments.

It was no accident that Dulles delivered his blunt analysis of the summit situation almost at the same time as the West German bundestag approved its government's policy to accept nuclear weapons if the NATO command advised such a course.

West Germany thus fell in line with Britain and France on this vital question which, however, has aroused bitter and highly articulate opposition in those countries.

The pre-summit sparring—if so it can be called—now seems to have entered a new stage, and none too soon.

Premier Bulganin's incessant letter-writing in all directions had buried the project under such a mass of propaganda that the whole thing was beginning to look hopeless, and even a bit ridiculous.

United States missives to Russia, and vice versa, had begun to sound like querulous repetitions of "yes, that's what you say, but you didn't reply to what I said in my last letter."

After all the haggling about agenda topics, Dulles' statement that the U.S. is willing to discuss anything at a pre-summit foreign ministers' conference at least has the virtue of clarity.

The meeting of the Supreme Soviet in Moscow — beginning Thursday—has led to speculation that Russia, too, may spring something new—and startling.

Possibly, it is said in Washington, the Russians will simply announce an end of nuclear testing, leaving the west without any way of checking whether manufacture of nuclear weapons would continue as usual.

This would steal the thunder from persistent reports that the United States may be prepared to agree on a ban on nuclear bomb tests for two or three years.

In an important change from its previous position, the U.S. is reported swinging to the view that testing can be suspended safely for a set period provided the ban is enforced by an adequate system of international inspection. Until recently, it had insisted that a test ban must be accompanied by a ban on production of fissionable material for military use.

This is a field in which Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary - general, is hard at work during his current visit to Moscow — urging resumption of UN disarmament talks, now held up because of a Russian boycott.

Ironically, the key to a test ban is probably the degree of success reached by the two chief antagonists. Neither the U.S. nor Russia is likely to agree to a ban if one feels the other is ahead.

Jumps Through Window Twice After Accident

TORONTO (CP) — A man ran into a house after his car struck a truck in suburban Scarborough, threw himself out a second-storey window, dashed back into the building and jumped again.

Police said the man, identified as Daras Zupnic, 31, of Toronto, was about to make a third attempt Wednesday despite head injuries, face and body lacerations when he was seized by a passerby and traffic officers.

Zupnic was taken to hospital along with two other persons injured in the crash. They were James Snow, 38, and Ray Doran, 44, both of Toronto.

Mrs. Anna Barris, 63, said she looked out her front door when she heard the crash and saw a man running toward her. She thought he wanted to use the telephone. He ran past her upstairs and dived through a window 16 feet from the ground.

Mrs. Barris said the man next ran in the back door. She and her daughter-in-law tried to stop him but he pushed them away. He jumped a second time.

Govt. Bought 1,448 Autos Last Season

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost has disclosed that his government last year bought 1,448 cars but he didn't say how many were Canadian-made.

He tabled in the legislature Wednesday an answer to a question by Arthur Reaume (L—Essex North) about government car purchases. Mr. Reaume, a former mayor of Windsor, wanted to know how many of the cars "were of foreign manufacture."

The premier's answer, filed with the clerk, said:

"The expression 'foreign manufacture' is not clear enough to answer this question. In most vehicles there are in most cases articles and parts manufactured in other countries—principally the United Kingdom and the United States—going into the assembly."

Another part of Mr. Reaume's question asked: "In view of unemployment in the automobile industry in Ontario will it now be the policy of the minister to purchase Canadian-made cars exclusively?"

The reply:

"It is, and has been, the policy of the government to purchase vehicles from industries located in Ontario whenever possible."

In answer to Harry Nixon (L—Brant) the government disclosed 826 students were enrolled at the Ontario College of Education last year, compared with 761 in 1956 and 870 in 1955. Thirteen were specializing in scientific subjects while 21 were specializing in physcal education.

LOSES JOB

COFFEE FOR THE ROAD

Ruffee, a 300-pound champion St. Bernard was a natural choice for the Ontario Safety League's role in its campaign to publicize non-alcoholic beverages for drivers. But whoever painted the sign on the cask around Ruffee's neck didn't know how important it was to use water-proof paint. After a few sips of food and water, Ruffee dribbled enough to make the coffee sign look like "brandy". So, League President Ira Needles had to formally and regretfully fire Ruffee from his job at the Safe Driver Award banquet in Toronto where 800 accident - free commercial drivers were honored.

ARGUE ABOUT MARINES

SASEBO, Japan (AP) — The All-Japan Dock Workers Union charged Wednesday that 20 armed United States marines helped break up a labor demonstration outside the Sasebo naval base March 24. The union said it would ask the opposition socialists to protest in parliament. The U.S. Navy denied the charge. It said the stevedores were picketing and that 12 marines—with unloaded rifles — were stationed just inside the base gate in case the demonstrators tried to get in.

WELLINGTON

Bride-to-Be Honored by Many Friends

The guest of honor was Miss Joan Moore, a bride-to-be on April 5th. The guests were fellow-teachers from Picton Heights, neighbors and friends. Honored guests at the party were the mother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Ralph Moore and the mother of the bridegroom-to-be, Mrs. H. Thompson, Mrs. Thompson of Cherry Valley and Mrs. W. Thompson, of Wellington.

The evening passed pleasantly with all present making a book of their favorite recipes for the bride-elect.

Mrs. Foster addressed Joan, and after giving her some good advice, many gifts were presented to her from a pretty wishing well for which Joan thanked her many friends for the lovely gifts of china, linen, towels and kitchen ware.

The hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Brimley and sisters Marilyn and Margaret and Miss Eva Mantle, served delicious refreshments.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — At least some people practise their politics on a democratic and sensible basis. Former mayor R. J. Locke and Campbellford lawyer J. F. R. Douglas, QC, with their wives, have returned from a holiday together in St. Petersburg, Florida. They arrived back in town just in time to take part in rallies for the March 31 federal elections. Mr. Locke is president of the Campbellford Progressive Conservative Association and Mr. Douglas is president of the Campbellford Liberal Association.

A chimney fire in a house on Circle Drive brought firemen to the scene on Tuesday morning, but no damage was caused. It was the first call in several days.

BODY IN AUTO

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—A woman's frozen body was found in the trunk of a used car Monday while a prospective buyer was looking it over. The victim was identified as Mrs. Anna M. Harper, 51, of Hagerstown, missing from home since March 8. Police think Mrs. Harper had climbed in the trunk to keep warm.

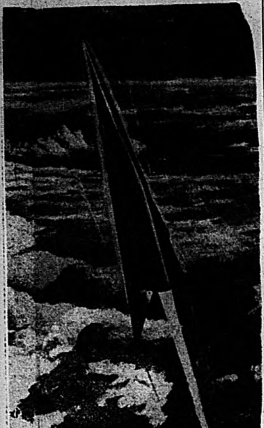
SPACE GLIDER LAUNCHED FROM TRACK



This is a drawing of a hypersonic rocket glider that would be launched into space from a sled platform on a rail two miles long. The rocket, according to U.S. experts, would attain an altitude of 200,000 feet at a speed of 15,000 to 18,000 miles per hour. The "slingshot" method of launching would save the large amount of fuel needed for a tail-sitting rocket to get it off the ground.

Candidates Making Election Talks in Languages Ranging From Gaelic to Chinese

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Federal election candidates, appealing for support from Canada's various ethnic groups, are making their vote bids in a wide variety of languages.

A Canadian Press survey of national and provincial party campaign headquarters, shows candidates are doing their electioneering in languages ranging from Gaelic to Chinese.

The attempt to woo voters in languages other than English or French is viewed as a recognition of the importance of ballots cast by immigrants who gained Canadian citizenship during the last decade.

BIG INFLUX

Since the end of the Second World War, more than 1,600,000 persons emigrated to Canada from many parts of the world. It is not known how many obtained Canadian citizenship and the franchise.

Some parties place greater stress than others on the use of tongues other than this country's two official languages.

The National Progressive Conservative headquarters in Ottawa reports a decentralized program is followed, permitting candidates and provincial organizations to develop plans suited to their own requirements.

The National Liberal Federation says the party operates a translation bureau in Toronto to provide press releases and information to various segments of the ethnic press.

CCF national headquarters reports the party has an ethnic council in Toronto, working on behalf of the national movement, to assist candidates with translation of party literature and distribution of information to foreign-language newspapers.

LEFT TO CANDIDATES

The Social Credit party program is decentralized. Individual candidates and provincial and constituency organizations, who know their own areas, develop their own plans. The Social Credit platform has been translated into Ukrainian and Dutch.

In the Toronto area, the CCF distributes a pamphlet printed in six languages—English, Yiddish, Polish, Ukrainian, Italian and German. Some of the constituency organizations publish their own foreign-language material or use parts of the six-language brochure suited to their own needs.

The Liberal party in the area buys advertisements in papers published in Ukrainian, Polish, German and Italian. The national association also takes two advertisements in each of 50 foreign-language newspapers in the country.

Most candidates who speak foreign languages use them when addressing ethnic groups.

Labor Minister Michael Starr, Canada's first cabinet minister of Ukrainian origin, uses this language at meetings where the population is largely of Ukrainian extraction.

SPEAKS IN CHINESE

Conservative Douglas Jung, a Chinese-Canadian from Vancouver, has spoken in Chinese to groups in Toronto, Halifax and West Coast centres.

Various Conservative speakers in Alberta are making paid five-minute broadcasts in French and Ukrainian over radio station CHFA, Edmonton, which normally broadcasts in French.

Dr. Stanley Haidasz, Liberal standard-bearer in Toronto Trinity, speaks some Polish when addressing supporters.

CCF candidate Frank Ancevich, contesting the same riding, is described as a "real linguist," who speaks several languages. He uses Lithuanian to address voters of Latvian and Estonian origin. In addition, he uses Polish, Ukrainian, German and a High Slovenian, a classic language from which several Baltic tongues are derived.

IN MONTREAL AREA

Party headquarters in the Montreal area report individual candidates decide whether to use languages other than English or French.

An exception is the Labor-progressive (Communist) party, which is distributing pamphlets in Chinese, Greek, Jewish, Ukrainian and "most other Central European languages."

In Nova Scotia, three candidates sometimes toss in a few words in Gaelic at local rallies. They are CCF candidate Clarie Gillis in Cape Breton South and Liberals Allan J. Macеachen in Inverness-Richmond and William Buchanan in Cape Breton North and Victoria.

Six languages were spoken at a Liberal rally in Ottawa this month. There were two hours of speeches in English, French, Ukrainian, Italian, Syrian and Gaelic to a mixed audience that also included electors of Polish and German descent.

PC Campaign 'Irresponsible' One Says Prof. Kierstead

TORONTO (CP)—B. S. Kierstead, professor of economics at the University of Toronto, Wednesday termed the Progressive Conservative election campaign an "irresponsible" one.

In a CBC free-time Liberal political broadcast, Prof. Kierstead said:

"Certain exaggerations and misstatements are common to all parties in an election campaign. Nevertheless, our parliamentary system imposes a limit on misrepresentation."

He felt that in this campaign the Conservatives had violated this "limit" in three ways.

They had "appealed to the voters not to weigh the issues but to try to guess the outcome and get on the winning side.

"This is an improper appeal. If carried to its logical conclusion it would mean we should all try to vote the same way. We know the kind of 'democracy' that exists in states where 99.7 per cent of the electorate are on the 'winning' side.

IRRESPONSIBLE ATTEMPT

"The Conservative attempt first to minimize the seriousness of unemployment in Canada, then to argue that unemployment is declining is irresponsible. When about 10 per cent of the labor force is unemployed the situation is serious. To try to brush it off as unimportant betokens a kind of inhumanity which ought not to be tolerated. To say that unemployment now is declining is wishful thinking and is not in accord with official statistics.

"Neither the Conservative nor the Liberal party is responsible for the present depression. We all realize that it is largely an 'imported' depression caused by the slump in world demand for some of our principal exports.

"The Conservatives have claimed that the depression (A) does not exist, and (B) was caused by Liberal fiscal and monetary policies. On the face of it there is some doubtful logic here. There is worse than bad logic, however; there is outright stupidity or dishonesty."

URGENT PROBLEM

In the spring of 1957, Prof. Kierstead continued the principal and most urgent problem continued to be domestic inflation.

"It is also true," he continued, "that there were ominous signs of a decline in the world market for Canadian exports — signs which economists of the department of trade and commerce had observed."

Of the two problems, Prof. Kierstead said, a Canadian government could do little or nothing to affect export prices, but it could do something to control inflation.

"No honest man," he stated, would say that that policy was in error. If there is criticism to be made of Liberal fiscal and monetary policies at that time, it is that throughout 1956 and 1957 they were insufficiently restrictive, largely because Mr. Coyne (governor of the Bank of Canada) thought that higher interest rates would be 'indigestible,' whatever that may mean.

"Thus, while the Liberals may not have been tough enough to contain inflation effectively, the Conservatives are trying to tell the Canadian people that they were too tough and thereby 'caused' the depression.

PERSONAL ATTACK

"The minister of finance has so little sense of what has been going on and little understanding of the proper relationship between himself and his permanent advisers that he has made a personal attack on Mr. Coyne.

"Mr. Coyne's annual report for the Bank of Canada — issued by the minister of finance, incidentally—was controversial in some of its economic arguments; it was not politically partisan. The attacks on a devoted and politically-neutral public servant by Mr. Fleming and Mr. Hees are shameful.

"The Conservative leaders in this matter of monetary and fiscal policy are either honest and incompetent, or competent and dishonest. However they may wish to be judged, they ought not to be entrusted with the government of this country."

Prof. Kierstead said the four parties propose various programs of domestic action.

"I shall not," he said, "comment on these because purely monetary or fiscal policy can be nothing more than palliative.

"The important thing is to restore Canada's foreign trade. On this point Mr. Diefenbaker proposes increased protection, as far as is "consistent with our GATT commitments."

"Protectionist and restrictive trade policies are designed to restrain trade, not to increase it. Protection is tempting in bad times and appeals to various producer groups who forget that they are also consumers. It is like a dose of opium to a drug addict; it makes him feel better for a short while but it does nothing to cure his basic sickness.

"To restore Canada's economic health and to permit her to take up anew her potential rate of economic growth, as foreseen in the Gordon report, we need the freest possible international commerce."

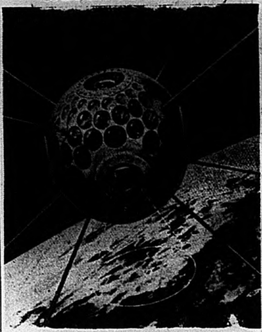
TO SPY ON WORLD FROM SPACE



A space-spy satellite which can keep the whole world under surveillance as it speeds in orbit around the globe is already well past the design stage — on both sides of the iron curtain — according to some experts. In the April issue of Popular Mechanics magazine, an article says the launching dates for both the Russian and U.S. versions has been set for this year. Here is an artist's conception of the space spy moving in orbit as its infrared cameras and radar cut through clouds and haze to map cities and airfields. According to the magazine report, the satellite nicknamed "big brother" will be launched by the U.S. army redstone missile this year. The report continues that the Russians have been at work on the same kind of celestial spy for six years.

Answers to your questions about
NATURAL GAS

What is natural gas?	Natural gas is a source of energy—a fuel having countless uses in the home, business and industry—which was formed millions of years ago. Chemically, it is mostly methane and thus is a member of the hydrocarbon family.
Where is natural gas found?	Natural gas is currently being found in many widely-scattered places throughout the world, but the gas which will be made available here will come initially from gas fields in the Southwestern Ontario peninsula. This gas will be replaced by gas brought from Western Canada by the Trans-Canada pipeline.
How is natural gas found?	Natural gas occurs in porous (sponge-like) rock, many hundreds of feet below the earth's surface. The search for natural gas involves making detailed geological and geophysical studies and drilling exploratory wells. When a producing well is discovered, further drilling is carried out to determine the extent of gas formation.
How will natural gas be brought to my home?	Natural gas will be transmitted from the gas fields to this general area by means of large diameter pipelines. Somewhat small branch lines will feed gas into the city, and a network of even small lines will distribute the gas directly to your home.
How hot is natural gas?	The heat value of a gas is measured in British Thermal Units—one BTU being the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit. The heat content of natural gas varies, but is usually in excess of 1,000 BTUs per cubic foot. For practical purposes, natural gas is considered to contain 1,000 BTUs per cubic foot. In comparison, manufactured gas ranges from 475 to 550 BTUs per cubic foot, while the heat content of propane (bottled) gas is about 2,520 BTUs per cubic foot.
Is natural gas clean?	When natural gas is properly burned, the only products of combustion are carbon dioxide, nitrogen and water vapor—all three of which are normally found in any pure atmosphere. Also, natural gas leaves no ashes, soot or scum.
How is natural gas utilized?	Natural gas can be used in your home for cooking, water heating, refrigeration, clothes drying, garbage incineration, space heating and air conditioning. Natural gas can be used by business and industry for these purposes, as well as for a host of other more specialized applications. It has been conservatively estimated that there are more than 25,000 different uses for natural gas.
Is there any danger involved in using natural gas?	Natural gas is as safe as — if not safer than — any other fuel commonly in use today. The Canadian Gas Association, an industry-wide organization, has established an appliance testing program designed to virtually guarantee the safety of approved appliances. The Ontario Fuel Board—the provincial body which regulates the gas industry in Ontario—has established standards of installation to assure utmost safety (inspections will be carried out to enforce these regulations). And appliance and heating equipment manufacturers equip their products with the latest safety devices and controls.

JAPS SAY BOOST

"Unless Japan is afforded the opportunity to export cotton textiles and other commodities to Canada, it will become increasingly difficult for her to secure dollars to import Canadian wheat barley, pig iron, flax seed, wood pulp, copper scrap, scrap iron and steel, aluminum, lead, asbestos and sundry other items."

The brief described Japan as Canada's "third- or fourth-best customer" during the last seven years. During 1957 Canada's exports to the Far Eastern country were valued at $139,151,939. Imports were valued at $61,604,709.

"Although Japan's share of the Canadian cotton textile market is fractional, this commodity is important to Japan's effort to continue as a good customer. In 1956 cotton textiles accounted for about 14 per cent of Japan's exports to Canada, and all textiles accounted for about 23 per cent," the brief added.

Canada's cotton industry is made up of 76 mills employing about 23,000 persons. The latest published figures, for 1955, show the gross value of their production was roughly $248,000,000.

TALKING BUSINESS IN U.S.

Dr. Ludwig Erhard, German vice chancellor and minister of economics is greeted by President Eisenhower as he called at the White House in Washington. Erhard is visiting the United States for talks with top U.S. government officials. He is considered a likely successor to Chancellor Adenauer.

ONTARIO HOUSE

The non-confidence motion was supported by CCF Leader Donald MacDonald and his two followers. Two of the 11 Liberal members and eight of the 81 Progressive Conservative members were absent for the vote.

The vote was taken after Mr. Oliver said Premier Frost campaigned against the Liberals in the last federation election with the claim that Ontario is entitled to an extra $100,000,000 from Ottawa.

"It was clear that there was an agreement that the election of the Diefenbaker government would secure for the province of Ontario $100,000,000."

But at the Dominion-provincial conference after the election only $22,000,000 had been provided for Ontario and only about $12,000,000 of this had been received.

It amounted to "a political payment" in anticipation of Monday's federal election and constituted "the greatest sell-out of the people of Ontario that happened in your time or mine."

Mr. Oliver prophesied: "I suggest that if the Diefenbaker government is returned to office there will be no further payment."

The Liberal leader also attacked the government for increasing the public debt by $100,000,000 in the current fiscal year and an estimated $140,000,000 in the year ahead. The debt within a year would reach $1,000,000,000 and then interest payments would be $50,000,000 a year.

"Where are we heading?" asked Mr. Oliver.

An exchange between the Liberal leader and Premier Frost developed after Mr. Oliver accused the government of "purposefully" underestimating revenues during the last eight years in order to show surpluses on ordinary account.

For instance, said Mr. Oliver, liquor revenues have been rising every year but the current budget allows for the same revenue as last year.

"Do you think liquor revenue will go up?" asked Mr. Frost.

"Yes."

"What about this recession you're always talking about?'

"Then you think there will still be a recession?" suggested Mr. Oliver.

"He thinks the Diefenbaker government will be re-elected," interjected Harry Nixon (L—Brant).

House Approves New Legislation On Drinking

TORONTO (CP) — Drinking in bunkhouses may be allowed in Ontario after all.

Albert Wren (L-Lab.—Kenora) raised the subject in the legislature again Wednesday night as the House approved legislation extending the definition of residence to permit drinking in back yards, tents, boats, trailers and hotel rooms.

When the legislation was introduced Mr. Wren had complained that omitting bunkhouses from the list is discriminatory and unfair to miners and loggers. Provincial Secretary Dunbar had replied that Ontario voters wouldn't stand for such an extension.

Wednesday night Premier Frost told Mr. Wren that perhaps bunkhouses could be included if they constituted private residences under the meaning of the legislation. The question depended upon the definition of residence.

"This is a matter of fact for the magistrate to decide," he said. "It's left to the common sense of the judiciary."

HIT BY QUAKE

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands (AP)—St. Thomas was shaken by a heavy earthquake and two minor tremors at mid-afternoon Tuesday but no damage resulted.

Govt. Side Steps Compulsory Auto Insurance Issue

TORONTO (CP) — The government used a procedural manoeuvre to side-step the question of compulsory automobile insurance Wednesday night in the legislature.

Premier Frost said it is a difficult problem and study still is being given to it.

Two resolutions—one from the CCF and one from the Liberals were shelved as Attorney-General Roberts moved adjournment of a three-hour debate without a vote on either motion. The House prorogues today and further consideration is improbable.

CCF members, seeking compulsory state insurance, voted with the government for the first time in several sessions as the motion to adjourn was carried 51 to 8.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver called for a division after Ross Whicher (L—Bruce) urged compulsory insurance through private companies.

NOT ENAMORED

Premier Frost, in emphasizing the government has an open mind on compulsory insurance, added that he is "not enamored" of a government-operated program as suggested in the resolution by T. D. Thomas (CCF—Oshawa).

Highways Minister Allan said the government wants to see all Ontario drivers insured "but on a sound basis."

CCF Leader Donald MacDonald agreed with Premier Frost that compulsory insurance would mean higher risks as incompetent motorists became insured. But he argued that the cost would be offset in a government-operated scheme.

He said private insurance companies return in claims 52 to 57 cents of each dollar in premiums paid by policy-holders, while under the government program in Saskatchewan 84 cents of every dollar is paid back.

WOULD BE "BADGERED"

Mr. Whicher contended that members of the legislature would be badgered for concessions from motorists under a state program.

"Pressures would be put on us and we don't want pressures," he said.

A free enterprise system was needed but it had to be compulsory. In this way incompetent drivers would be prevented from driving and accidents would be reduced.

"Can you abdicate to insurance companies the right to bar a citizen off the road?" asked the premier.

"It's not the right to bar a citizen off the road—it's the right to bar an irresponsible driver," replied Mr. Whicher. Some of these drivers were "just as murderous as a robber who walks inside a bank with a gun."

WELLINGTON

WELLINGTON — In celebrating the 37th birthday of Lakeside Chapter 81, O.E.S., the members entertained their friends to a euchre party in the chapter rooms last Friday evening.

There were 14 tables in play. The pretty favors were presented to Mrs. Susie Down and Mrs. Dayton Murphy; A. T. Fleming and Clifford McFaul won on a tie with Gerald Gibson. Mrs. L. J. Greer received a prize for having the lucky plate and Mrs. Robert Graham for the lucky chair.

The committee in charge, assisted by other members, served delicious refreshments.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The president of an Albertan intermediate 'A' hockey league which experimented with the International rules during part of their schedule, has reported that the venture was "a huge success."

He said the fans "enjoyed the much faster action, fewer number of whistles causing play stoppages, more goals and the free-wheeling style of hockey that to a great extent did away with the old clutch-and-grab style."

The prexy said the two referees called the rules strictly, many of which duplicated the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association regulations. Differences include: no icing the puck, a rule favored by fans and players; the full two-minute penalty, favored by all coaches and most players; body-checking restricted to the defending half of the ice, the most-discussed regulation which the majority felt should be scrapped, with body-checking allowed in any zone.

The game "as she is played here" allows icing the puck when a team is short-handed and a penalized player can return to the ice when the opposing team scores a goal.

The president said his league has recommended that the CAHA return to the practice of using two referees in each game, each with equal authority. The three-man system has too many officials on the ice.

He admitted that while the international rules were widely approved, if one searched a little further, it became apparent the so-called international rules are merly rulings set down in past years by the CAHA.

While he said his league was overwhelmingly in favor of the international rules, he says in the same breath, "The consensus in this league is that if the controlling bodies in amateur hockey see that the CAHA rule book, as written, is enforced and not allowed to slide as it has been for many years, and if the icing rule and the full two-minute penalty are added—there is very little wrong with the CAHA rules as written."

The legaue report, he said, is designed for discussion and possible rule changes at the annual CAHA meeting in May.

A number of fans in this city who saw the Eastern senior-league Russian game in Kingston during the Red tour were of the opinion the style as in vogue here is much more fan-pleasing than that under International rules. They did not like the icing-at-any-time rules, while they were denied the privilege of yelling "Hit 'em" when the opposing forwards converged on the defence.

Fans in this league like a good solid bodycheck, regardless of who hands it out, preferably one of the home team. They like the more rugged type, and not a few have agreed with this department's suggestion that a penalized team should carry the puck out of the defending zone before icing it.

We do not believe international rules will suit Canadfans as a whole. And from stories overseas when the Dunlops were playing in the world tournament, their more rugged style of play seemed to catch the favor of European fans.

As for the two-referee system, we have always held out for that, especially in the senior "A" style of hockey, unless the linesmen were given power to penalize. Wily "old pros" who have most of their hockey between their ears now, know all the answers and many a sly poke and other breaches of the rules have been committed while the referee has been watching the actual play.

We agree that a more solid enforcement of the rules as laid down would do away with a lot of the rough stuff, and it would be further enforced if two officials were given power to rule instead of one.

HERE IT IS!

Fight fans who marvelled at Sugar Ray Robinson's punching power in the fifteenth round despite his 38 years, or who wondered how Carmen Basilio lasted ten rounds with a closed eye, will have the opportunity now to see for themselves.

Tommy Mascaro, manager of the Park Theatre here, announced today that the film of the middleweight battle between these two fine ring veterans, Robinson and Basilio, will be shown at his theatre starting Monday night.

This will be the first showing here and will run for three nights, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Excellent feature attractions will also be shown. For the exact time watch for the Park ads. on the theatre page.

Buckingham Ties Memorial Cup Quarter Finals

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Two unmatched goals in the third period gave Buckingham, Que., Beavers a 3-2 win over Cape Breton All-Stars Wednesday night to square the best-of-five Eastern Canada Memorial Cup quarter-final at one win apiece.

Pierre Hayes tied it at 7:17 of the final when he whipped around the Cape Breton cage and poked the puck into the corner.

Cape Breton was a man short at the time of the tying goal but the teams were at full strength when Mike Donaldson fired home the winner at 11:32 of the third.

Hilary Lawlis scored the other Buckingham goal. For Cape Breton, Lou Roy and Doug Polley were the snipers.

Take No Action On Proposal

TORONTO (CP) — A top Canadian horseman says thoroughbred breeding is expanding and improving in this country.

Malcolm D. Richardson, re-elected president of the Thoroughbred Horse Society, told the annual meeting Wednesday the practice of importing mares in foal to noted sires has elevated the broodmares to a higher category than the stallions serving in stud in this country.

This situation, he added, has given rise to a proposal that Canadian racetracks hold more races for Canadian breds to encourage breeders to breed horses in Canada. Horses conceived in the United States or Europe, providing they are foaled in Canada, are eligible for these races. The society took no action on the proposal.

Coach Toe Blake Will Stand Pat With Habitants While Watson Loses Red Sullivan

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Toe Blake sends his Montreal Canadiens into the second game of their Stanley Cup semi-final tonight with a stand-pat lineup, confident his team can make it two in a row over Detroit Red Wings.

Canadiens clobbered Wings 8-1 in the opener Tuesday night, and Blake is supremely confident of at least one thing—his boys won't let that seven-goal margin go to their heads. He was cautious when it came to forecasting the outcome of tonight's game.

"Hockey is too unpredictable. If we knew how a hockey game is going to turn out we'd all be millionaires. I know I'd be one—in one season. Then I'd quit.

"I know we have a team good enough to win, and I'm sure the Red Wings are a far better club than they showed Tuesday."

MAY EXPLODE AGAIN

Blake indicated he wouldn't be at all surprised if Maurice (Rocket) Richard explodes again. It was the veteran Rocket who fired two goals in the opening minutes Tuesday to send Canadiens on their way.

"Any time an important game faces us, the Rocket is likely to rise to any heights," said Blake.

Blake said he will stick to the same lineup and not call on his extra bench - strength unless something unusual happens. He also figures on again using Jean Beliveau, Don Marshall and Bert Olmstead against the Detroit line led by high-scoring Gordie Howe, with Norm Ullman at centre and Johnny Wilson on left wing.

"Of course if we get behind I might have to make some changes in the whole set-up, but we'll have to wait and see what happens."

SAME DEFENCE

Blake said he is planning on the same defence. It included Albert (Junior) Langlois, farm hand brought up from Rochester of the American League for the series. Dollard St. Laurent, recovering from a cheekbone fracture, was dressed for Tuesday's game but was not used. Defenceman Tom Johnson is still laid up with an injured knee.

"Every game we can go without St. Laurent is going to help us. He will be in better condition when we need him. But I was satisfied with Langlois."

Surprisingly enough, Wings' coach Sid Abel outdid Blake in confidence.

"I am convinced we're going to win this series," said Sid. "Canadiens weren't as good in Tuesday's game, despite the score, as they were during the last month of the season. They even played better in the final game in Detroit last Sunday when we beat them 4-2.

LOSE HEART

"We got behind Tuesday and when you give up four goals in eight minutes it's only natural you lose heart. I would like to have seen what Canadiens would have done if we'd got a four-goal jump on them.

"But there's one thing about that 8-1 beating. Nobody blamed himself, as likely would have happened if it had been 2-1. We knew we stunk the joint out."

A man who hadn't seen Abel since Sid's junior hockey days came up to shake hands and commiserate with him.

"I was there but didn't get into the game until the second period," he said.

"Neither did we," said Abel.

NEW YORK (CP) — Coach Phil Watson, past the frothing stage over the loss of his pesky star centre, Red Sullivan, called on big Hank Ciesla to fill the gap on the fourth Ranger line tonight as New York faces Boston Bruins in the second game of the Stanley Cup semi-final playoffs.

Rangers won the opener of the best-of - seven series tuesday night 5-3 in Madison Square Garden but lost the services of Sullivan, the team captain, for the remainder of the playoffs. He broke his jaw in three places when he was checked by Boston's Vic Stasiuk.

At first Watson insisted that Stasiuk broke Sullivan's jaw "deliberately." Later, he bypassed the "deliberate" charges and instead called it "dirty hockey."

HALF-DOZEN STRIDES

"I saw the play all the way. Stasiuk had to take an extra 20 feet to make contact. In doing so he took a half-dozen strides. If it wasn't deliberate, it certainly was dirty hockey. Charging and elbowing should have been called."

Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, heard Watson's statement at the weekly hockey luncheon Wednesday but kept a neutral view. He said he thought there was too much "bantering about the incident."

Coach Milt Schmidt of the Bruins kept silent on the Watson trade but did disclose he will make one or two changes in his lineup.

Schmidt said he will bench veteran Harry Lumley, who sparked the club into the playoffs before suffering an infected foot late in the season. The Bruins' coach will use young Don Simmons in goal until "we lose another."

Schmidt added that winger Leo Labine, who has been out of action with a shoulder ailment, will be available. Real Chevrefils will be sent to Springfield of the American Hockey League if Labine dresses.

While Watson fumed, Stasiuk visited Sullivan in hospital, and said he was sorry. Sullivan later quoted Stasiuk as saying he didn't mean to break his jaw, "but he did say he tried to hit me."

"At least he's honest. I told him if I get a good shot at him next season I'll try to hit him too."

Stasiuk said of the injury: "He must have been watching the disk. I hit him with my head or my shoulder. I know I have a lump on the side of my head and a cut ear as a result."

OUT FOR SEASON

Sully will spend another four or five days in hospital having his jaw wired together, and four or five weeks drinking his food through a straw. The player voted the most annoying and best forechecker in a poll of National Hockey League coaches is definitely out of action until next season.

Ciesla, who saw limited action as the fourth centre, now will have to make the plays for left winger Guy Gendron and right winger Andy Hebenton. Hank is big (six-foot-two and 190 pounds) and young enough (24) but some claim he has shown lack of hustle.

Watson hopes the young fellow will respond to the pressure of the playoffs. "After all, he's a big strong kid and he tries hard," Phil said. "His long arms and reach make his stickchecking effective and he isn't going to back off from anyone."

The game will be the last one in Madison Square Garden this season. The circus takes over next week.

Gamble Will Be Standby Goalie For N.Y. Rangers

MONTREAL (CP) — Manager-coach Sammy Pollock of the Ottawa - Hull Junior Canadiens says that goalie Bruce Gamble, acquired from the New York Rangers organization, will act as standby goalie for Rangers during the Stanley Cup playoffs until needed by the juniors.

Pollock said Wednesday there had been confusing newspaper reports over the situation.

He said Gamble, who played for Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, was acquired with consent of that club as well as of the parent Rangers. The agreement called for the junior Canadiens to supply a standby goalie for Rangers.

"We have a bye in the Memorial Cup series and rather than supply another goalie we sent along Gamble, who was Rangers' property anyway. He will be their standby until we require his services, then he will return to our junior team."

Pollock said that by that time Rangers may be able to call on someone else, particularly if Providence should be eliminated from the American Hockey League playoffs.

Tombstone Smith Lost Toughie To Sugar Hart

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Garnett (Sugar) Hart closed Charlie (Tombstone) Smith's right eye in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-rounder Wednesday night and went on to stop the California welterweight with a technical knockout at 1:56 of the eighth round.

Smith was the aggressor throughout, and was fairly even with the Philadelphian when referee Dave Beloff called a halt to the fight.

Hart, at 147, outweighed Smith, of Los Angeles, by a pound and a half.

Gives Up Estate

DETROIT (AP) — To help partially satisfy an income tax bill of $1,250,000 that he incurred while he was heavyweight boxing champion, Joe Louis has pledged to give up his part of his mother's estate.

The estate of Mrs. Lillie B. Brooks, who died in 1953, amounted to $5,500. Joe's one-eighth part of it came to $687.

Joe signed an assignment Wednesday giving his share to the internal revenue service. He is one of eight children.

Indian Jack Jacobs New Backfield Coach of Ticats

HAMILTON (CP) — Indian Jack Jacobs, who gave Hamilton Tiger-Cats a taste of his passing ability in the 1953 Grey Cup game, was named Wednesday as Hamilton's backfield coach.

The 40-year-old native of Muskogee, Okla., coached London Lords of the Ontario Rugby Football Union for the last two years. Previously he quarterbacked Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union for five years and scouted for Bombers for one season.

Jacobs led Winnipeg to the western title in 1950, his first year in Canada, but flopped in the mud - bowl Grey Cup game won 13-0 by Toronto Argonauts.

In the 1953 cup game Jacobs completed 28 of 46 passes as Hamilton won 12-6.

TO BUILD ATTACK

Jacobs is expected to help head coach Jim Trimble build the passing attack that Trimble has hinted Ticats will use in 1958. Last season Trimble, Terlep and line coach Ralph Sazio produced a powerful but dull-to - watch ground attack.

In going to the Big Four Football Union, Jacobs becomes the second ORFU coach to do so within the past four months. Last December Harvey Johnson, who led the Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen to four ORFU championships, joined Montreal Alouettes as head scout.

Jacobs, who guided the Lords to the league finals in the two seasons the club has been in operation, had a year to go on his contract.

"We certainly don't want to stand in any person's way," Ralph Duffus, president of Lords said. "Particularly when they have the chance to move up."

He paid tribute to Jacobs for "the fine job of putting London on the map football wise." Duffus said Jacobs will "be a tough man to replace and we are sincerely sorry to see him leave."

Chicago Cubs Showing Way In Spring Training With Sixty Runs and 15 Homers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sixty runs and 15 homers in five games. That represents the most recent performances of the 1958 Chicago Cubs.

Cubs, who have been slaughtering all recent opposition, did it again Wednesday. They hammered five homers in trouncing Cleveland Indians 10-5.

Dale Long, Elvin Tappe, John Goryl, Walt Moryn and Jim Bolger did the home run hitting while Ernie Banks drove in two runs with a single. Long and Banks each have had four circuit blows in the last five games in which the Cubs have lifted their spring won-lost record to 10-7.

Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished in a tie with the Cubs for seventh place in the National League last year, were heartened by the return to action of first baseman Ted Kluszewski. Big Klu, out with a back injury most of last season while with Cincinnati, made his first appearance in the lineup and had one single in three trips as the Bucs trimmed Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4. Bob Friend went the distance for the Pirates.

THROWS FOUR-HITTER

Another route - going performance was turned in by Whitey Ford of New York Yankees. Ford yielded only four hits as the Yank B team beat Richmond Virginians of the International League 8-1.

The Yankees' regular squad was not so fortunate. Sloppy defensive play enabled St. Louis Cardinals to pick up three runs in the sixth inning and three more in the eighth for a 7-3 victory over the American League champs.

Veterans Willie Mays, Joe Adcock and Billy Goodman were vital factors in other exhibition games.

Mays and rookie Orlando Cepeda each hit two home runs as San Francisco Giants beat Baltimore Orioles 7-5.

TWO HOMERS

Adcock led an 11-hit attack with a pair of four-baggers in Milwaukee's 10-2 triumph over Philadelphia Phillies.

Goodman drove in six runs with two doubles and a single that helped Chicago White Sox trounce Kansas City Athletics 24-1.

Boston Red Sox sent Detroit Tigers down to their sixth setback in their last seven games. The Sox won 4-2, breaking a 2-2 tie in the seventh on a double by Jim Piersall and a three-bagger by Billy Consolo.

Quebec Aces Beat Sagueneens In First Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces pulled the first surprise of the Quebec Hockey League playoffs Wednesday night going in to Chicoutimi to beat the first-place - finishing Sagueneens 4-1.

In the other best-of-seven semi-final, the second-place Shawinigan Cataracts downed the third-place Montreal Royals 5-3. Second games of the series will be played Sunday in Quebec City and Montreal.

Willie O'Ree, Jean Marie Cossette, Skip Teal and John Sleaver scored for Aces. Fern Perreault scored for Chicoutimi.

Basilio Moves Into Hospital For Treatment

CHICAGO (AP) — Treatment of Carmen Basilio's swollen eye was to begin today in Wesley Memorial Hospital, where the dethroned champion's wife, Kay, spent the night near his bedside.

Basilio fought the last 10 rounds against Sugar Ray Robinson in the Chicago Stadium Tuesday night with his left eye completely closed. It ballooned into a mean, discolored thing by the end of the fight which Robinson won on a split 15-round verdict to regain the middleweight title for the fourth time.

A Chicago eye specialist, Dr. A. Perritt, was called in for examination of the eye Wednesday. The specialist suggested that the former champion be taken to the hospital, and after an examination, this statement was issued:

"The eye itself is not involved. There has been a massive hemorrhage around the eye and we want Mr. Basilio to be hospitalized several days for observation and treatment."

PARRIES QUESTIONS

Robinson said he plans to go to Hollywood in May to test for several movie roles, among them one in which he would be cast as a toreador in a bull fighting script.

His lawyer, Martin Macket, said Robinson had told him he had no plans to retire from the ring. He said the champion is against a June rematch, will consider one in September and will give thought to meeting Basilio again.

The International Boxing Club gave an incomplete financial accounting of Tuesday night's fight, showing that each fighter on a 30-30 split would receive in excess of $256,459.

This included for each $81,833 [illegible] domestic radio and $500 from foreign radio, and estimated $120,000 from closed circuit TV and an estimated $45,000 from movies to be shown later.

Manchester U. Battles to Finals For Football Cup

LONDON (Reuters) — A determined young Manchester United soccer team, born from the wreckage of a flaming airliner, Wednesday battled to the finals of the Football Association Cup.

The scrappy youngsters downed a highly-favored Fulham team 5-3 in the semi-finals of England's soccer classic before 38,258 fans.

Only three of the players who helped Manchester become a world power in post-war soccer were on the team that beat Fulham.

Eight players died less than seven weeks ago when their plane plunged to the ground at Munich, Germany, on the way back from a game in Yugoslavia. Other players are still recovering from their injuries.

The scoring star against Fulham was Alex Dawson, an 18-year-old Scotsman who previously played mainly on Manchester's junior team. He scored three goals, including the winner.

Seamus Brennan, a 20-year-old Irish youth called up from the junior team at the last minute, got one goal and Bobby Charlton, a survivor of the crash, put the seal on Fulham's defeat with a sparkling goal in the final minutes of play.

The game was a reply of a 2-2 tie last Saturday. Manchester now will meet Bolton Wanderers in the Cup final at Wembley Stadium May 3. It will be the team's second consecutive appearance in the big game. Last year they were beaten by Aston Villa.

'Y' Basketball

The semi-finals of the Youth Basketball House League at the Y.M.C.A. saw two hard fought games. The Angels won their way into the finals by defeating the Warts 46-26. The high scorers for the Angles were Poste with 18 and McBride 14. For the Warts Lucas was high with 13 points.

The second game was a toss up all the way with the game hanging in the balance until the last seconds. End up on top was the Celtics by a one point margin over the Tigers 56-55. High scorers for the Celtics were Green 26, Morton 22. High for the Tigers was Buddle with 22.

Next week the Angels meet the Celtics for top honors.

First Game: Angels — Poste 18, McBride 14, Parkhurst 11, Parker 1, Jones 2 — 46.

Warts — Masters 5, Walters 1, Campbell 3, Box 4, Lucas 13 — 26.

Second Game: Celtics—Green 26, Morton 22, Blaker 5, Macfarlane 3 — 56.

Tigers — Marriott 9, Fitzpatrick 18, Clarke 6, Buddle 22 — 55.

SUGAR RAY DOESN'T COUNT BIRTHDAYS

Sugar Ray Robinson, left, looked like his old self—almost—as he danced, jabbed and slashed his way to the middleweight crown in his match with Carmen Basilio in Chicago. Before the fight, even his supporters thought that he would be on the canvas if Basilio was still on his feet after the tenth round. But Carmen lasted 15 and though Sugar Ray, a venerable 37 years old, was showing signs of his age, he was still able to throw punches better than his younger opponent.

Toronto Mare Nosed Out in Close Finish

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Rosewood passed Pink Velvet in the final stride for a nose victory in the $25,100 Suwannee River Handicap at Gulfstream Park Wednesday.

The Calumet Farm filly, was coupled in the betting with Amoret, and was favorite with the crowd of 12,022.

Pink Velvet, owned by Bill Beasley of Toronto and ridden by Walter Blum, was five lengths in front of Hasty House Farm's Figha in the field of 11 fillies and mares.

Rosewood ran the 1 1-16 miles in 1:45 4-5 over a sloppy track. Amoret was fourth. Petite Terry also owned by Beasley, trailed the field.

Pink Velvet was a length in front with 1-16 mile to go but Rosewood came charging up and grabbed the decision in a photo finish.

DEFEAT AMERICANS

LONDON (AP) — The professional Harringay Racers Wednesday night defeated the United States amateur squad 9-6 in a hockey game before a crowd of about 4,000 at London's Harringay Arena.

Hershey Bears And Springfield One Game Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The regular season champion Hershey Bears and the fourth-place Springfield Indians held 1-0 leads in Calder Cup semi-final playoffs today following come-from-behind victories in the opening games.

Hershey turned back Providence 3-1 and Springfield edged Cleveland 2-1 Wednesday night.

Providence, which finished in third place in the regular American Hockey League campaign, moved in front of Hershey on a second-period goal by Jimmy Bartlett. But Arnie Kullman and Obie O'Brien scored later in the same session and put Bears in front. Bob Solinger added an insurance marker in the final period.

Cleveland also broke in front of Springfield as Cal Stearns scored midway in the first period. Cal Gardner evened matters for the Indians at 15:47 of the same period and Jack Caffery's marker early in the third provided Springfield's winning margin.

The second games in both best-of-seven series will be played in Hershey and Cleveland Saturday night.

Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., playing in his first tournament since last summer, finished second with 69-71—140 to tie with George Bayer of San Gabriel, Calif., who had 68-72—140. They won $750 each.

Bayer was big money winner of the tournament as he teamed with Winston Guest of Palm Beach for a best-ball total of 128 to pick up $500.

Ted Kroll of Sarasota, Fla., and his amateur partner, Chase Morsey Jr., of Detroit, carded 64-62—126 to tie with Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C., and Spencer T. Olin, East Alton, Ill., who had 67-59—126. Each pro got $750 in this division.

Moore Willing To Risk Title With Robinson

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (CP)—Light - heavyweight champion Archie Moore thought Sugar Ray Robinson "preached a nice sermon" in his 15-round bout with Carmen Basilio Tuesday night.

Moore, who watched the televised Robinson win, sent a congratulatory telegram to Sugar Ray. It said:

"Dear reverend. You preached a nice sermon last night and many people got the message . . welcome back to the king of clubs. Your friend, Archie, president."

Moore said he would be willing to risk his title in a bout with Robinson. "While I'm not coming right out and challenging Ray, I'd like to point out I'm not difficult to find. Any time any promoter wants to sit down and talk to me about it, I'm available."

In Chicago, when asked if he might fight Moore for the light-heavyweight crown, Robinson said: "I'm not interested in Mr. Moore other than to wish him well."

Dutchies Move To Within Point Of Loop Title

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen moved to within a single point of the OHA-NOHA Senior A championship Wednesday night by defeating Windsor Bulldogs 6-3 before 3,000 fans. Dutchies now lead the best-of-seven series 3-1 with one game tied.

The series resumes in Windsor Friday and a tie would give Dutchmen the title and qualify them to meet the winner of the Belleville-South Porcupine series.

Dutchies edged ahead of Bulldogs 2-1 in the first period and banged in two more without a reply in the second. The teams split four third-period goals.

Centre Bill (Wiggie) Wylie, who has been sidelined for the last two games with an injured leg, returned to lead the Dutchmen to victory, scoring one goal and setting up two others.

Ken Laufman, Harry Psutka, Don Rope, Ron Howell and Charley Brooker were the other Kitchener-Waterloo marksmen. Bobby Brown, Mickey Roth and Elmer Skov connected for Bulldogs.

Dutchies lost the services of right winger Ron Howell in the second period when he suffered a skate gash in his hip.

Referee Hugh McLean collapsed in the dressing room immediately following the game and required medical attention. He suffered two broken ribs and torn ligaments working a Senior B game in Stamford two weeks ago and received an accidental blow from a stick during Wednesday night's game. He was able to leave the arena without further assistance.

'Make Me Laugh' ~~Did Not~~ Flush Ratings in Debut

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Make Me Laugh (ABC-TV Thursdays) has not made me laugh yet, but I suppose it could if it would throw in one contestant as stony-faced about it as I was during its debut last week.

The gambit in this one is to confront a studio contestant with three so-called comedians, each of whom has 60 seconds in which to make the victim laugh. For every second he doesn't laugh he gets one buck.

On last week's program, with Robert Q. Lewis as master of ceremonies and comedians Sid Gould, Buddy Lester and Henn Youngman in the pitcher's box, it appeared to be the easiest way to earn $180 yet conceived.

EVERYBODY LAUGHED

But everybody laughed—everybody except a few thousand sourpusses like me.

Perhaps it would have been easier to make me laugh if I hadn't felt it necessary to interrupt watching a beguiling Playhouse 90 (CBS-TV) program in its middle half-hour portion.

Although I missed its second act, The Right Hand Man impressed me as an altogether absorbing and realistic drama of the ad agency business.

No Playhouse 90 tonight. Instead, Show of the Month presents A Tale of Two Cities.

FBI Wants 'Shoot-'em-Up' Epics Toned Down in Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie industry, fighting television and an apathetic audience, still gets pressures from all sides.

This week J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, asked the industry to soft - pedal films glorifying crime. This is believed to be the first time the FBI has made a formal pitch to the movies to 'em-up epics.

Until recently the industry also heeded a request by the United States government to avoid narcotics subjects. Films are still more limited in handling dope stories than is TV.

The armed services exert an influence through granting or denying the use of troops, equipment and facilities. "The Caine Mutiny had to pass navy muster before the fleet co-operated. The air force also made "suggestions" about the treatment of the romance of an American airman and a Japanese actress in Sayonara.

TONE DOWN ROMANCE

Recently, The Hunters script had a hot romance between a senior air force officer (Robert Mitchum) and a junior officer's wife (May Britt). The torrid aspects of the affair were toned down by request.

Supervision even extends to titles. Twentieth Century-Fox had a comedy called A Nice Little Bank That Should Be Robbed. Bankers objected, so the title became How to Rob a Nice Little Bank. The FBI put thumbs down on that blueprint for bank robbery. Now it's back to the original title, the studio figuring perhaps bankers are easier to fight than the FBI. . . .

The movie town is still reeling from the deaths of Jesse Lasky, Al Litchman, Harry Cohn, Mike Todd and Don Hartman. Never was production talent needed so badly. Yet the ranks of producers are thinning.

Hartman's death was a particular shock to the press corps. Only last week he was circulating genially among the guests at a party to hail Sophia Loren's first year in Hollywood. Hartman was plugging his first independent film, Desire Under the Elms.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, March 27

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Many opportunities are present today to discuss at length with associates the contemplated changes to be made. This will result in coming to better understanding and saving the situation quickly.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Instead of worrying over the apparently poor conditions now existing in your affairs, try to analyze the causes thereof, and take the right steps to ameliorate matters. You can do it today with ease.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—You best move today is to go to your fellow workers and associates and put the cards on the table. Ask for needed advice, how it would be best to proceed for greater harmony and more decided success all around.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — This is not the right time to take any fliers in new ventures, for it would result disastrously. Keep working diligently at present activities instead. Thus you get rid of defects and gain greater security.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — While a most radical and yet far-seeing partner seems to annoy you today with certain ideas, it would be well to listen carefully, for therein is the kernel of a brilliant plan. Don't be so [illegible]ish. Nobody knows it all.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Look to closest ties today for the comfort and advice you need. They are not prejudiced and can give you really fine ideas concerning the present situation. Do not look for show and pomp. Stick to the practical now.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — There are so many things breaking into the open at present that you are confused and hardly know which way to turn. But if you maintain the practical attitude, you will know how to turn chaos into real opportunity.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—It is almost impossible for you to decide about changing positions both at home and at work today. Your friends don't assist very much either. It is best to contact advisors or those who can give you good advice.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Here is a day when you can accomplish just about anything you set your heart upon. So many others are just knee deep in problems, but your way seems very smooth. Don't waste time talking. Up and at it now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — All forces are with you today for making plans for the future that will prove very successful, though your savings may have to be gambled. Be wise and frugal, clever. P. M. relax and be happy. Entertain at home.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Today you will spend time with a partner whose actions are as unpredictable and clever as your own. Be a good sport and give credit where credit is due, cement better relations and make a friend for life.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Get into the so-called Silence today and get the inspiration you need. Leave all the noise behind you and get into your ivory tower. You are then master of the situation and can get things under control. Be adult now!

If your child is born today — The fascinating child born today is the kind whose life will be filled with interesting experiences, starting from earliest childhood. Much ability is in this horoscope, and the most modern things of the future will be easily adopted by your offspring, and even improved upon. So give as fine an education as possible and equip child properly.

LOOK!
A BARGAIN

NO TAXES — NO FUEL — The 2-bedroom, completely self-contained apartment that goes with this home will take care of these expenses. You had better be amongst the first to call to see this solid brick home, close to downtown, at the cheap price of $10,900. Just think of that price and consider all that can be had — for the owner there are three bedrooms, a living room, dining room, a very spacious kitchen with plenty of cupboards and also a lovely sun porch — large enough to use for a living room in the summer months. Yes, all this can be had for $10,900 with a reasonable down payment and the owner will carry one mortgage. We could sell six of these — but we have only ONE.

$3,500.

FULL PRICE. HILLCREST. $1,000 down. Two bedrooms. In excellent condition and the taxes are only $52.

GOOD LOCATION

FOR A NEW LITTLE HOME — all built in brick with three bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath. Basement under the whole house — and there's to be forced air heating with oil. N.H.A. financing has been arranged and the location is DUFFERIN AVE. It's close to school, playgrounds. A good one at $11,900.

PINE STREET TO SETTLE AN ESTATE

THIS FINE HOME has been listed with us for immediate sale and with a little bit of paint and very few hours for a handyman one could have a most comfortable and pleasant looking home. There's a big lot. It has three bedrooms, a living and dining room, a kitchen and bath. It is hot water heated with oil. We are asking $8,500. It's a snap!

$1,500. DOWN
FULL PRICE $4,750.

TWO BEDROOMS, living room, dining room, kitchen, bath. Small garage. This little home is located at 94 S. John St., and is in really excellent condition. It is vacant and we have the key.

House Business Pushed Along At Brisk Pace

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Business in the provincial legislatures was pushed along at a brisk pace Wednesday as the close of the current fiscal year and a federal election both loomed ahead.

The Alberta legislature went through 40 bills so rapidly opposition members complained about having no chance to study them.

Ontario's Premier Frost announced the house will be prorogued today. And the Manitoba government brought down a budget.

Alberta's Social Credit government started its speed-up program this week in an effort to complete vital government business before the start of the new fiscal year April 1.

But Liberal Lee Sims said members should be given more chance to study the bills. He didn't like the "mile-a-minute" pace of the committee study in which the chairman read off the numbers of the sections and clauses and, unless there were questions, everyone said "agreed."

Premier Manning said the government has never attempted to rush legislation through the House.

In Winnipeg, the Liberal-Progressive government of Manitoba brought down a budget providing for expenditures of $104,999,000 of which $23,927,000 will be covered by borrowing. It included no significant tax changes.

Kinette Club Plans for Coming Events

TWEED — The regular meeting of the Tweed Kinette Club was held at the Hotel Tweedsmuir on Monday evening with 17 members present.

Prior to the meeting a delicious dinner of roast beef with all the trimmings was enjoyed.

Mrs. Pauline Hughes, club president, presided over the meeting. The club decided to hold an exchange rummage sale on Saturday, April 26, in Hungerford township hall. This sale will be for clothing that is too good to be donated by individuals. They are asked to bring the article (or articles) to the Kinette's sale, and put a price on it. When the Kinettes sell the article they will retain 50c for the club fund for making the sale.

Mrs. Mary Bancroft will convene this project on behalf of the Kinette club. The Kinettes have also decided to play hosts to their husbands, possibly on Saturday evening, May 3, when they will entertain them at a dinner at Stoco Lake Hotel.

FASHION SHOW

A highlight of the entertaining program was a fashion show entitled "Flapper Dapper." This was convened by Mrs. Ruth Anderson, substituting for Mrs. Jean Belch who was absent due to illness. The show featured eye-catching hats, cleverly made from household articles. Models were: Janet Whitfield, Fran Rupert, Ruth Anderson and Mary Bancroft, with Elizabeth Passmore as commentator.

Two draws were made during the evening and prizes were won by Marlene Spencer and Sue Cotton. The tickets were drawn by a new member, Audrey Simmons. These prizes are donated by two Kinettes for each meeting.

The girls and boys who are taking the swimming course to get their medals will be tested this Saturday, March 29, to see if they can qualify for these bronze medallions. Those who qualify are eligible to go to Albert College for four days during the Easter vacation for the course which is being held there at that time. These boys and girls will be financed by the local Kinette club, as they are sponsoring this worthy enterprise.

Dodging Clouds, Two U.S. Planes Collide In Texas

18 Servicemen Perish; No Chance to Parachute

BRIDGEPORT, Tex. (AP) — Two United States Air Force planes rammed together as dusk gathered Thursday and both crippled craft fell "like flakes of sheet iron." All 18 servicemen aboard died.

In a strange turn of the cards, the planes apparently were seeking greater visibility and safety by dipping below an overcast.

They were so low the occupants had no chance to parachute.

One was a huge C-124 Globemaster based at Hill air force base, Salt Lake City, Utah.

The other was a C-119 cargo plane based at Carswell air force base, the great Strategic Air Command installation at Fort Worth, 45 miles southeast of here.

The Globemaster carried a crew of 10, and five passengers picked up at Kelly air force base, San Antonio, Tex. The C-119's crew numbered three.

NEAR EACH OTHER

The planes fell within about 600 yards of each other in rugged country cut by ravines and gullies.

The C-124 burned fiercely. Pools of molten metal glimmered about the wreckage. The C-119 did not burn.

Bill Carlton of Bridgeport drove leisurely along a road shortly after 4 p.m. when the collision occurred.

He glanced up and later recalled "it looked like great big flakes of sheet iron falling—you couldn't tell it was a plane." He thought at the time that only one aircraft was involved.

C. L. Hill, also of Bridgeport, saw the actual collision under the overcast that was estimated as low as 1,000 feet.

HITS THE WING

"The plane coming from the south hit the wing of the one from the east (the C-124)," Hill said.

Hill said the C-119 "fell straight down" but that the C-124 "came on and it looked like he tried to pull out."

"Finally it came to pieces on him."

Debris from the C-124 spread over an area a mile and a half in all directions.

The C-119 struck a plowed field, missing W. J. Mann by only a few feet. It ricocheted into a wooded area.

Mann was plowing with a tractor and did not hear the air collision because of the noise of the machine.

"I just looked up and the plane was falling all around me," Mann, a dairy farmer, recounted.

Lapse in Trade Act Would Aid Reds Is Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says letting the United States international trade program lapse would jeopardize the jobs of many Americans and build up the "deadly peril" of Communism abroad.

It also would mean a return "to the law of the jungle in trade relations between nations," the president Thursday night told a dinner here and a coast-to-coast television-radio audience.

Eisenhower plugged hard for his request that Congress extend the Reciprocal Trade Act for five years. He also wants authority to cut tariffs as much as 25 per cent under present levels during that period.

The program faces rough going in Congress and is under fire, too, from some businessmen—100 of whom staged an opposition rally in Washington on Thursday.

APPLAUD SPEAKER

The 1,200 diners Eisenhower addressed gave him warm ovations at the start and conclusion of his talk, and interrupted him seven times with applause.

The dinner, sponsored by 128 organizations backing the administration program, climaxed a day-long conference at which Democratic and Republican leaders joined Eisenhower in calling trade extension vital to U.S. interests at home and abroad.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (Dem. Tex.), in a speech read for him because he had a conflicting engagement out of town, sounded a note similar to Eisenhower's in saying the Soviet challenge to the free world in economic competition is "unrelenting and deadly."

Wrong Names Found on List In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A federal judicial inquiry digs deeper today into irregularities in the lists of voters in Montreal Carter riding after uncovering evidence Thursday that at least 109 names on the revised list are either fictitious or ineligible.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure, conducting the investigation under orders of chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay in Ottawa, promptly announced that all 120 deputy returning officers in the riding will be on the lookout in Monday's federal election for any voter who uses one of the 109 names.

The Quebec Superior Court judge said a sworn statement will be required from persons trying to vote under the names.

The judicial inquiry opened Thursday after revision officer Donald Seal and two of the four candidates in the riding complained of irregularities in compiling a revised voting list. About 45 witnesses are to be heard which may propel the judicial hearing into next week, after the election has taken place.

One key witness Thursday was Insp. Rene Belec who headed a 90-man RCMP team investigating the complaints.

Of 1,000 "suspicious" applications to be included on the voting lists, the police found 250 were fictitious, 75 were names of qualified voters whose signatures had been forged and 39 were for persons under age or not British subjects, he said.

Paul Meehan Named To Post in OHSC

TORONTO (CP)—A. J. Swanson, chairman of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, today announced the appointment of Paul Edward Meehan as supervisor of rural enrolment for the provincial hospital insurance plan which starts Jan. 1, 1959.

Mr. Meehan, now secretary-treasurer of the Co-Operative Medical Services Federation, assumes his new post April 1.

Believe Khrushchev May Become More Powerful Than Stalin Was

LONDON (Reuters) — Nikita Khrushchev may become a more powerful man in Russia than even Joseph Stalin—that is the reaction in Britain to Thursday's "promotion" of the Communist party chief to Soviet premier as well.

At the same time his election by the Supreme Soviet appears to have blasted the idea of any "collective leadership" running Russia. Khrushchev is the undisputed and sole boss with the dismissal of Marshal Nikolai Bulganin as premier.

The London Times suggests that actually "the reshuffle may not be complete." It says Klementi Voroshilov cannot last long as president and Bulganin "might seem the obvious candidate as figurehead."

The Manchester Guardian comments:

The history of autocrats shows time and again how they are moved away from prudence by the exercise of power and the constant endeavor to preserve it. Mr. Khrushchev may come to stand out for darker characteristics than knowing how to keep afloat."

The London Daily Mirror says: "What matters for the West is this—we must try to get on reasonable terms with Russia whoever is running that country."

In front-page editorial the London Daily Mail says: "So Khrushchev knocks down Bulganin. He has beaten the bureaucrats, the army and the party.

"Any means, however wicked or brutal, must be employed to subjugate the world to Marxism. . . . This is the man who faces us now. In some ways he is more ominous than Stalin."

The Edinburgh Scotsman says "He has now ascended to Stalin's throne, though he does not have a Beria to sustain him in power."

HEALTH, WELFARE MEASURES TAKE BIG BUDGET SLICE

Record Expenditure On Roads Planned

TORONTO (CP) — The sick and needy were singled out for attention this year by Ontario lawmakers.

The 1958 session of the legislature ended a 39-day sitting Thursday with welfare legislation at the head of 186 bills given royal assent by Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay.

The measures are expected to take a big bite out of the $933,000,000 budget which also provides for record highway expenditures and an extra $33,000,000 in education grants.

Health, welfare and reforms are expected to cost at least $165,000,000 in the year beginning April 1.

In addition to the hospital insurance plan scheduled to go into operation Jan. 1, 1959, the legislature approved a revolutionary program to provide nursing and homemaking services for families hit by illness.

NURSING CARE

The Victoria Order of Nurses will provide the nursing care, which is expected to shorten stays in hospitals. Specially-trained homemakers will look after elderly or disabled persons and children during the illness of a mother or relatives.

Municipalities and counties will enter the program on a voluntary basis, sharing costs 50-50 with the provincial government. Local welfare facilities will be used.

Other legislation establishes a general welfare services branch in the government to co-ordinate payment of pensions to the blind, deserted mothers and children, disabled persons and the aged who need assistance.

150 Invitations Sent, 2 People Attend CD Meet

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—This city's full-time civil defence co-ordinator, Jim McGrath, planned a big civil defence rally Thursday night. Invitations were sent to 150 households near city hall. A speaker was brought from the provincial civil defence department in Toronto to explain what to do should a nuclear war come.

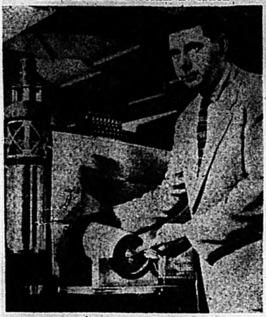
Two people showed up. The meeting was cancelled.

"This seems to be the average reaction of the people of Peterborough to civil defence," Mr. McGrath said today. "I got the shock of my life. I thought we would get at least 25. If this is going to be the way, there isn't much use me staying on this job. I've got better things to do.

STARS SEEK TAX CUT

LONDON (AP) — British film stars went to the House of Commons Thursday urging legislators to drop movie entertainment taxes. Kenneth More, Anna Neagle, Dirk Bogarde and Sir Ralph Richardson headed the delegation, telling an all-party meeting of Parliament members that the 33 1-3-per-cent tax on theatre seats threatens the future of British films.

TAPE RECORDER WORKS IN SPACE



In Pasadena, Calif., physicist George Ludwig shows the magnetic tape recorder, a duplicate of which is now orbiting above the earth in Explorer III, the latest satellite launched by the U.S. The recorder stores up information obtained in its flight and relays it by radio to listening posts. Then the tape is "cleaned" and starts all over again to store information.

Leaders Select East Ontario To Wind up Their Campaigns

By THE CANADIAN PAESS

With voting four days away, the Progressive Conservative and Liberal leaders today selected Eastern Ontario centres for their next-to-the-last day of campaigning.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker will attend Ottawa Valley meetings at Arnprior, Renfrew and Pembroke. Premier Frost of Ontario will accompany him. Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson will cover this same ground Saturday but today will visit Kingston, Gananoque and Brockville and tonight speak in Ottawa and neighboring Hull, Que.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, are in their home ridings for the campaign windup. Mr. Coldwell speaks tonight at Broderick in his Saskatchewan riding of Rosetown - Biggar while Mr. Low addresses a meeting at Manning in his Alberta constituency of Peace River.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson made the final national television broadcasts of the campaign Thursday night, the prime minister from Quebec and Mr. Pearson from Ottawa. Mr. Coldwell addressed a meeting at St. Boniface, Man., and Mr. Low a rally at Fairview, Alta.

The campaign ends Saturday midnight local time and Canadians will vote Monday between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. local time.

Mr. Pearson said the Conservative government had "run away" from Parliament by calling an election instead of tackling the "grim realities" of the unemployment situation.

"They continue to ignore the facts, hoping that the Canadian people will fail to see them behind an impassioned and excited Niagara of words," Mr. Pearson said.

Mr. Pearson made substantially the same speech on the live television broadcast and in a recorded radio broadcast. The latter was preceded by a 2½-minute speech by Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent recorded in Florida where the former prime minister is resting.

Mr. St. Laurent called on electors to support Mr. Pearson and Liberal policies, declaring they would "restore to our economy the stability and the growth which the Diefenbaker government has not been able to maintain since it took office last June."

British Liberals Victorious, Asquith's Grandson Elected

TORRINGTON, England (Reuters)—The Liberal party, Britain's middle-of-the-road third party, was declared winner today in a closely fought byelection.

The Conservative government suffered its third straight defeat within six weeks and it was the first time since the 1920s that the Liberals, once dominant in British politics, had won a byelection seat.

Winner was Mark Bonham-Carter, a publisher, with a plurality of 219 votes. He is the grandson of former prime minister Herbert Asquith.

Bonham-Carter got 13,408 votes. Conservative Anthony Royle got 13,189 and Labor's Leonard Lamb 8,697.

At the last general election, in 1955, the Conservatives held the seat in a straight fight with Labor with a majority of 9,312 votes.

Party standing in the 630-seat House of Commons now becomes:

Conservatives and Allies 334; Labor 279; Liberals 6; Independents 9; vacant 2.

It took a recount to decide the result was to have been announced at noon, local time. But the result was so close that the recount was ordered without the original total being made public. Progressive returns are not announced in Britain.

It was the fourth byelection defeat for Prime Minister Macmillan since the 1955 election.

Recently, it lost Rochdale to Labor through the intervention of a Liberal candidate, who polled nearly twice as many votes as the Conservative candidate. Its latest defeat was at Kelvingrove, Glasgow, where, in a vote split by two independent candidates, Labor won the government seat.

Macmillan's administration has been fighting a losing battle against waning public prestige resulting largely from the high cost of living and two notably unpopular pieces of recent legislation—a sharp cut in farming subsidies and a rent-decontrol act.

Lights Startle Gunman, Boxer Plants Punches

TORONTO (CP) — A former middleweight boxer kicked a gun from the hands of a man who allegedly tried to kidnap him and a girl friend Thursday night, then knocked out the assailant with two punches.

Beverly Carter, 37, told police an armed man opened the door of his parked car and said: "Drive me out of here or I'll kill you."

He said the gunman was startled by the lights of a passing car, giving Carter time to kick the gun.

Police charged Gerald Dobson, 24, a tavern waiter, with having an offensive weapon. They said Dobson told them he was carrying a gun because someone had been paid $500 to kill him.

QUICK CAPTURE

BALTIMORE (AP) — An accused murderer who posed as a male nurse was nabbed by the FBI Thursday night, only a few hours after he made the "10 most wanted" list. Eugene R. McMcCracken, 43, gave up without resistance when authorities acted on the tip of an alert citizen who saw the fugitive's picture in the Baltimore News-Post.

36 CUBAN REBELS FROM NEW YORK IN JAIL IN TEXAS

Coast Guard Rams Arms-Carrying Ship

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) —Thirty-six hungry but fired-up Cuban rebels from New York fumed in jail today, charged with conspiracy to violate the United States Neutrality Act. Four Ecuadoreans also were accused.

A coast guard cutter rammed their 85-foot vessel about five miles off the Texas coast in the Gulf of Mexico Thursday. All aboard were uniformed and heavily armed, and the vessel halted only after U.S. agents pulled alongside and boarded her.

Arnoldo G. Barron, who described himself as leader of the group, said the men had purchased arms and ammunition with $20,000 which they had saved over a period of months.

FRIEND OF CASTRO

He said he was a friend of the Cuban rebel leader, Fidel Castro, and that the arms were those "with which we were going to defend freedom—the freedom not only of Cuba but of the world."

The group protested the arrest by going on a hunger strike. All refused food and coffee offered in county jail here Thursday night.

Barron claimed the U.S. was shipping arms to Cuban President Fulgencio Batista and that the fast would last until such shipments were halted.

Barron said he made initial arrangements about 40 days ago in Mexico. The arms, he said, came from an undisclosed source in the U.S. He rented the El Orion in Panama.

Children Throw Stones at Army Mortar Bomb

TORONTO (CP) — A group of suburban North York Township school children threw rocks at defused army mortar bomb Thursday and then played catch with it.

Police said the bomb, believed unearthed by bulldozers, was still dangerous and turned it over to army authorities.

Frederick Dickenson, 9, found the bomb and after playing with it, took it to his mother, who called police.

Whooping Crane Lays Sixth Egg, Two Hatched

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Josephine, a whooping crane, early today laid an egg big as an avocado in her Audubon Park pen.

The whooper mother immediately took up her vigil over the egg, which has an incubation period normally of one month.

Two of the five eggs Josephine has laid hatched last year and the little whoopers survived, which most others had failed to do in captivity.

New Orleans will have five of the six whooping cranes in captivity if the egg hatches. San Antonio, Tex., has one.

Think Reds Plan New 'Spectacular' In Sky as Summit Talks Send-Off

NEW YORK (AP) — A mammoth Sputnik? . . . A moon-high satellite? . . . What's next in the Soviet space program?

Vague hints suggest that Russian scientists are working on something spectacular. There also are hints that Soviet politicians would like to tie the next venture to something new in the cold war: A space offensive.

Perhaps the Russians have been trying and failing with new launching attempts. Or perhaps they plan to time their new shoot for a propitious moment. There is some thought that the determined push for a summit conference is linked with the timing of the next space venture. Just in advance of a summit meeting, it would have enormous propaganda impact.

Speculation on Soviet plans runs all the way from manned devices or space platforms to "just another Sputnik." Some educated guessing centres on the possibility of a huge Sputnik, perhaps up to five or six tons, carrying a live creature.

It is even possible, say some Western scientists, that the Russians might try to throw a Sputnik on a huge ellipical course which would take it more than 250,000 miles — beyond the moon.

Soviet newspapers drop vague hints. They quote astronautical scientists, for example, as saying problems of moon flight can be solved now by use of a special chemical fuel with which existing rockets could reach the moon in a matter of 115 hours. But they add that a moon shot is not a project for the immediate future, and that human moon-travel still is years away.

Day-Old Baby Snatched From Incinerator, Dies

Child Wrapped in Paper Dumped in Garbage

TORONTO (CP) — A day-old baby boy was snatched from a blazing apartment building incinerator in suburban East York Thursday night but died in hospital two hours later.

Caretaker Herbert Thorne told police he heard a cry moments after he ignited the garbage. He pulled out the baby, wrapped in a newspaper. The child suffered burns to the face, arms and legs.

Police began a search of the apartments and nearby homes. They said it was possible a non-resident of the building slipped the infant into a hallway garbage chute which carries debris to the incinerator.

Four Armed Men Take $30,000 In Bank Holdup

MONTREAL (CP) — Four armed men wearing dark glasses escaped with $30,000 today from a southwest district bank preparing for heavy payday business.

Police blocked off sections of Cote St. Paul where the robbery occurred.

The men struck through the locked door of the branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, breaking it to advance on manager Marcel Mallette and staff of seven. At gunpoint the bank personnel were backed into the vault.

Police said the four then took bills from the vault and fled in a car.

The men apparently drove only four blocks before parking the car and scattering on foot. Police cruisers arrived within minutes and began a methodical blocking-off of the district, a wedge-shaped slice of land separated from the main Montreal island by the Lachine Canal. Roadblocks were set up on bridges to the area.

Dog Upholds Master's Right To Enjoy Sleep

TORONTO (CP)—The dog had gumption but he just didn't get the picture.

He belonged to a resident of suburban Scarborough who had one for the road and maybe a couple of extras and went into a field in the sunshine Thursday to have a nap. The dog sat down, on guard.

But the field was on fire and the flames raced through the dry grass nearer the sleeping figure. Small boys threw stones at the man but he dozed on.

The boys informed police, who called firemen. The men tried to rescue the sleeper but the dog snarled and barred their path.

So they joined forces and rushed the dog. While they held him, the man was awakened—with the flames only a few feet away.

Montreal Bank Manager's Wife Held for Ransom

MONTREAL (CP) — Police today sought two men who kidnapped a bank manager's wife, held her for 90 minutes at gunpoint and then apparently gave up their attempt to force ransom of $25,000 from the husband.

The woman, Mrs. Roland Tougas, 41, was released unharmed but in a state of shock after the abortive attempt Thursday afternoon in northeast Montreal.

Mrs. Tougas told police a man purporting to be a post office employee had telephoned Wednesday afternoon to say a parcel had arrived for her. Thursday at 2:30 p.m. a man bearing official-looking forms had called regarding the parcel.

He had asked to use the telephone, Mrs. Tougas said, actually talking only on the last of three calls. Then he had pulled a revolver and ordered her out of the house.

BORROWED DIME

She had told her sick mother upstairs that she was going out briefly and the bandit escorted her to a nearby car where she was forced into the front seat beside the driver and the gunman.

They had driven off in the car. Twice the bandits tried to reach her husband at a branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale by telephone but were unsuccessful.

For the third call they borrowed a dime from her and made the call in which she informed her husband of her plight and the bandits' price. She told him they wanted $25,000 in five minutes. He called police.

Meanwhile, the bandits were driving Mrs. Tougas around again in their car and finally let her out with instructions to walk to a nearby taxi stand. They vanished at 4 p.m.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

FIREMEN CALLED FOR CAR FIRE

City firemen were called to the Haig Sideroad early this morning for a car fire at Green's Wreckers. Firemen said a 1948 model car had caught fire, considerable damage resulting before it was extinguished.

Also this morning firemen were called to the 3rd of Thurlow for a chimney fire. No damage was reported.

TAKE AIR PICTURES

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Nike-Cajun rockets were blasted into the air Tuesday at Fort Churchill, Man., carrying cameras in their nose cones for the first time. When the rockets reached the top of their trajectories, some 80 miles up, the nose cones were blown off and floated to earth by parachute. On the way down the cameras snapped pictures at the rate of two a second. These will be used in later studies of the upper atmosphere.

Children Asked To Curtail Fun With Fireworks

The Chamber of Commerce secretary - manager, Robert Hamilton, said today that the local firecracker situation will be discussed at the next meeting of the retail section.

Several reports have been received by the police and The Ontario Intelligencer concerning children igniting firecrackers without paying attention to safety or good manners. There is neither provincial legislation nor city by-law prohibiting the sale or discharging of fireworks. Some cities, though, have banned the sale of rockets, while British Columbia some time ago passed a bill outlawing fireworks of all kinds within the boundaries of that province.

Here are a few foot notes on the firecracker front in Belleville:

Tuesday night someone entered Queen Alexandra public school and made off with a number of firecrackers that had been confiscated from pupils. That afternoon a Queen Victoria school pupil received a singed scalp when a firecracker exploded on his head. That same day a youngster dropped a firecracker in the gas tank of a parked car, but no explosion or fire resulted.

Wednesday afternoon a pupil at Queen Victoria School had a hole burned in his jacket by a firecracker thrown by another child. The same afternoon a group of youngsters were seen near Bleecker Avenue throwing lighted firecrackers at a dog. And, in the same area, pre-school aged children stuffed lighted firecrackers under the front doors of a number of houses.

It has been reported that any child with a nickel can buy four packages of firecrackers and a folder of matches at an East Hill store. There is no law prohibiting storekeepers from making such a sale.

School principals have already delivered their annual warnings to students advising them to leave fireworks at home. All firecrackers found at school will be confiscated, the principals said.

Both the police and fire department have issued warnings to children — and parents — advising them to curtail their fun with firecrackers in the interests of safety.

THE LAST STEAM TRAIN

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National Railways Monday announced it has arranged an all-day ride for the 150 - member Canadian Railroad Historical Association Sunday on what might be the last double-head, steam-powered passenger train operated by the line. Two painted and polished steam locomotives, one built in 1912, are to be used to haul a five-car train on a round-trip to Hawkesbury, Ont.

Liberal Candidate, Other Speakers Heard at Rally

About 300 supporters of the Liberal party attended the Belleville Collegiate auditorium last night to hear last-minute reports of the campaigning of Dr. D. C. (Dan) McVicker, candidate in Hastings South.

The president of the South Hastings Liberal Association, Irving McGaughey of Trenton, was "amazed at the support that has rolled up behind our enthusiastic candidate."

Reason for the meeting was explained by Gus Faux, vice-president of the riding association. It was called because "elections are quite often won during the last two or three days of campaigning when people start to make up their minds who to vote for."

The Liberal party was making a last-ditch effort to swing over "independent" voters in this riding to support the mayor of Deseronto, who is making his first bid to win a federal election.

Guest speaker was Royce Frith, Toronto lawyer, who was thought to be a likely contender for the leadership of the Liberal party in Ontario at the April 19 convention in Toronto. However, Mr. Frith declared, "I will be a contender for the Ontario Liberal leadership in about 1965, but I won't be a candidate for it in April."

Actually, though, Mr. Frith and Dr. McVicker both were principal speakers at last night's rally. Both men slashed out at the "Diefenbaker party," while Mr. Frith concentrated on belittling the prime minister and his cabinet.

Mr. Frith said the Progressive Conservative campaign is "beginning to wear a little thin and look like a dead Christmas tree sitting in an ash can." Dr. McVicker stated that Mr. Diefenbaker had made 181 promises prior to the June election of last year, but had kept only seven. Because of this, the candidate contended that Mr. Diefenbaker is the wrong man for the office of prime minister.

Frank Follwell, Liberal M.P. for Hastings South for 12 years until he was defeated at the polls last June by Progressive Conservative Lee Grills, said Mr. Diefenbaker's cabinet is "inexperienced, inept and impossible."

Mr. Follwell said that on Monday Canadian electors will send to Ottawa a democratic party and not a one-man party. He added that the Progressive Conservatives have increased the national debt by 10 per cent or one billion dollars by spending money foolishly and carelessly.

Dr. McVicker believed the Conservatives are experiencing some dissention among the ranks of the cabinet ministers, who sometimes contradict or refute statements made by the prime minister.

"Mr. Grills took me to task Tuesday night (at a Labor Council meeting), so I took him to task about last summer's milk strike here. His is the only union dairy in Belleville. Why is it? Because Labor Minister Michael Starr called him and said the strike might not be good publicity for the Conservative party," said Dr. McVicker, adding that one of Mr. Grills' employees had shouted from the audience agreeing with the doctor's statements.

Referring to the attempts in some quarters to remove firemen from diesel locomotives, Dr. McVicker said, "I wouldn't ride in a train if I knew it didn't carry a fireman." He cited a level crossing accident northeast of Shannonville in December 1956 as being a good example of why firemen should be carried.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker "has aligned" with Mr. Duplessis, the Quebec premier, and Adrien Arcand, one-time leader of a facist movement in Quebec.

According to Dr. McVicker there will be more local people seeking relief after May 1, "when all supplimental benefits to them will be cut off." He accused the Conservative administration of stopping work on Belleville's new federal building shortly after the last election and at a time when unemployment figures were beginning to rise.

"It was I who got work going there again," he said. "Mr. Follwell got Belleville the building and the Tories promptly stopped work on it. After I made some inquiries a few workmen were sent back to the job to do some blasting and to make a bit of noise so that the people would think the building was forging toward completion."

Mr. Frith aroused a few polite chuckles with his interpretation of a session of parliament controlled by a "hypothetical party." His main characters were the Chief, Sidney and Don.

He said that honest criticism of the men who are offering themselves as contenders for the office of prime minister are absolutely necessary. Mr. Frith spoke kindly of the CCF and Social Credit leaders, but added that those parties are not major threats in this election. Mr. Diefenbaker is a sincere man but he "does not know how to speak and, when he does, he never says anything." Mr. Pearson is the opposite.

Mr. Pearson's promises to cut more taxes are more sound than Mr. Diefenbaker's northern works projects, said the speaker from Toronto, adding that the Liberal leader's plans will leave more money in the pockets of consumers.

"Our national leader must have the nerve and spine to stand up and face big problems. Mr. Diefenbaker is definitely not that man," said Mr. Frith.

"By the way," he continued, "what are Honest John's work projects? He says they are 'my vision.' If he changed the 'my' to 'her' it would sound like a perfume. But just what these projects are I don't know. They are simply new versions of Dr. Jim's Sure-Fire Snake Oil remedy, except they carry a new label — My Vision."

Candidates Are Heard by Farmers' Union

MARYSVILLE — An Ontario Farmers' Union meeting was held in Marysville Parish Hall on Wednesday evening. Mr. Bernard Murphy, president of the Local, presided and the hall was practically filled to capacity.

Each of the political aspirants in the riding spoke for about a twenty minute period, chiefly on the farm programs of their respective parties. Mr. R. Clarence Graham, County Director of the O. F. U., spoke on behalf of the Union. He said the O. F. U. was the most wide-awake, fastest growing farm organization in Canada to-day. He made it clear to the people that the F. U. was not supporting any one political party and that it was strictly non-partisan. He further stated it was entirely up to the electors to decide for themselves which one of these men they chose to represent them in the next parliament.

The speaker told of attending political meetings before elections since a young boy and always the farmers had received promises of help. This time there were "more of the same." He wondered what had become of those promises as conditions from the year 1951-1956 had removed 47,076 farmers from their farms. From 1946 to 1956 farmers lost from 11.6% to 6.9% of their share of the national income while farmers' costs of operating their farms had risen 62%. The net income per farmer had only increased by $9.00 in those ten years, 1946-1956, he said.

This time the situation, he hoped, would be different because the farmers now had a Farmers' Union. It was up to the members to keep their union strong so as to give the executive support in order that they might be able to "keep right on the tail of our next government" and go to Ottawa to make demands and recommendations, so that the long-made promises to the farmers would be carried out.

In conclusion Mr. Graham gave some of the aims of the F.U. 1. Maintain the family ferm; 2, Better marketing of produce; 3, keeping the farmers' needs before the government, federal and provincial, and all the powers that be; 4, parity prices . . . the O.F.U., he stated, would never be satisfied with anything less than full parity.

A submission prepared by the Farmers' Union was then read to the three political speakers, containing the union's thinking, with ten recommendations, after which a copy was presented to the speakers with a request that they give it further study. It was asked that which ever man wins the election on March 31, he should keep the farmers' needs in mind.

After the speakers, the farmers asked several questions. Bill No. 237, the Farm Price Stabilization Bill, received consideration. Each speaker was given five minutes more to reply. Dr. McVicker and Mr. Lee Grills both advised the farmers to join and support the Farmers' Union, as they explained the days of the farmer trying to remain an individual are past. Mr. Grills also said the F.U. was the greatest force in bringing about nine amendments in Bill 237.

Booster Club Plans Parade For McFarlands

The McFarlands will arrive back in Belleville at noon tomorrow and the Macs' Booster Club is planning a reception that will be long remembered.

President Dick Beare asked this morning that every Booster Club member be at the CNR main station to greet the Macs. And bring your friends, Booster Club members or not.

Club members are reminded to wear their tams and buttons. Preparation began early this morning with signs, posters and banners being made to hail the All-Ontario senior "A" finalists.

President Beare and his helpers are attempting to secure a band. It is hoped the Macs will lead a giant parade from the station with noise and color telling one and all that the Macs are home.

The McFarlands now meet the winner of the Kitchener-Windsor series in the All-Ontario finals and will need the fullest support from their fans. This series, expected to be the toughest of them all on the way to the Allan Cup, will likely get under way the first of the week.

So, Mac Boosters and fans in general, turn out Saturday noon and show the Macs we're behind them all the way. All the way to the Allan Cup.

Cannot Speak Or Read English, Got Car Permit

A 28-year-old Hungarian refugee, who has been in Belleville almost a year, was convicted of a criminal charge in police court this morning. It was the first occasion that a Hungarian immigrant had appeared in a local court.

His punishment for failing to remain at the scene of an accident was a year's suspended sentence with conditions imposed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills, that he refrain from driving any motor vehicle until Inspector Clair Hayes gives him practical and theoretical examinations in driving and until such time as he provides sufficient insurance coverage to satisfy the court. He must pay court costs of $5.50 within a week.

Through an interpreter, the man told the magistrate that he had acquired an operator's permit in Belleville. He bought a car in Picton last August 24, four months after arriving from Hungary. When Magistrate Wills asked if he took along an interpreter while being examined for his operator's permit, the accused answered no and added that his examiner could not speak Hungarian.

The Hungarian, who is the father of two children, cannot speak, read or write in English, although he claims to be able to read highway signs.

A one-time employee of a Stirling masonry company, the Hungarian has been unemployed for some time.

The charge was laid by city police after Constable Robert Hall investigated a hit-run accident on Pinnacle Street on February 15. Damage to both cars totalled slightly under $100. The accused pleaded guilty.

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was irregularly lower today in dull morning trading.

Industrials were down a half point on index but changes in the section were all fractional. Base metals dipped a bit more than a quarter of a point while golds and western oils each added a few decimal points to their indexes.

Biggest industrial change was a ⅜-point dip to 32 by Molybdenum, which scored a three-point advance Thursday.

Hudson Bay, International Nickel and Opemiska lost minor ground among index base metal stocks. Uraniums were narrowly higher with Denison and Gunnar each up ¼ and Pronto ahead 10 cents to $4. McIntyre lost two points at 74 among senior golds.

Western oils were extremely quiet with few changes.

Police Blotter

Juvenile pranksters were blamed for tossing a stone through a window at the Kingdom Hall last night while a meeting was in progress. Glass was showered over the inside of the church and the stone narrowly missed a woman seated near the window.

A number of break-ins were reported by police. Insecure doors were found by night patrol officers at Mike's Fish and Chips store, at Cook's Esso service station, at the Cash and Carry Dairy on Pinnacle Street, and at College Motors.

TEACHER HANGED BOY

VIENNA (Reuters) — School teacher Gustav Waldhof, 56, admitted in court Tuesday that he had hanged a boy in front of a class "to demonstrate medieval methods of execution." The boy saved his life by inserting two fingers between the noose and his neck, the court was told. The trial was postponed for a psychiatrist's report.

Y's Men, Mennettes Hold Joint Induction of Officers

The Y's Men's Club of Belleville held their annual "President's Night" at the Quinte Hotel last night to mark the joint induction of the 1958-59 executive of the Y's Men and Y's Menettes.

Approximately 115 club members and guests, who included representatives from other service clubs in the city, attended the dinner-meeting and witnessed the impressive ceremony.

The induction of Y's Men officers was carried out by regional director G. W. "Pat" McKenzie of Acton, Ont., while the executive of the Y's Menettes were installed in a pretty candle-light ceremony by immediate past-president, Mrs. Jack Schurman.

The new Y's Men's president is Hugh M. Watson. He succeeds immediate past president Maxford J. Waddell. Other officers are: vice-president, Robert N. Laughlen; secretary, John S. Fletcher, and treasurer, John D. Luscombe. New directors are H. Bankier, B. Hiles, J. Kuntze, J. Pearson, G. Trill and D. G. Diamantides.

The new executive for the Y's Menettes consists of: president, Mrs. Elsie Sim, who succeeds past-president, Mrs. Jack Schurman; vice-president, Mrs. Diane Muirhead; secretary, Mrs. Joane Massey; treasurer, Mrs. Doris Pearson and bulletin editor, Mrs. Norma Clarke.

Prior to the induction ceremonies an amusing and inspiring address was given by the Rev. Max Putnam, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Kingston.

PRAISES ORDINARY PEOPLE

Mr. Putnam discussed the importance of ordinary people and their responsibility to their children and to God.

"There is a tendency today to minimize the importance of ordinary people — to feel that what we have to do and say is not important", he said. "This is a dangerous feelng", he added.

The genial minister pointed out it was ordinary people who opened up this country, who built the schools, churches, factories and other institutions necessary to every-day life. It is also the ordinary people not the big politicians who run this country, he said.

"It is our perogative to choose what party we want in power, and I pray to God we never lose it", Mr. Putnam said.

Mr. Putnam also pointed out the tremendous responsibility adults have in influencing and inspiring children to be great. Teachers, in particular, leave a lasting impression on children, he said.

"Children pattern their lives on yours — and to some kid you are the finest man or woman he or she knows."

The speaker urged that in YMCA work more emphasis should be placed on inspiring the young to lead a Christian way of life.

"I would like to see a bigger place for the big C in Y-work", he said. "It used to have an important place, and I think the day is coming when we've got to put Christianity back into YMCA activities."

Mr. Putnam urged his audience to be decisive about putting Christianity back into YMCA activities.

"This country needs men and women who know what they believe and are not afraid to say it", he stated. "It is not what you are, but what you represent that is important — and if you represent God, there is nothing more glorious," he concluded.

A native of Smith Falls, Ont., Mr. Putnam graduated from the Arts course at Waterloo College. He studied theology at Knox College, in Toronto.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR

His first charge upon graduation was at Listowel, where he distinguished himself not only as a minister but also as a sportsman. He was a member of the Listowel baseball team when they won the championship and also coached the Listowel hockey team which won the championship in 1955.

He was given charge of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church in Kingston in January of this year.

The speaker was introduced by Linton Read, and thanked by Ron Cass. He was presented with a gift on behalf of the Y's Men's Club by D. G. Diamantides.

Among the distinguished guests were international director Pat McKenzie, of Acton, Ont. district governor Robbie Clarke, of Belleville, Ont., and Mayor Gerald B. Hyde.

All three congratulated new president Hugh Watson and the executive, and commended past president Max Waddell and his executive for a successful year. Mr. McKenzie particularly noted among the club's accomplishments the chartering of the Oshawa club. A warm welcome was given out-of-town guests by Mayor Hyde.

Head table guests were introduced by Max Waddell, and other guests were introduced by past director Jack F. Schurman.

Kiwanis president Charles Lusk expressed appreciation to the Y's Men's club on behalf of the guests. Jack Yanover, president of the Rotary represented that club at the banquet.

A toast to the ladies present was made by Bob Laughlen, and responded to by Verna Hutchinson.

Mrs. V. "Buzz" Flindall, past-president of Y's Menettes, was presented with a gift by Mary Fletcher. She also accepted a gift for her husband, a past director, which was presented by Jack Schurman on behalf of the club. Mr. and Mrs. Flindall are leaving Belleville in the near future.

TURNS OVER GAVEL

Prior to turning over the gavel to the new president, chairman Waddell gave an address on the club's accomplishments over the past year which included the raising of $1,700 for the service account, the chartering of the Oshawa club, and the start of a Christmas tree plantation at Moira Lake and a day camp for local children at Oak Lake.

"The day camp, which is still in the organizational stage, is perhaps the most important project ever undertaken by our club," he stated.

He thanked the members of his executive for their co-operation and wished the new president and executive future success.

Past President Waddell then presented new president Hugh Watson with the gavel, president's pin and wheel. Mr. Waddell was in turn presented with the past president's pin, and a gift on behalf of the club by Willis Hutchinson.

The new president then took over as chairman and gave a brief address outlining plans for the coming year.

Dancing to records concluded the evening's entertainment.

Gas War Enters Second Round In This City

The current gasoline price war in Belleville entered its second round on Thursday as close to half a dozen service stations further reduced prices for standard grade gas to 34.9 cents per gallon.

At least one service station on Station Street also posted the 37.9 price.

The gas price war started a week ago when Sunoco stations in the city were first to post the 39.9 cent price. Other service stations representing other oil companies quickly followed suit and changed their prices over the weekend.

Princess Will Visit Troops In Germany

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret left London by plane for Hamburg today on a three-day visit to British Army units in Germany.

Her departure came less than 48 hours after her meeting with Peter Townsend sparked speculation of a revival of their romance.

Townsend was expected to leave London himself today to visit his mother in Somerset.

The princess, whose visit to Germany had been arranged some time ago, smiled briefly as she walked the few yards from her car to the plane.

QUEEN RETURNS

As the princess' plane took off, Queen Elizabeth was entering Dover harbor on board the royal yacht Britannia on her return from a state visit to Holland.

The princess is due back in Britain Sunday afternoon and will drive to the royal lodge in Windsor Park, where she will spend the rest of the weekend with Queen Mother Elizabeth.

The Queen herself will be in residence at nearby Windsor Castle.

Townsend also is expected to return to London Sunday. It is thought unlikely, however, that he will meet the princess again before his return to the Continent early next week. He has said he intends to live in Europe.

DECISION UNCHANGED

Further meetings after that are a matter of speculation, with the general feeling that they will continue to meet as "old friends."

Thursday, the day after he met with Margaret, Townsend issued a statement through his lawyers that the princess had not changed her 1955 decision that she could not marry him.

Townsend is divorced and the father of two sons now in school in England.

Hope to Split Adenauer Party Over Atom Arms

BONN (Reuters) — The opposition (Social Democratic) party hopes to split Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union over the question of atomic arms for the West German army.

Erich Ollenhauer, Social Democratic leader, made this clear Thursday when he told a press conference there were opinions among some Christian Democrats which differed from the official party line.

Ollenhauer, announcing that his party would oppose atomic armaments by all constitutional means, called for the dissolution of the present government.

The other opposition party, the Free Democrats, is considering using the constitutional provision for a "constructive vote of no confidence" to oust Adenauer. Under this procedure, the Bundestag may bring down the government, but only if in voting no confidence they also vote approval to a named successor to the chancellor.

LIKELY CHOICE

The most likely candidate, in the eyes of the opposition, is Bundestag president Eugen Gerstenmaier.

Gerstenmaier, leading Protestant member of Adenauer's party, has in the past expressed opinions which varied from the chancellor's official, line. The most publicized instance was Gerstenmaier's recent suggestion that discussion of a German peace treaty at a summit conference might be a way out of the deadlock over reunification.

This idea has been taken up by the Russians and by the opposition, but has been rejected by Adenauer as risking a peace settlement based on the status quo.

Gromyko May Not Make Report Until Next Week

MOSCOW (CP)—Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko apparently will not make his report to the Soviet parliament on banning nuclear tests until next week.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev is expected to announce his new government to the Supreme Soviet at the same time, probably Monday or Tuesday.

In his speech on banning nuclear tests Gromyko may announce that Russia, without waiting for the United States and Britain, is suspending its own H-bomb tests.

At the opening of today's session Nikolai Bulganin, who was replaced as Premier Thursday, moved up again to the front row of seats and held an animated conversation with the man who replaced him.

SAME POWER AS STALIN

Khrushchev, 63-year-old son of a Ukrainian coal miner, now holds the two posts once occupied by Stalin. It was Khruschev himself who led the campaign after Stalin's death against the Stalinist "cult of the individual."

The new premier made only one reference Thursday to Stalin in his speech on agricultural reorganization, his pet project.

Today's morning session was devoted to farming policies. Khrushchev's policies envisage opening of huge virgin tracts of land, breaking up centralized control of the industry and giving individual collective farms more leeway in running their own affairs.

On the foreign front, the assumption of Khrushchev of the premiership may be a signal for a fresh approach for East-West summit talks.

No sudden change in Soviet foreign policy is expected, but Khrushchev now may embark on measures which will lift the negotiations out of the present doldrums.

Tractor Trailer Rolls Over on Main Highway

TRENTON — Ross Horner, father of two children and a truck driver for the Quinte Transport Limited narrowly escaped death yesterday afternoon when the tractor trailer he was driving rolled over on the main highway at Bayside.

Mr. Horner suffered only a bump on the head and a cut to the leg despite the fact the cab of the truck was crushed to the level of the steering wheel. The tractor was a complete write-off and was fully insured.

The accident happened in front of the Bayside Grill and the truck came to rest on its side on the lawn in front of a house situated next to the grill and service station.

Reports say Mr. Horner was driving a load of steel, about six tons, towards Trenton, when the small car in front of him braked suddenly to make a left turn across the highway. The truck driver, rather than hitting the car, swung across the road and into the service station lot, but when the truck hit the loose gravel it went out of control and rolled over once and came to rest on its side. A telephone pole had been splintered by the careening truck.

The cab of the tractor and the motor were completely smashed but the "float" was not believed to be seriously damaged. Other trucks from the Quinte Transport were sent to the scene to pick up the load. A tow truck from the Quinte Machine and Repair of Trenton was sent to the place of the mishap, righted the truck and hauled it in to Trenton.

Ontario Provincial Police from the Belleville detachment investigated the accident, which happened a few minutes before noon.

21 New Members For Frankford Legion Branch

TRENTON — Seventeen members of Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion attended the monthly meeting of the Frankford branch recently when 21 new members were initiated into the latter branch.

The initiation team was composed of W. Esli Donaldson, Orvall C. Smith and W. J. B. McLaren, all of the Trenton branch. It was the largest number of new members ever initiated into the Frankford Club at one time. It increased the membership in the small town to 80.

The group have undertaken an extensive membership drive and are hoping for a paid-up total of 150 members by the end of the year.

Also taking part in the evening's proceedings were Acting District Commander Louis Knack of Trenton and Ontario Public Relations Chairman Len Taylor of Belleville. Both spoke briefly and complimented the Branch on the progress made in recent months.

During the evening an invitation was extended to the Frankford members to attend a mammoth stag fun-night to be held in the Trenton new Legion Hall tonight, March 28, at 8 p.m.

Nellie Clarke Spends Quiet 110th Birthday

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP) — Miss Nellie Clarke, who Thursday observed what she believes was her 110th birthday, spent a quiet day in bed at her home near here.

Gordon Howse, with whom Miss Clarke resides, said today the woman has been confined to bed most of the time for the last year.

"She knows us only at times," Mr. Howse said. "When she is feeling well we get her up and she sits in her wheel chair. However, she spends most of her time in bed."

Actual proof of Miss Clarke's age was lost 78 years ago when a fire in her home destroyed the family Bible in which her birth date was recorded. But a friend, Ed Hagerman, 59, of Kingston, says she was 110 Thursday.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Hagerman came from Kingston to visit Miss Clarke, who lived with Mr. Hagerman's aunt when Miss Clarke was a child.

There was no special celebration Thursday. Mr. Howse said the elderly woman may not even have known it was her birthday.

FIRECRACKERS ARE DANGEROUS

This is the season of the year when there is always a booming business in firecrackers.

Unfortunately the built-in bang does not satisfy all the purchasers of firecrackers. There was, for instance, the child who dropped a firecracker into the gasoline tank of a car on Church Street. If that firecracker had exploded, the child would have got a lift which could easily have been right out of this world. Few children are looking for so much for their firecracker money. But far too many of them, while content with the firecracker's own boom, want to add a bang of another kind. They want to scare some other child. All too often children do not scare easily - - and nobody gets alarmed until somebody is hurt, perhaps seriously.

It would be nice if one could just dismiss the firecracker hazard as the juvenile equivalent of hazards attached to other spring-time activities, love, gardening and house-cleaning, for example. The difficulty is that, while the young man's, and woman's, fancy, the husband's yen for the soil and the housewife's toil can, upon occasion, result in assorted troubles, such as broken hearts, blistered hands and housemaid's knee, these activities all serve a useful purpose. Firecrackers do not, unless one considers it useful to bring glee to young hearts - - and glee purchased at the possible expense of another's lifelong woe is not to be desired.

If enough children play enough pranks with firecrackers, enough adults are going to demand their prohibition to add Ontario to the already lengthy list of areas where fireworks are banned.

Those who remember the fun they got out of fireworks when they were young would regret the necessity for such action - - but would approve the action if this necessity were proven.

It will be proven if many more children drop firecrackers in the gasoline tanks of cars - - or throw firecrackers at other children, burning their flesh or their clothes.

The possibility of a prohibitory law could be avoided by co-operative action, by children, parents, the stores which sell firecrackers and the manufacturers of fireworks.

Children ought to exercise common sense in the way they handle firecrackers, which is perhaps asking too much.

Parents ought to caution their children, which is certainly not asking too much.

Merchants ought to refrain from selling fireworks to very young children, which may do little to prevent accidents but which would at least reduce merchants' responsibility for any accidents which do occur.

Finally, the manufacturers of fireworks might consider the advisability of discontinuing the production of cheap firecrackers, which are responsible for most of the accidents, in order to safeguard themselves against the prohibition of fireworks of all types.

We should like to see the pleasant custom of fireworks displays on May 24 retained - - but it will not be if too many firecrackers injure too many children.

GOOD WORK

Two members of the Picton Police Department are to be commended for their heroic actions in saving a number of people from a burning apartment building in Picton last Sunday.

Sergeant Scott Hele and Constable George Wright are credited with saving the lives of twelve occupants of the destroyed apartments. They carried two crippled women to safety after rousing the other occupants.

It is hoped their heroism is not forgotten.

DEEDS WE MEANT TO DO

I reckon when my summons comes
And all my time of life is through,
I shall look back and see a lot
Of things I really meant to do.
Try as I will, I'm sure that at
The end of time I'll turn and sigh
As I review the chances that
I had to help, and passed them by.

I tell myself from day to day,
I'll do this simple little deed,
And then somehow I turn away
For what seems then of greater need.
But when the time for help has gone,
When on my chance has set the sun,
There comes to me the thought of one
More helpful thing I might have done.

We should not ever put away
One instant, deeds we mean to do,
Nor keep the kind words we would say
Our selfish motives to pursue
For when, to fly on angel wings
Away from earth, at last we're bid,
Then shall we sigh, o'er many things
We meant to do, but never did.

Diefenbaker Stumps Writer

Ottawa Journal

When Campbell-Bannerman was Prime Minister in Britain the headline writers, driven to distraction, had to make him "C-B" to fit the big type. In Canada Meighen (seven letters), King (four), Bracken (seven), Drew (four), Low (three) and Pearson (seven) have been bearable. St. Laurent (11, including a space and period) was more difficult and Coldwell (eight) has not been comfortable.

Diefenbaker (11) is a sturdy chunk of a word and the headline writers' escape very often is to "PM" for "Prime Minister". But it would be handy for them if he had some acceptable nickname to compare with the "Ike" for Eisenhower (10) or the informal "Winnie" for Churchill (nine).

No one likes "Dief", an ungracious abbreviation although it is down to four letters. In some Quebec constituencies the abbreviation "Diefen" (six letters) is being used by Conservatives. Offhand it does not seem much improvement on "Dief".

There would be no objection, it might be thought to making him "John G." (seven including period and space) in the tradition of the Macdonald (nine) who was known as "John A."

This in many ways is an exercise in futility. Nicknames and abbreviations are born, not made, and someday someone will strike on the perfect short form of Diefenbaker, preferably not more than five letters.

Strip Tease To Get Votes

Milwaukee Journal

The National Federation of Republican Women are out to "keep the fun in fund raising" — and from their recent booklet telling how to do it, it's apparent that they're a lively bunch of girls.

There are, of course, the usual suggestions for card parties, bingo, art exhibits, rummage and white elephant sales, style shows, candy and bake sales, breakfasts and other ways by which women raise money.

But this year something new has been added. A fine plan, the women say on page nine of their bulletin, would be to hold a strip tease. That's right, strip tease. The pamphlet says:

"This would be a big hit in some localities but bad taste in others. An evening affair, with good dinner and, if permissible, cocktails preceding. All garments, hats and accessories are new (brought or donated with arrangements or exchange for proper sizes). Beginning with hat, costume jewelry, etc., model delivers each item to highest bidder from runway, ending with bra and panties (she wears flesh colored tights or bathing suit). This can be finale of regular showing of styles."

It can be finale, too, as far as getting votes of a lot of people to whom "take it off" is a signal to call the vice squad.

Fish Pumped Into Hold

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Russian ingenuity won itself considerable respect with the launching of the first man-made satellite. It would be foolish to think that Soviet invention doesn't extend to other fields. As the Milwaukee Journal points out, Russian sardine fishing captains make port with bulging holds and say, "Look, Nikita, no hooks, no lines, no nets."

The revolutionary Red technique is based on the observation that the sardine — at least the Caspian Sea type — is a daylight feeder, and seems to feel a hunger reflex when it sees a light. So, like our poultry men, they kid the subject into thinking it's that time, actually in the pre-dawn hours.

The light is rigged on the end of a "J" shaped pump intake hung under water. As the tiny fish swarm around the light in an almost solid mass, the pump simply sucks them directly into the ship's hold.

In 1956 Russia had a total sardine fleet of some 450 vessels, which took 1,500,000 tons. But just 11 vessels using the light and pump method accounted for 100,000 tons apiece — three - fourths of the whole catch. That's a phenomenal gain in efficiency in any man's country.

If the Russians can figure out a way to propagate sardines in proportion to their huge catches, they will really be entitled to boast about their resourcefulness.

While some inconvenience has been caused by the water in the river being exceptionally high, no particular damage has resulted. Many cellars and rear yards along the west side of Front Street were flooded up to noon today when the water subsided owing to the ice moving towards the harbor. No further trouble is anticipated.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CAUSE FOR WORRY

Like every other citizen, I have been reading of the growth of juvenile delinquency with mounting alarm and horror. "But," I said to myself, "we can thank God that this sort of thing could never happen in our community. It is one of the outstanding intellectual centers of the world. There are thirty times as many citizens of this little village in Who's Who in America as in the average community. Here intellect and high moral purpose preside over a place of surpassing beauty. Juvenile delinquency might happen in the big cities, or in places which do not have our advantages, but never here. Never."

Well, the bad news is out. The police were tipped off recently that there was a gang in the local high school and that they were getting ready to meet a gang in a neighboring community. The police searched parked cars and locker rooms. Result? Hunting knives, a black jack, a section of lead pipe, an automatic pistol, and the end of a baseball bat. The kids were really getting ready for the toughies down the line.

What does it teach us? Well, if we're teachable, it teaches us that evil is everywhere. Culture and elevating surroundings have very little to do with situations of this nature. To be sure, in this and every community, delinquents are only a small minority. But they are the symptoms of moral disease which may some day ruin our nation.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OH, NEVER GIVE UP!

We see failure sneaking in to drop some word that will discourage and shatter the decision of those determined to conquer, no mater what the odds! There is no example so tragic as that one in which an able man or woman gets so discouraged as to be unable to keep going.

The great keep going. That's why we have great men and women. They have faith. They keep going. They are the leaders and the winners.

People who inspire great multitudes and change the tempo of life never give up. Often they die with their work only partially done, but those about them have absorbed greatness, and so the great men or women march ahead and glorify the soul of man.

Oh, never give up. That is not victory. Victory is something great, even if it only celebrates an inch at a time. I believe that is the speed at which Kipling suggested we ought to travel ahead. You know the story of the drop of water that wears away the stone, finally.

People give up but not for long. When life is measured out the very soul of man is given its test. We then see as through a glass, darkly. But with spiritual eyes a whole drama is unfolded before us as clear as though it had been planned ahead, as probably it was.

When we give up we hand a debt to our sponsor in life, who expects the fullest co-operation from each one of us. How, or why, should we let that one down? If we are doing the work of another, let us give him a helping hand and put a little lustre into the human heart. Certainly it is not asking too much in a world that can only add to what others have done in a suggestive capacity.

Councillors Like Secrecy

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

The tendency of elected municipal councillors to prefer secrecy in certain kinds of public business is quite widespread in Canada. Though it is a more generally accepted aspect of public life in smaller centres and rural municipalities, it still persists in several cities.

Though the principle of public business done in a public way is an accepted part of democratic procedure, it is still, in the lower levels of government, an explosive subject. This may be partly due to the belief of public men that they really know what is best for the community. Also involved, however, is the embarrassment sometimes caused by full publicity in municipal transactions, a far more potent factor, of course, in smaller communities.

The reception given the attempt by Arthur Child (P.C.-Wentworth) to secure provincial legislation to prevent secret council sessions is therefore not surprising. However, the argument offered in the Ontario Legislature's municipal law committee that any legislation designed to prevent such meetings could be circumvented is not a valid one.

The argument of Mr. Child really can't be refuted. In general, councillors who want to conduct business in private can't avoid the charge that it must be because they have something to hide. As a result, inefficiency and even misconduct too often follow.

Too Many Believe This

Christian Science Monitor

Said a first-grader of his teacher via a scrawled tribute entered in the Washington Post's "favorite teacher" essay contest:

"I wish she was smart enough to teach second grade too next year."

Pity the teacher! For there are school boards, parents, and taxpayers all over the land who also subscribe to this unlearned and harmful fable: that it takes more ability to teach the second grade than the first; more to teach the eighth than the seventh; more to teach "secondary" class than elementary, and so on. And they accord pay and prestige accordingly.

But there are abilities and abilities — gifts and gifts. And many an experienced college professor who suspects he understands more about his subject than he does about his students bows in respect to primary grade teachers he has known.

Comprehension of calculus, of the functioning of money, of the quantum theory, of the sequences of history may have yielded to his diligent concentration and persistence. But how does one acquire the sensitive intuition to lead a child's thought out of utter inexperience into this already overexperienced world?

Railwaymen Vigilantes

St. Thomas Time-Journal

A most novel plan of cutting down crossing accidents has been reported from Lansing, Mich., and should be of special interest to St. Thomas, the Railway City of Canada. The State of Michigan's railroad engineers are organizing like old-time vigilantes, in an effort to reduce mishaps over thoroughfares. The men have pledged themselves to swear out complaints and go to court to testify against anyone spotted driving unsafely at a crossing.

The scheme was announced by Robert C. Pitsch, of Grand Rapids, Mich., legislative chairman of the Michigan chapter of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. If the policy should spread to other chapters it might eventually hit St. Thomas, the headquarters for many rail brotherhoods whose members are employed on local divisions between the two borders.

A somewhat similar plan was tried out here some years ago when all citizens were given the power to fill out cards and inform against drivers for traffic violations. The trouble was that erroneous complaints were filed, and eventually the scheme had to be dropped.

But as this is the rail brotherhood's own "baby," as it were, we imagine only justifiable infractions will be lodged. It is a mighty interesting idea, and its success, or failure, as the case may be, will be followed closely by all citizens, as well as railwaymen.

So It Seems

A Detroit motor car designer predicts the wheel-less car will be with us in 20 years. It will be propelled by ducted fans and glide along about two feet above the ground. Shucks, some drivers seem to do that now with today's car.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON MANY SUBJECTS

A reader contends:

"You should put in more but shorter questions and answers". Suits me. The Q is up to you; the A depends on what has to be said. Here are some that can be short:

"Is it possible for a woman to become pregnant after 50? — K. O."

Sometimes, but not often.

"I have pyorrhea of the gums. Will you tell me about it? Is it catching? — Mrs. L. A."

It means pockets of infection around the teeth. Regular visits to the dentist (even when you don't have a tooth ache) for cleaning away tartar, etc., is a good preventive. Good diet, including plenty of roughage, such as fruit and vegetables, helps apparently. Once pyorrhea starts, don't lose time in getting treatment. It results in loosening of teeth, bad breath, and greater danger if some other disease hits you.

"Please tell me what to do about unnatural hair growing on a girl's lip and elsewhere. Should I shave?"

If not too extensive on the face, the permanent answer is to have the hairs removed by electrolytic methods. This is a painstaking process. Elsewhere, shave.

"I have been told that cooking in aluminum ware is dangerous. What is your opinion? — A.H."

This question keeps coming up — obviously because a lot of people who don't know any better keep on repeating the false notion. I suspect (and have seen some unquestionable evidence) that the rumor sometimes is stirred up deliberately by salesmen trying to sell other types of cooking ware. There is no truth in it.

"I have had a skin disease for three winters on my stomach and hips, and sometimes my arms. I don't have it when the weather is warm. — Mrs. A .C."

I can't say much about any skin disease without seeing it. But since it comes only in winter, one question would be whether you are allergic to something that you wear only in winter.

"Can you tell me something about infectious mononucleosis? Can a person get it more than once? Is is true one can contract the disease through kissing? — C. J. B."

It is also known as glandular fever; a not-very dangerous disease. It is especially common in the late teens or early adulthood, and more common in groups such as students living in dormitories. The victim often becomes very tired without knowing why. The glands swell. Kissing may or may not be of importance in catching it; certainly close daily contact with others who have it is quite important. The victim needs rest, good diet, some treatment, but that's minor. It's a "self-limiting disease", meaning it runs its course and stops, and aside from rest and nursing there isn't much to do about it.

"Will a baby born with cleft lip and palate be able to speak clearly after surgery is done? Is there a feeding problem involved?—"

Usually yes, the baby will speak clearly afterwards — as clearly as babies speak, that is. In any event, there will be enormous improvement. No feeding problem is involved—except that before the operation there might be one, depending on the nature of the cleft palate.

"Do men have change of life? — G. M. G."

Some women would like to blame their husbands' disposition and behavior on this. Actually, there is considerable argument whether men really have a "change". It certainly is not common and not as specific as that seen in women. Men retain virility and fertility a long time.

Are you considering the removal of your child's tonsils? If so, remember that nature provided them for a purpose, and this is explained in my pamphlet, "Don't Trifle With Tonsils." To receive your copy, write to me for it in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large self,-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Population 'Younging'

Milwaukee Journal

An expert said the other day that our population is "younging." At first thought it appeared that this referred to a juvenile tendency in adults, the old game of hens trying to act like spring chickens. But that's not the case at all.

Turns out that it's expertese for a new trend in which our average age will grow younger rather than older.

This growing habit of creating new language for each group of experts isn't just an American phenomenon. The British suffer it, too. Miss Edith Pitt reported this to her colleagues the other day:

"People who used to be called 'tramps' or, more politely, 'casuals' or 'gentlemen of the road,' are now called officially 'persons without a settled way of living'."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When house wreckers go to work, they are moved by neither sentiment nor history. Jock Carroll, the newspaperman, was passing up Jarvis Street, in Toronto, a street now largely given up to decay and institutionalism, when he beheld the old mansion of the late Sir William Mulock, chief justice of Ontario, in the advanced stages of demolition. Jock bailed out of his car and entered the ruins to see if there was not some sentimental salvage he could pick up. Massive old doors with great brass hinges were being flung down. Panelling torn off and chucked on the piles of debris. But there, as yet unstuck by the laborers' wrecking bars, was a built-in book case, of walnut, or fine old cherry at least.

"How much?" asked Jack.

"Ten dollars," said the foreman, alert.

Jock would have paid fifty for sentimental reasons; for it was doubtless behind the books in this very book case that old Sir William kept the withered box of candies which he would offer, with ill-veiled derision, to any guest who declined a snifter. But Jock is a bargainer who does not allow sentiment to rear its winsome head at a time like this.

"Give you five," he said.

"Ten," said the foreman. So Jock went away for a few hours to lend force to his five. When he returned at quitting time, the book case was gone.

"Who got it?" asked Jock, hollowly.

"The boys," said the foreman, "chopped it up for firewood. Cold day, eh?"

Pearson Facing Heavy Program On Closing Days

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester B. Pearson set out today on a final and short-distance swing through parts of Eastern Ontario on the fourth day before the general election.

An intensive speaking and greeting program has been lined up for him in the next two days, and he is expected to touch about a dozen communities around and fairly close to this capital.

The Liberal leader will be fighting to hold or gain Ontario seats against the Progressive Conservatives.

With the campaign nearing its close, Mr. Pearson Thursday night directed himself at the national audience by radio and television and in general terms said his already - publicized program has been shown to be the one for these times.

He whipped out at the Conservative government for "failure" to act on unemployment and said his party has the remedy for it in its tax-reduction and trade policies.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Mr. Pearson brought up the question of his role in foreign affairs, declaring he has spoken before of the "vital importance of taking practical steps to strengthen peace and security in this troubled world."

"That ultimate problem — of peace and war—always will remain of passionate concern to me," he said.

Hitting out at Progressive Conservative dealings with the unemployment problem, Mr. Pearson said the situation is serious and the Conservative government has provided no remedy and has no effective plan for a remedy.

The election was "needless" and had been called in the hope that the Conservatives would be restored to power before conditions got worse.

SUBMIT REMEDY

The Liberals recognized there was trouble and submitted a remedy, and any remedy to be effective must deal with trade, both foreign and domestic.

Foreign trade must be increased, particularly in the United States market. Demand for Canada products within Canada must be stimulated. Traditional Liberal policies of trade expansion would be pursued "energetically and to the limit."

A Liberal government would be, as hard-headed as Canadian producers would want it to be, but also careful, constructive and realistic in foreign economic policy.

"We will not," said Mr. Pearson, "stupidly threaten anyone with loss of markets through diversion, but we will not sit idly by when our own business is threatened."

REDS TO BUY FROM U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—An important trade delegation from Communist China is expected here shortly with power to place orders for a wide range of British products, the Sino - British trade council said Tuesday night. This will be the first follow-up of the Chinese economic and technical mission which came here last autumn under the council's auspices, it said.

Prime Minister Promises Posts For Quebec Votes

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, saying that he had "walked with history" in his latest visit here, Thursday night implied for the second time within two days that more French - speaking Progressive Conservative members of Parliament could mean larger Quebec representation in the federal cabinet.

Of 75 Quebec seats, nine were held by Conservatives in the last Parliament and three became cabinet ministers.

Addressing a mass rally, estimated to have drawn 2,500 listeners to stifling St. Francis of Assisi Hall in the politically-embattled constituency of Quebec East, Mr. Diefenbaker said:

"I ask the population of Quebec province to give me an imposing number of French-speaking lieutenants to aid me in my task, and to offer to the whole of Canada Quebec's point of view.

"Several of the candidates before you would make excellent ministers in Ottawa, and if they all come I shall certainly be embarrassed by the choice when it comes to strengthening the French - language representation in the cabinet."

ONLY IN FRENCH

The prime minister, who spoke in both languages, made only in French Thursday night the statement that he had uttered in both tongues the night before to a public meeting in Montreal's Graig Street armories.

Mr. Diefenbaker Thursday visited the Roman Catholic shrine of Mount Tabor, a war memorial built by interdenominationally-raised funds, the ancient General Hospital, now an old peoples' and convalescent home.

"I walked with history at the General Hospital, which dates back to the days of the Recollect Fathers in 1760," he told 1,200 jamming the St. Francis Hall. Aother 900 were in the auditorium elsewhere in the building and an estimated 400 were in the neighborhood, following by television and loudspeakers.

GIVES TV TALK

The prime minister also made his final television broadcast of the campaign. He asked for "a clear and unmistakable mandate" for his government to pursue its policy of northern development.

"We Canadians, who have too long been too meek about entering into the fullness of our own heritage, will at long last begin in full measure to inherit our own good earth," he said.

CCF Chief Says Liberals Torn By Dissension

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP)—CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell says it appears that the Liberal party committed suicide during the stormy 1956 parliamentary debate on the Trans-Canada pipeline.

He told a political meeting here Thursday night that the Liberal Opposition in the last Parliament was a "sorry spectacle." It would be in a "sorrier state after the coming election for there are many reports of dissension, unrest and disappointment in Liberal party ranks."

The statements were included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Coldwell said the only opportunity for Canadians to express their protest against present conditions is to vote for CCF candidates.

Referring to trade, the CCF leader criticized the Conservatives for refusing to make barter arrangements with other countries, to sign long-term marketing agreements and to sell Canadian goods for sterling.

"The Conservative government is following the same course as the Liberal government in referring item after item to the tarrif board and bringing upon us the threat of possible tariff increases."

Mr. Coldwell said Canada should recognize the government of Communist China if trade is to be carried on with that country.

He said recognition of a government such as the Chinese Red regime does not mean approval of it.

Young French Worker Killed Near Bancroft

Rene Richer, of Cardiff 20-year-old French immigrant in Canada only 18 months, was fatally injured early Thursday afternoon when his car skidded broadside into an approaching truck on highway 28 east of Bancroft.

The young immigrant was pried from the wreckage of his 1948 model sedan but died en route to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital. Coroner Dr. O. W. Anderson and county crown Attorney John A. Pringle are conferring to decide about an inquest.

Police said Mr. Richer an employee at Bicroft uranium mines was westbound driving at a high rate of speed and on the wrong side of the highway. As he neared an approaching Bicroft Mines truck driven by Truman Froats of Bancroft, Richer swung his car to the right side of the highway, but the vehicle went out of control and skidded sideways into the approaching truck.

He had to be pried from the wreckage of his car.

Richer's parents live in the Nice area in France.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Russell Alex Burchfield, 15, described by a psychiatrist as intelligent but emotionless, Tuesday was sentenced to life in the state prison for murdering his younger brother. "Fifty years ago," Judge Warren L. McCarthy told the boy, "there would have been little hesitancy in imposing the death penalty on you. However, I feel no compulsion from society at the present time to kill and do away with the deficient and handicapped."

Five aprons were handed in for the fall bazaar.

The thanks of both Mr. Woodward and Frances Kellar were extended for cards and sympathy in the deaths of a father and uncle, respectively.

Mrs. Geen's quilt is to be quilted at Mrs. Murray Morgan's on March 26 with a potluck dinner at noon.

A discussion was held about a "Centennial Quilt" to be made for the 100th anniversary of the church in 1960. Owing to the music festival on May 16th, the date of the May meeting has been put forward a week to May 9.

There was a short period when entertainment for the meetings was talked about with some good ideas put forward.

The program was in charge of Mildred Sherry. Frances Kellar gave a reading "Friend Visits," followed by "Your Best," read by Mildred Sherry. A delightful accordion solo was played by Merle Mumby.

After the meeting was closed by Mr. Woodward refreshments were served by the hostess, Frances Kellar. The April meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Lorne Mumby.

Easter Bonnet More Important This Season

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters) — The Easter bonnet is more important than ever this year.

With the new short skirts that only just cover the knee, a hat is essential to complete the silhouette. In the words of Madame Simone Mirman, Princess Margaret's milliner, the hat, without being high on the head, must give an illusion of height to balance what has been taken from the skirt.

To which Madame Vernier, another of the Royal Family's milliners, adds that "above all else, the hat this season must be becoming; but it must also be chosen to relate to a specific outfit in order to dramatize the effect."

FLAT OR TALL

Thus, it may be very wide or very high, it may be flat or tall, helmet-shaped or flying off at the back like a windsock. But it is nearly always light and airy, and often shows the hair through a transparent haze of tulle, point d'esprit, organza or one of the season's other popular sheer fabrics.

On other models, coarse open-weave straw leaves the hair visible and well aired. One striking straw model by Madame Vernier, in white chip straw, is strongly reminiscent of an upturned wastepaper basket bedecked with a wide, white ribbon band.

Madame Vernier has come up with a series of "space helmets," stressed by stiff veils that cover a pillbox or helmet shape set square on the head and descend straight and stiff around face and head almost to chin level.

Madame Mirman interprets the same idea in tambourines — her version of the pillbox — covered with a veil that looks as if it had been cut from a fisherman's net.

FLOWERS AND FRUIT

Both these milliners are showing a number of tambourines (or pillboxes) for the spring made of fine straw, silks, organdy or printed fabrics and trimmed, sometimes covered, with a variety of flowers or fruit.

But shape matters little this year. There are berets, cloches, turbans, toques, bretons and schoolgirl "sailors," square crowned helmets, enormous capelines or cartwheels, sometimes with double or cutaway brims, and simple skull caps.

Paramount for spring 1958 is construction — and construction is always light.

Tall helmets are built of transparent spotted tulle on a virtually invisible frame. Large melon or balloon shapes in organza look like the headdress of some fantastic Eastern magician, ready to take to the air on his magic carpet.

Enormous cartwheels and capelines, with brims overlapping the shoulders, have yards and yards of tulle on a light silk or fine straw base. Alternately, they are covered with roses or a veritable flower garden of spring blooms.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S. - L.A.

IVANHOE — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. A. Hassall and Mrs. John Hassall on Wednesday.

The president, Mrs. Harold Thompson, presided and opened the worship with an Easter poem:

HE IS RISEN

"Arise! for He is risen today,
And shine, for He is glorified!
Put on thy beautiful array,
And keep perpetual Eastertide."

This was followed by a prayer of thanksgiving led by the president. The Scripture from St. Mark 16: 1-20 and the commentary were read by Mrs. W. V. Walker.

This Easter service of worship was prepared by Miss Isobel McConnell, Reg. N. who for over 25 years was a missionary serving in India.

An introduction to the study of the 23rd Psalm was given by Bessie M. Fleming. The chapter of the study book, "Ten Million Outsiders," was read by Mrs. William Donnan.

A duet, "In the Garden," was given by Mrs. A. Hassall and Mrs. Lindsay Sills. An Easter poem was read by Mrs. John McInroy and Mrs. Barton Haggerty gave a reading, "Christian Fellowship."

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

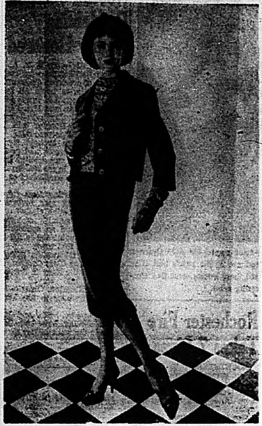
Distinctive Spring Suit



By ALICE ALDEN

The costume suit is given fresh definition and authority by some of our leading houses. Arthur Jablow has considered color, texture and detailing in a series of spring suits from which we have chosen one to illustrate. The fabric, a tissue-weight wool crepe, is in a new shade of blue—regal blue. The demi-fitted jacket—straight in back, slightly shaped in front —is banded with an inlay of fabric with tiny bows at the jacket hem. The white chiffon-cotton blouse has a print design in blue to match the suit.

Question . . . I did chuckle at one sentence in Feb. 3rd's paper re changing trains at Montreal: "Davey's meals are by nature's method." That's how I fed my wee Gary, Billy and Jackie and Tommy . . . I hope you can find time to answer . . . some of the ladies asked me to bring rolls instead of sandwiches since it is my turn (to bring refreshments) . . . what could I use for filling or spread on them? . . . T.D.

Answer: Your letter was perfectly delightful. I was sorry to shorten it.

ROSEBUDS

Make Sweet Roll Dough as you are used to making it. This amount requires a batch calling for 4 cups flour. Cut the dough into halves and roll each half into a 12-inch square. Spread 1-4 cup thick jam on each — use raspberry, strawberry or apricot. Roll up as for jelly roll. Cut into 12 pieces about 1 inch wide. Place cut side up in greased muffin tins. With greased scissors cut a 1-2-inch deep cross right through top of each. Cover. Let rise until doubled. Beat together 1 egg yolk and 2 tablespoons milk. Brush tops of buns with this. Make at 350 deg. 25 minutes. Frost tops while warm with icing made of 1 cup sifted icing sugar, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla and just enough milk to make it stiff enough to spread. There's so delicious you should allow 2 each and serve them from white linen-napkin lined wicker or silver bun baskets. Okay? Best of luck.

GOOD MANNERS

GRADUATE'S PARENTS ASK ABOUT COMMENCEMENT PROCEDURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband and I are planning to attend our daughter's graduation from a University this June. Since we have never attended a University graduation, we are wondering what the procedure for parents is. Will you please give us some suggestions to help us?

2. Should we present flowers to our daughter, or a gift, or both, and should they be sent in advance? — S. M. B.

1. Since procedures and schedules for commencement days vary so much in the different universities, your daughter will be your best advisor and guide about this. Undoubtedly, she will soon send you a brochure or leaflet about the events of commencement days; tell you about the accommodations she has made for you both; give you attire-suggestions, and so forth. There may be a dinner (usually informal) to which you are to go on Friday evening; perhaps an alumnae parade on Saturday morning, then luncheon, some special event for Saturday afternoon (perhaps the president of the university and his wife have open house) dinner, perhaps a college play in the evening; Sunday morning chapel or church service, with the baccalaureate sermon; and today, in many universities and colleges, commencement is held Sunday afternoon, instead of Monday morning, as formerly.

2. Your daughter will of course be thrilled if you and your husband take her a graduation present. About giving her flowers I'm not so sure, and I suggest you consult her about this. For if she is wearing the usual cap-and-gown she will undoubtedly not be allowed to wear a corsage with this, and she may not want to wear, or even find it convenient to wear, flowers on the other occasions.

ASSEMBLY-LINE EATING IS NOT CORRECT, NOT ATTRACTIVE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

"A" says that when one is eating meat, the correct way is to cut one small piece at a time, eating this before cutting the next piece. "B." insists that it is all right to cut up the whole piece of meat at once, eat these pieces, and then cut up the next slice. Who is right? — A and B

"A" is right. Assembly-line eating . . . doing all your cutting first, then all your eating . . . is not correct, not attractive, not grown-up.

SERVING THE FIRST COURSE BOTHERS HOSTESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I were married last November, and we're planning to give our first dinner-party in our new home. I'm to be cook and waitress, as well as hostess. Serving the first course bothers me. If I serve a fruit cocktail, would it be proper to have it on the table when the guests enter the dining room? — Hostess-to-be

Yes . . . entirely proper to have the fruit cocktails at the places when you summon the guests. A practical procedure too . . . and one that can be a decorative and colorful addition to the table-setting. Incidentally, if you are too bothered about what to serve for a first course and how to serve it . . . many hostesses, especially new ones, are worried about this . . . I suggest you omit a first course. Then you can more happily and easily concentrate on the two or three other courses: an excellent main course, followed by a fine salad (optional), and then featuring a "noble" dessert as a dramatic ending of your dinner.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Norma S. — My sister hogs the whole show.

Mrs. L. S. — She should try to be more like her sister.

Norma S. — I am 14 and very unhappy because of my sister, who is 16.

Greta is very pretty and a wonderful dancer and a good athlete. Of course, she is terrifically popular. I'm only average in everything and nobody ever notices me except to say that I'm "Greta's sister." When Greta walks into a room everyone turns and takes notice. I can just sit and nobody knows I'm there.

I know that it's not right to be jealous, but I can't help it sometimes. How will I ever have friends or get anywhere in the world if my sister hogs the whole show?

Mrs. L. S. — It has been a real problem to raise these two girls with their completely different temperaments.

Everyone thinks Greta is a great beauty — but she isn't. She just happens to light up like a Christmas tree when she sees an audience. Norma is a pretty girl in her own right, but she doesn't do anything to call attention to herself. I keep telling her to be more like her sister.

We have tried to get Greta to take Norma in on her doings, but it just doesn't work. Norma complains that nobody likes her — they just take her out for Greta's sake.

The Council: Mrs. L. S. is making a mistake in telling Norma to be "more like her sister" and in trying to get Greta to take on the responsibility for Norma's social life.

Norma already lives far too much in relation to her sister. She must begin to see herself as a very separate individual with entirely different qualities from her sister — qualities that other people can like and admire.

Perhaps the first step in helping Norma would be to make her conscious of the fact that to a great extent she is master of her destiny. She, and nobody else, is robbing herself of friends and good times. Her sister could "hog" a dozen shows and there would still be some left over for Norma to star in.

The girls are close in age, but there is still enough difference for them to have entirely separate groups of friends. If Norma cannot be happy in the same group with her sister, she must find her own.

Mrs. L. S. can help her daughter by encouraging her to develop the social skills that throw her into meaningful contact with others. Sports, music, dramatics, dancing are all excellent. Even the more "lonely" hobby activities like reading, drawing, painting, photography, can be very helpful in developing the personality and giving the youngster points of contact with others. A girl like Norma may develop much more confidence in herself if she can excel in such a skill.

A little success and social experience will help Norma mature to the point where she will be able to accept the fact that not every girl can be the one "everyone turns to and notices" when she walks into a room. Many girls with less dramatic appeal have great popularity and closer, warmer friendships.

RCAF Nursing Sister Enjoys Life in Service

COLD LAKE, Alta. (CP)—For nurses who crave variety the Royal Canadian Air Force is the place to find it, says FO Olive L. Blair, nursing sister at this base in northeastern Alberta.

A day's work might include assisting in the delivery of a baby, helping in surgery or treating an accident case.

But the variety of tasks is only one of the advantages of the RCAF nursing service, says Miss Blair.

"Financially we are better off than our civilian cousins, and we probably work in closer harmony with the doctors. And the RCAF supplies recreation galore."

PLENTY OF SPORTS

At Cold Lake, depending on the season, nurses may enjoy swimming, badminton, bowling, horseback riding, skiing, skating or curling "all at little or no cost."

FO Blair, 27-year-old native of Choiceland, Sask., took her nurse's training at St. Paul's Hospital in Saskatoon, becoming a registered nurse in 1952. She went to St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria and then worked at Queen Alexandria's solarium for crippled children, also on Vancouver Island.

She decided to join the air force in April, 1955, and was sent to a small hospital at the RCAF station in Senneterre, Que. "It was a 10-bed hospital without x-ray or laboratory facilities, and the serious cases were always sent to the city," she recalls.

Next came a posting to another small hospital at Edgar, Ont., and she came to Cold Lake last September.

"My responsibilities here are about the same as in any large hospital, only perhaps more general," she says.

Contemporary Art Should Be Approached With Open Mind

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Contemporary art seems to be subject guaranteed to irk many individuals.

"But the contemporary art should be approached with an open mind," says John K. B. Robertson, Ottawa art dealer and sessional lecturer on art at Carleton University here.

Many people approach contemporary art with a prejudiced mind, not with the idea there may be something good in it, Mr. Robertson said in an interview.

EXPERIMENTAL WORK

A viewer has to realize that some contemporary art is experimental and also reflects our own time—an age of some confusion, psychoanalysis and a certain lack of discipline, he says.

"Art is a language and we must try to understand it. . just because it is difficult we shouldn't turn it down."

Sometimes it does take effort to establish communication between the artist and the viewer, particularly when the artist's form is non-objective and highly interpretative.

Mr. Robertson said people admit they get more enjoyment out of music when they understand it. But it is more difficult to admit that even if a painting doesn't immediately tell a story, there could be enjoyment in lines, tones and colors.

PERSONAL APPROACH

Art dealer and lecturer Charles Duveen of New York, however, says people shouldn't worry about understanding some "modern art." They should study art of the past and develop their sense of discrimination.

He told the Ottawa Women's Canadian Club there often is nothing to understand in a contemporary painting and, if there is, only the artist understands it.

He said the public, rather than critics and museum directors, should be its own art critic and individuals should simply decide whether they like a painting.

Aluminum Ingot Price to Be Cut

MONTREAL (CP) — President N. V. Davis of Aluminium Limited Thursday announced that his company will reduce its price of aluminum ingot by as much as $42 a ton starting April 1.

The reduction would be the first in approximately a decade.

In a separate announcement Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd., a subsidiary of the parent Aluminium Limited, announced a reduction, also effective April 1, of $40 a short ton on its price in Canada for commercial grade aluminum ingot of 99.5 per cent minimum purity.

The new Alcan price will be $450 a short ton, delivered to customer's work.

Mr. Davis said: "It is our conviction that today's action will make aluminum more competitive with other materials, encouraging engineers and manufacturers to design their products for more aluminum and this will open up new applications for our product."

LEADERS

Mr. Pearson said his tax-reduction and trade proposals are the remedy for unemployment.

NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT

Mr. Diefenbaker, who appeared on television immediately after Mr. Pearson, asked for a "clear and unmistakable mandate" to go ahead at once with northern development.

"We Canadians who have too long been too meek about entering into the fullness of our own heritage will at long last begin in full measure to inherit our own good earth," the prime minister said.

Before the television broadcast, Mr. Diefenbaker spoke at a rally in Quebec East, the seat held formerly by Mr. St. Laurent. He drew an overflow crowd of 2,500.

Speaking in French and English, the prime minister promised that his party will always protect provincial rights.

Mr. Coldwell said it appears the Liberal party committed suicide during the 1956 Commons debate on the Trans-Canada gas pipeline.

Liberal Opposition in the last Parliament, he said, was a "sorry spectacle." It would be in a "sorrier state after the coming election for there are many reports of dissension, unrest and disappointment in Liberal party ranks."

WILL PROBE LAW

Trade Minister Gordon Churchill said at Winnipeg in an interview that the government will make a thorough investigation of the United States law requiring Canadian subsidiaries of American companies to obtain a U.S. export licence before shipping goods to Communist countries.

He was commenting on a report that a Canadian car manufacturer which has a parent company in the U.S. cannot export cars to Communist China because the American firm cannot obtain a permit from the U.S. government.

At Sarnia, Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith said the federal-provincial hospital insurance scheme will wipe out hospital deficits in Ontario.

TO DISCUSS JOBLESS

At Oshawa, Labor Minister Michael Starr said a conference of labor, management and government representatives will be convened in an attempt to eliminate "seasonal unemployment."

At Chatham, Secretary of State Ellen Fairclough told a tea party Liberal Leader Pearson altered his stand on unemployment after pressure from the "backroom boys" of the party.

In early campaign speeches Mr. Pearson had said "after all, the Conservatives cannot be blamed for unemployment." she said.

"Then the backroom boys got to him," she said. "He modified his statement to the effect the Conservatives cannot be entirely blamed. They got after him again and he has not mentioned it since."

FIND NO MIKES

LONDON (Reuters) — Engineers have found no evidence of concealed microphones in rooms in the House of Commons used for party meetings, a government spokesman said Tuesday night. Suggestions that microphones were used were made after Conservatives complained of a leakage of information about their private political meetings.

PICTON

Board Wants Further Study On Tenders

PICTON — Awarding of a contract for the erection of a new Prince Edward County hospital at Picton is being held up for a short time until members of the hospital board and the planning Committee can study two of the tenders further.

These are from the Findley McLachlan Co. of Oshawa for $556,929.00 and one from the McFarland Construction Co. of Picton for $574,444.00.

Deferring of the awarding of the tender until next Monday was made at the suggestion of Dreever and Smith, architects, so that they might have an opportunity to investigate difference of materials or specifications of sub-contractors for various trades as contained in the contractor's price.

Eight tenders were received. They were: T. A. Andre and Son, $604,928.; Fidelity Construction Co., $568,000; Newton Construction Co., $597,320.; T. L. Smith Construction Co., $575,000.; M. Sullivan and Son, $628,737.; Tatham Co. Ltd., $588,279. and the two being considered further.

That of the Fidelity Co. was barred from consideration for failure to propose alternate subtenders.

Bids were about $50,000. less than the Board had anticipated. When tenders were called last year the lowest tender was $749,252. but since then plans have been changed, but bids indicated keen competition.

The hospital has $753,000 in sight for building, thus the bids indicate that there will be a margin of $175,000. for architects' fees, provision of an elavator, and furnishings. President J. M. Hartwick stated that work will proceed as soon as the tender is let. Tenders were open at a public meeting Wednesday night. The project was at a standstill due to lack of finances until increased government grants for construction were announced.

ARREST FIVE

NEW YORK (AP) — Five teenaged members of a Bronx gang were seized Tuesday in the slugging of a private school teacher with a baseball bat. Four of the boys were negroes, 15 and 16 years old. The other was a 17-year-old Puerto Rican. All had been suspended from public schools as troublemakers.

FIVE HAPPY PEOPLE GET MOVIE ACADEMY OSCARS

A $5,000,000 program to fight unemployment was launched. Workers without jobs and unemployment insurance benefits will be used for special municipal works projects up to May 31, with the government paying 70 per cent of direct labor costs.

Additional welfare measures were an increase in grants to homes for the aged and appointment of a six-man medical committee to study the problems of the aged in Ontario.

AIR POLLUTION

Commissions were also established to fight air pollution and racial or religious discrimination.

For the motorist, there was legislation providing for a demerit driving system. When established, the scheme will enable the transport department to rule drivers off the road if they collect too many demerits for traffic offences.

Causes of accidents and the psychology of the accident-prone driver will be studied by a medical committee under the transport department.

Motorists will be affected by two changes in the taxation field, too.

The tax on diesel fuel was reduced to 18.5 cents a gallon from 20 cents and legislation was adopted to permit the government to impose tolls on all international bridges as well as others that might be selected.

Liquor laws were altered to extend the definition of a residence. This will permit drinking in back yards, boats, tents, trailers, hotel rooms and other places acceptable to the courts as private dwellings.

The farmer was given a new law to protect him against losing grain or feed he stores in grain elevators. Inspectors will guard against elevator operators converting grain to their own use.

AMENDS ACT

The Farm Products Marketing Act was amended to permit the adoption of marketing programs with approval from a majority of growers casting ballots instead of those eligible to vote. Either system might be used at the discretion of the farm products marketing board.

The farmer was also given added protection in a new Pipe Lines Act which requires an order from the Ontario fuel board before installations can be made. Compensation for use of land and damages would be guaranteed through arbitration with right-of-appeal.

Labor legislation was changed to give more protection to long-term contracts. Fewer "open seasons" now are permitted in which bargaining rights can be challenged by rival unions or dissatisfied workers.

A full revision of the Labor Relations Act is expected next year. A select committee which studied the question before the session was reconstituted to continue its investigations.

LOANS TO STUDENTS

In addition to higher grants, education also received a student-aid loan fund of $3,000,000 which will help students get higher education through annual loans of $500, payable after graduation at 3½-per-cent interest. Loans won't have to be endorsed.

Municipalities were given the right to extend the vote in council elections to all residents of a year over 21, providing the measure is approved in a plebiscite. This will grant the franchise to boarders and roomers and relatives living with property owners.

Other municipal legislation permits the Ontario municipal board to conduct special inquiries into growing areas to provide inter-municipal reorganization. The inquiries could produce some compromise between outright amalgamation and the metropolitan system used in Toronto.

DEMOLISH FOUNTAIN

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian National Exhibition's Gooderham Fountain, a fixture since 1911, has been torn down. The fountain was so popular that "meet me at the fountain" almost became part of the language. A new one will be built at the same spot in time for this year's exhibition.

Nalore said 30 to 40 persons occupied the building. The total number of injured could not be determined immediately.

STIRLING

Nearly 200 Attend IOOF 'Wildey Night'

STIRLING—About 200 people gathered at the IOOF lodge hall, Charlotte Street, on Friday evening to observe Wildey Night.

Robert Hulin, Noble Grand of No. 239 IOOF, welcomed the audience and presided over the program.

The program consisted of piano selections by Mr. Sherwood Reid, a recitation by Mrs. Percy MacMullen, and a selection of Irish songs by Miss Donna Carlisle, accompanied by Mrs. Phil Conley on the piano. Miss Linda Ann Morrow gave her recent public speaking address, "I Prefer Modern Days." A duet, "You Are My Special Angel," was sung by Misses Joan and Shirley Chisholm, of Sidney, with Joan playing an accompaniment on the piano. Dennis Heasman, another pupil of River Valley Public School, gave his prize-winning address, "My 1957 Christmas in Florida." The program concluded with Mrs. Glenn Brooks singing "Love Letters in the Sand." She was accompanied by Mrs. Harry Morrow on the piano.

Owing to the illness of DDGM John Bristol, of Madoc, the past District Deputy Grand Master, Charles Carter, gave the address.

In his address he explained why a "Wildey Night" celebration is held annually. He said that through the efforts of Thomas Wildey, an Englishman who came to the United States, an IOOF Lodge was founded in Baltimore, USA, and this benevolent organization spread to Canada.

An assembly singing of popular selections, conducted by William Reynolds and Sherwood Reid followed.

Miss Maria Heasman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Heasman, delighted with a Highland Fling tap dance number, accompanied by Mrs. P. Conley at the piano.

Mr. William Reynolds, accompanied by Mrs. H. Morrow, sang 'Old Man River," and Mrs. Geo. Ingram, Campbellford, gave a recitation.

TRAVELOGUE GIVEN

Mr. John Chard, of River Valley, gave a travelogue and showed slides of his trip to England and Europe last summer. Many beautiful scenes were shown and included the old town of Chester, which dates back to 79 A.D. and has wonderful English architecture, the rugged coasts of North Wales, the old and picturesque castles, various views of Stratford-on-Avon, scenes of Buckingham Palace, Trafalgar Square and Piccadilly. These brought fond memories to many of the group who had visited England. Also shown were pictures of impressive cathedrals, the Parliament buildings, Cambridge University, and lovely English homes, gardens and hedges.

The travelogue closed with a birdseye view of scenes in France, Austria, and Switzerland.

Mr. Chard was given an appreciative ovation for his delightful entertainment.

Major General Earl Fox then presented a 50-year jewel to Carl Sine, veteran member of Stirling Lodge [illegible] No. 239. He has been a continuous member for half a century and has held several official positions throughout the years.

ODD FELLOWSHIP

Mr. Fox, in his address, stressed that Odd Fellowship means carrying out the various obligations daily and thus prove to the public the high ideals of this fraternal organization.

Mr. Sine voiced thanks for the jewel which he said he felt honored to receive.

Three little girls, Susan Rose, Maria Heasman, and Elaine Vandervoort drew the lucky tickets. The combination record player and radio was won by Carl Potter. Elmer Cotten won the trilight with chrome base, and Harold Wells the radio.

Ray Rose thanked the entertainers for their assistance on the program.

The group was then seated in the dining hall and Rev. W. H. V. Walker, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, gave the Invocation.

Refreshments were then served and dancing followed in the lodge hall with music supplied by Sherwood Reid, Harry Phillin, and Don Rodgers, and the squares were called by Jim Mitts.

Canadian Faces Test as Palace Press Secretary

LONDON (Reuters)—The Princess Margaret-Peter Townsend reunion was described here as a big day for the Canadian "new boy" in Buckingham Palace.

He is 35-year-old assistant press secretary Esmond Butler who took up his duties a week ago.

His boss, Cmdr. Richard Colville is in Holland accompanying the Queen and Prince Philip on their visit. When news broke that the princess and Townsend had met for tea newspaper men rushed to Butler for comment.

The Daily Sketch says he "kept his head and his calm" when plunged into this unexpected drama. It adds that he "wasn't ashamed to admit" as a former journalist that he would have liked to have been at the tea party:

The Sketch quotes Butler as remarking: "Gee, it would have been wonderful to have been in there."

Butler, it says, has "brought an easy charm and informality to that office it has never had before."

Butler was appointed to the job after serving in Ottawa as assistant to the secretary of Governor-General Massey.

Mothers and fathers of South Hastings, are you happy paying the present price for milk for your children?... Farmers of South Hastings, are you happy receiving the present price for milk?...

CONSUMERS COULD BE PAYING LESS AND FARMERS GETTING MORE THROUGH A CO-OP DAIRY, BUT THE MILK DISTRIBUTORS MONOPOLY UNDER THE PROTECTION OF A POLITICAL APPOINTED BOARD OF THE CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT IS AFRAID TO LET IT START.

HERE IS THE STORY . . .

Some years ago, business trends (under the Liberals) caused me to discontinue canning operations as unprofitable. It is over a year now since I first approached the Ontario Milk Board. It seemed to me that a dairy would not only be profitable, but be of benefit to the entire community. I have an excellent building, the ex-canning factory, which I wish to put to use. After securing the required information, I discussed it with a group of farmers. We decided that a co-operative dairy would be a good thing. Later with a group of consumers we applied for a charter as Quinte District Producers and Consumers Dairy Co-operative. Two officials of the dairy branch of the Department of Agriculture inspected the building and assured me that all that was necessary was to move in the machinery. But the Milk Board refused an application to alter the building because a dairy was "unnecessary and undesirable". Consequently the Provincial Government turned down the charter. On approaching the federal government to see if we could obtain a Federal Charand cannot take it to the courts. So, I am taking it to the people.

ter, I was told that they would have to clear it with Toronto. I then obtained 400 names on a petition saying that a Co-operative dairy was desirable. This made no impression on the Milk Board. The application was again turned down without any reason being given. This is something we might expect in Russia. The Milk Board was set up by the Conservatives. Are we to have totalitarianism under the Conservatives in Canada?

The appeal court has already ruled that the Milk Board cannot refuse a licence by saying that a proposee dairy is unnecessary. The Milk Board is flouting the authority of the courts in order to protect a monopoly. I believe in free enterprise and the rights of the people. Without a charter we are not a legal body,

The CCF Farm Labour party is the only party which accepts no contributions from corporations or companies. Its revenue comes solely from membership dues and from small contributions. We have no money in South Hastings to set up even one committee room. We are fighting this fight on faith in the people. I am proud to enter this campaign as a representative of the party which is beholden to no monopoly, but only to the people. The CCF has consistently championed the rights of the individual. Its members have always stood up in Parliament for you and for me. Let us see that it has more members in the parliament to be chosen on March 31st.

Planning Can Provide Extra Apartment Space

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Newsfeature Writer

Apartment dwelling has a lot of advantages for a lazy man. No lawn to cut; no real estate taxes to pay; no furnace to feed; no water heater to tend. And if the plumbing goes on the blink, just rap on the superintendent's door.

But there are disadvantages, too — like no lawn to enjoy on a summer evening. And if not decorated properly, small apartments are apt to make the occupants feel like caged lions.

Yet this confined feeling can be overcome with careful planning that can make fewer rooms actually mean more living space.

The key to getting the most out of a small space is to make it act large. To turn this trick, simply use the same place over and over again for many different activities. A living room that is the setting for a small dinner can be transformed into a bedroom. Often the partitions that divide space are movable, so that a room's dimensions can be altered to fit activity.

A studio couch is the most useful piece of furniture in a room also used for entertaining. A card table can double as a dinner table.

LIGHT EFFECT CREATED

If you use only one color in a room you can make it look larger. If you use yellow, you can create the effect of sunlight, often shut out of an aaprtment.

Decorations can be concentrated on the walls, giving a room charm without using up precious floor space. A grouping of good paintings, a mirror, or an unusual wall hanging make a small room look important.

Never have too many little gadgets on table tops. They give an apartment a cluttered look.

By repeating a single fabric, or a single color, you can link a number of small rooms to give the broad effect of spaciousness. This also permits the moving of furniture from one room to another.

A narrow room can be given the illusion of width by using a shoji screen on one of the narrow walls.

A big problem in apartment living is finding storage space. This may be concentrated along one wall, keeping things more convenient to find than in closets scattered over several rooms.

CONCEALED STORAGE SPACE

Radios, television and phonographs can be fitted neatly into compact built-in units, either in a wall or in a double-duty piece of furniture. Storage also may be concealed within the furniture itself. Most studio couches, for example, provide such space.

Place your furniture against the wall for more space. Use chairs that are light enough to move from room to room, but which are still comfortable enough to sit on for a long period. Extra seating may be provided by stools that can be tucked away under a table.

Instead of one big coffee table, try two small tables that can be pushed together or separated to serve as end tables or writing desks.

How You Can Fix Broken Sash Cords

By ANDREW C. LANG

One of the most common ailments of an ordinary window is a broken sash cord. A handyman adept at many kinds of repair work often will steer clear of attempting to fix one.

There are thousands of homes in the country right now with one or more sash cords in need of repair, and in some cases they have been that way for many years. There must be a reason, since the man of the house often will tackle far more difficult repair jobs at the drop of a hat. Perhaps it's because the broken sash cord isn't always in sight and doesn't impress itself upon the mind as something in need of repair.

Most of the time it's the sash cord on the lower window which is broken. The sash must be taken out of the window frame. To do that it is necessary to remove the sash bead, sometimes known as the window stop.

HOW TO REMOVE BAD BEAD

The sash bead is merely the flat wooden molding that runs up and down the side of the window frame. Remove the bead on the side that has the broken cord by prying it carefully with a chisel. A screwdriver can be used, but it is more likely to mar the wood. In removing the bead, work from the bottom upward. You'll find that once the first few inches have been pried loose, the rest will come off quite easily.

When the bead is off, the entire sash will lift out of its groove without trouble. Untie the knot of the unbroken cord and you will be able to remove the sash completely. Incidentally, when you untie the cord, notice what kind of knot it has, since you will want to use the same type knot when you put in a new cord.

THE WEIGHT POCKET

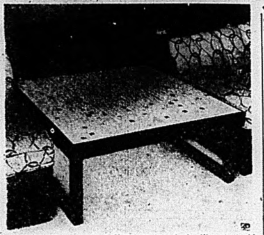
Look at the edge of the window frame on the side where the cord is broken. Near the bottom you will see an oblong piece of wood screwed into the frame. This is called the sash-weight pocket. Remove the screws and lift out the piece of wood. There, at the bottom in the frame, you will find the sash weight. It has dropped there because of the broken cord. Take out the sash weight, remove the old cord and begin the job of putting in a new cord.

Tie a knot at one end of the new cord. Run the other end of the cord over the pulley at the top of the window frame until it reaches the bottom of the pocket from where you took the sash weight. Most of the time the new cord is stiff enough to slide down the frame easily. If you have trouble, put a small weight at the end of the cord to pull it down. A nail or a piece of chain or a small fishline sinker will do the trick. When the cord is at the bottom, attach it to the sash weight. Put the sash weight back in the pocket and screw the pocket cover back in place.

Next, get the window sash you removed from the frame. Rest it on the window sill. Pull the sash weight as high as it will go— until it touches the pulley. The extended cord should then be run down the side of the sash to a point about three inches below the hole into which the cord will fit. That tells you how long the cord should be. Cut it to fit and tie a knot at this end of it. This knot fits into the hole in the sash.

The rest of the job consists of putting everything back the way you found it.

Ceramic Tile Can Renew An Old Table



A scratched top on a coffee table doesn't mean you have to scrap the table. You can give it a custom look, like the table above, by covering it with ceramic tile.

By SAUL FELDMAN

Don't throw away that old coffee table or end table just because the top is scratched — or just because you don't like the way it looks.

Ceramic tile will make it look like new, and without much effort will give it an expensive, custom finish.

If you don't have a table to refinish, you still can make a tile table by using a piece of ¾ inch plywood as a base. Legs can be the inexpensive wrought iron variety, or you can make wooden legs to fit any period furniture.

The first big step is to decide just what color and kind of tile you want. Any tile supply house has displays of ceramic tile in many patterns and shapes. The smaller sizes are probably best for coffee tables and give an expensive appearance.

MONEY SAVING TIP

Here's a hint on saving money on buying tile: although the material is comparatively inexpensive, ask for closeouts or leftovers. The small amount needed for a table should make it easy to pick up leftovers.

Now clean the surface to be tiled of all dust or dirt. A can of white tile mastic should be used to paste down the tile and it can be purchased at any supply house.

A notched trowel is used to spread the mastic evenly across the top of the table. If you buy tile in the smaller sizes, the pieces will come pasted to a sheet of paper. You press the side of the tile not stuck to the paper on the mastic.

After a few minutes, wet the paper and it will easily peal off.

The mastic will take time to set so you still have time to adjust any tiles to make sure you have a nice fit at the table's ends.

If you are artistic enough and by placing one tile at a time on the mastic.
have the ambition, you can work up elaborate tile designs

Let the tile set for at least 24 hours, and then you're ready to fill the cracks with grout. First, take a damp rag and rub along the cracks to wet the tile. Then mix the grout with water until you form a paste and rub it into the cracks while the tile is still damp. Wipe off the excess before it hardens. Any grout that remains after it hardens can be taken off with a wet rag.

The next step is the trim around your table. Here again, personal preference is the only guide. You can use any type of molding, quarter round, or just plain strips of wood.

After the trim is on, finish grouting between the wood and the edge tile.

You can use the 4x4 inch glazed ceramic tile but they must be placed one at a time. These look especially nice on larger tables. They make an unusual and attractive top also for an entire dining room table. Besides alternating colors, they can be painted with designs and initials.

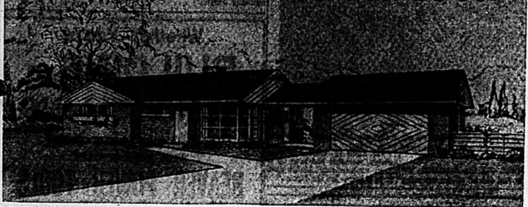
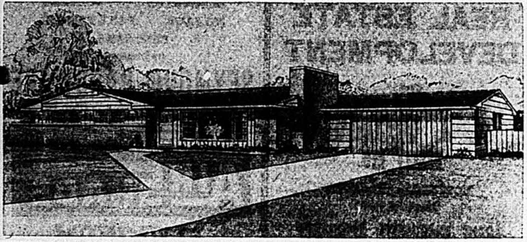
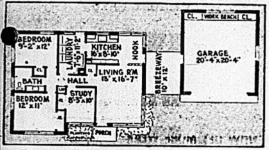
THE LONGER LOOK



A BREEZEWAY and two-car garage extend the line of H-235-KF. The home is finished with brick veneer. Siding provides spanking white trim. A multi-paned pictured window, with a planting area beneath it, highlights living room. Bedroom windows are set high.



IMPRESSIVE IS the word for Design H-265-KF. Actually, it's an average-size home, but it seems long and rambling because the two-car garage is attached. Brick veneer is used for the exterior, with wood siding around windows, the entry and for the garage.



KITCHEN AND laundry are at back in H-235-KF, with a large living room at front. There are two bedrooms and a small study.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

The longer look is featured in many of today's homes. Even small houses have it, as today's plans demonstrate. They achieve it by means of attached garages or breezeways that extend their line.

Design H-265-KF, featured below, is one good example. The house itself is about 45 feet long, but the addition of a two-car garage extends the frontage to 70 feet.

NO-BASEMENT PLAN

The home is a pleasing no-basement design, with a floor plan neatly divided between sleeping quarters and living-working areas.

Bedrooms — there are three—are off to the left, grouped close to the roomy bath with its vanitory and built-in linen storage unit. Closet space is quite good in this area and, for additional closets, there's a large one near the front door and a second linen closet opening off the bedroom hall.

EFFICIENT KITCHEN

The kitchen's an efficient work centre.

Laundry facilities are located at one side of the room, near the door to the yard. Appliances and cabinets are arranged, corridor style, at the other end of the room. Opening off the kitchen is a room for furnace and hot water heater.

The living room, at front, is 17 feet long. An entire wall is given over to a huge fireplace. The front wall is a decorative picture window, looking out on the walk and entry.

Since there's no attic or basement, the garage is planned with storage space.

The home comprises 12,870 cubic feet.

Design H-235-KF, shown above, is another small home—38 feet long. Add 10 feet for a breezeway, and 22 feet for a two-car garage and the house has grown to a long, 70 feet. Quite impressive!

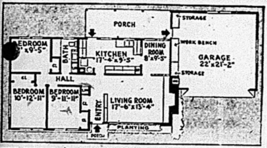
TWO BEDROOMS

This is a two-bedroom design, but a study solves the problem of additional sleeping space if it's needed. It has a clothing closet and could be used for a bedroom. Windows in both bedrooms and the study are high, giving occupants privacy and good ventilation at the same time.

A large multi-paned window highlights the living room which is separated from the breakfast nook by a decorative trellis. The nook is actually part of the kitchen, a small but well-planned work centre. Close by is the laundry room, which houses heating facilities also.

The breezeway, which connects house and garage, is accessible from the breakfast nook.

The home comprises 11,925 cubic feet.



THE DINING AREA of H-265-KF adjoins both kitchen and living room. There are three bedrooms. The garage has storage facilities.

Questions and Answers For Householders

Q — How can you make an extension ladder stay in place at the bottom?

A — Fashion a pair of grips from heavy trap steel and attach them to the lower outside faces of the ladder legs with heavy bolts and wind nuts, as shown in the sketch. At times when the grips are not needed, loosen the top nuts and remove the lower nuts and bolts. The grips then are turned up on the ladder legs and bolted out of the way.

Q — What is meant by "furring"?

A — To provide a nailing surface for vertical paneling, it usually is necessary to affix strips of lumber to the wall. These are called 'furring' strips. In using wood paneling horizontally in an ordinary room, such strips are not needed, however, because the paneling can be nailed directly onto the wall studs.

Q — What's the best way to sand wood paneling?

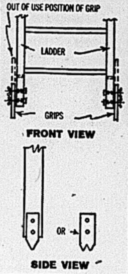
A — Use a coarse sandpaper at first if necessary to iron out the "dressing skips" which occasionally occur in paneling. Then rub carefully with a very fine grade of sandpaper. Always sand with the grain when hand sanding or when using a belt sander. A vibrator-type sander can be used freely.

Q — How does insulation save heating fuel?

A — By blocking the escape of heat through walls and ceilings. Mineral wool insulation, for example, is composed of mineral fibres surrounding millions of dead air spaces. Heat does not readily pass through this dead air and therefore does not escape to the outside.

Q — Are flat-roofed houses hotter in summer?

A — Generally, yes. A house with a pitched roof has an attic or an air space above the living quarters. Air passing through louvers in the gabled ends of the roof ventilates this space, and much of the heat from the sun on the roof is carried away. Heat also can be reflected away from the roof by light-color shingles or other light-color roofing material.



USE FOR COFEE CANS

Empty coffee cans are handy when you tackle a paint job. After mixing paint you can pour a convenient amount into such a tin and find it is wide enough to accommodate your brush. A quart can of paint will fit inside a coffee can in which overside drippings will fall. A clean can is handy for cleaning brushes in turps or spirits.

Buying The Right Wood For The Job Saves Money

The right kind of wood is important economically as well as for appearance and durability in any home modernizing or home handyman project. The fascination of an all-clear piece of lumber is so great that many home craftsmen just beginning to work with wood are often tempted to spend twice as much as they need to spend.

Here is an example of the wrong way to buy wood:

Johnny Do-It-Yourself goes to a lumber yard, buys a 12-foot board of "B and Better" grade, straps it to his car and takes it home. He saws it into four 3-foot lengths to make some basement selves for storing canned goods and odds and ends overflowing from the kitchen.

Johnny has made several mistakes. A "Common" grade of lumber would have been all right for basement shelves. He might have found a bargain in "shorts" at the lumber yard — just the right length for his shelves and they would have been easier to handle in his car. Or he could have bought some boards of one of the lower grades of "Common," sawed out enough perfectly good pieces for his shelves and have some smaller pieces left over to start a little lumber yard of his own for his home workshop or future jobs.

WHERE GRADES ARE USED

Correct lumber buying procedure is to get the right grade for the right use.

"A" and "B" Select grades sold as "B and Better" in many species, are used for the highest quality of work requiring softwod lumber where the finest appearance is required for interior or exterior trim, paneling, flooring, cabinet work, ceiling, partition, beveled siding and drop siding. "B and Better" is often used where the job is to receive a natural finish.

"C" and "D" Select grades are considered best suited for high class paint finishes but they also take natural finishes well. They are often used by the home craftsman for cabinet work used in a formal decorative scheme.

In all of the "Select" grades of lumber the markings in the wood do not affect the appearance of the finish when painted. When given a natural finish these grades provide more formal effects than any of the "Common" grades.

BEST FOR KNOT PATTERNS

The "Common" grades of lumber are used for general utility and construction. The better "Commons" can be substituted for "Selects" for nearly all types of use — siding, shelving, paneling. They are used for painted or natural finishes, starring in the latter role because of the decorative character of the knots and other markings.

In buying 2 by 4s and other pieces of framing lumber, the classification is softwood dimension. For most species, the grades are designated as No. 1, 2 and 3. Appearance is usually a secondary consideration. Grading is based on characteristics of the wood which will affect strength, stiffness, nailing qualities and general suitability.

Hardwood for furniture, paneling and other fine projects, is graded generally according to the amount of clear faced area in the piece, rather than by size or number of growth features that characterize softwoods.

In buying any kind of lumber, it is always best to consult your lumber dealer. He can help you get the shortest lengths and the lowest grades that will do the job. In that way you can make your lumber go wice as far.

AREA OF LATTICES

To estimate the surface of lattice work for figuring the amount of paint needed, measure the front area and multiply by 4.

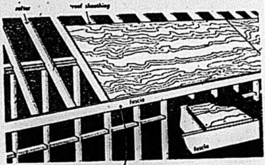
TEXTURES AND COLORS CAN BE CHANGED IN NEW TYPE PAINT

Textured paint which can be varied in density and color combinations is now available to home decorators. The product consists of colored particles being suspended in a paint medium. Best results are achieved by spraying it on as either a wall or furniture finish. Different textures are achieved by changing the color proportions or the size of the color particles. Each paint particle is enclosed in its own individual transparent capsule.

Plan Roof Module of Building To Take 4'x8' Plywood Panels



nail fascia to end of rafters then place fir plywood roof sheathing over edge of fascia board.

Sheathing a roof with plywood panels is not difficult. Savings in labor and materials can be made if a little planning goes into construction of the roof.

If the roof can be planned to a four-foot module of roof size and rafter spacing, the standard-size plywood panels will meet on rafters without cutting or waste. Rafter spacing should be exactly 16 inches or 24 inches, centre to centre, to adhere to the module.

It is best to place the plywood panels at right-angles to the rafters for maximum strength. When nailing the panels to the rafters a space of about one-sixteenth of an inch left between edges of adjoining panels will provide for movement.

At the fascia (see detail in the illustration), the sheathing should be nailed over the fascia board to make a straight roof.

General practice is to nail five-sixteenth inch sheathing panels with two-inch nails spaced six inches apart on outer edges and 12 inches apart on intermediate bearing members.

Roofing of all types, shingles and built-up roofs, can be applied directly to fir plywood sheathing according to roofing manufacturers directions. Your lumber or building supply dealer can provide you with a pamphlet on how to put on plywood roof sheathing. He can also provide information on types of roof finishes.

MAHOGANY RITUAL

Natives of Central and South America contend that mahogany trees should be cut by the light of the moon — that they're sounder in the moonlight, freer of sap and of richer color. But the National Lumber Manufacturers Assn. says this is just an old superstition.

Want Dream Home? Build It Yourself

Dr. Carl H. Linden stands in front of the Memphis home he built by himself.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., (AP) — An enterprising Memphis university professor, who five years ago had only a "speaking" acquaintance with a hammer and saw, is now living in his dream home which he built himself.

Dr. Carl H. Linden, professor of German at Memphis State University, got into this energetic project because he wanted to keep busy, because he wanted a home, and because he desired his home to be just the way he wanted it.

With this objective, Dr. Linden rounded up all the books he could find on home building and secured all the necessary information on building code requirements.

The wiry, 50-year-old professor, who was born and raised in Gelsenkirchen, Westphalia, Germany, taught German and worked at the university for seven hours a day and then worked late into the evening on the house. This was in addition to the paper grading for his classes.

The 8-room house, including two baths and a recreation area, sits on a two-acre fan-shaped lot on a wind-swept hill in an east Memphis suburb. It is valued for tax purposes at about $9,000. Its actual value is higher.

Dr. Linden did all the work himself. Actually, he hired a roofer for a day because of a threat of rain. Linden hired a tile setter for two days because he didn't have a diamond cutter, an expensive implement. Linden said he did all the mixing and all the man had to do was put the tile in place. Linden's wife, Minerva, also helped out.

The three Linden children, Brenda, 11, Cora, 7, and Carl, 5 enjoyed the house-building, and most important, survived unharmed the dangers of an active building site.

The house, which took three years and four months to build, is his personal unique design. Planned for the hot muggy Memphis climate, the house has eight double casement windows, five double-hung windows, two louvered windows, one sash window, four outside doors, and one double outside door, all to provide cross ventilation for the rooms, including the three bedrooms. All are screened.

There are 14 outside corners in the house, and three-foot eaves on most of the house for protection against the sun and rain "You don't need air-conditioning in my house," Linden said.

Linden used heavy girders and placed the floor joists closer together for the support on the foundation. He also used sheets of non-rust metal between the cement block foundation, the 38 brick piers, and the beams to protect the wood against termites.

VENTILATED BELOW

There is no basement, but Linden utilized the four-foot area between the ground and the floor to place his heating equipment. The area under the house is ventilated.

The living room, 24-feet square, is separated by a solid plywood wall with two sections fitted with hinges. In this manner the back part can be turned into a dining room or a recreation playroom for the children in bad weather.

Every room has built in storage cabinets or closets, and the children's rooms have built in chests of drawers. The den has a built-in book cabinet. The floors are hardwood.

He has a screened in back porch for a cool eating area. There is a flag-stone patio veranda by the back door.

The H-shaped house has an adjoining garage with a breezeway between.

Linden dug the foundation, put it in and did all of the carpentry work, electrical and plumbing work.

"The house is extremely comfortable, workable and lives up to all my expectations," Linden said. "It is a home for the family."

INTEREST IN INTEREST

"Consumers never know what interest rates they're paying and couldn't care less", says James Downs, Jr., of the Real Estate Research Corp., Chicago. "It's how much a month on the installment plan that dictates present-day buying."

A FLOORING TIP

Hardwood flooring should never be laid until all plaster and cement work are thoroughly dry and all woodwork and trim installed. The last operation in building is the laying and finishing of hardwood floors.

Khrushchev Destroys Myth Of 'Collective Leadership'

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There's something fascinating and frightening about the fast rise of Nikita Khrushchev, who has unveiled himself as dictator of Russia.

By adding the Soviet premiership to his other offices, he has destroyed the myth of "collective leadership" in the Kremlin.

Khrushchev barged his way to the goal on which his glittering eyes had been fastened at least since the death of Josef Stalin, and perhaps long before.

Where Stalin presented to the world a personal picture of cold enmity and resolution, Khrushchev is many-sided. One day he is the benevolent, avuncular neighbor, smiling broadly, cocktail in hand.

The next day he lashes out with furious denunciation and threats, and prophesies of doom for Western "ruling circles."

POTATO POLITICIAN

He manipulates a political change of pace that not only varies acceleration but also darts sideways and up and down. Endowed with the shrewdness of peasant ancestors and schooled among the Old Bolsheviks, he may well be a more dangerous man than Stalin.

The one-time miner — a self-made man if ever there was one —did Stalin's bidding during the life of that despot and was tagged with the contemptuous "potato politician," because of his collective farm responsibilities.

Some potato. Khrushchev didn't hesitate to downgrade Stalin's memory when his own star reached the ascendant. And in only a few years he became far better known to the West than Stalin ever was.

Khrushchev, 63, has a way of turning his own weaknesses — or apparent faults—to his advantage.

GENIAL MASK

Even his well-publicized and boisterous drinking habits probably did little harm, except to his stomach, which bothers him. Such former Communist bigwigs as Malenkov, Molotov and Zhukov may be wishing now that they had tried his brand of firewater.

Khrushchev has entertained a procession of Western newspaper men, and none failed to get a juicy story. He has a way of rubbing his right hand in a circular motion on his fuzzy dome, with an amused, puzzled smile, when be is asked a difficult question.

This is hardly the picture of a ruthless tyrant. Yet Khrushchev is the same man who is blamed for the death of thousands when he was Stalin's hatchet man in the Ukraine during the Second World War.

Bulganin, old soldier that he is, will likely just fade away. It is possible he was considered expendable since his recent deluge of propaganda letters to Western leaders had finally resulted in a reaction of exasperation.

Lawyer for Oil Firm Is Counsel Of Energy Board

WINNIPEG (CP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell says it is "very strange" that a man in the pay of a big oil firm should also be legal counsel to the royal commission investigating gas, oil and other sources of energy.

He charged Thursday that the Progressive Conservative government has "very little regard for proprieties or for the interests of the people of Canada."

In an interview with a Winnipeg Free Press reporter, Mr. Coldwell noted that A. S. Pattillo, counsel for the Borden commission on energy, has also been representing Imperial Oil Limited in a big tax adjustment case before the Exchequer Court in Ottawa.

"Mr. Pattillo would appear to have some very conflicting interests." Mr. Coldwell said, "I consider this very improper."

Mr. Coldwell previously criticized the appointment of Henry Borden as chairman of the commission because Mr. Borden is president of a large utility concern.

Referring to Mr. Pattillo Mr. Coldwell said:

"It seems very strange that a man who is working for a group which is investigating oil companies is also appearing on behalf of a great oil company which is trying to escape certain taxes."

London Woman Pleads Guilty To Fraud Charge

GODERICH (CP) — Elizabeth Morkin, of London pleaded guilty Thursday to possession of stock certificates valued at $400, part of the loot from a robbery in which stocks and bonds valued at $30,000 were taken from the Hensall home of Mrs. Alice Joynt last July 5.

She pleaded guilty also to being in possession of four motor vehicle licences and nine operator's licences, stolen from the licence issuer's office in Exter in January, 1956.

Crown Attorney Glenn Hayes told the court there was evidence of the use of the licences as false identification in disposal of some of the securities stolen in the robbery.

She is also charged with forgery in London of five cheques drawn on the Riverside Poultry Company, but was not asked to plead to the charge.

Two other Londoners, Alexander G. Gray and Leonard Cowan, are charged jointly with uttering the five forged cheques at five Huron County centres.

The woman was remanded in custody to April 3 after the $1,000 cash bail on which she had been released previously was raised to $1,500 cash.

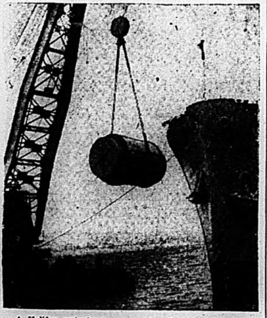
Gray and Cowan were remanded to the same date on continuing bail.

Arrow Hits Eye

TORONTO (CP)—Doctors were fighting today to try to save the right eye of Hendrik Kyc, 6, of Oshawa after it was hit by an arrow while the boy was playing cowboys and indians.

Hendrik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kyc, was brought to hospital by ambulance from Oshawa Thursday night.

RECORD LIFT



A Halifax waterfront crane makes its biggest lift when a 0-ton stator for a 75,000 kilowatt generator is taken from the Norwegian freighter Ravnefjell. The generator was ordered by he Saskatchewan Power Corporation. (CP Photo).

Walter Harris May Be in Line For Leadership

TORONTO (CP) — Walter Harris, former federal Liberal finance minister beaten in the 1957 federal election, may turn out to be a top contender for the Ontario Liberal leadership.

The name of the 54-year-old lawyer from Markdale, Ont., is frequently mentioned among high party officials as one of the favorites to take over the leadership from Farquhar Oliver, 54, chieftain for the last 13 years.

Mr. Harris has given no indication so far of whether he will fight for the party helm at the Toronto convention April 18. But party officials are hopeful he will run.

One possible indication that he may be willing to switch to the provincial field is the fact that he declined to accept the federal Liberal nomination for Grey-Bruce, a riding he held for 17 years until his defeat last year.

MAY FIND FIGHT

Should Mr. Harris choose to run, he might find a fight on his hands. John Wintermeyer, member of the legislature for Waterloo South and the party's financial critic, says he will be a candidate.

Mr. Oliver himself may also be a contender though it is understood among some party officials that he would bow out in favor of Mr. Harris.

Other Liberals mentioned as contenders are: Ross Whicher, member for Bruce; Reeve Vernon Singer of suburban North York Township, former president of the Ontario Young Liberal Association; and Paul Hellyer of Toronto, former associate defence minister and now a contender in the federal election in Toronto Davenport.

Mr. Harris, a war veteran, was born at Kimberley, Ont., and practices law at Markdale. He first became a cabinet minister in 1950. For a time there was speculation that he might take over the federal Liberal leadership from former prime minister St. Laurent but the events of 1957 changed the party's fortunes.

Drew Heading Delegation to Geneva Parley

GENEVA (Reuters) — George Drew, heading the Canadian delegation to the 87-nation conference on the law of the sea, said Thursday apprehensions concerning nuclear testing are not confined to tests o the high seas.

Drew spoke during debate on a joint Soviet-Polish-Czech-Yugoslav motion binding states "to refrain from testing nuclear weapfined to tests of the high seas.

Drew, Canadian high commissioner to Britain, quoted an announcement Wednesday of "a very heavy increaee in radioactivity" over Vancouver. He added:

"This occurred after explosions which took place not a great distance away as distances go nowadays—to the west of that city, and not over the high seas."

REDUCE FALLOUT

United States delegate Arthur H. Dean said the world "may soon find that fallout from nuclear bomb tests had been reduced to minimal proportions."

He said he believes that if the tests were continued they would have "high portent for the economic development of the world" and benefit medical science — particularly in the fight against cancer.

"Reports of the after-effects of nuclear explosions have been vastly exaggerated," he added. "The facts will be quite different as reported by scientists."

Soviet delegate G. I. Tunkin said the United States had "attempted to assert that nuclear tests on the high seas would be beneficial to mankind" but he failed to see the logic of this conclusion.

AVOID STAND

"An attempt is being made to avoid taking a stand on the substance of the matter," he said.

Earlier, a conferencece committee gave provisional approval to a draft article defining the conservation of fisheries on the high seas. The article said:

"The expression "conservation of the living resources of the high seas' means the aggregate of the measures rendering possible the optimum sustainable yield from those resources so as to secure a maximum supply of food and other marine products.

"Conservation programs should be formulated with a view to securing in the first place a supply of food for human consumption."

The article must be given final approval in the plenary conference.

EXPECTS TO RETRIEVE SPACE DOG

In a Moscow laboratory, scientist Ada Kotovsky continues her experiments with dogs, training them for future trips into space. She believes that in the near future one of her dogs will make the trip into space and return unharmed.

Some of Canada's Biggest Political Figures of Recent Times Not in Election Race

OTTAWA (CP)—Some of Canada's biggest political figures of recent times are on the outside looking in this election campaign.

Most are Liberals, and chief among these are former prime minister Louis S. St. Laurent and eight of the nine cabinet ministers who went down to personal defeat in the 1957 general election only 9½ months ago.

Household names throughout Canada for years, none is a candidate in the March 31 election adn only a few have made speaking sorties into this year's campaign on behalf of their party.

The 76-year-old Mr. St. Laurent who won his Quebec East seat but lost the government reins in 1957, has made only three small contributions to this campaign while resting in Florida. These were a telegram, a press statement and a 2½-minute recorded radio speech all endorsing Lester B Pearson to whom he relinquished the party leadership in January due to ill health.

RUNS AGAIN

Of the nine former iberal ministers defeated last June 10 only the youngest—34-year-old Paul T. Hellyer in Toronto Davenport who was appointed to the cabinet just 1½ months before the 1957 election—is making a comeback attempt as a candidate.

Not in the running are these ex-ministers: Robert Winters, 47, public works; Milton F. Gregg, 65, labor; Hugues Lapointe, 47, veterans affairs; Walter Harris, 54, finance; C. D. Howe, 72, trade; James J. McCann, 71, national revenue; Stuart Garson, 59 justice; Ralph Campney, 63, defence.

Mr. Campney has returned to his law practice in Vancouver. He says he figured after the last election that his age and his length of public service — 5½ years as secretary to former prime minister Mackenzie King, four years as chairman of the national harbors board and eight years in the Commons, five as a minister—earned him some rest from "that exacting master," public life.

LAW PRACTICE

Mr. Garson also has gone back to law practice, in Winnipeg where he served almost six years as Manitoba premier before becoming federal justice minister in 1948. He had been in public life since 1936, when he joined the Manitoba cabinet over the opposition of his wife and his law partner.

"When I left the justice portfolio there was little left to do in the department," he said recently. "When public life is reduced to straight routine there is little satisfaction in it. It's profitless."

Of the other ex-ministers, Mr. Howe now is chancellor of Dalhousie University and a director of a number of large Canadian corporations; Dr. McCann, vice-president of Guaranty Trust Company of Canada; Mr. Gregg, resident representative, in Iraq for the United Nations technical assistance board; Mr. Winters, $60,000-a-year Canadian head of the huge Rio-Tinto Company; and Mr. Harris and Mr. Lapointe back in law practice.

Average age of the former iberal ministers, including Mr. St. Laurent, who are not running again is 61.5 years.

NOT DEFEATED

Ex-ministers not defeated personally last year are up for reelection. Their average age is 53 years. They include 74-year-old James G. Gardiner, former agriculture minister, who has yet to encounter personal defeat at the polls in 44 years of Saskatchewan and federal politics.

Of the 265 members of all parties elected to the last Parliament in 1957, only 21 are not again candidates. Of these, 16 are Lbierals — 11 from Quebec — two Progressive Conservatives, two former Social Credit MPs and one a former independent member. Average age of the Liberals who have dropped out is 61.7 years.

Chief among the 21, besides Mr. St. Laurent, are Rene Beaudoin, 45, Speaker of the last Liberal Parliament and former MP for Quebec's Vaudreuil-Soulanges and Victor Quelch, 66, of Alberta's Acadia riding who had been the Social Credit party's top agricultural spokesman.

BUSINESS REASONS

Mr. Beaudoin gave business reasons for leaving politics, Mr. Quelch poor health.

Others are Rev. Dan McIvor, 85, Fort William; Joseph Dechene, 78, Athabaska, Alta., and J. A. Bonnier, 78, Montreal St. Henri. All Liberals with 17 to 22 years' Commons service, they were the oldest members of the last Parliament.

Among prominent Liberals defeated last June and not attempting comebacks this year are Robert McCubbin, 55 parliamentary assistant for agriculture for 10 years; W. G. (Gib) Weir, 61, chief party whip for 12 years and parliamentary assistant to the prime minister from 1953 to 1957; Leopold Langlois, 44, parliamentary assistant to the postmaster-general and the transport minister for 6½ years; Mrs. Ann Shipley, 58, once spoken of as cabinet timber; and E. T. Applewhaite, 59, former Commons committee chairman.

Woman Burned To Death in Hamilton Fire

HAMILTON (CP) — Mrs. Anne Syer, 52, was burned to death Thursday night when fire swept her duplex home.

Her body was found a few feet inside the front door by firemen, minutes after they reached the flaming house.

Mrs. Syer was alone in the house at the time, her husband, a mechanic, was at work.

A policeman ano a citizen, first to arrive at the scene attempted to enter the house but were driven back by flames and smoke.

Three companies of firemen quickly brought the flames under control.

Arson investigator Don Macrae was called in to determine cause of the fire.

Chief Justice Rejects Appeal For Lighter Term

TORONTO (CP) — Chief Justice Dana Porter of the Ontario Court of Appeal has rejected an appeal for a lighter sentence by an Alexandria man who beat two of his sons with a belt buckle, mutilating one of them for life.

Ronald Appleton, a 29-year-old unemployed mill hand from Alexandria, 20 miles north of Cornwall, was sentenced to two years less one day last Oct. 22 by Magistrate Leopold Lalonde.

The court was told Thursday that Appleton took his sons Kevin, three, and Timothy, five into the garage, stripped them and beat them with a leather belt, striking them about the face and body with the metal buckle.

Dr. George Bateman, who examined the boys in Cornwall General Hospital, said Kevin was "mutilated for life" by the beating.

FATHER CENSURED

He described Appleton as either a "sadist, a borderline psychotic or a young man with an uncontrollable temper which will lead him to murder unless some correction is carried out."

He said Kevin suffered mulriple face cuts, "cauliflower" ear and bruises all over his body. His nose had apparently been broken some months previously.

Timothy had a slight cut over one eye, a slight bruise under it and bruises all over his body.

Elliot Pepper, assistant director of public prosecutions, told the court Thursday he "wished" the two-year sentence could be increased. He opposed the written appeal by Appleton.

Chief Justice Porter, in dismissing the appeal, ruled that time served pending the appeal would not be allowed to count against the sentence.

WIFE "AS BAD"

The probation officer's report described Appleton and his wife as alcoholics, and said the wife, Selena, 23, was as bad if not worse than her husband.

Mr. Justice F. G. MacKay, who heard the appeal with Mr. Justice G. A. McGillivray and Chief Justice Porter, said he felt the Children's Aid Society should place all four of the Appleton children in foster homes.

Mr. Pepper replied that the two boys who were beaten are now in foster homes and the other two, now living with their mother, would probably be taken away in the future.

Students Turned Back 15th Time By Duplessis

QUEBEC (CP) —Two Montreal law students and a coed have tried vainly for more than two weeks to see Premier Duplessis of Quebec.

They were turned back from the premier's office again on Thursday, for the 15th time.

All the three want from Mr. Duplessis is to have him set a date for a meeting with student association presidents from Quebec's six universities to discuss more provincial financial aid for higher education.

The three, all of the University of Montreal, are Jean Pierre Goyer, 26-year-old fourth-year law student who is the spokesman for the trio; Bruno Meloche, 23, in his second law year and Francine Laurendeau, 21-year-old first-year stimultaneous translation student.

Their action follows a mass boycott of lectures by students in five universities March 6 — University of Sherbrooke students did not take part — to point up demands for more provincial aid for higher education contained in a brief prepared by student associations.

Sometimes they encounter Walter Duchesnay, the premier's bodyguard, a former provincial police detective. He only tells them they are wasting their time.

Francine is the daughter of Andre Laurendeau, editor-in-chief of Le Devoir.

The group has been provided with rooms in a house owned by the father of a Montreal student.

Students in the universities supporting the demonstration are asked to contribute toward the upkeep of the three students. Over-all cost is $110 weekly. Each gets a $3.50 daily allowance for meals, cigarets and miscellany. They share a $2 daily allowance for stamps and operating expeness.

Varied Weather Greeted Leaders in Winter Campaign

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's political leaders have seen blizzards and blossoms during this winter's election campaign.

There were brief interludes of spring in British Columbia. More often it was snow, fog or freezing rain elsewhere that scrambled carefully-laid travel plans in the seventh winter federal election campaign since Confederation.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson helped push his snow-stalled automobile in New Brunswick. Prime Minister Diefenbaker had to make a 140-mile auto dash from Kenora, Ont., to Winnipeg when snow squalls made impossible a planned small-plane flight from Kenora.

The weather didn't wash out any major meeting for any party leaders. But they will doubtless be relieved when their travel trials end on election day Monday.

Some 9,000,000 Canadians are eligible to cast ballots. Polls will be open between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., local Standard Time.

HAS BEGUN

Ballotting already has begun for some. The six-day armed services vote began last Monday in Canada and abroad for about 130,000 electors in uniform, wives overseas and veterans in government hospitals. A three-day advance poll opened Thursday for certain groups of civilians whose work will take them away from home on Monday.

Their choice is among 831 candidates—a smaller field than the 862 who ran in last year's election. Both Liberals and Conservatives have entered full slates for the 265 Commons seats at stake. The CCF has 169 candidates and Social Credit 82, with another 50 under miscellaneous or Independent labels.

Commons standing at dissolution of the last Parliament Feb. 1: Progressive Conservative 113; Liberal 106; CCF 25; Social Credit 19; Independent 2.

In the field are 21 women. The two women members of the last Commons face opponents of their own sex. In Hamilton West State Secretary Ellen Fairclough, 53, first woman member of a federal cabinet, is challenged by Mrs. Dorothy Crewe, 49-year-old grandmother and a long-time Liberal worker. In York-Humber, Conservative Margaret Aitken, 49, newspaper columnist who entered the Commons in 1953, is opposed by Liberal Mrs. Elena DaCosta, a war widow and daughter of the late Senator James Murdock, labor minister in Mackenzie King's first cabinet in 1921.

One phase of electioneering—appeals by radio and television—ends at midnight tonight as required by law. It has been the second use of TV in Canada for a federal campaign.

The electionics age, however, has made no apparent impact on the size of crowds that turn out for the old-style stump speeches. This campaign also has been notable for the development on a large scale of two electioneering approaches — giant reception-line handshaking and informal question-and-answer periods.

MOST HANDSHAKING

Mr. Diefenbaker has done most of the handshaking—an idea developed mainly in Ontario by advisers of the 62-year-old Progressive Conservative leader.

Mr. Pearson, 60-year-old Nobel Peace Prize winner, harked back to his days as a young assistant professor of history by perching on the edge of a table after his speeches and inviting questions from his audiences—particularly on his visits to university groups.

Mr. Diefenbaker's campaigning has covered more ground than Mr. Pearson — a distance approaching 25,000 miles compared with some 20,000 for the Liberal leader since the election was called Feb. 1.

But Mr. Pearson has waged a more vigorous, intensive campaign—about on a par with the whirlwind tour of the Conservative leader in last year's election. He has made around 125 speeches, compared with some 75 by Mr. Diefenbaker.

Leaders of the other two parties have been less active.

M. J. Coldwell, 69-year-old CCF leader, did not travel east of Montreal. He recently was ordered to take a week's rest because of a bad cold.

Solon Low, 58-year-old Social Credit leader, has made only a few appearances outside of Alberta and much of his time has been spent in his home constituency of Peace River, Alta., at what he called "fence checking in the home pasture."

Network Failure Blanks Out Half Diefenbaker Talk

TORONTO (CP) — Network failure between here and Ottawa Thursday night blanked out almost half of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's final television appeal before Monday's federal election.

A CBC official said a kinescope (film) of the broadcast will be brought to Toronto and rebroadcast at 8 p.m. EST tonight for stations affected. At least all stations from here to Edmonton lost about seven minutes sound of the 15-minute broadcast originating from Quebec.

The prime minister who rehearsed 1¼ hours for the broadcast, was speaking from private station CKMI-FM and was cut into the CBC's Trans-Canada network between Halifax and Edmonton.

During the breakdown listeners heard recorded music.

SLOW DOWN

Rallentando is the Italian musical term for a gradual slowing down in speed of the music.

W.C. Handy, Famous Negro Song Writer, Dies in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — W. C. Handy, 84-year-old composer of the St. Louis Blues and other jazz classics, died early today.

The famous Negro song writer had been taken to hospital Sunday night from his Yonkers, N.Y. home.

Handy, who was blind, suffered a stroke about three years ago and had been confined, with rare exceptions, to his suburban home since.

He had hoped to fly to St. Louis April 7 for the premiere of the movie, St. Louis Blues, the story of his life.

The son and grandson of Methodist preachers, Handy became a professional musician against parental objections. His father denounced such people as sinners, and wanted his son to be a minister.

Young W. C. compromised. He would be a teacher. He passed a teacher's examination and headed from his home in Florence, Ala., where he was born Nov. 16, 1873, to Birmingham for an assignment. But he never got there, for on the way he started thinking that his prospective salary of $28 a month was less than a laborer's pay. So he went to work in a steel mill.

TEACHES MUSIC

Later, however, he became voice and music instructor at a Negro college in Alabama. He remained there two years before he resigned to devote his time to composing. Thus the "blues" were born.

The Negro, he said, finds music in the ripple of a brook, from the winds moaning through the trees. From such poetry comes the temp of the blues.

Handy's most famous composition, St. Louis Blues, was written in 1914, based on a theme he composed some years earlier but never published. He wrote both the words and the music. It netted thousands of dollars in royalties.

He turned out 60 other blues melodies, including Memphis Blues, Beale Street Blues, named for the famous Negro street in Memphis, and the Mississippi Blues.

His autobiography, Father of the Blues, was published in 1941.

Good News or Good Advice

By ROY L. SMITH

There is very great need that the Christian Church should make a careful study of its approach to this modern world. If we are to judge from what we hear from many religious sources, it would seem that it was the chief function of the Church to offer the world good advice, whereas the actual meaning of the word "gospel" as it is found in the New Testament is "good news."

THE GOOD NEWS

The basic element of the message of the Church is the good news it has for all sinful men—that there is a way out of sin, and a release that frees men from their bondage to sin and evil.

It is a fact, of course, that Jesus of Nazareth came preaching much good counsel. Over and over he warned the people against evil ways, evil manners of life, and evil attitudes of mind. But the climax of his message was his assurance that mankind had not been born to slavery but to freedom, that God never intended us to be slaves of sin but workers of righteousness.

The psychologists (who enjoy great favor in the eyes of the public, just now) are almost unanimous in saying that the first and great need of those who are the victims of mental distress is some form of release from their sense of guilt. Over and over they discover that the deranged have become so because of an inner sense of wrong doing.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 30: "The Sacraments (Ordinances) Of The Church", Matthew 26:17-29; John 6:35-59; Acts 8:26-39; 16:25-34; Romans 6:3-11; I Corinthians 10:14-22; 11:23-29.

The most effective treatment of such sufferers is that which is able to persuade them of the forgiveness of God, and this is the good news the Christian Church has for the world—that such forgiveness can be had!

MEANINGS OF SACRAMENTS

There is much diversity of theological opinion, among Christians, concerning the sacraments. The Roman Catholic Church, for example, holds that there is a considerable list of them. Protestants, generally agree that there are at least two, although some organizations such as the Quakers and the Salvation Army observe none.

There is a standard definition of the sacraments, widely accepted among Protestants, to the effect that "a sacrament is the outward and visible sign of an inward and invisible grace."

Opinions and preferences vary widely, for example, on the subject of baptism, but all Protestants at least will agree that Christian baptism represents a "death to sin and a resurrection to life". The form in which the rite is administered is not nearly so important as the spiritual change that takes place inside the life of the individual who is baptized.

EXPERIENCE IS SYMBOLIZED

John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, was heard to remark on a number of occasions, that "some people have just enough religion to make them uncomfortable. They know the difference between right and wrong, but they do not have the moral strength to do the right and abstain from the wrong."

Christian baptism is the symbol of the transformation that is worked in the life of that man who, believing himself forgiven by God, enters into an entirely new way of living.

According to the Apostle Paul this was intended to be a clean break with the past. The pagans to whom he preached were men and women who had been reared in a certain culture and trained in certain religious practices. A very great deal of their paganism was highly reputable, and altogether to be admired. But from all that which debauched and degraded life they were to separate themselves completely.

The Christian profession which does not involve a clean break with evil and wilful sinning is something less than Christian.

The good news of the Christian gospel is the assurance that such a break is possible, and the Christian sacraments are designed as symbols of such a moral divorcement from the ways of sinful living.

Quebec Wins Top Brook Trout Contest Honors

NEW YORK (CP) — Two tackle-busters from Quebec won top brook trout honors in Field and Stream magazine's 1957 angling contest.

The double victory to Quebec and two high-ranking brookies caught by Stan Gordon of Nipigon, Ont., highlight the second instalment of contest results, announced today.

An eight-pound, 12-ounce brook trout landed by Alfred H. Morse of Attleboro, Mass., in Lac Moisie in the Sept-Iles area was far ahead in the fly-casting category.

L. P. Mongrain of Latuque, Que., won in the open division with a fish weighing nine pounds, 10 ounces from Lake Wayagamack, 30 miles north of Trois-Rivieres.

New Brunswick's famed Restigouche produced the winning salmon. It weighed 40 pounds, two ounces and fell to W. H. Merritt of Owen Sound, Ont.

Young Douglas Shepperd Jr. of Millbrook, Ont., caught a brown trout of 13 pounds, one ounce in a creek near his home a few miles southwest of Peterborough which was good for second place in the fly division.

TAKES THIRD PLACE

Mrs. Irene Mason of Brantford, Ont., took third place in the open class with a fish of 14 pounds, two ounces which she caught in Lake Erie on a dew worm. Ontario's Montreal River was fourth with a rainbow weighing only half an ounce less, caught by Louis Pfeiffer of Tawas City, Mich. The 15-pound winner was caught in Seneca Lake, N.Y. by A. V. Simpson.

Fish from Main and Idaho followed Morse's prize brook trout. Then came one of six pounds, nine ounces caught by Gordon in the Nipigon River which empties into the north shore of Lake Superior and produced the world record 14½-pounder in 1916.

Other results

5. Wilbert F. Shuttleworth Royal Bank, Ont., 7 lb. 13 oz. from Trout Lake near North Bay; 8. Gordon, seven pounds, Nipigon River; 9. Tony Zoars, Chicago, seven pounds, from Brule Lake northwest of Marmora, Ont.

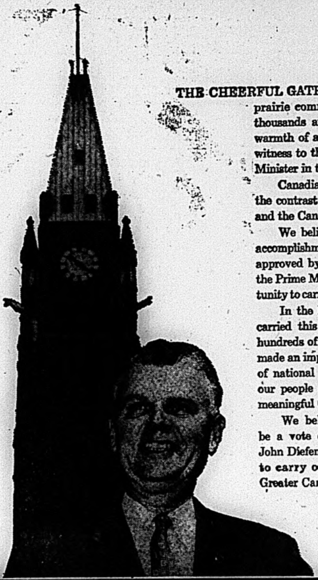
The call for a Greater Canadianism



THE CHEERFUL GATHERINGS at the whistle-stops, in the outports, prairie communities and northern settlements—the cheering thousands and overflow crowds in the towns and cities—the warmth of a hundred receptions from coast to coast—all bear witness to the firm faith that Canadians share with their Prime Minister in the future of their country.

Canadian confidence in Canada is the real election issue—the contrast between the Canada of John Diefenbaker's vision and the Canada of the Opposition gloomsters.

We believe that the Government's unparalleled record of accomplishment in eight short months of office is recognized and approved by the great majority of our people—that they feel the Prime Minister has fully earned and well deserves the opportunity to carry on with an overall majority in the next Parliament.

In the last few weeks, the Prime Minister has personally carried this message of a greater, more prosperous nation to hundreds of thousands of his fellow-Canadians. Already, he has made an impressive start on the Progressive Conservative policy of national development and expansion that will bring to all our people a greater measure of security, and a fuller, more meaningful Canadianism.

We believe your response to this great challenge will be a vote of confidence in the leadership of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker—a mandate to his Conservative Government to carry on—and a re-affirmation of your faith in this Greater Canadianism.

McFarlands Oust South Porcupine With Third Consecutive Victory

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

FROM THE NORTHLAND

TIMMINS, Ont. — It was old home week here for some of the McFarlands. Bep Guidolin, "Red" Doran and Minnie Menard were greeted on all sides like long lost brothers, while Barton Bradley renewed acquaintances with a father and a grandmother.

The guys in the barber shops, the shoe stores, the hotels, all greeted the hockey expatriates like returning heroes and had the city band not been on a goose hunting expedition up north it would have turned out for sorrel-topped Doran. They even have named a suds manufacturing company up here after him, at least that is what the company sign reads.

It is near summer weather. There is little snow and the temperature is high. Hockeywise, at this time of writing prior to last night's game, the local authorities had a wholesome respect for the ability of the Macs and regardless of last night's score paid fine tribute to Ike and his Hildebranders.

Doug McLellan, sports writer of the Timmins Press, shed some light on the hockey situation up here as it affects Senior "A". It seems the Porcupine Mines league is something of an ugly duckling to the proud sisters of the southern division of the NOHA and are looked upon as somewhat of an upstart, similar to the Whitby Dunlops last year when they had the "audacity" to meet the proud Kitchener Dutchmen in the Ontario "A" final.

Hockey fans and officials up in this district are proud of the Porcupine Mines League and disgusted with the treatment it is getting from the parent NOHA and grandpappa CAHA.

Last season when the NOHA played off its two divisions, the North Bay Trappers, who later went down to solid defeat before the Eastern League Whitby Dunlops, defeated the northern division of the NOHA by one-sided scores.

It seems they refused to go into a similar agreement this season but circumstances forced them, with other clubs of their southern division, to form the OHA-NOHA alliance.

The rest of the story is history. The southern division clubs, like their blood brothers of the western division, have one foot in the hockey grave and the other on a well-oiled banana skin.

The Porcupine league up here is doing well, thank you. The eastern division of the OHA likewise. Indications are they will all be in action next year with the possibility of additional clubs.

They have good hockey players in this district which probably has sent more personnel to the big time than any other in Ontario.

The consensus here, as this reporter learns it, is that the four teams that comprise the Porcupine Mines League, Abitibi, Kapuskasing, Timmins and South Porcupine, want to remain in Senior "A" category, but are not being recognized by the powers-that-be.

The overall picture is, as we see it up here where the wild goose flies and the ducks and bears are predominant, that the South Porcupine Mines League along with the eastern division OHA will survive despite the machinations of the parent bodies.

Canada's World Hockey Champs Welcomed at St. John

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Canada's world amateur hockey champions entrained for Quebec City Thursday night after being greeted by 4,000 well-wishers on their arrival here from nine weeks of European hockey victories.

The Whitby champs arrived aboard the Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Britain. Behind them were numerous exhibition games with European teams and the world amateur hockey tournament at Oslo.

Residents of this usually reserved city turned out in unexpected numbers to welcome the team. Team manager Wren Blair said he never expected such a welcome in a community so far from his own.

Navy vessels and freighters in the harbor and portside factories joined in the welcome by blowing whistles and horns as the Empress entered harbor.

As they filed down the gangway, team members were greeted by Premier Hugh John Flemming and mayors W. W. Macaulay of Saint John and Parker D. Mitchell of adjoining Lancaster. Mayor Macaulay read a telegram of welcome from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Band music and colorful placards carried by high school students greeted the team. The placards were given the players in exchange for autographs.

A motorcade led by a truck-borne brass band carried the team to King Square in the centre of the city where Blair introduced each member of the team. All received cigaret lighters from the city.

Later at a civic dinner, Police Chief J. J. Oakes announced all team members had been made honorary members of the RCMP Veterans' Association.

Playing coach Sid Smith said he favored the 14-game tour before the world title series. It gave the team a chance to warm up and get used to International rules. He objected to the series of exhibition games to which the team was subjected after the tournament. He said a post-tournament series was an anti-climax and the team wasn't at its best.

Blair told reporters Canadian teams must work hard to keep hockey a Canadian game. European teams were improving. The Russians especially were becoming tougher.

He said the Russians tried hard but were content to place second because they knew they were facing the best amateur competition Canada could offer.

Smith said the time is coming when Allan Cup teams without help will not be strong enough to defeat European competition.

"No team," he said, "not even of NHL calibre, could whitewash the Russians."

The team will play an exhibition tilt in Quebec City and then head for Whitby.

At Whitby, civic officials have announced plans for a huge "welcome home" reception Saturday night. The team is due there by car at 10:30 p.m. Fire trucks from Whitby and nearby Oshawa will escort the players into town to be officially welcomed by area mayors.

Whitby has declared a civic holiday next Wednesday when welcoming parade will be staged by groups from Whitby, Oshawa, Pickering and Ajax.

PANCHO WINS EASILY

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Pancho Gonzales had things all his own way Thursday night as he brushed aside Australia's Lew Hoad in straight sets 6-3, 6-2 in their world professional tennis tour. The easy victory — which took only 36 minutes—gave Gonzales a 24-22 lead in the 100-match series.

COMBINED FOR THE WINNER

MINNIE MENARD BEP GUIDOLIN

Menard Nets Winning Goal In 6-5 Overtime Victory; Enter All-Ontario Finals

By GEORGE H. CARVER

Sports Editor

SOUTH PORCUPINE — The Belleville McFarlands meet the Kitchener-Windsor winner for the all-Ontario Senior "A" hockey title starting the first of the week, after edging a fighting South Porcupine "Porkies" team 6-5 here last night. They swept the all-Ontario semi-finals three in a row.

The battling "Porkies" took the fast skating McFarlands into an overtime period before the two home town boys, Bep Guidolin and Minnie Menard, sunk the deciding counter after six minutes of the extra time session.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way with the hard-fighting "Porkies" tying the score no less than three times. They held the lead with less than half a period to go before the Macs ripped back with the tying counter.

Keith MacDonald tied it up 5-5 with Kowalchuk and Johnny Muretich assisting near the 12-minute mark and the Macs seemed headed for victory. Then Guidolin and Kowalchuk were chased and the Hildebranders were hard put to keep out the desperate "Porkies."

Ironically it took two hometown boys to beat the "Porkies" in overtime when Minnie Menard sank Bep Guidolin's pass at 6.47 of overtime to win the game and the series. The "Porkies" pulled their sensational goalie Frank Kobe from the net with 57 seconds to go but the Macs clustered their defence and held off the thrusting foemen.

The play was slow and nothing like championship hockey in the first period. The Macs definitely had the play outshooting the porkies 20-11 in the period. Kobe was good in the Porkies nets as the Macs poured in and Kobe came up with a fine performance again.

It was not until 18.56 that the Macs broke the scoring ice with Wiener Brown scoring his first goal of the game after Kowalchuk and Prentice were given penalties. He rapped in a Bep Guidolin pass.

The Porkies came back in the second period with Kulik scoring on a pass from Gordon McGinn then the "Wiener" raced in to put the Macs up on a pass from Bradley.

Forty seconds later the Porkies drove in to tie the score with Butler beating Bell on a breakaway.

The Porkies had the play from here in but the Macs roared back with Bep Guidolin beating his old hometown mates on a power play with Bart Bradley and Wiener Brown.

Porkies tied the score early in the third at 3-3 with Savord beating Bell. The same player put his club in the lead at 2.10 on a solo effort, as the hometown crowd nearly tore the roof off the arena.

Bart Bradley teamed up with Brown and Benoit to make it 4-4 at the eight minute mark but again South Porcupine took the lead, Butler scoring just fifteen seconds later. This set the stage for Keith MacDonald's million dollar equalizer at 12.09.

Wiener Brown scored two goals for the Macs with two assists while Bep Guidolin, Keith MacDonald, Barton Bradley and Minnie Menard accounted for the rest.

The Porkies tossed a scare into the Macs all the way through the game until Keith MacDonald came up with the last tying marker.

Graham Savord was the scoring hero for the Porkies rapping home two goals in 27 seconds to tie the score and give the Porkies the lead. Frank Butler also played a heads up game for the homesters scoring twice with Prentice and Johnny Kulik getting the others.

WIENER BROWN
Had Two and Two

The game was a fast, furious affair with Porkies playing a desperate hard-hitting, fast-skating type of hockey in an effort to cut the game's margin. The Macs had to go all out to win this one.

The Porkies should have won it in the third period when the Macs' offensive power was cut with penalties to Guidolin and Kowalchuk after MacDonald had tied the score.

In the overtime the Porkies lost Hopkins via a penalty then Prentice joined him 40 seconds later. It was then the Macs ganged up and Minnie came through with the game's and series' winner.

Lineups:

Belleville: Goal, Bell; defence, Benoit, Botley, Crawford, Montgomery; forwards: Bradley, Brown Hildebrand, Payette, Menard, Guidolin, Muretich, Kowalchuk, Marineau, MacDonald.

Marlies Beat Hamilton Cubs

HAMILTON (CP) — Toronto Marlboros took a 1-0 lead Thursday night in their best-of-seven final for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A title by routing Hamilton Cubs 8-1 before a sellout crowd of 4,000.

Jim Murchie and Ross Morrison with two goals each, Bob Nevin, Jack Master, Doug Riseley and Wally Boyer scored for the Dukes, while Stu McNeill was the one Cub marksman.

Cubs, beaten only three times in their previous 25 games, were no match for the Marlies who finished fourth in the regular schedule. Cubs were second during the season.

Not a Player Until Some Teeth Knocked Out

NEW YORK (AP) — A rookie on his first visit to New York Rangers' dressing room a few years ago was amazed to see each old timer pick up a paper cup as a prelude to the ritual of dressing for a hockey game.

Moments later he understood their use and coach Phil Watson's saying: "You're not a hockey player until you get your teeth knocked out." The cups held players' dentures.

The best current example of the Watson philosophy is Ranger centre George (Red) Sullivan, who has a triple fracture of the jaw to go with five missing front teeth. Sullivan is lost to the club for the remainder of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The fracture was suffered in last Tuesday's first playoff game when Sullivan rammed into the elbow of Vic Stasiuk of Boston Bruins. The teeth were lost earlier.

"Actually I don't think hockey players lose more teeth than pro football players," said Ranger general manager Muzz Patrack, one of the fortunate ones who retained his teeth through a distinguished playing career.

Patrick said Rangers' annual dental bill of $1,000 or less is rather low. Most of the cost is for dentures. Within the last month the club has paid a $280 bill for Camille Henry and $170 for Larry Cahan, each of whom lost two teeth, and $282 for Parker MacDonald.

Canadiens Win 2nd In Row; Rangers Lose To Bruins

Peerless Rocket Richard Scores Two in 5-1 Win for Habs; Rangers Dumped 4-3

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Two weeks ago doctors said that Jerry Toppazzini would be unable to play in the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs.

Today, the 26-year-old forward is the big reason Boston Bruins and New York Rangers are deadlocked 1-1 in their best-of-seven semi-final series.

Toppazzini's goal at 4:46 of a sudden-death overtime Thursday night gave Bruins a 4-3 victory in the second game before a packed house of 15,925 in Madison Square Garden.

"It was the first goal I ever scored in any playoff game and that includes junior hockey," he said afterwards. "I didn't even see it go into the net."

Toppazzini didn't see his dramatic marker only because some of his teammates, crowded in front of Ranger goalie Gump Worsley, obscured his vision.

SUFFERED EYE INJURY

It was a damaged right eye suffered March 13 in a game against Montreal that caused the doctors to offer their pessimistic prediction. Toppazzini ran into a stick and was taken to hospital. He returned to the Boston lineup last week.

While the Bruins' players and their chances appeared comparatively healthy, the Rangers' injurylist continued to mount.

Bill Gadsby, New York's star defenceman, emerged from the game with a dislocated shoulder. He was scheduled to take a cortisone injection late today, but it is doubtful whether he will be able to play in Saturday night's third game in Boston.

The winning marker climaxed an uphill effort by the Bruins, who trailed as late as 11:13 of the third period when Don McKenney got his second goal to tie the score 3-3.

Doug Mohns sent Bruins into the lead early in the opening period. Andy Bathgate scored two quick goals to put New York in front, 2-1. McKenney's first marker evened matters 22 seconds before the end of the first period.

A NEAT PASS

Guy Gendron took a neat pass from Hank Ciesla and sent the puck past goalie Don Simmons to give the lead back to New York at 7:24 of the second period.

"Simmons will be in the nets again Saturday," said Boston coach Milt Schmidt. Don stopped 27 shots. Harry Lumley was in the Bruins' goal in Tuesday night's opener, won by New York 5-3.

Although Rangers may have to get along without two of their standout skaters Red Sullivan also is out with a triple fracture of the jaw), coach Phil Watson is not discouraged.

"I'm not worried," he said. "We've been a good road club all year. I'll admit we missed Sullivan but Boston outplayed us and they should have won before the overtime."

In addition to Saturday's game, the remainder of the series also will be played on Bruins' ice. A circus will occupy Madison Square Garden for the next few weejs.

The Rangers have a .500 record in Boston Garden this season. They've won three, lost three and tied one.

ENDS IN DRAW

LONDON (AP) — The ninth game of the world chess championships now being played in Moscow between Vasily Smyslov and Mikhail Botvinnik ended in a draw Thursday night. The 24-game match now stands at 6-3 in favor of the challenger, Botvinnik.

KEEP HOCKEY CROWN

KINGSTON (CP) — Royal Canadian School of Signals, Kingston, retained their Central Army Command hockey title Thursday with a 14-4 win over First Canadian Guards from Petawawa. Larry McKeigan paced the winners with six goals. Neil Adamson scored two for Guards.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, whose explosive greatness dramatizes almost any hockey game, staged another two-goal show Thursday night at the expense of Detroit Red Wings and carried Montreal Canadiens to a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final.

It was a 5-1 win for Canadiens but it took a rousing third-period finish, led by the indomitable Rocket with his two goals and another by Andre Pronovost, to make the victory certain.

The teams meet again in Detroit Sunday and Tuesday.

The loss was the ninth consecutive playoff game the Red Wings have dropped on Montreal ice. Their last win was in the final of 1954 when they scored a 2-0 shutout.

After Thursday night's setback to his Wings, coach Sid Abel marched from the dressing room with the crisp comment, "We'll see in Detroit if they've got guts."

LEFT EARLY

Phil Goyette, rookie centre who contributed three goals Tuesday, gave Montreal a 1-0 lead in the first period. Johnny Wilson, the only Red Wing to score so far in the series, pulled Wings even in the second period.

The tie lasted less than four minutes with Jean Beliveau scoring for Montreal.

The Rocket blasted Detroit hopes. It was the 36-year-old idol of Montreal fans who sent Wings on their way to defeat in Tuesday's game with two first-period goals. Thursday night he fired his telling shots in the third period.

Another third-period goal would have been credited to The Rocket but was washed out by referee Eddie Powers' ruling. Canadiens were storming the Detroit cage and a shot by Belliveau went in off Richard. Powers said The Rocket was camped in goalie Terry Sawchuk's crease, and the goal didn't count.

TWO MEN SHORT

Wings failed to capitalize when Canadiens were two men short, for 59 seconds. A simultaneous Montreal - Detroit penalty followed, meaning a delayed serving time. There was some confusion whether all Montrealers served their full time—but nobody squawked.

The teams battled along until 18:04 when Goyette fired a 20-foot screen shot past goalie Terry Sawchuk.

The second period was Detroit's best and they outshot Canadiens 12-8. When Doug Harvey tried to clear the puck from the Montreal end while Wings stormed about, Wilson trapped it and caught the open side of the net at 13:39.

GETS WINNER

Beliveau scored what proved to be the winning goal at 17:13, lefting in Don Marshall's rebound.

Detroit was a man short when The Rocket got his first goal, at 5:05. It came immediately after a faceoff, the puck going from Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard to his big brother.

Only 14 seconds later Pronovost whipped in Goyette's passout, and at 12:23 The Rocket took Dickie Moore's short forward pass deep in the Detroit end—a perfect setup—and had his goal before Sawchuk could move.

The Wings had a man advantage for a minute late in the period but found the Montreal defence too tough.

Ottawa Fellers Easily Beaten By Tillsonburg

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Tillsonburg Livingston's, showing marked shooting superiority, handled Ottawa Fellers in easy fashion Thursday night to win the first game of the Eastern Canadian senior basketball finals 84-59 before 800 fans.

The second game of the best-of-three series will be played here tonight. The winner of the series travels west to meet either Edmonton or Vancouver for the Canadian championship.

Livingston's grabbed an early lead and then gradually stretched it out as the game became an unending parade to the foul line.

Officials Kitch McPherson and Bert Carrigan of Hamilton assessed Tillsonburg with 27 personal fouls and Ottawa with 25 slowing the action to a standstill at times. Two Fellers and one Livingston fouled out.

Five Livingston's hit in double figures and all but two scored as coach Bill Coulthard shuffled players back and forth into the game. John McKibben, who sat out most of the last half, dropped in 17 while Don McCrae hit for 15. W. Reynolds was next with 14 while Fred Ingaldson had 12.

Little Al Carswell with 16 and Walt Mellor with 15 were Ottawa's best scorers.

Two Horses Break Necks In Steeplechase

AINTREE, Eng. (AP) — Two horses were killed Thursday in the Liverpool Foxhunters chase near the site where the Grand National Steeplechase will be raced Saturday.

Petit Plain fell and broke his neck at the second fence of the two-mile, seven-furlong steeplechase. Royal Lark stumbled and broke his neck on a fence at the far side of the course.

The Foxhunters Chase course is laid out almost adjacent to the Grand National course. Four hourses were killed or destroyed in the 1954 Grand National.

The going was perfect although there was a heavy rain over Liverpool Wednesday. The winner was Surprise Packet.

RACE FEVER

Meanwhile, Grand National fever gripped most Britons as the post time for the 112th running of the world's most famous jumping race approached. A field of 34 was expected to face the starter in the gruelling 4½-mile race with its 30 obstacles.

A final odds callover is scheduled for tonight, but there is no doubt Wyndburg will remain the favorite. Latest odds listed the Scottish-owned jumper at 17 to 2. Wyndburg finished second last year to Sundew.

The first Irish Hospitals Sweepstake of the season is based on the Grand National. With prospects for softer going, Goosander, a mudder, dropped from 20 to 1 to 18 to 1. Mr. What, Sentina and Springsilver also were 18 to 1.

Mickey Crawford To Meet Turner

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Crawford, who says he can beat most of the leading welterweights, gets a chance to prove it tonight against veteran Gil Turner at Madison Square Garden.

Although he's stepping up in class, the 24-year-old prospect from Saginaw, Mich., is the 7-5 favorite over the 27-year - old, fourth - ranking contender from Philadelphia.

The televised 10-rounder marks Crawford's debut as a Garden main eventer.

Boston Red Sox Streaking Along in Grape Fruit Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Red Sox, bolstered by excellent spring pitching performances, are "streaking" along atop the exhibition baseball standings. Owning a 10-4 won-lost record, the Red Sox have won their last five games.

Pinky Higgins' American League club began the training season with a flourish as they fashioned a four - game victory skein. Boston then proceeded to lost four of the next five games before embarking on its current string.

Willard Nixon, the winning pitcher in the Red Sox streak-starter againse Milwaukee Braves March 22, turned in another formidable showing Thursday as Boston edged Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1.

Nixon went the first five innings and received credit for the victory. The veteran righthander yielded four hits and struck out five. Ike Delock and Leo Kiely, working two innings apiece, finished up unscathed.

CAPITALIZE ON WALKS

The Red Sox, held to four hits, capitalized on seven walks.

Lefthander Herb Score was back in form as Cleveland Indians broke a four-game losing streak with a 13-7 triumph over Chicago Cubs.

The stylish pitcher, who was sidelined for most of last season after being hit with a line drive May 7, struck out five and walked two as he pitched four hitless and scoreless innings.

San Francisco Giants blanked Baltimore Orioles 10-0 while New York Yankees, aided by Mickey Mantle's two-run triple, tallied three times in the ninth inning to shade Kansas City 5-4.

In other games Harry Anderson and Stan Lopata walloped four-baggers to spark Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-2 victory over Chicago White Sox; Dee Fondy produced three hits including a homer as Cincinnati Redlegs whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 9-1 and Bob Mabe walked pinch-hitter Herb Plews with the bases full in the ninth inning to give Washington Senators a 2-1 squeaker over St. Louis Cardinals.

Search Warrant Used to Obtain Boxing Records

NEW YORK (AP) — Under lock and key in District Attorney Frank Hogan's office today were a memorandum book, 16 bulky folders and other papers belonging to Herman (Hymie the Mink) Wallman. By Monday Hogan will have in his possession all International Boxing Club records from 1956 to date.

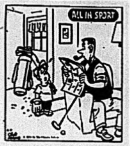
Through these records and other information, Hogan hopes to find out whether there has been any skullduggery in boxing.

Hogan's representatives, headed by assistant district attorney John Bononi, obtained Wallman's records Thursday after getting a search warrant.

In an affidavit asking for the alleged crimes as "conspiracy, violation of unlicensed managers, promoters and matchmakers and bribery are being and have been committed by Paul John Carbo, also known as Frankie Carbo, and other persons whose identities are not as yet ascertained."

Wallman, manager of heavyweight contender Alex Miteff of Argentina, featherweight contender Ike Chestnut of New York and lightweight Orlando Zulueta of Cuba among others, was described by Bononi as the "front man" for Carbo.

Harry Markson, IBC managing director who along with Wallman was served with a subpoena for a grand jury appearance, was ordered to produce all of his organization's records from 1956 to date by Monday.



"I guess you'll have to put up the house for sale, Dad. I've just been traded to the Elm Street Tigers!"

Habs Happy After Winning Second Game

MONTREAL (CP)—There was excitement among the happy Montreal Canadiens in their dressing room Thursday night largely because they felt they had overcome a far tougher Detroit team in winning their second straight game in the Stanley Cup semi-final.

"Those Red Wings were really tough for two periods at least," said coach Toe Blake. "They outplayed us in the second period."

His players agreed it was no mean feat to run up a two-period 2-1 lead into a 5-1 win at the finish.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who duplicated his first - game performance with another two goals, was smiling happily.

"These two will be good enough," he said.

CLOSER GAME

Goalie Jacques Plante, said that although he had more shots to handle last Tuesday, "this was a closer game and with our lead only 2-1 going into the last period I could have pulled a boner and been the goat of the game."

Coach Sid Abel of Red Wings said he thought his team played a much better game "but we got no breaks and those two fast goals by Montreal in the third period really hurt."

"Howe hit the post once and on another shot just missed a top corner."

He thought Terry Sawchuk played well in the nets, despite th five goals against him, and said "Terry made some big saves for us in the first two periods."

"We will be a lot tougher on our home ice. We always have trouble winning here."

Meeting Will Have to Decide Playing Rules

MONTREAL (CP) — President Bob LeBel of the Canadien Amateur Hockey Association says that any question of using International rules will have to be decided at the CAHA annual meeting. The big amateur body meets in Toronto May 17-21.

In an interview Thursday, LeBel declined to express an opinion as to whether rule changes, if agreed upon by the CAHA, would have any bearing upon the present agreement with professional hockey.

He said the CAHA's negotiating committee is to meet in Winnipeg May 5 and anything in relation to the agreement will be discussed there, then taken to the Toronto meeting.

LeBel, who attended the world tournament in Oslo, won by Canada's Whitby Dunlops, said he is personally in favor of a no-icing rule. He also favors the full two-minute penalty being served.

Personally he felt, however, that body-checking should not be restricted to the defending half of the ice.

Four Rangers Facing Charges Of Assault

BOSTON (AP) — Four New York Ranger hockey players were charged with assault and battery in complaints issued Thursday in municipal court.

Named were defencemen Lou Fontinato and Bill Gadsby and forwards Guy Gendron and George (Red) Sullivan, captain of the National Hockey League club.

The complaints were asked by Anthony Tavilla of Lexington, and his brother, Stephen.

Anthony Tavilla is at liberty on $25 bail for a hearing April 1 on charges he disturbed a public assembly—namely a televised game between the Rangers and Boston Bruins here March 15. Tavilla pleaded innocent.

Tavilla was escorted from Boston Garden after a brawl which began after Fontinato flicked his gloves at Tavilla who was riding the highly-penalized New York player then in the penalty box.

Canadian Athletes Captured 4 World Titles in 30 Days

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quick, now, name the four world titles Canadian athletes have won in international competition since the start of the year. It may be tough for some because these world-beating performances seemed to pile up on one another.

They all came within 30 days, leaving sports fans in this country a little confused because Canadians haven't been setting the world on fire in big-time competition these past years.

Just to jog memories, there was the double triumph of skier Lucile Wheeler, the tow-headed miss from St. Jovite, Que., in the women's downhill and giant slalom; the victory of Toronto's Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul in pairs figure-skating and, of course, the all-conquering march of Whitby Dunlops to the world amateur hockey championship.

The headline-grabber of the bunch was Whitby's feat but the most heart-warming was the accomplishment of the 23-year-old Miss Wheeler at Bad Gastien, Austria, early in February. These were the first world ski title Canada had ever won and, according to the experts, the young Canadian girl was considered a threat—nothing more.

This was unfounded because she had been proving to the world for two years that she could reach the top. She won a third-place bronze medal in the 1956 Olympics, took a step up with a second in the women's downhill race at Bad Gastien in 1957 and reached the top on Feb. 6 with her downhill victory and just two days later added the giant slalom.

A week later on Feb. 13, Miss Wagner and Paul defended their pairs title at Paris and on March 9, the Dunlops beat Russia 4-2 for their world title.

Now, with the arrival home of the Dunlops, a sombre note for the future has been sounded by Andy (Montreal Star) O'Brien, who has been covering world and Olympic championships the past few years. O'Brien watched the Dunlops at Oslo, returned home and wrote that Canada won't win another world hockey title again for three years—if then.

O'Brien says that Whitby wouldn't have had a chance without their three old pros — Sid Smith, from Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, Connie Broden, with the Stanley Cup-winning Montreal Canadiens a year ago who refused to go to Springfield of the American Hockey League and Jean-Paul Lamirande from Quebec Aces.

"We were most fortunate in having a major industry . . . pick up the organizational tab . . . we were lucky in having an inspirational leader in (manager) Wren Blair who got every ounce out of the team—keeping them 'up' before leaving Canada and throughout the tour.

"The combination of lucky happenings are just too much to expect to repeat again for the Prague tournament in 1959 . . . As for the 1960 Olympics, we'll be fortunate to end third—hamstrung as we will be by the Olympic oath while 'simon pures' of Russia and Czechoslovakia carry on with increased experience and skill.

"By 1961 we'll be irked again—the clarion call will sound across our fair land to defend our hockey prestige. We'll organize again, but will we win again?

"Frankly I have my doubts. With the way hockey is advancing overseas we may need more than an Allan Cup team bolstered by a mature few. . . ."

Basilio's Eye Not Injured

However, four lacerations in Basilio's left eyelid required 12 stitches, it was reported at Wesley Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Richard A. Perritt, Chicago eye specialist, said Basilio will need about a week to recover and that the rugged battler could fight again as soon as he feels strong enough.

Basilio entered hospital Wednesday. He lost a 15-round title decision to Sugar Ray Robinson Tuesday night.

Dickens' 'Tale of Two Cities' Makes Vivid 'Show of Month'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — The days of the French revolution were vividly brought to life on television Thursday night when Show of the Month presented A Tale of Two Cities by Charles Dickens on CBS-TV.

Director Robert Mulligan displayed remarkable constructive art in bringing a novel of such large scope to the small home screen. It was one of the memorable shows of this TV season.

In A Tale of Two Cities Dickens deliberately departed from his customary emphasis on character to tell a story of historical background with numerous incidents and big scenes. But an excellent television adaptation by Michael Dyne enabled a large cast to develop some fine characterizations.

GOOD PERFORMERS

There were outstanding performances by James Donald as Sydney Carton, Eric Portman as Dr. Manette, Rosemary Harris as Lucie Manette, Agnes Moorehead as Madame Defarge, Walter Fitzgerald as Jarvis Lorry and Gracie Fields as Miss Pross.

The theme of a group of people caught up in an 18th-century revolution might have failed to hold a 20th-century audience if the terror of the revolution had not been splashed so vividly on the television screen.

In the drama the terror was well evoked in such scenes as the storming of the Bastille and the work of the guillotine.

Big Names in Movieland Make Pitch for Commercials

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ever wonder why movie stars make the pitch for commercial products on television?

If so, Eva Gabor has the answer:

"The money was so good, I couldn't pass it up. I could work a year on the stage and not earn as much as I did for a one-minute commercial."

This sounds a little exaggerated—the Gabor girls are exaggeration-prone — but it gives you an indication of the gold to be found in celebrity testimonials. Eva's case is an extreme example.

Last week she co-starred with Noel Coward in a Saturday matinee of Present Laughter here. She hopped a sleeper plane for New York, rested on Sunday to be fresh for shooting. She spent all day Monday shooting a one-minute soap ad, flew back here that night and was on stage again Tuesday.

BEING PAID ROYALLY

You can be sure that Eva is being paid royally to so disrupt her life. She wouldn't say how much, but it is obvious that the whole thing was a big production.

She said exposure from such commercials is good publicity—if not overdone. She has done only one other—a cigaret ad "which I did because I needed some extra cash to finish a building I was putting up."

Besides getting the initial salary, actors who make the product pitch get a payment every time the commercial appears on TV. This can amount to thousands of dollars for one day's work, as in the case of Eva.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday March 28th

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Situations at the house make it necessary that you do all in your power not to permit some long-standing argument to come into play again. It is best to take a little trip with good friends.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Take care to drive carefully today, or you might be laid up for a long time. And don't fret over the unavoidable. P. M. be happy and fascinating at own abode and invite guests in for dinner.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Everyone seems to be giving you advice today that should make your life more successful, but employers and real friends do not concur. Stick to own guns and figure out best plan yourself as you keep working.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Private anxiety could keep you at home today and thus lose out on the vital data you might and could get easily. Don't brook any interference. Then you also can contact a financier who will back you.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Argument ensuing between a determined partner and one in greater power could easily involve you if you are not careful today. Be silent and in later part of the day a news item will settle the question.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— A most nervous pal thinks that he or she can settle the present unfortunate situation better than you and tries to step right in and mess everything up, if you permit. An authority comes to your aid. Be grateful.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — An employer or Bigwig today feels imposed upon and is looking for someone to vent his or her ire on. Take care you are not the victim! Stay with good friends instead and form an army of moral resistance.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— Steer clear of some quick-acting, rather foolhardy fellow worker who believes he is the cat's pyjamas. Look for better ways of operating that are unfamiliar to you now. Then all will be well and you win out.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Are you certain you haven't been spending unwisely and risked the comfortable existence you have enjoyed for some time with advisors and higher ups? Economize now and get back into their good graces.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — One of your closest family ties does not approve of some partner for business deal you have outside of home, so be very shrewd, see that there is no conflict. Then all is well.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Control your temper as you go about your duties today or you will do a lot of damage not easily repaired. In fact, it would be better to do little work, and pay attention to good ideas of associates.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Have a good time this fine day instead of worrying about dollars and cents, and trying to earn more when you don't feel up to it. P. M. simply make an outline of your work for many weeks ahead calmly.

If Your Child Is Born Today The fascinating child born today will be filled with new and inspiring ideas which a natural talent for investigative work could catapult into real fame, but there is a barrier nearly always present owing to family apron strings. Hence, see that this is curtailed as quickly as possible, and the horoscope is splendid in almost any field, but particularly in connection with the public.

Jap Prosperity Blamed for Rise In Heart Attacks

TOKYO (AP) — Japan, long considered to have one of the lowest heart attack rates in the world, is seeing a sharp rise in the incidence of coronary disease.

Japanese specialists believe it may be the result of prosperity and a diet richer in fatty foods.

Official figures indicate coronary disease moved up to third place in 1957 among the leading causes of death in Japan, behind stroke (brain hemorrhage or occlusion) and cancer.

What's the reason?

"We don't know for sure," said Dr. Tachio Kobayashi, of Tokyo University Hospital. "But we think it's from changes in diet."

He said that with the post-war rise in the standard of living in Japan, people began eating more meat, butter, and other foods with a high content of unsaturated fatty acids.

Traditionally, the staples of Japanese diet have been rice, vegetables and fish. Some specialists believe elements in the foods tend to reduce the cholesterol level in the blood stream. Cholesterol is a fatty substance that causes roughening or hardening the arteries.

Unemployment Pay Gets Man $1,000 Monthly

NEW YORK (AP) — A 49-year-old man, said to be banking $1,000 a month in unemployment pay, was jailed Thursday.

Chief investigator Louis Sitkin of the New York state labor department called the man, Michael Kane, "the most flagrant violator in the history of the department."

Kane was held without bail for a grand jury. He was arrested Tuesday at an unemployment compensation office.

Sitkin said Kane held numerous social security cards under different names and held down two jobs at a time for just long enough to qualify for jobless pay. Then he quit, drew compensation and got himself two more jobs, repeating this in a pyramiding pattern.

Four Separate Contracts to Be Negotiated

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's two big railways are engaged—or expect to be shortly—in four separate contract negotiations with unions representing about 150,000 employees.

Two are in conciliation stages.

The biggest is the multi-million-dollar scrap with 15 unions representing 130,000 non-operators. Conciliation is to resume Tuesday.

The Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC), who struck against the CPR last year, have served demands on the CNR and are canvassing their locals for demands that may be served on the CPR within a 60-day period starting next Tuesday.

Both contracts are expiring against the backdrop of the railways' intention to follow the findings of the Kellock royal commission and do away with firemen on diesels in freight and yard service. The union still considers them essential.

SERVED DEMANDS

Last week, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (Ind.) served demands on the CNR for its Atlantic and central regions and western representatives were scheduled to confer with the CNR yesterday in Winnipeg.

The non-operators want items, including a wage increase of about 35 cents an hour, that the unions say would cost $96,000,000 annually over a two-year contract. Prospects are dim that conciliation will unravel the inability of the disputants to agree on a yardstick for measuring railway pay with that of other industries.

The railways want the contract expiring last Dec. 31 extended unchanged.

Today's Wives Have Fewer Abortions

NEW YORK (AP) — The most frequent patron of the abortionist is the wife—not the single girl, divorcee or widow—says the latest Kinsey Institute report on sex in the United States.

"Of all pregnancies among married women, only 66 per cent result in the birth of a child, 17 per cent end in miscarriage, and 17 per cent in abortions," the current issue of McCall's magazine says in an article on the report.

Other findings:

Almost three out of four of women no longer married—widowed, divorced or separated—continue to have sexual relations.

Today's young wives are having fewer abortions than their mothers did at the same age.

Miscarriage is more common than generally realized.

TO STAY OPEN

KITCHENER (CP) — A number of stores are reported planning to keep their stores open Friday night in defiance of a recent city council order to police to enforce an early closing by law. Norman Gowdy, president of the Downtown Business Association, said "Most stores will remain open, I think. I suppose if we are going to make a test case out of it, we might as well have a good one."

Voters To Choose Recession Cure At Polls Monday

Public Works, Tax Cuts Which Remedy Better?

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Recession and unemployment are the two major issues of this election campaign.

How serious is the recession? Who is responsible? How serious is unemployment? What was the cause? And are public works a better cure than tax cuts?

The voters' answers Monday will decide the make-up of Canada's 24th Parliament and the government that will run their affairs for perhaps four or five years.

A record 9,166,000 are eligible to vote. The polls open at 8 a.m. and close at 6 p.m., local Standard Time. Judging from the large turnouts at campaign meetings, a record vote may be cast.

The main fight is between the Liberals, with a new leader, Lester B. Pearson, and the Progressive Conservatives under Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, elected head of the party 16 months ago. Each party has nominated a full 265 candidates.

OTHER PARTIES

The CCF, headed by M. J. Coldwell, has 169; and Social Credit, led by Solon Low, has put up 82—not enough to form a government. A party must win at least 133 of the Commons' 265 seats for a majority.

For the first time since the general elections of 1930 and 1935, the period of the Great Depression, economic difficulties rose to the fore as campaign issues.

Mr. Pearson charged that the Conservatives did not act fast enough to head off the recession; that their trade policies aggravated unemployment. He pledged retroactive tax cuts and other measures to bring the country back on the road to prosperity.

Mr. Diefenbaker countered with a $1,100,000,000 public works program to provide jobs. He charged rising unemployment was an inheritance from the "tight-money" policies of the former Liberal administration.

Later in the campaign he questioned whether Canada was in any trade recession and said the unemployment crest had been passed; Canada was heading back to better times.

SAYS FACTS IGNORED

Mr. Coldwell said the Liberals and Conservatives were so busy blaming each other for unemployment that the economic facts of the situation were "sedulously" ignored. He said the country had to take a "new approach," through a "bold program of public investment" and other state measures, to reorganize the economy.

Mr. Low argued that the election promises of the two major parties had developed into a "box-social auction sale." He plumped for the Social Credit platform, to issue new money in the form of consumer dividends to keep a balance between production and the market for items produced.

Standing at dissolution of Parliament: Progressive Conservatives 113; Liberals 106; CCF 25; Social Credit 19; Independents, two.

Pearson Faces Stiff Fight In Own Riding

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Lester B. Pearson faces a stiff fight in his own riding of Algoma East March 31. His biggest threat comes from a 41-year-old television announcer making his first entry into politics.

The Liberal leader has carried the riding consistently since 1948. But Progressive Conservative Basil Scully feels he has some advantages. For one thing, unlike Mr. Pearson he was born and raised in the riding. For another he has been able to spend all of his time campaigning while Mr. Pearson toured the country.

All told, Mr. Pearson, who lives in Ottawa, has spent only two days stumping the vast, 30,000-square-mile uranium and lumber and bushland. The weather was against him. Flying, which would have eased his travels, became impossible. Some meetings were delayed. Others were washed out.

NEW FACTORS

New factors have appeared. The discovery of uranium has brought a rush of new population, some of it floating, some of it permanent. Sections of the riding are in a state of throbbing activity. Interests appear to be local rather than national.

There is a question, in fact, of just how many of Algoma's 29,047 eligible voters will turn out election day. There is another question. The riding is growing in strength and importance. Conservative campaigners argue for a resident member of Parliament rather than one who lives elsewhere.

Attempt Made To Burn Body Of Laundry Man

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—An attempt was made to burn the battered body of a 68-year-old Chinese laundry man found Friday in his downtown shop.

Police said the body of Lou Knig Jung was surrounded by oil-soaked laundry. There was an oil-soaked fuse, made out of a shoelace, leading to the body. It had apparently been lit but had gone out.

Police Chief W. Allen called for public assistance to help in the investigation.

"The premises were blood spattered and it can be assumed the murderer's clothing had blood on it," he said.

Police said they had not found the weapon but it was a blunt instrument. Robbery is believed to have been the motive.

I. E. Odmark, a friend of the victim, found the body about 10 a.m. when he went to pick up clean clothes.

Dr. C. E. Baker said Mr. Jung had been dead for several hours. An autopsy is to be performed.

A cousin of the dead man, Sing Jung, 47, who owns a restaurant here, said he could not understand why anyone would want to kill the laundry proprietor.

"He had some money but it could not have been too much. He was paying off a mortgage."

Sing Jung said the victim has a wife, a son and three grandchildren living in a district of Communist China near Hong Kong. Another cousin lives in Montreal.

Today's Chuckle

The wife wanted her husband to bring home another mousetrap.

"What's the matter with the one I brought yesterday?" he asked.

Said his wife: "It's full."

KHRUSHCHEV WILL DISCLOSE GOVT. ON MONDAY

Will Give Makeup Of Soviet Cabinet

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev will disclose the makeup of his new government Monday, it was announced today before the Council of the Union, one of Russia's two houses of parliament.

Monday's joint session of the two houses of the Supreme Soviet will thus spell out Nikolai Bulganin's political future and also may reveal a Kremlin decision to end Soviet H-bomb tests without waiting for the United States and Britain.

Khrushchev led the Praesidium members into today's session which continued to discuss the Communist party leader's agricultural plans. Bulganin was not present.

ALL CABINET RESIGNED

When Bulganin resigned as Premier Thursday and was replaced by Nikita Khrushchev, he submitted the resignation of the entire council of ministers. Observers now wonder whether the new list to be announced by Khrushchev will give Bulganin a place in the government, possibly as a deputy premier.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is scheduled to report on nuclear tests. An announcement that Russia was stopping its own tests would put pressure on the other atomic powers to do the same.

The two houses of the Supreme Soviet met separately Friday to discuss Khrushchev's plan for boosting agricultural production higher than per-capital output in the United States.

The U.S. and Britain are consulting with their Atlantic partners in London and Paris on how to meet a Soviet propaganda offensive pegged on suspension of nuclear weapons tests. The U.S. has scheduled a series of tests in the Pacific this summer, and and Britain also plans more tests.

Police Inspector Admits Stealing From Drug Store

STRATFORD (CP) — Joseph Taylor, suspended Stratford police inspector, was remanded to April 11 for sentence when he pleaded guilty Friday to a charge of theft.

Taylor, 53, admitted stealing $45 worth of merchandise from a drug store last Dec. 20.

Dr. D. M. Wickware, a psychiatrist, testified Taylor had been suffering a mental illness for six months prior to the theft. He said Taylor was depressed by a feeling of guilt over arrests he had made.

Taylor committed the offence to fulfill a need for punishment, the doctor added, suggesting Taylor should return to a normal life as close as possible to his accupation.

Magistrate D. F. Holmes said it would be impossible to follow the doctor's suggestion of returning Taylor to police work. "The public would not condone such a move."

British Papers Say Many Voters Fed Up With Two Major Parties

LONDON (Reuters) — Many voters are fed up with Britain's two major parties, claim most newspapers, in commenting on the razor-edge victory of a minority Liberal candidate Friday in a three-cornered byelection fight.

The 219 - vote victory by Liberal Mark Bonham Carter over his Conservative opponent at Torrington, with Labor trailing in third place, has thrown a scare into the government, now reeling with three straight byelection defeats in six weeks.

Although the Liberals have only six members in the House of Commons, Conservatives fear that any mass Liberal turnout in the next general election would split the non-Socialist vote and put the Labor party back in office.

Liberal Leader Jo Grimond writes in the London News Chronicle: "We are a new party. Our minds are occupied with the present and future. Our opponents are still frozen in past attitudes."

The Liberal paper Manchester Guardian says "the Liberals are at the beginning of a long and stiff climb. . .People are sick of both the main parties. A moderating influence is what many people want. It is exactly what the Liberal group in the House of Commons can become."

The London Times, Independent, declares "There is ample evidence that the Liberals' broad attitude to the social issues of the day is evoking a measure of support which goes far beyond mere dissatisfaction with the records of the two main parties in office."

The Yorkshire Post, Conservative, says "The longer and the fiercer the two anti - Socialist parties wrangle and squabble among themselves, the more good they do to the Socialist cause."

The Labor paper London Daily Herald notes: "Torrington gives Labor nothing to crow about. But it makes the government's spectacular humiliation complete."

Vote as You Like--But Vote

Monday is election day.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not presume to suggest to its readers how they should vote, but we would like to add our voice to those which are urging all public-spirited citizens to cast their ballots.

"Vote as you like, but vote" is a familiar slogan which is a shorter, neater way of expressing the same plea.

Unfortunately, we may have here another case of familiarity breeding contempt.

Each of the six words in that sentence is important. Too many misinterpret one of the six, the word "like." Many make the slogan read "Vote any old way, as long as you vote." There is a suggestion that the mere marking of the ballot, and not the marking of the ballot as the voter "likes," is the important thing. The reverse is true.

Webster defines "like" as "to have a taste or fondness for; be pleased with; have a preference for." Before one can have a preference for a political party, one has to know something about that party, and something about the opposing parties. One must consider not only the party's announced policies, but its past record and present leadership. But choosing the party he or she prefers is only part of a voter's task before he or she casts his or her ballot. The voter must also consider the candidates who represent the different parties in the particular riding in which he will vote. A member of Parliament fills a vitally important post. It is not enough that he should, above all, be a man of unquestioned integrity. More than that, he should add to that integrity experience and qualities of mind and spirit which, in the opinion of the voter, adequately equip him to fill the position for which he is being considered.

"Vote as you like, but vote," in the best interpretation of that admonition, means casting one's ballot after careful consideration of all these points.

Only electors who do that will be adequately discharging one of the most vital responsibilities of citizens in a democracy.

Party Chieftains Will Fire Final Shots of Campaigns

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Party leaders today fire their parting shots in the two - month federal election campaign. Canadians will vote Monday between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. local standard time.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker today attends four Ottawa receptions and flies tonight to Prince Albert, Sask., his home riding, to await result of the vote.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson campaigns in the Ottawa Valley, territory covered Friday by Mr. Diefenbaker. He will remain in Ottawa Sunday and Monday.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell speaks tonight at Rosetown, Sask., in his home riding of Rosetown-Biggar. He will be in Regina election night.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, concludes his campaign tonight at Grimshaw, Alta., in his Peace River riding. He will be in Edmonton election day.

Instead of slackening, the campaign continued at a scorching pace Friday. However, no new ground was broken.

Mr. Pearson made nearly a dozen speeches in St. Lawrence River towns and in the Ottawa district. He said "unity, work and peace" sums up his party's program.

Mr. Pearson, in informal talks at Kingston, Gananoque and Brockville, took unemployment as his major theme.

He said Canada now has between 600,000 and 700,000 unemployed and accused the Conservatives of doing nothing constructive to remedy the situation.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke at Arnprior, Renfrew and Pembroke west of the capital. He said unemployment is "on the decline" and "over the hump" although he gave no figures.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Progressive Conservative party's policy might be summed up in a series of phrases:

For the Maritimes, "a lift up, not a hand-out:" for Quebec, "confederation, not centralization;" for Ontario and the West, "fiscal relations, not federal patronage;" and for the North, "transportation, not isolation."

Mr. Coldwell said at Broderick, Sask., that the Conservative government doesn't dare announce its agricultural price support figures.

The prices had been "concealed under a blanket of silence" because they will be unsatisfactory.

In a paid, recorded radio broadcast from Grande Prairie, Alta., Mr. Low pledged to strive "with all my might" for improvement in the federal Agriculture Prices Stabilization Act.

At Toronto, Tim Buck, leader of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party, said "this campaign has demonstrated the necessity for a Communist party in Canada." Such a party alone could unite all working classes in political action.

Pearkes Denies Atomic Gun Was Ever Tested in Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harold Winch, a CCF member of the last Parliament, said Friday the United States has tested an atomic cannon in Canada. Defence Minister Pearkes termed the statement "absolute nonsense."

Mr. Winch, seeking re-election in Vancouver East, told an election rally he learned authoritatively that the U.S. had tested "atomic equipment" in this country, including an army atomic cannon. He said it was given cold-weather tests near Fort Churchill, Man., some time ago but said later he did not know whether tests included firing of an atomic shell.

Mr. Pearkes, campaigning in Qualicum, B.C., told reporters: "I can assure you there has been no firing of atomic shells or anything atomic in this country."

Mike Pearson Has Workout

KINGSTON (CP) — Mike Pearson, a pretty good semi-pro second baseman in his younger days, put in 10 minutes of spring training here Friday.

As the Liberal party leader's motorcade passed through Kingston, he spotted the boys at St. Patrick's School playing ball during the noon recess.

He stopped his car and took the field for a bit of fielding, batting and pitching practice.

"First time I've had a chance to do this this year," he said.

500 Acres Marsh Burned Over At Massassaga

Blazing cattails and marsh grass on the Massassaga marsh in Prince Edward county burned over 500 acres, Friday afternoon and evening with reflections from the smoke and flames lighting up the night sky for miles.

During the late afternoon towering columns of black smoke rolled high into the air as the flames raced across the marsh with the wind.

Belleville firemen kept watch over the fire for about five hours and said no damage was caused by the marsh fire.

Two other marsh fires received attention from firemen, one of them at the rear of Houston's Lumber Company and the other near Rossmore.

Low water in the bay was said by one Prince Edward county resident to be one reason for the extent of yesterday's marsh blaze. Growth in the marshes last year was luxuriant and low water conditions this spring have allowed the marsh grass to dry out.

And the low water conditions even discouraged the muskrats which under high water conditions frequently build their houses in the area swept by yesterday's blaze.

2,200 BALLOTS ARE MISSING IN QUEBEC EAST

RCMP Investigates As Shipment Short

QUEBEC (CP)—A hot election fight in the old Liberal stronghold of Quebec East shows no signs of cooling as the Monday poling date nears.

Disappearance of 180 ballot sheets—enough for about 2,200 potes—provided the latest fuel for orators. The sheets were found to be missing when the returning officer for the riding received a shipment from the printer Friday.

Notified by the officer and members of both Liberal and Progressive Conservative organizations, chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay of Ottawa said it was too late to have new sheets printed, but the serial numbers of those missing were known. Poll officers would be supplied with the numbers to prevent irregularities Monday.

Mr. Castonguay also said the RCMP would investigate.

Yvon Tasse, Conservative candidate, told a rally Friday night that none of his men were responsible.

Liberal Maurice Lamontagne also said his supporters knew nothing of the disappearance.

MONTREAL (CP)—Between 30 and 50 "flying squads" of RCMP officers will be on duty in the Montreal district for Monday's federal election, it was announced Friday night.

Superintendent Edward Brakefield-Moore of the local RCMP detachment said his men will be detailed to enforce Section 29 of the Canada Election Act which deals with offences regarding ballots and ballot boxes.

Says Duplessis Spends Million To Elect PCs

MONTREAL (CP) — A Liberal candidate in Monday's federal election says Premier Duplessis has spent "at least a million dollars" to make sure the Progressive Conservative party is re-elected.

Ken Mackay, candidate in Montreal Notre Dame-de-Grace, made the charge Friday night speaking to a Liberal rally at nearby Rosemere.

Mr. Mackay said Premier Duplessis wants to "hold the balance of power" in the next Parliament through election of Conservative members from Quebec and Union Nationale men "disguised as Conservatives."

He said the premier's Union Nationale government has spent "fantastic" amounts of money to have Conservatives elected in some ridings. The amounts ranged as high as $100,000.

Postmaster-General William Hamilton, addressing a Progressive Conservative rally in French Friday night, described as "childish" and "ridiculous" charges that there is a Diefenbaker-Duplessis pact.

"It's ridiculous to say that because some persons are interested in politics and work in both the federal and provincial elections there is an agreement or pact.

"Those working are doing it for the party of their choice. Many Union Nationale followers now strive for the success of the Conservatives because they feel this party offers the most guarartees for Canada's future."

Fleming, Fairclough Are Not First Listed as Ministers on Ballots

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Donald Fleming and State Secretary Ellen Fairclough identify themselves as cabinet members on the ballots for Monday's election.

This is not only quite within the law but is something that a few government members have done through the years.

Former prime minister Louis S. St. Laurent, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, and former immigration minister J. W. Pickersgill identified themselves as cabinet members on the 1953 and 1957 ballots.

The ballots, with the exception of those used in the armed services vote, must not state the politics of the candidate, but must state his calling. This information is supplied by the candidate when he files his nomination papers.

But if the candidate is a cabinet minister and so describes himself on the ballot it would have to be a most dense voter who would not know the candidate's politics.

Thus when it became known that Mr. Fleming had described his calling as "finance minister" on the ballot for Monday's voting there was a complaint from the Liberal organization in Toronto Eglinton where he is a candidate.

The Liberals appealed to chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay but he replied there is no law against it.

Mr. Fleming was describing his occupation truthfully, but in most instances ministerial candidates give the occupation they were in before entering the government.

In the 1957 election, however, in addition to Mr. St. Laurnt, Mr. Pearson and Mr. Pickersgill, then revenue minister James J. McCann and Lionel Chevrier, then president of the Privy Council, gave their cabinet jobs as their occupation.

'Mr. What' Wins $140,000 Apiece For 3 Canadians

Wins Grand National By 30 Lengths in Mud

AINTREE, England (AP)—Mr. What today won the 112th Grand National.

Tiberetta was second and Green Drill third.

Mr. What was an 18-to-1 betting shot in the field of 31 runners that set out in the rain over the four - mile, 861 - yard 30 - jump course.

Wyndburgh was fourth and Goosander fifth.

Tiberetta and Green Drill were both 22 to 1 shots.

A crowd estimated at 100,000 small by normal standards—was on hand for this year's classic. Conspicuously absent was the Queen.

NO ROYAL ENTRY

There was no royal entry in this year's race—the richest in the long history of the classic with the winner's purse £13,794.

The day was wet and rain made the course muddy, cutting heavily into the crowd for the world's toughest steeplechase.

The Irish-trained Mr. What, owned by D. J. Coughland, took the lead with only about 10 fences to go and never was headed.

Mr. What, an eight-year-old bay gelding by Grand Inquisitor out of Duchess of Pedulas won by an incredible 30 lengths with 15 lengths separating Tiberetta and Green Drill.

ONLY SEVEN FINISHED

Only seven horses finished the gruelling grind. E.S.B., the 12-year-old gelding who won in 1956, finished sixth and Hollybank was seventh.

Mr. What was ridden by A. R. Freeman of England and trained by a former Grand National hockey, T. J. Taafee.

Tiberetta, the second horse home, is a 10-year-old mare. Only 13 mares have won the Grand National since the race was inaugurated.

Mr. What's time was 10:01.2, well outside Golden Miller's record of 9:20.4 set in 1934.

An Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes is based on the race.

The victory of Mr. What was the 38th since 1900 for an Irish horse in this famed racing classic.

Six tickets worth a total of $560,000 were held by Canadians today in the Irish Hospital Sweepstake based on the Grand National run at Aintree, England.

One-Time Stormy Petrel of North, C.W. Cox, Dies

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Charles Winnans Cox, the 75-year-old lumberman who was mayor of Port Arthur for 15 consecutive terms and one of the Lakehead's outstanding political personalities for a quarter-century, died Friday.

The colorful former mayor and member of the provincial legislature was found dead of a heart attack in the basement of a downtown business block he owned. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Though he had 16 terms as mayor of Port Arthur, beginning in 1934, and three as a Liberal member of the legislature for the Lakehead ridings, the latest from 1948 to 1951, Mr. Cox was as well remembered for his political failures as his successes.

Twice he ran for leadership of the Ontario Liberal party and was defeated both times—in 1949 and 1950.

Rin-Tin-Tin Show to Feature Belleville Fair

Belleville and district kiddies, as well as adult dog lovers, are to have another big day at the opening day of Belleville fair this year.

The fair board executive announced today that arrangements have just been made with George A. Hamid and Son Shows of New York to bring the famous Rin-Tin-Tin show as a special attraction for opening day at the fair. Fair dates this year are August 11-12-13-14.

Seriously injured in an automobile accident about a month ago and still confined to hospital, Dr. J. Russell Scott, Belleville Fair President, is not allowing his ill fortune to interrupt with his fair board activities and this week from his hospital bed confirmed with Hamid Shows to bring one of the finest shows ever to Belleville Fair.

With the Rin-Tin-Tin Show scheduled as the opening day attraction, the following three days will see other special attractions. Tuesday a nationally known TV singing star will appear along with several novelty acts, while on Wednesday and Thursday a star-studded country and western show, plus novelty acts and other special attractions will be offered.

Conklin's Midway will be back again with reduced prices to prevail for rides on Thursday, Children's Day, the last day of the fair.

The fairprize list is being revised and in many instances prize money is being increased.

In the absence of fair president Dr. Scott, fair vice-president Carl Thompson and the board of directors are leaving no stone unturned to make the 1958 edition of Belleville Fair the finest on record.

"When planning your summer holiday, plan to attend Belleville Fair," is the suggestion of the fair directorate.

Cabinet Minister Promises New Post Office

MARMORA — One of the largest political gatherings in this district was held last night by the Hastings-Frontenac Progressive Conservative Association.

The crowd gathered at Marmor town hall to hear the Honorable Sidney Smith, minister of External Affairs, and Senator George S. White speak on behalf of the Diefenbaker government.

In his address, Mr Smith said following his entry into the Cabinet he was approached by Senator White to run for Hastings-Frontenac riding. He said he would if Senator White would assist him.

Mr. Smith won the riding by a landslide victory last fall and has represented the riding for the past nine months.

He pointed out the team of Smith and White was responsible for the Deloro Smelting contract which helped to avert unemployment in this area last winter.

The cabinet minister promised that a new post office for Marmora was definitely on the agenda, as far as the Progressive Conservatives were concerned.

The Hastings-Frontenac riding is the only riding in Ontario to be represented by both a Cabinet minister and a senator, he stated.

Senator White stated he had been elected to represent the Hastings-Frontenac riding in 1940 and had given real local representation for the past 17 years and would continue to do so.

The Senator was introduced by vice-president of the Hastings-Frontenac P.C. Association, Mason Mumby. Mr. Mumby acted as chairman for the meeting in the absence of association president Ralph Neal, who is ill.

Peel County representative John Pallett, also addressed the meeting. He was introduced by Bruce White of Madoc.

Following the meeting the Honorable Sidney Smith and Mrs. Smith and Senator and Mrs. White met with each member of the large audience.

Refreshments were served by the Women's Auxiliary of the Marmora Legion.

Born in Tamworth, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Loyst, he had lived in Peterborough for the past six years, and before that in Lakefield, where he was superintendent of just north of Peterborough, Lakefield Cemetery for the past thirteen years.

His wife, the former Anna Belle Beatty, predeceased him in 1933 He is suvived by two sons, Francis E Loyst of Peterborough, and Stewart of Timmins; and a brother, Ernest, of Carthage, N.Y.

He was a Presbyterian and a member of the I.C.O.F. lodge in Carthage, NY. Interment was in Lakefield cemetery. Mr. Loyst was well known in the Flinton and Tweed district.

MRS. JOHN ANDREW
(Tweed)

The death occurred in Boissevain, Manitoba, early in March of Myrtle Wood, age 70, wife of the late John Andrew.

Born in Flinton, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wood, she had only lived in Boissevain for the past three years, previously residing at Quimet, near Port Arthur, for a number of years. Although she has been in ill health for some time, her death came suddenly. Mrs. Andrew is survived by two children, Mrs. Leslie Ransom (Grace), of Mountainside, Manitoba, and one son, Louis, at home, also four grandchildren. Four brothers also remain: Edward, of Manville, Alberta; William who is a patient in Military Hospital in Alberta and Albert and Bert of Flinton, Ontario.

WILLIAM MILLER HOWIE

Following an illness of one week, William Miller Howie, 48 Dundas Street East, died in the Belleville General Hospital early this Saturday morning.

He was born at Ernestown 82 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howie and has resided in this city practically all of his life, where he was well known and highly regarded in a wide circle of friends. Shortly after the motor car was invented Mr. Howie purchased one and started in the taxi business and had been in that business for over 50 years.

As a taxi operator he enjoyed a wide clientele of city and district residents and also a large number of regular customers, some of whom had been patrons since he started in business. He was a man of cheery disposition and probably was as well known as any person in this city. He was a staunch Conservative.

He was a member of St. Thomas' Church and fraternally was a life member of The Belleville Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 123. Surviving are two sons, Gerald and Clifford Howie, both of this city, one daughter, Mrs. Vernon (Kitty) McKnight, of Belleville; two sisters, Mrs. Samuel (May) Bristow, Bloomfield, Mrs. Janet Rouse of Bath and one brother, George Howie, of Adams, Mass. Also surviving are six grandchildren. His wife, the former Martha Thompson, died in April of 1955.

Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, 60 Victoria Avenue at Church Street; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Prices for Eggs Drop on Market

Egg prices dropped on the local market this morning with vendors quoting 50c for large, 55c for extras, and 48c per dozen for mediums.

Also on the inside market, fowl in limited quantity sold at 50c for chicken, and 45c per lb. for mature birds.

Maple syrup was freely offered on the outside market with farmers asking $6 per gallon; $1.75 per quart, and 90c per pint.

Fancy Spy apples brought $3.00 per hamper with top grade Delicious fetching $3.50 per hamper. Starks sold at $2.50, with Delicious at 85c per basket and Spy apples at 75c.

There were no changes in the prices of winter vegetables with beets, carrots, bringing 25c per gallon; parsnips 35c; and turnips from a nickel to 15c each. Horseradish sold at a dime per bunch. Head lettuce and winter onions were also offered. Potatoes sold at 65c per basket and $3.25 per 75-lb. bag.

Present Reports for Year As Governors of Hospital Gather for Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Board of Governors of Belleville General Hospital was held Friday afternoon in the new board room. Most of the governors turned out for the short meeting, which was actually a continuation of the morning's regular monthly session of the Board, but no representatives of the general public showed up.

The absence of a public crowd is nothing new to the Board. In past years the governors have tried in many ways to boost the public's interest in the annual meeting, but they have not been successful. Last year, it is understood, about six women formed the audience.

Highlights of the meeting were, of course, the annual reports of the chairman and committee heads. In his report, Chairman Frank Domenico remarked that the greatest need at the hospital today is for adequate teaching facilities for the student nurses.

"We are operating an exceptionally good school," he said, "and we are graduating well-trained nurses. The teaching staff, however, are working under extreme difficulties, and it is problematical whether we will be able to continue turning out the type of graduate that we have in the past unless better teaching facilities are provided. We must remember that we are training not only nurses, but radiological and pathological technicians as well. It is hoped that in the immediate future, assistance will be forthcoming to enable us to rectify this deficiency."

Mr. Domenico said that the overall accomplishments of 1957 were most successful, adding that the older sections of the hospital were renovated at a cost of approximately $30,000 under the estimated cost.

Construction of a new laboratory started last fall and it will be opened on May 10, when BGH observes National Hospital Week. The old laboratory will house the blood bank.

FINE CO-OPERATION

The chairman was profuse in his commendation for the co-operation the Board received from every member of the hospital. He showered special tribute on Kenneth Box, the administrator.

The report of the finance committee showed that the operating statement enjoyed a surplus of $40,700. Total revenue of $1,237,600 was forecast, but the actual revenue totalled $1,286,000. Expenditures were forecast to reach $1,227,000, but in reality they amounted to $1,245,000.

It was explained in this report that in establishing the 1957 budget, members of the finance committee were cognizant of the fact that it was the first year of operation of the new wing. Experience has shown that with a large new addition, there are unforeseeable expenditures which occur during the first year of operation, and which normally are not repeated. Also, the members had no past experience on which to base their revenue.

A break-down of the "hospital dollar" was included in the finance committee's report. It showed that 49 cents is earned through patient care and nursing services; 19 cents from radiology, laboratory and special services; eight cents from the operating and delivery rooms, emergency and the out-patients department; 15 cents from the pharmacy and infusions; six cents from the provincial grant; two cents from the nursery, and one cent from other income.

On the expediture side of the "hospital dollar" it was seen that 64 cents is paid out in salaries and wages; 16 cents in medical and surgical supplies; seven cents in dietary services; five cents in house supplies; four cents in administration; three cents in maintenance and repairs, and one cent to the school of nursing.

A total of $1,284,864.65 in grants was pledged last year, but $160,780.28 of it is still to be received in the building fund.

COLLECTIONS INCREASE

H. P. M. Cane, chairman of the accounts receivable committee, reported that a 25 per cent increase in the volume of earnings from patients over the previous year resulted in a gradual increase of the total of accounts receivable. Cash collections also increased by a like percentage from $1,083,000 in 1956 to $1,364,000 in 1957.

"Despite the wide-spread 'tight-money' situation which existed during the latter part of the year collections remained good, and whereas the amount set up for bad debts was three per cent of gross earnings, only 1.9 per cent was uncollectable after recovery of $13,125 in written-off accounts. Total write-offs for 1957 were $33,750," said Mr. Cane.

Kenneth Box, the administrator, accused the moon of having something to do with the number of maternity cases at the hospital.

"I'm not joking," he said, "but whenever there is a full moon the occupancy on the third floor (maternity) goes up."

Last year the stork brought 1,354 new citizens to Belleville and district by using the Belleville General Hospital as its terminal. In 1954, only 1,287 babies were born at the hospital.

There were 2,745 operations performed at BGH last year; 95,237 laboratory examinations; 9,347 x-ray examinations; 315,233 meals served; 73,093 admissions and 5,158 emergency cases.

The personnel committee report submitted my Kenneth G. M. Ross indicated that a pension plan may be inaugurated in the hospital, while on January 6, 1958, a contract was signed between the hospital and the Building Service Employees' International Union.

Recommendations were made by the committee to reduce the hours of work in the dietary, housekeeping and laundry departments from 48 hours per week to 40 hours. After considerable investigation the committee recommended an increase of $20 per month for the graduate nursing staff, effective Jan. 1, 1958. There have been no changes in the personnel in the department head staff.

NEW SCHOOL OPENED

The supplies committee purchased $15,000 worth of capital equipment and supplies in 1957, Bruce Lattimer reported.

Last fall a new school for medical laboratory technologists was opened with the enrolment of three students. Formal didactic lectures covering the various subjects will begin when new quarters are available.

Two research projects are tabled for 1958 in the department of pathology. One is concerned with the value of the tubeless method of gastric analysis and the other, the value of the dextrotest for blood glucose levels.

"With the advent of the Ontario Hospital Insurance scheme beginning in January 1959, many new changes can be foreseen in the department of pathology," Dr. A. N. Rota reported. "It is expected that the work volume of the clinical laboratory will at least double and that additional staff, room and facilities will be needed. Plans to cope with this situation are being prepared for presentation to the Board of Governors in 1958".

Administrator Kenneth E. Box reminded the governors that the two principal objects of BGH are good patient care and high standards of nursing care. Because of the wide-spread building and renovation programs last year better patient accommodation has resulted.

"Our standards of nursing education are very high, but the nursing school personnel are laboring under extreme difficulties because of inadequate teaching facilities. I know that we all appreciate the importance of nurse education in maintaining a high standard of nursing service. It is hoped, therefore, that all levels of government will, in the near future, assist us financially in providing more adequate teaching facilities", said Mr. Box.

He added that 1957 was a most successful year both in financial operation of the hospital and in the care given to patients. Mr. Box commended the Women's Hospital Auxiliary for doing a superlative job in providing much needed equipment and comforts for the patients.

NEW QUARTERS AVAILABLE

Dr. R. M. Billings, director of the mental health clinic, stated that in 1957 a total of 991 investigations and treatment interviews were conducted. New quarters were made available to the clinic last May.

"This clinic has continued throughout the year in essentially the same pattern as during previous years. However, the case-load has been heavier and with our increasing emphasis upon treatment it has been even more difficult to meet the demands of the community. On the other hand, the referring physicians have been understanding and tolerant of our limitations. We have increased the time spent in Belleville and we hope it may be possible to go farther in this direction," said Dr. Billings.

The director of nursing, Miss M. L. Peart, Reg. N., reported that a number of appointments to the supervisory staff had been made in 1957. A planned in-service and orientation program was effective for all nursing personnel, while refresher courses for staff members were also attended. Two nurses enrolled in the certificate course of teaching and supervision at the University of Ottawa last September. Both nurses intend returning to BGH after completion of their course.

Miss Peart added that the nursing units, which have been renovated are appreciated by the nursing staff. The improved working areas have facilitated nursing service a great deal.

The school of nursing is currently training 57 students, 20 seniors, 17 intermediates and 20 juniors. Twenty-one nurses were eligible for provincial nurse registration exams last September. In September 21 girls enrolled in the school of nursing. Five students withdrew of their own accord.

A good educational program is underway in the school and regular conferences for instructors have been held. The Belleville and District Hotel Association has provided an annual bursary of $400 and the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries have announced six bursaries of $360 each during the three-year course.

It was provided by the Board of Governors that effective January 1, 1958, third year student nurses were to receive a monthly payment of $50. The Ontario government for the first time provided a $300 grant for each student nurse enrolled in the school.

Student nurses are provided with an ample health program, and they all subscribe to the Blue Cross plan with the cost being borne by the school. All hospital employees, in face, are enrolled in a health program.

All employees received immunization from polio with Salk vaccine and from Asian 'flu.

The Nurses' Alumnae Association had a very active year in 1957.

Mrs. L. B. Fonger, recording and corresponding secretary of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, reported that standing projects are the Opportunity Shop (now in its 10th successful year) and the coffee shop at the Hospital.

A very active year was enjoyed by the W. H. A. The association made a donation to the school of nursing for the recreational needs of the students. Decorating and re-covering and supplying of new furniture in the residence is now underway.

Equipment supplied to the hospital by the W.H.A. included a tag set for beds in pediatrics, sitz bath, two wheel chairs, two steam kettles, a hi-fi set with amplifiers and speakers for the cafeteria, mirrors for the nurses' bathrooms and vases for patients' flowers.

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary has undertaken to help furnish the chapel, including drapes, rug and electric organ, up to $2,000. The association donated $150 to the Samaritan Cupboard, which is kept up by Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Mrs. E. H. Hall, convener of the puppet committee, said that in 1957, 260 puppets were made, 110 of which were sold and 150 given to the hospital.

Maple Syrup Season Ending

Rated as having been one of the best seasons in recent years, the current maple syrup season is about over for another year, it was stated by farmers attending the Belleville market this morning.

One West Lake district vendor said the sap had run but very little during the past week and although it was expected there might still be another run, they had already taken up their buckets.

Although the sap run is near its end, maple syrup will be offered on the local market for several weeks.

Police Blotter

Two Belleville youths, one 16 and the other 18 years of age, have been apprehended by city police and are charged with breaking and entering Clarke's service station, Dundas Street East.

A break-in was also reported at Pringle's Store at the corner of Evans and St. Charles Streets. Entry was gained through a cellar window but it was not believed anything was missing.

A practical jokester is believed to have been responsible for the temporary disappearance of a car owned by Mrs. Margaret Whitehead, cashier at the Park Theatre. Mrs. Whitehead parked her car on a near-by lot early last evening and later found it missing. The vehicle was found at the corner of Front and Dundas Streets.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

MALES FIRST

The spring style for ducks, geese, and shore birds is to travel in companies that include both sexes; females of a very few species arrive first; but for the majority, especially in the case of songbirds, males get here ahead of the females. Notice that the first robins you see pulling up worms from your lawn are the distinctly marked ones: males, with very red breasts and very dark beads. Your attention is first attracted to song sparrows by their singing — a sure sign that they are males.

It is the same with redwinged blackbirds. The black males with their scarlet and gold epaulets, singing "conk-kar-ree," await their sparrowlike sweethearts — sometimes for as long as three weeks or more. From the time of the males' arrival in the marsh, about the middle of March, until the final departure of the whole flock (fathers, mothers, and offspring), the clatter seems endless. If it were only the singing males we might enjoy the redwings; but the alarm note sounds from every individual in a colony of several hundred if a strange bird enters the marsh, a dog barks, or there is a private quarrel.

There is a specific reason for all bird behaviour, so let us try to discover why the special pattern of spring arrival.

BREEDING SEASON

The breeding season is fast approaching, when birds pair and make every effort to acquire a certain amount of ground where they can build a home and set up housekeeping — the wish of every human couple. The area must also be able later to provide for all requirements of a family. The size of the property varies according to the species. A pair of red-shouldered hawks need a square mile: redstarts perhaps half an acre.

And so many males hurry their migration in order to choose territory, which they must then continue to defend from all others of like species. Every male songbird sings to tell every male of his kind within hearing that he has found the spot he wants, claims it as his own, and means to hang on to it. He fights all similar males that try to enter his territory, and awaits the arrival of the females.

If the redwing's mate of a former year has survived migration, she usually returns to him, lured by his voice; but should another female get there first and catch his fancy, his old love may have to look elsewhere.

THE CF-105

They shot an Arrow into the sky. It did not fall back to earth, but it did glide earthward like a majestic, giant white bird to open a new chapter in Canada's illustrious aviation history.

On Tuesday morning of this week Avro Aircraft Limited, manufacturer of the famous CF-100 "Canuck" all-weather jet interceptor of the RCAF, ordered Chief Test Pilot Jan Zurakowski airborne for the first time in the CF-105 "Arrow," a jet interceptor designed to exceed the speed of sound by 500 miles an hour or more.

Built over the past three or four years at a total outlay of some $200,000,000, the Arrow may succeed the CF-100 as the RCAF's front-line combat plane. It is said to be capable of engaging the most modern bombers in the world today and still stand a better-than-average chance of coming out on top of the fray. To be armed with rockets, not nuclear weapons, the CF-105 will, indeed, be a formidable aircraft, if it ever reaches operational use in the RCAF.

The Arrow is still far from the production line. Only one has been fabricated to date. There has been considerable debate between the federal government and the Opposition as to the wisdom or folly of building them for the RCAF on a large-scale basis. Perhaps the government would be ahead of the game, so to speak, if, say, a couple of hundred Arrows were built instead of a few. Again, money-wise, the government might be ahead for the time being to scrap the CF-105 altogether. But sooner or later this country will have to build an even more advanced airplane than the Arrow. Costs by then might well amount to far more than the $200,000,000 spent on the Arrow.

Obviously, the CF-105 would be of no use to any other Canadian organization than the RCAF. The plane cannot be modified for commercial use, because, in the first place, it was designed as a combat weapon.

The RCAF is in the throes of re-equipping its fighter and transport squadrons with new and better planes. The Arrow, although rather spectacular. is only one project which interests the government in plans for aerial defence. There are the Argus, the Cosmopolitans and the Neptunes which will be turned over to transport and maritime commands, and the air force currently is looking about for a primary jet trainer to succeed the World War II Harvard piston-engine trainer. In 1954 the RCAF had its eyes on the American T-36 primary jet trainer, but that plane did not measure up to Canadian standards, though some were built for the U.S. at Canadair Ltd. in Montreal.

If the Arrow is put on the production line, it may well be that the RCAF will have to revamp its entire organization from stem to stern to operate successfully in this new chapter of aviation history.

THE HUSTINGS OF HASTINGS

After today, the hustings of Hastings will be quiet again.

Now there is a sentence which should send at least one district citizen scurrying for his dictionary.

We hear by the grapevine that this citizen, for the past several weeks, has been translating the word "hustings" into "Hastings."

If he tries this translation on our opening sentence he will get "the Hastings of Hastings," and much good may it do him.

If he hurries to Webster, he will read something like this: "hustings - - 1—originally (a) a deliberate assembly: (b) a court held in various English cities; it survives in London; (c) the platform in London Guildhall where such a court was formerly held; (d) the temporary platform where candidates for Parliament formerly stood for nomination and spoke; hence, 2—the proceedings at an election; 3—any place where political campaign speeches are made."

We don't know whether to apologize for using so frequently in The Ontario Intelligencer a word which some appear to have found unintelligible, or whether to regard doubts as to its meaning as another disturbing bit of evidence that people do not appear to be as well informed on matters political as was once the case.

We shall ponder this point until the hustings of Hastings resound again with the next round of election oratory.

An American biologist advances the theory that man and all animals have evolved from brown seaweed, which in turn had developed from a still simpler life form, blue algae. What we do in the next 500 years could make the brown seaweed swell with pride, or on the other hand it could make the ancestral blue algae blush a deep red. (Victoria Times.)

OFF THE RECORD

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 29th., 1938

Dr. Lily B. Mathieson was in Toronto this week to attend a tea in honor of her mother, Mrs. Albert M. Boyington, who celebrated the 80th anniversary of her birth on March 26.

The trophies which were won last summer at Petawawa Camp by the local 34th. Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, are now on display in the window of McFee's jewellery store. The trophies include the MacDonald Challenge Trophy, first prize for all batteries in Canada for gunlaying and signalling; the Lansdowne Cup for general efficiency and the George Washington Stephens Cup for efficiency of personnel.

Mr. John B. Reeve, chief despatcher here with the Canadian National Railways, has been promoted to the position of assistant superintendent at London, Ontario and will leave shortly to assume the duties in his new office. On Saturday afternoon officials and fellow employees gathered in the library at the station and Mr. George Stokes, the superintendent of the Belleville Division, acting on behalf of his many friends in the division presented to Mr. Reeve a handsome gold watch and chain. Regrets were expressed by all present at the departure of Mr. Reeve. Mr. Stokes referred to the loss occasioned by the removal of Mr. Reeve from the division and he paid tribute to the fine record maintained by him and the work accomplished by him since he came to the division. A large bouquet of beautiful flowers was sent to Mrs. Reeve.

30 YEARS AGO

The residents of Marmora are indebted to Mr. Robert J. Cook, M.P.P., for his services in securing the passing of the Bill to consolidate the village debt. That the bill went through so promptly was largely due to his efforts. It will mean a considerably lower tax rate for Marmora this year than otherwise would have been the case.

Mr. J. L. Churcher has sold his farm near Bancroft Village to the Belleville Creamery Company and has purchased Mr. C. I. H. Jordinson's farm in Monteagle. Mr. Jordinson intends to go to Western Canada. Many friends in the district regret his departure.

The postal authorities have placed a parcel box at the corner of Dundas Street and Foster Avenue. Residents in the district appreciate the new convenience afforded them.

Donald Campbell of Napanee is spending the Easter vacation here with relatives.

Miss Barber of Uxbridge is the guest of Miss Norma Nicholson, Geddes Street.

The Rev. A. K. Scott of Picton will preach at the services in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church next Sunday.

Miss Jessie Judd of St. Agnes School here, is spending the Easter vacation at her home in Stirling.

50 YEARS AGO

March 29th., 1908

Corby; president, Harry Burrell; vice president, C. Symons; secretary, Wallace Oman; treasurer, Bert Shepard; corresponding secretary, W. Hudson.

Mr. Charles M. Reid, chairman of Queen Victoria School, addressed the pupils of the 3rd. and 4th. classes at the school yesterday on the Battle of Waterloo. The pupils greatly enjoyed the lecture and appreciated Mr. Reid's kindness in speaking to them.

Mr. Ernest Ford was home from Peterborough to spend the weekend.

Mr. Charles McKeown is home from Winnipeg on a visit. Many friends are glad to see him.

The Board of Education estimates for this year are placed at the robust sum of $26,600.00.

Military drill will be introduced shortly as part of the training in the city schools here. The arrangements necessary are in charge of a committee composed of Lieut. Col. Ponton, W. S. Morden, A. A. Roberts, Fred S. Deacon, William Johnson and Charles M. Reid. Lieut. Col. Ponton has offered to instruct the boys and assist the teachers in putting the drill in operation.

Work on the new drill shed will be commenced as soon as the weather permits.

Mr. Albert Parks, who has been visiting relatives here, left today for his home in Chicago.

This Town Bans People

Milwaukee Journal

When it comes to discrimination it's hard to beat the California town of Industry. It bans people. Its zoning ordinances forbid the construction of houses.

Industry, in fact, has many unusual qualities. It's a snake-like town that works its way between a number of California communities. It's 14 miles long and in some places scarcely 300 feet wide. Its neighbors are pretty indignant about it. They are largely residential, and when Industry was incorporated suddenly, less than a year ago, their chances of annexing industrial land to shore up their tax bases went out the window.

Government costs are cheap. The city manager and city clerk share a room in a real estate office. Essential services are contracted for from Los Angeles county. The only tax or industry is one percent of retail sales. The city manager's big job is to keep out people and bring in industry.

And Industry has a lot of industrial operations. Some 60 firms employing 25,000 persons are located there and more are coming in all the time. Land costs are relatively cheap. The tax burden hardly exists. Rail service is right at hand. So are good residential communities in which workers can live.

TV Snacks Dangerous

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Do you get hungry when you watch TV? Do those dainty little snacks which are pictured on the TV screen cause your salivary glands to go crazy? Do you suffer agonies of a starving man without getting one word of sympathy from the missus who points out, callously, that you just finished dinner an hour ago?

Well sir, if you do you're behaving in perfectly normal fashion, but there's real danger in what you're doing. You're asking for trouble, because an over-consumption of carbohydrates, such as cookies, ice cream, candy, pop corn, potato chips and white bread may lead to arthritis, neuritis, diabetes, digestive disorders, decaying teeth, disturbances of the nervous system, the common cold and sinus trouble.

That's the word from Dr. Carlton Fredericks, associate professor of nutrition at Farleigh-Dickinson College, Rutherford, N.J., as recounted by Marie Torre in the New York Herald Tribune.

"People tend to nibble while watching TV, and the reason is simple", said Dr. Fredericks. "The human body experiences all sorts of reactions to the activities on the screen, but they have no release. Our sympathetic nervous system craves a release and people find it in eating. It is like a free-floating anxiety which will attach itself to anything. In America, it's attached to television.

"The highly negative part of eating too many carbohydrates is that those with low blood sugar really aggravate their condition. Such excessiveness may cause migraine headaches and faintness upon missing a meal. The ones I'm really worried about are the children. Adults not only are mistreating their own bodies, but they're giving same ghastly stuff to children. I've seen evidence of this in ten-year-olds who have upper and lower dentures."

Oh, there are some things such as crackers, dried apricots, dried onion soup mix combined with sour cream on thin whole wheat or whole rye crackers—

But wait a minute! what about calories?

Let's face it. There is no balm in Gilead for the chubby hubby. If he would be less chubby he must stop snacking! Fortunately, one can get used to anything, even slow starvation, which oddly enough, will make you live longer and more happily. They say.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What a pity it is that nature did not commission some of the more beautiful birds to be the year-round domestic birds in our cities and towns. Why is it the drab little English sparrow, the sooty starling and the raggedy black crow who choose humans for company?

Is there something ignoble, as nature sees it, in civilization? We don't think of our habitations as slums But the birds who are attracted to our communities are pretty slummy.

Of course, the robin is already back in the gardens. And in south-central Canada, the cardinal is trying to make a conquest of the gardens and parks. Nothing is more like an electric shock than to see, at close range, a cardinal in a city back yard. In many parts of Canada, the Baltimore oriole, a flame of orange and black, comes freely into city gardens that have fruit trees in blossom, and they will nest there. For fleeting moments during migration we are likely to glimpse other luminous and spangled comets of colour speeding through.

But even the robin and the oriole behave like people who have inadvertently got into third-rate hotels; and as soon as they can, holding their noses, so to speak, they hurry away south.

But the slummy ones seem quite content to stay, as fellow-residents.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HOW MUCH DIFFERENT?

An American who, as a prisoner in the last war, found himself aboard a Japanese ship being transported to a prison camp tells a story which has in it a point of great moral significance.

The ship on which he was being transported was overtaken by an American submarine and torpedoed. As it began to sink, the Japanese captain appeared carrying two huge suitcases. They evidently contained the loot which he had accumulated from the beginning of the war. He was determined to save this treasure. Taking a tight grip on the handles of the suitcases, he surveyed the water for a moment and then jumped overboard. Of course, he was never seen again. He and his loot went to the bottom of the sea.

There is a similar story in a great English classic of a miser who, carrying two bags of gold, stumbled into a cistern and, of course, perished because he would not relinquish his treasure.

Our Lord said on one occasion, "Where your treasure is there will your heart be also." The heart of the Japanese captain was in his suitcase. The heart of the miser was in his gold bags.

We may well ask ourselves where our hearts are, and we had better prepare ourselves for a shock. Maybe we are not much different from the Japanese officer and the miser after all.

All Wars Stupid

It is generally agreed that with nuclear weapons what they are, a world conflict would be stupid. Still, it's hard to think of any war that was otherwise.

Belleville in the '90s

By Harry M. Moore

"THE NEW SENSATION"

Article 13

Back in 1895 there was a circus, big top, elephants, clowns, acrobats, and all, which originated on a farm opposite Deseronto. That circus was to play Belleville and a large number of places, large and small, through Eastern Ontario and with good success, only to meet an unkindly fate in the eastern townships of Quebec.

Billed as "The New Sensation," this show was the product of George Burch, a man of high ideals and honest to a fault, who possibly was drawn to the show business by a relative (nephew) Andy Kubelo (?) who had been a leading acrobat at Coney Island, but who had been seriously injured after diving into a net believed to have been cut by an unfriendly rival. He was to recover from his injuries but his speech was to be affected thereafter.

The New Sensation was a good show, as small circuses go. Besides little Andy there were the three Vondales in acrobatics and balancing acts, there were clowns and a brass band, musicians who could turn to other work to keep the show on the move, there were at least three elephants, possibly a few smaller animals.

Finally the circus was in the eastern townships of Quebec where it was to run into unexpected trouble. Mr. Burch was paying his Deseronto printer with paper money and it was while in the act of banking the money, the printer was to be told that it was counterfeit. And so it was that "phoney" money forced the show to close, to be returned to the farm where it was disbanded. Mr. Burch was to make good with the performers, the printer, and without loss to his property which was to remain in the family name long years after his death.

A couple of years later little Andy covered the same ground of the circus of previous days as an acrobat. His big act was to climb a ladder on short stilts to a platform on top, then to make a back flip to an upturned packing box below, a box which, while penetrated, was to absorb much of the shock. He would pass the hat around and then, a poor, little, lone figure he was to move on to the next place.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

EXERCISE SUGGESTED FOLLOWING REMOVAL OF BREAST

"Dear Dr. Molner: The tumor, which made removal of my breast necessary, proved to be malignant. After undergoing a series of deep X-ray treatments, I find a certain hardness has set in. Will this remain permanently? I have about 95 per cent use of my arm. —M.J.S."

Of the number of cancer cases that occur, cancer of the breast is one of the important ones in women. Already, surgery is saving encouragingly more than a mere majority of cases, and I think the percentage will increase as we continue to drum into everybody's mind this fact: Act soon, and you have at least a two-to-one chance of cure, and probably better than that.

Either surgery, or X-ray, or both, will result in some scar formation in the tissue. I can't say how long this will cause some stiffness. Some of the thickening of the tissue will remain permanently. However, if you know the facts there won't be enough of a problem to be worth fretting about.

The American Cancer Society (look in the phone book under the A's for the address of your local chapter) has a booklet, "Help Yourself to Recovery," which is aimed at exactly this problem.

To minimize trouble following surgery, exercise to keep the tissue and muscles limber. I suggest you get the booklet, but briefly, here are some of the exercises.

WHAT TO DO

Hair brushing — support your elbows on some books, increasing the height gradually. And the brushing is good for the hair!

"Wall climbing": Place hands against the wall and keep your hands gradually climbing higher. (Physically the motion is equivalent to hanging clothes or washing windows).

Rope turning: Tie a clothes line to a doorknob and rotate it in gradually expanding circles.

Pulley movement: Hang a rope over a shower rod or something, pulling first one end down, then the other. (Equivalent to drying your back, adjusting window shades, etc.)

Elbow pull: Put hands behind neck. Draw elbows together, then outward. (Like fastening necklace, fixing hair).

Bend forward to waist, go through motions of handling a canoe paddle, first on left, then on right. Or go through a similar motion of sweeping with a broom.

Some of these may sound difficult to impossible to a patient just out of the hospital, but by starting gradually and increasing gradually, strengeh increases and disability decreases. It goes without saying, I presume, that you'll get your doctor's approval on when to start.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What do you mean by 'dry gangrene'? Is it very dangerous? And any cure? I notice that between my friend's toes there is a blue color. —B.J.P."

You're letting your imagination run away with you. Gangrene means the flesh has actually died. Sometimes it is moist, sometimes dry But either way it will be perfectly obvious that something is wrong. A bluish cast to the skin may mean circulation, but don't go frightening yourself or your friend.

"Dear Dr. Molner: One of my adult daughters has athlete's foot. How can the rest of the family avoid infection? Should we use the same bathtub? How can the tub be cleaned?— Mrs. E.W."

If the tub is rinsed with a common chlorine bleach, or with a detergent, it will be adequate protection for others. Likewise if the tub dries between baths that in itself will be very effective, since the athlete's foot fungus thrives on moisture and abhors dryness.

Attention all women! For my new pamphlet, "The Pre-Menstrual Blues," write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling. This pamphlet may help you!

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Mere Males Fighting Back

Lethbridge Herald

We've just come across a story about a chap called Marcel Lalliberte who is the lone (or, more accurately, only) male member of a home economics course at the University of Montreal. And the other day there was that picture of a man who is training as a nurse at St. Catharines, Ont. —along with 33 girls.

Our sense of gallantry being stronger than our diabolical urge to lie low and let things take their course, we issue a warning to ladies. It looks as if the worm is turning.

It's not so very long ago that women in their ones and twos began popping up in the professions and in occupations which had hitherto been male preserves. And once beachheads had been established, they flocked into such jobs in throngs.

Now a counterattack has begun. Nursing and home economics are surely the strongholds of the female sex. But infiltration is under way. If the current fashion in female apparel holds firm you soon won't be able to tell a woman from a man in an overcoat without a program.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DIGNITY

There is nothing finer in a man or woman than a fine dignity — a dignity that carries with it respect. Nobleness of mind and a certain positiveness of strength without any suggestion of snobbery.

True dignity is belief and not illusion.

You can put dignity to work in almost every phase of your personal character and life. There is a dignity in self-control that makes it unnecessary to say a word. There is a dignity that can be put into every word you speak that will make your words demand respect and recognition.

Keep your dignity and your head and no man can long hold out against you. Put dignity into your personal bearing. It will count for you everywhere you go. Dignity walks hand in hand with respect and respect frees and calms the mind. After all, dignity is but the expression of your mental attitude toward things.

Incorporate dignity into your work and your daily life. There is nothing more worthy of dignity than work. The humblest job can be made dignified and the humblest man or woman can dignify the job and in turn be dignified by it. Everything worth while is worthy of dignity.

"Many a lovely party have I attended in that grey stone house. I remember particularly the beautifuld broad stairway," recalls one lady, referring to this beautiful stone house located in Roblin Mills, Ameliasburg township, in Prince Edward County. Though familiarly called The Roblin House, after its original owner, Owen Roblin, it is now a summer camp for young Canadians under the care of the Salvation Army.

THE ROBLIN GREY-STONE HOUSE

Article 6

The sound of someone chopping wood for the coming winter came from a nearby woodlot. Otherwise a pastoral peace lay over the village of Roblin Mills. Perhaps the crimson-splashed, though quiet, Autumn afternoon added to a keener sensation of how early Canadian history had washed over this water-color setting in Ameliasburg, amid spacious, harvested fields, to produce this lovely grey-stone house locally known as The Roblin House. For, by way of contrast, its very structure is indirectly due to one other afternoon, long ago and far away; a portrait of a turbulent scene in New Jersey, during the days of the American Revolution.

Then it was that John Roblin (who was the first of the Roblins to come to Canda) had "tried to remain a non-participant in the war." But one afternoon as he sat on the porch of his home, "a party of Continental scouts came by, and, without any provocation or previous warning of any kind, fired fourteen shots at the house. Having ransacked the premises, they demanded that they be told where the money was concealed; and in order to make them divulge the hiding place, John Roblin, although already wounded in the knee, was stripped nearly naked; and his brother Stephen, was hung by his thumbs. The party being balked in their search, became grossly offensive; one man pointed his musket at John's wife, and dared her to call George the Third of England, her King. She did dare but just as the fellow was about to fire, a comrade with a finer sense of decency knocked the musket aside."

John Roblin, it is said, was made a prisoner, and later placed in a rebel hospital "where his treatment was so neglected that he became a life long cripple" Elizabeth, his wife went straight to General Washington and told him about the treatment they had undergone, and the family was never disturbed again. But among the families who came to Canada in the Major Van Alstine party and landed at Adolphustown the sixteenth of June in 1784—were the Roblins, parents of nine children—five daughters and four sons.

HAD SERVED AS LOYALIST

One of the sons, named Philip, who served as a loyalist, and "owing to the liberal policy of the Government in granting two hundred acres of land to each United Empire Loyalist" located his land at Green Point on the High Shore. "In addition to clearing the forest, he managed to build and work a grist mill, which proved not only a success to the enterprising miller, but a boon to the settlers for miles around, saving them their long and toilsome trips to Kingston and later to Napanee."

Philip married and raised a family of nine children. One of the sons, named Owen, decided to move to Ameliasburg (after receiving his education under Jonathan Greely), where he "took up four hundred acres in the third concession, and kept a general store and ashery, doing a large and profitable business in sending lye to Montreal." Ten years later, in 1838, he traded lots with a John B. Way where "Ameliasburg Roblin Mills and homestead now stand. The village of Roblin Mills or Ameliasburg, as it is officially known was first called Way's Mills, and was situated in the bend of the horseshoe below the hill on which the present village stands."

Owen Roblin was to become the best known and most progressive man of his county. "On taking possession of the Way property, (he) commenced to improve the water power; his first act was to excavate a canal from the lake. The extent of this work may be estimated from the fact that the blasting powder alone cost the equivalent of one thousand dollars. Besides farming five hundred acres and attending to his many trading schemes and flouring mills, this busy man ran saw and carding mills. From his flour mills he shipped immense quantities of wheat and rye flour to Montreal; and during the Crimean War he exported day and night."

Mr. Roblin served for many years as a county councillor and reeve of his township and was also a justice of the peace and commissioner for taking affidavits. Back in 1843 he took over the post office and upon his death in 1903 he was said to be the oldest postmaster in Canada, having reached the great age of 97 years.

EARLY DAYS RECALLED

"We remember Mr. Roblin as a very old man when we were children, and of course, my father knew him well," says a daughter of the celebrated Dr File of Ameliasburg, who resides in a red-brick, two-storey, three gabled house built by her parents on the very rim of the hill that overlooks the valley below.

"My father had partly made up his mind to set up a practice in Lonsdale, upon his graduation as one of the first medical graduates from Queen's. He changed his mind, however, after a visit with a college friend living in Ameliasburg, for he fell in love with the village and brought my mother (who by the way was born at sea) to this house, where they raised a large family of children, eleven in all.

"In those days, boats from Kingston and other places used to come up the Bay of Quinte and stop at Rednersville and father would drive down to get the drugs he had sent for. He always made up his own pills and medicines in a little dispensary which was at the end of the house here, but which we have since taken down. Many a time my mother used to hang up the lantern at the end of the stable, so that father could see the light as he came along the road during a late night call. Ah—yes, father knew Mr. Roblin well . . . and many a lovely party have I attened in that grey-stone house. I remember particularly, the beautiful broad stairway," recalled the lady who knows Ameliasburg well.

And so glimpses and impressions are given of the days of a pioneer of the first order, who during his life-span of nearly a full century, not only witnessed, but helped create the tremendous transition from an uncivilized to a civilized state. "A man's ability to be a pioneer of progress," says Albert Sweitzer, "depends . . . on his being a thinker and on his being free. Civilization presupposes free men . . . The more completely his activities are taken up in any way by the struggle for existence, the more strongly will the impulse to improve his own condition find expression in the ideals of this thought . . . for material and spiritual freedom are closely bound up with one another."

Freedom, it is often repeated, does not come as a gift. Neither do grey-stone houses, such as this one, rooted, as it is in freedom, and which evokes in us a lasting, enriching experience; a possession and heritage that is priceless and belongs to each and every Canadian. But it is also a responsibility. For as our modern society must need overflow and obliterate the past and so deter our human need for preserving contact with historical areas that are rapidly diminishing, "the battle to keep the best of the remaining ones intact grows more intense."

Fortune has smiled on the Roblin house, in this matter, however, for this property is not only being preserved, but is functioning as a direct benefit to the body and spirit of an increasing number of young Canadians, as a summer camp. This came about in a regular storybook manner, through the generosity of one man and the combined interest of a group of men, namely the Belleville Kiwanis Club and whose president, (at time of writing), Mr. A. O. Drysdale, kindly explains:

"The camp site, including the stone residence, a small barn and eighteen acres of land in the village of Ameliasburg on Roblin Lake, was donated to the Belleville Kiwanis Club in 1944 by Kiwanian George Wallbridge.

"To convert the property into suitable quarters and to provide the necessary equipment, the club invested $19,989.20. The camp was opened in June 1945 and continued to operate during the summers of 1945, 1946, 1947 and 1948. The cost of operation during these years was as follows:

1945 — $1,666.38; 1946 — $2,519.16; 1947 — $3,207.54; 1948—$2,828.63 — Total: $10,221.71.

"After a study of the operation of the camp by the Kiwanis Club, it was decided to turn over the operation of the camp to the Salvation Army for the summer of 1949 to be used for the children.

"This was arranged, and the Kiwanis Club paid $500 towards the operating cost. This was renewed again in 1950 and in addition to the $500 grant, further costs for insurance and minor repairs amounted to another $500 for 1949 and 1950.

"During 1950, the directors of the Kiwanis Club appointed a committee to investigate the possibility of selling the camp, as it became increasingly apparent that the Kiwanis Club could not again finance the camp operation.

AGREED TO SALE

"Mr. Wallbridge was consulted as to his attitude towards the disposition of the property and he was agreeable providing the camp would be used for the benefit of the children.

"The Salvation Army agreed to purchase the camp for $10,000 on the understanding that a similar type of work would be carried on. A down payment of $1,000 was made and an agreement to pay $1,000 a year for the following nine years, interest free, was arranged.

"In 1956, the Salvation Army paid off the balance of $4,000 and the title deeds for the property were transferred to them.

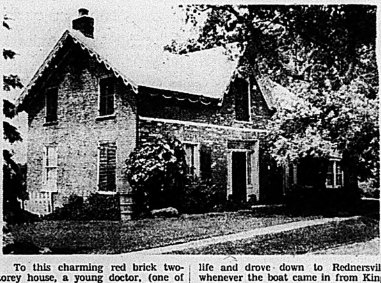
"During the last few years, a considerable amount of work has been carried on at the camp site, and we have been given to understand that the major operation of the cost of expansion has been borne jointly by Harvey J. McFarland of Picton and Senator W. A. Fraser of Trenton.

"After the Salvation Army received the deeds for the property, they held an official opening ceremony on Saturday, July 21st, 1956. The chief secretary of the Salvation Army, Col. William Davidson, presided at this ceremony and the speakers were the Honorable Senator W. A. Fraser, His Worship Harvey J. McFarland and myself, as President of the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

"The Belleville Kiwanis Club is very proud to have played such a large part in the establishment of this camp, and the members are most happy with the way in which the Salvation Army have operated the camp. It is a credit to the Salvation Army and has undoubtedly enriched the lives of many children."

The capacity for freedom persists. Though the Past disappears into the darkness of Time, it leaves tokens such as the Roblin grey-stone house, like a slipper of Cinderella's on a history steppingstone of how we come by the civilization we live by, today. "The vision remains," says Fairfield Osborn, "for it is beyond the mind of man to measure the essences that are the heritage of every Canadian."

Next the Abbott house on Highway 2, west of Trenton, and now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay Park will be discussed by the author.



To this charming red brick two-storey house, a young doctor, (one of the first graduates from Queen's medical class) brought his bride. His name was File. Here he raised a family of eleven, practised medicine all his long life and drove down to Rednersville whenever the boat came in from Kingston for medical supplies. A daughter and son continue to live in this family home. Ameliasburg honors the memory of Dr. File.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

An Annuity Purchased Now May Be Gold-Plated Pass to Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

An annuity, back in the 30's, was the gold-plated pass to retirement. If you had one you not only had it made financially, you were the aristocracy of the old folks.

What about now? If you can sell your house, or call up a few thousand dollars from somewhere else, does an annuity have anything to offer to your Golden Years?

In my mail a good many people have been asking.

Here are the facts on annuities, as supplied by one of the well-informed annuity men of the country, Roland D. Hinkle, past president of the American Society of chartered Life Underwriters. The society is composed of many of the top life insurance men in the U.S. It is from insurance companies, as a rule, that you buy annuities.

If you are a man, age 65, and you have $20,000, you can buy an annuity that will pay you $104 a month until you die. The insurance company will guarantee to make these payments for 16 years, whether you live or die. Which means the $20,000 will come back, though not necessarily with interest, if you die in five years.

(Hinkle explains that these figures, and others that follow, are composite. Some companies will pay a little more, some a little less. Canadian insurance firms as a rule pay more than U.S. firms.)

If you are a woman, age 63, and you have $20,000, you can buy an annuity that will pay you $91 a month until you die. The company will guarantee to make these payments for 18 years.

These are known as installment refund annuities. There also are life annuities. Under these there is no refund in case you die before the $20,000 is used up. A man, age 65, with $20,00, would get $125 a month until death. A woman, 63, with $20,000, would get $102 until death. (A woman's payments are lower because she lives longer than a man.)

A man 65, who has a wife 63, can buy a joint and survivor annuity for $20,000 and get $92 a month. The one who lives the longer will continue to get the $92 until death. A guarantee plan is available on this annuity, providing the $20,000 will be returned in time to your heirs The guarantee would slightly reduce the $92 a month.

Their are many variations in annuities, depending on which company you deal with. The figures and provisions given here are just a few basic plans, according to Hinkle. Also, you may not have $20,000. Cut the figures in half for $10,000, or double them for $40,000, and you'd hit your situation about right.

Now for some of the pros and cons of annuities, as supplied by people who have tried them in retirement:

The cons —

— An annuity is a gamble with death. If you live to 100 you make a killing. If you die five years after buying it you quite obviously don't.

— If inflation reigns, as it has the last several years, you will tighten your belt. The annuity agrees to pay you so many dollars. If the dollars drop in value to 15 cents, so many dollars are still all you'll get. On the other hand, you would profit in like measure from deflation.

— Some people at 65 can make considerably more money on $20,000 than an annuity pays — unless they live beyond their time. In stocks, at 5 per cent, for instance, you can get $83 a month and keep the $20,000 under your own control.

The pros —

— With an annuity you just don't have to bother any more. You can go fishing and forget the whole thing — your check will come regardless. Trying to invest $200 can be a constant, troublesome and dangerous problem. Also you can wake up some morning and find your $20,000 worth only $14,000 . . . or no dividend in your mail box this month.

*An annuity with a reputable insurance firm is probably as safe, next to savings bonds, as any place to put your money.

* You get tax benefits on an annuity you would not get on most other types of investments.

Here Are a Few Travel Tips If You Plan to Visit Russia

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Probably you're not planning to vacation there any more than we are, but it may intrigue you, as it did us, to hear what travel conditions are like in Russia.

Our information comes from one recently returned from there, Dr. Raymond H. Ewell, vice chancellor for research of the University of Buffalo, whom we ran into in a plane on the last leg of his trip from New York to Buffalo.

Dr. Ewell had been working as an aide to the government of India when he got the idea of returning home cross-continent through darkest Russia. Not only did it turn out to be feasible that way, but it turned out to be cheaper. The distance to western Europe across the Soviet Union was less than the roundabout routes through the Middle East and the cents-per-mile rate varied little from other air and rail fares.

The educator was able to obtain a rare unlimited visa, permitting unrestricted travel rather than the planned trips of Intourist, the Soviet travel agency, to which most tourists are restricted.

INTOURIST GOOD BUY

But Dr. Ewell found Intourist a good buy, too. For $15 a day his room and meals were taken care of in good hotels wherever he went. In line with these modest costs, he was able to hire a car and college student driver in Moscow for only a few dollars a day to do his sightseeing.

Many Russians travel by air and rail. Dr. Ewell found trains and planes about as crowded as their American and Canadian counterparts, with the passengers the same kind of fellow travellers we encounter here — businessmen, military personnel on leave, townspeople and farmers going to visit relatives in other cities.

Most airline travel is on an Ilyushin twin-engined plane which Dr. Ewell described as almost identical to the American Convair. A few long-haul flights are on four-engined craft similar to our DC-6, but the educator saw no evidence of the much-discussed four-jet transport ballyhooed by the Soviets recently.

Many of the planes had no seat belts, most had no stewardesses, and only tea was served. Though the Russian airline, Aeroflot, is less sophisticated about flying in bad weather than other world airlines, Dr. Ewell noted the Russian pilots seemed competent and confident — perhaps a little too much so.

"They'd hop in the plane at the last minute, zoom right off at once, and climb and land at much steeper angles than most pilots."

Train travel is a gala affair in the USSR. The trains are crowded and though sandwiches and drinks are sold in what pass for diners, nearly everyone carries and enjoys his own huge loaf of bread, whole salami or sausage, and bottle of vodka and brandy.

VODKA EVERYWHERE

The vodka bottle is about as ubiquitous as we've heard and the Russian citizens, whom Dr. Ewell found dynamic and exuberant in contrast with the phlegmatic picture of them we have here, were eager to crack a bottle with the American wherever he went. One Army colonel he shared a train compartment with got pleasantly plastered drinking toasts to friendship and peace while passing around pictures of his wife and children.

Most train travel is in coaches, but there are first class cars. Each type is cheaper but less comfortable than its American counterpart.

The first class cars are divided into compartments accommodating four. These are sleepers and are assigned without regard to sex which, presumably, is officially ignored in Russia. The passenger makes up his own berth and there are no curtains. Most crew members and conductors are women too — possibly even the engineers, though Dr. Ewell saw none.

There is little auto travel in the Soviet Union and most of the better cars belong to government officials. On the highways around Moscow there was little traffic and nothing to see but farms. There were no gas stations — "I don't know what one would do for gas if he did make a trip" — and nothing resembling our motels.

Hotels in the cities were quite comfortable and the plumbing as good as Europe's best, though not meeting American standards.

Restaurant food is good, plentiful and heavy. Favorite dishes are thick stews and beef Stroganoff, which, oddly enough, the Russians disclaim as a native dish. They say it's French, probably making it the only thing the Soviets don't claim to have invented.

Jubilee E.A. Enjoys 'Visit To Japan'

The March meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary was held in the S.S. auditorium of Bridge Street United Church, with a good attendance enjoying the delicious supper served by Mrs. Wotten, Mrs. Woodley and their group.

The meeting opened with the singing of "Jesus Shall Reign". Miss Kenny welcomed all members and visitors. Each member was asked to assist with the visiting in her community and also help to increase the membership. Miss Kenny reminded the members that there were missionary books available.

Mrs. Colden, Christian stewardship secretary gave an interesting message entitled "Revolutionize and Revolution".

Mrs. Grace Anderson read a letter from Miss Millicent House of Angola, - missionary whom the auxiliary had the pleasure to entertain.

Mrs. Morden, Christian citizenship (formerly temperance) secretary told how one could serve others by wholehearted co-operation of all four tasks, temperance - education, social welfare, racial brotherhood and world peace.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Gillis and her group. Mrs. Marion Davenport read the Scripture from Philippians 1:1-8.

Mrs. Gillis, Mrs. Grace Anderson, Miss Daisy Young and Mrs. Rhnette Demeza took all on a "Visit to Japan".

Mrs. Anderson told of her jeep ride with "Bill" and their many interesting experiences. Miss Young visited the Apple Orchards in the north and Mrs. Demeza attended the "Festival of Lanterns" on her visit to Nagasaki, all were greatly encouraged as to the future of Japan as a Christian nation. This short visit to Japan was informative and greatly enjoyed by all present.

Miss Kenny thanked all who helped make this meeting a success, and gave the final closing prayer.

This --- and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It is always a happy column to write when T and T is privileged to draw your attention to an outstanding achievement of one of our own Bay of Quinte folk. We hope too that we are understood when we say that there seems to be a particular joy and promise if our youth are involved. Maybe it is because we are in the midst of a federal election that the destiny of Canada is on our minds and the direction our country's destiny takes depends in great measure on our young people.

The friends and acquaintances of Miss Marlene Brant of Shannonville have been delighted this week to learn that she has been awarded a professional fellowship from the Canadian Federation of University Women. This is a great honor to Marlene Brant; those who know here attainments and capabilities know that it is a deserved honor.

When Marlene attended BCIVS she was considered an outstanding student in her class. With a career in English in view, she went to Queen's University. While at Queen's she became interested in the humanitarian work of social service and subsequently her thoughts and purpose in life changed course. Upon graduation from Queen's in 1955, she took a course at the graduate School of Social work which is connected with the University of Toronto. When her course was completed she came to Belleville, or possibly we should say, returned to Belleville, where she has served as a popular member of the Children's Aid Society here. Besides her regular duties, Marlene has contributed a great deal to public relations work for the C. A. S. by writing radio scripts and by public speaking.

Now, through the medium of her fellowship, new horizons open up. Advanced study will permit Marlene to secure her M.A. We wish you well, Marlene Brant, and the Quinte community is proud of its young people of whom you and Kay Homan are splendid examples. With your warm, sympathetic personality you have a fine contribution to offer in your chosen profession.

Good luck!

Monday next is election day. The popular slogan is "Vote as you like but vote." It is unfortunately not a transient tragedy in the history of man that he has persistetly throughout his long story been allergic to that incipient disease known as apathy, or taking the best things in life for granted. It is quite true to claim that there is nothing trite in the declaration that what is free or there for the taking has no concern for us; although it is just as true and certainly not trite to remind ourselves that our forefathers died for the privileges we take for granted and ignore. Not to succumb to this ancient allergy could be our greatest challenge, greater even than Mr. Khrushchev and Sputnik; so our thought for the weekend comes from a quotation we have used previously:

> "They have such refined and > delicate palates
> That they can discover no one > worthy of their ballots,
> And then when someone terrible > gets elected
> They say: There, that's just > what I expected." — Ogden Nash.

Beware, Canada; of an ancient allergy.

We are sitting here looking out a window with our fingers itching to talk through them about the weather. Spring, glorious spring, etc. and etc.; how we could ramble on. For instance, from here it looks as though someone had laid a huge murky mirror down between us and some far-away hills. Of course it is simply the Bay, our famous Bay of Quinte. Overhead the clouds are ganging up on the sunlight, which no doubt makes the bay from this distance look a dirty gray glare. There are times like this when the mental vacuum is crowded out by words, words and more words. Then we often enquire of our rambling thoughts if there is any chance that someone at some time has not expressed in words every thought that has come to man. For instance it has been said that everything man needs to know can be found within the pages of the Holy Bible. We have an old Bible which says in its preface that a student of the Bible and Shakespeare can learn all that needs to be learned. And so with this avalanche of words, words, just words, we say so long until next Wednesday.

Harmony Studio Club Presents Most Successful 'Boys' Night'

On Wednesday evening the Harmony Studio Club was held at the home of Mrs. Emily Velcy, R.M.T.

After welcoming a large number of pupils and parents, with the fathers being well represented, Mrs. Veley turned the meeting over to Mr. Dave McDonald.

The program took the form of "Boys' Night", with the entire class of boys participating in a fine selection of the following musical numbers:

Brian Barlow, "Postman," "Rain, Rain on the Roof"; Stewart Smith, "Big Ships," "The Juggler"; George Pugh, "The Birch Canoe"; Bobby Woods, "Flute Song"; Graydn Flindall, "The Bee"; Richard Downes, "Baseball Days"; Steve Downes, "Steamboat"; Francis Harnden, "Study No. 1 by Kohler; Garfield Smith, "Capriccio" by F. J. Haydn; Jimmy Noakes, "Bourree" by J. S. Bach; Stephen Ling, "Merry Go Round" by B. Berlin; David McDonald, "German Dance" by Beethoven.

Laurie Rowbotham, "Gavotte" by Bach, "Sonatina" by Beethoven; Ross Huntley, "Three Blind Mice" by C. W. Lemont; Edward Purdy, "Minuet" by G. H. Stolzel; John Oliver, "Sonatina" by L. Kohler; Grant Hancock, "Sonatina" by Beethoven; Stephen Flindall, "Minuet" by J. S. Bach; Roger Ling, "Study No. 14" by S. Heller, "Sonata in G Major," by Beethoven; Wayne Vance, "Sonata" by Hadyn, "Ecossaise" by Beethoven, "Study No. 25" by Czerny.

A duet was also played by Mrs. E. Veley and Wayne Vance, "Witch's Flight" by H. M. Russell.

Before the boys presented their selections the following girls played pieces which they are preparing for examinations:

Eileen Hancock, "Waltz in G Flat" by Chopin; Linda Lennox, "Sonatina" by M. Clementi, "Study No. 2" by S. Heller; Irma Embury, "Octave Study by Czerny, "Waltz Op. 64, No. 2" by Chopin; Sharon McDonald, "Alla Farentella" by E. MacDowell; Lois Bailey, "German Dance No. 1" by Beethoven.

During the course of the evening, Mr. McDonald, the chairman, spoke briefly to the boys. He emphasized the lasting benefits of music in a boy's life, and told the boys to continue their good work, remembering that their music would prove to be profitable and enjoyable to them as they grew older.

Refreshments brought a most enjoyable musical evening to a close.

Collegiate Night School Art Displayed at McCarthy Theatre

An interesting and most attractive display of amateur art by the Collegiate night class art students, under the supervision of Miss Mary Moult, is now on exhibition in the lounge of the McCarthy Theatre, and will be for some weeks to come.

Among the 40 odd shown, as well as several by Miss Moult, are studies in still life, seascapes, autumn and winter scenes, and portraiture, all of which demonstrate appreciation of color, line and composition, with a fine aptitude for detail.

The still life pictures were mostly in oils depicting various arrangements of jugs, background drapes, and fruits, each portraying the student's individual choice. Two of these which were outstanding, one in colors, and the other in black and white, done by "P.M." were a delight to the eyes in the exquisite drawing, coloring and composition.

NATURE SCENES

The scenes from nature included a "Waterfall", showing a white sheet of water backed by soft, white clouds and evergreen trees; a clearcut and strong piece of work. A "Woodland Pool" was a study in the use of greens, depicting still waters beneath an arch of graceful, gleaming boles. "Autumn Breezes", showed appreciation of Nature's gusty moods by the windblown pines. The rich foreground of color was nicely done.

Another charming autumn scene showed reddening maples, touched with scarlet and gold, and distant hills of blended, autumn tints reflected in the still waters. An "Avenue of Beauty" depicted a long, straight road bordered by glowing maples, with here and there a glimpse of evergreens, stretching into the diminishing distance. A nice bit of perspective, and rich in color.

Among the sea scapes were two showing white capped breakers on rugged rocks along the shore-line, and the other with lowering skies, and thunderous waves roaring their fury against the immovable rock-bound coast. This was full of movement, reminding one of Tennyson's "Break, Break, Break, on thy cold, grey stones, O sea."

NOSTALGIC MEMORIES

One which brought nostalgic memories was of a sugar bush; the gathering of the sap by stoneboat, and the sugar house. Most realistic with its snowy foreground and dark hills in the background.

A picture which might be designated as "Shadows" portrayed a black-cloaked figure about to ascend steep, grey stairs. The afternoon sun cast her silhouette shadow, and the stooped position of the figure denoted the going down of life's sun.

A portrait study of "Mellowing Age" was of the head and shoulders of a woman in later life, with greying hair, and softening of the features. This was aptly executed with feeling and care of detail.

Another colorful scene was of winter with majestic, naked beech trees beside a winding stream meandering through snowy banks; while another showed day's awakening with the light slanting across the sea, toward the rocky shore.

A foreign scene was of white capped distant mountains, and in the foreground the oldtime oxen team and the white-garbed farmer reminding of South Africa.

MEXICAN SCENES

There were wo or three Mexican scenes, colorful and realistic, showing the fruit merchant among piled up baskets and vegetables. Also a cluster of the Sunflower blooms in a white vase on a brown table beside an open book, needed but the bumble bee to add to its realism. A mountain stream coursing down the rocky hillside showed strength of drawing, and appreciation of nature.

Miss Moult had several pctures on view also: one of "The Hyacinths" fronting a large jug in creamy-grey. A lovely bit of color, so natural one could almost scent the fragrance from the dainty, bell-like flowerets in their white, mauvy-pink and blue tints. Another was a still life composition in theme similar to the hyacinths, but with a flowering sunset geranium, a luscious, red apple, and bordered tea towel in blue, and reds; while still another was an autumn scene showing distant carmine hills, a patch of white-capped water, fronted by a palisade of leafless trees, and a pile of red-tinted logs.

ARCHITECTURE

Architecture was not overlooked as one picture showed a narrow street with aged buildings and a tiny dark figure betokening bygone days.

WINTER IDYLL

In the alcove some new paintings were most refreshing; "A Winter Idyll" by C. R. Bone, of Toronto, depicted an emerald green patch of water between snowy banks backed by pines in brownish greens, an azure sky, and fronted by stark, leafless trees. Another by the same artist was a lovely autumn scene of gleaming trunks laced with red and crimson branches which fronted a strip of greenish-blue water, backed by light yellow blends of gold and brown.

In a different tone was that of the shoppers in an arcade gazing intently at the merchandise displayed in the windows; while a tiny scene of Belleville's churches on the hill with their pointing spires, added a homey touch.

THE TRILLIUMS

Two others which drew the attention time and time again were "The Trilliums," an exquisite breath of spring denoting a winding, woodland road bordered by greening, lacey maples, with a carpet of white trilliums and the other glowed like a galaxy of gems with its gleaming white snow, broken by a solitary cutter track which disappeared between emerald pines, clusters of garnet red branches; topaz poplars, and amythest cedars, and distant aquamarine hills, snow-sheathed.

A worthwhile exhibit bringing acclaim to the art students as well as to the professionals.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE E. POWELL

RIDE ON! RIDE ON IN MAJESTY

Ride on! ride on in majesty!
Hark! all the tribes hosanna cry!
O Saviour meek, pursue Thy road
With palms and scattered garments strewed.

Ride on! ride on in majesty!
The angel armies of the sky
Look down with sad and wondring eyes
To see the approaching Sacrifice.

Ride on! ride on in majesty!
The last and fiercest strife is nigh;
The Father on His sapphire throne
Awaits His own anointed Son.

Ride on! ride on in majesty!
In lowly pomp ride on to die!
Bow Thy meek head to mortal pain,
Then take, O God, Thy pow'r and reign.

This is the great Palm Sunday hymn of Christendom. Its song message echoes the Bible story of Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem on that first Palm Sunday, nearly 2,000 years ago, and His welcome by the fickle throngs which less than a week later were to call for His death.

Some of the people, according to the story, spread their garments in the road that Jesus travelled as He entered the city Others cut palm branches and strewed then in His way. It was from these palm branches, incidentally, that Palm Sunday took its name.

As the Saviour passed along, many in the crowds that lined the street surged from the sidelines and ran ahead of Him. Others followed behind. All of them shouted over and over: "Hosanna, blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord".

The hymn as it appears here was written early in the nineteenth century by the Rev. Henry Hart Milman, distinguished English clergyman and church historian. It was one of 13 song-poems which he wrote during a busy lifetime of Christian service and, so far as is known, it was published for the first time in 1827 in a volume of hymns compiled by Bishop Reginald Heber who wrote some famous songs of his own, including the gems "From Greenland's Icy Mountains" and "The Son Of God Goes Forth To War".

Dr. Milman was born in London in 1791, was educated at Eton and Oxford and entered the ministry in 1816. From 1821 to 1831 he served on the faculty at Oxford and in 1849 he became dean of St. Paul's Cathedral. He was known as a man of letters as well as a theologian and, in addition to his hymns, he did much other writing. His historical works included a "History of The Jews" and a "History of Christianity".

A Lift for Living

The Nation Under God's Rule

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

On this Palm Sunday weekend which commemorates the entry of Our Lord into His capital city of Jerusalem, I wish to think with you about the rule of Christ in free countries like the United States and Canada.

Centuries ago the Psalmist said: "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord." When he said that, the great Hebrew singer was thinking of his own people. But we are the heirs of Israel's God. It is the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob as well as the God of Jesus whom we have in mind when we sing "Our Fathers' God to thee, Author of liberty."

Hence we are justified in taking the Psalmist's words to our own hearts and in saying as Americans and Canadians, "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."

But what are the blessings a nation derives from her belief in God — the God who is the Lord as portrayed in our Bible?

First of all, such belief in God gives the blessing of a solid foundation on which to build. A nation, like an individual, if it is to be strong, must settle the seat of sovereignty. There must be some voice which has the last word.

And what is the sovereign authority in our land? It is not our President. It is not our Congress. It is not our Supreme Court.

Our President is the commander-in-chief of our armed forces and in time of war is granted almost dictatorial powers. He salutes no uniformed officer, no foreign ruler. But there is one thing which the President of the United States does salute. That is the American flag, because the flag stands as the symbol of the sovereign will of the people. When the citizens of our nation express their will through a majority vote, such vote is called the sovereign voice of the people.

DIVINE AUTHORITY

Yet when this sovereign people inaugurates a new president, it requires him to take an oath or affirmation, symbolizing that he holds his powers under the dominion of a Divine Authority. And when our Congress convenes to represent our people in making laws, its sessions are opened with prayer invoking the wisdom and counsel of a divine lawmaker.

And similarly in the Coronation of the British Queen, the presence and participation of the high church officials give proof our "mother country" is a nation under God.

I wonder if we quite realize what it would be like to live in a land whose rulers look to no power higher than themselves. Think how uncertain and fearful we should feel if we lived in Russia and did not know what law the Kremlin would make for tomorrow. It would be intolerable to be subject to dictators from whose edicts there was no appeal to a higher moral law.

Consider the Pilgrim Fathers. When the little Mayflower lay off Plymouth Rock after its hazardous voyage, the Pilgrims drew up the Mayflower Compact declaring that the trip had been undertaken "for the glory of God, the advancement of the Christian faith and the honor of King and country." Suppose instead of such a fundamental religious faith, the Pilgrims had merely held the belief in a superior race destined to rule by force. With such a creed they might have driven out the Indians but they could not have created the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The prophets of Israel and the principles of Christ have given this western continent its fundamental ideas of right and wrong. During World War II Eve Curie interviewed the first batch of German prisoners captured by the Russians. She asked them if they thought Hitler was right when he invaded Poland. They promptly said, "Yes." Then she asked if they thought he was right when he broke into Belgium. Again they said, "Yes." Then she asked, "Do you think your Fuehrer was right when he invaded Russia?"

Being prisoners of Russians they hesitated and said they guessed he was wrong that time. From that interview, Eve Curie concluded that in the Nazi philosophy anything which seemed to succeed was deemed right and anything that appeared to fail was considered wrong.

In a nation "whose God is the Lord" we have a different standard. We consider some things wrong even though they seem to succeed and some things right even though they are unpopular and may seem at the moment to fail.

Also, we have a higher standard of rights as well as of right. Individual life has more dignity and worth along the Mississippi and the St. Lawrence than along the Volga and the Yangtze. Here we are all regarded as children of God, endowed with the inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Let us dedicate ourselves to the task of helping the faith of our fathers fulfill the dreams of our children.

POSITION OF GROOM'S MOTHER IN RECEIVING-LINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The bridegroom's mother is a widow. What should be her position in the receiving-line? — N.N.

First in the line is the bride's mother, hostess of the wedding. Next to her would be the bridegroom's mother.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Raymond F. — She says she's my fiancee.

Flora M. — I have the ring.

Raymond F. — Boy, am I in hot water! I just don't see my way out of this one.

I was going with a girl back home and we were romancing around. She talked about marriage, but I never really asked her. Well, finally I got into the Army — and was I glad! I figured that once I got away this girl would find someone else.

Well, she kept sending me letters telling me how much she loved me and all that sort of thing and I never answered them. Finally, she came down here to stay near the base where I am stationed. She introduced herself as my fiancee. I didn't have a chance to say anything. Whenever I get time off, she's right there, waiting for me. She keeps talking about our coming marriage and I just don't see myself getting married yet.

Flora E. — Raymond sure has one big fat case of amnesia. He certainly did ask me to marry him — not just once either, but dozens of times! My parents even objected to his hanging around so much and taking up so much of my time.

The trouble must be that he always had a few too many beers when he asked me to marry him. He also had a few too many when he gave me a ring — not an expensive one, it's true, but he said it was the best he could afford and it would have to do for the time being.

My parents were against my running after Raymond, but I feel sure that he is the one for me. At times he has admitted that he would really like to marry me, but gets cold feet when he thinks about it. I'm sure we could be happy together if he would just get over those silly fears.

The Council: Well, somebody sure has the wires twisted!

We suspect, however, that there is a good deal of truth in both statements. Raymond likes Flora and thinks of marriage when beer helps him get over some of his fears. Then he forgets what he has said and is amazed at the long, loving letters that reach him.

We take a rather dim view of the prospects of a marriage in which a girl has to take the initiative to such an extent, but if she is determined, we suggest that Flora encourage Raymond to talk over the problem with his chaplain and the doctor on his base.

In the future, we'd advise Flora to ignore proposals and ring presentations made under the influence of liquor.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: Your daily column does so much to keep "us housewives" up on our toes and right up-to-date, and my personal thanks for your style of writing —it's perfect. You have helped to create an interest in cooking for me . . it's so much fun to have people in and serve interesting food. I am wondering if you would possibly have a cake recipe of this description: On the bottom of the cake is a layer of dates, covered by an orange cake. The cake is iced with a thin dull glaze which is soft when broken with a fork. I have no idea what it is called. —Grayce H. B.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY

Sweet and Sour Spareribs; Baked Potatoes in Jackets; Generous Tossed Salad of Head Lettuce, Tomato Cucumbers; Canned Loganberries; Rosebuds (see Friday); Coffee.

Answer: Thank you for a letter that will keep me on my toes. I think you are referring to a variation of

ORANGE KISS ME CAKE

(If this is not exactly right it is still a delicious and popular cake. The variation you tasted may have been changed by the cook.) Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening or butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 large orange (reserve the juice for the topping; grind rind and pulp with dates), 1 cup dates or raisins ground, 1 cup milk.

Topping: ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon (or less), ¼ cup finely chopped pecans or walnuts. Sift together flour, soda and salt. Cream shortening and sugar until very light, beat in unbeaten eggs, one at a time. Add ground orange and dates. Fold in dry ingredients alternately with the milk, blending well after each addition—slow speed if electrically mixed. Pour into greased and floured pan 13x9x2 inches. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 30 to 35 minutes. Over warm cake drip orange juice. Sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and nuts. If desired decorate with quartered orange slices. NOTE: If this is not the cake you mean some of our readers might recognize it from your description and send it in.

Question: . . . my wife and I have not taken advantage of your column in the past but wish to do so . . . soon we hope to celebrate our Golden Wedding and as it happens only once in our lifetime we wish to have a nice time for our friends . . . do not plan on anything elaborate but would appreciate if you would be kind enough to give us some information on how we should proceed.—A. B. Sr.

Answer: I am honored to be invited to help. To make the occasion memorable send out hand written invitations on vellum paper. Put RSVP at bottom so you will know how many to expect. Make the hours 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. Have yellow roses or golden yellow flowers in season, in a big vase behind your and your wife's chair. Your sons and daughters will answer the door and bring the guests to where you are seated, and to assist with coats and at table. Table may be set with yellow or white damask or lace cloth, with wedding cake at centre, with Happy Golden Wedding written in yellow icing, with 4 yellow tall taper candles on either side. Menu could be assorted colorful dainty sandwiches and cookies including petit fours, vari-colored mints, tea and/or coffee — bridesmaid or old friends to pour. Have ready-cut the bottom layer of the wedding cake so each guest receives a piece. I have mailed to you a sheaf of releases with sandwich and cake information which will help. My kindest regards and heartiest congratulations.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

The Ancient Story of Passover

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

This week is important in the calendars of both Jews and Christians. To Christians the entire week is Holy Week; to the Jews the end of the week is the beginning of their great eight-day Feast of Freedom, the Passover. It would be impossible to do justice to both in one column — so this time let's concentrate on Passover.

The immediate reason for this festival is the escape of the Jews from the land of Egypt, where they had been held in slavery for two centuries, but the story behind that slavery and that escape begins way back in the time of Abraham, which is about as far back as you can go in Jewish history In Genesis 15: 13-14, God tells Abraham his descendants will someday have a land of their own, but that day is 400 years off and in the meantime they will be strangers, living in affliction and servitude, "in a land not their's." Abraham's son Isaac was born soon after this announcement. His birthday, according to tradition, was the fifteenth day of the month of Nisan. Jewish tradition further states that it was 400 years to the day from Isaac's birth to the Nisan 15 on which the Israelites came out of Egypt.

The long and bitter sojourn in Egypt began in a seemingly harmless way. Every Sunday School pupil knows how Joseph, the favorite son of Jacob (and great-grandson of Abraham) was sold by his jealous brothers to a passing band of slave-traders (Genesis, thirty-seventh chapter) who took him to Egypt, where, through his extraordinary ability, he rose to be number two man in the country. And when a famine hit his family back home, Joseph was in a position to bring them all to Egypt and look after them.

BEGINNING OF SLAVERY

The trouble all came after Joseph and his brothers were dead. Over the next 200 years the handful of Jewish families living in Egypt grew into a section of the population numbering hundreds of thousands — practically a nation within a nation, and certainly a threat economically to the Egyptians.

One king after another took desperate measures to curb the power of this growing group. Limitations were placed on their freedom, heavy taxes were laid upon them, they were forced into hard labor — but still they flourished.

Finally, out of the tribe of Levi (descendants [illegible] one of Joseph's brothers) there arose a young man who was destined to rescue his people from their intolerable position. Young Moses and his brother Aaron went before the king and pleaded for the privilege of leaving Egypt, taking along all properties that belonged to them, such as flocks and herds. But the king, perhaps on bad advice, would not let the people go. The whole story is told in Exodus, fourth to fifteenth chapters. Every time Moses would ask and the king would refuse, some terrible plague would descend upon the Egyptians. There were ten such plagues altogether — locusts, frogs, disease, boils, etc. To get rid of the plague, the king would give in, but as soon as things cleared up he would change his mind again.

Finally there had to come the worst disaster of all, the hideous event from which this festival gets the name Passover. On the night of the fourteenth of Nisan the angel of the Lord came over the land and killed the firstborn, both human and animal, in every Egyptian household, but "passed over" the Jewish homes, which had been marked with the blood of a sacrificed lamb.

When this happened the entire population of Egypt clamored to get rid of the Israelites, and the king has no choice but to tell them to get out. From this point on they were a free people.

The rest of the story is the familiar one of the crossing of the Red Sea, the receiving of the Ten Commandments at Mount Sinai, the 40 years of wandering in the wilderness and the ultimate arrival in a land of their own.

PASSOVER'S MODERN MESSAGE

As they observe Passover today the Jews are not merely commemorating an event in ancient history Says one rabbi, "In every generation each Jew should see himself as though he personally had been liberated from Egypt." The message of Passover is always a timely one; it is the story of the special Divine Providence that determines the fate of the Jewish people.

Another scholar has said that Passover sums up the message Israel has for all mankind. He states the message as follows:

1. God protects His people no matter where they are.
2. Israel has been chosen by God for a special responsibility.
3. Slavery is detestable in the eyes of God.
4. No society can long endure if freedom is denied to any segment of it.
5. Evils will fall upon any nation that enslaves part of its population.
6. Life, liberty, the pursuit of happiness are inalienable rights of all.

These are the timeless truths to be found in the Passover story.

Pearson Reaches Last Round of Uphill Battle

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Two days away from the decision, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson today began the last stage of his uphill fight to wrest the Canadian prime ministership from John Diefenbaker.

The Opposition leader scheduled an all-day speaking tour by automobile through the Eastern Ontario constituencies of the Renfrews — North and South— which will wind up his appearances to electors before the Monday general election balloting.

As he started off on a fast-moving trip due to end around midnight, he had left behind renewed criticism of Progressive Conservative policies on unemployment, trade, and the government's handling of its relations with non - political federal officials.

In a series of eight speeches Friday spread over some 250 miles and five constituencies, he lambasted hardest at the government's policies to relieve unemployment, which was 555,000 at mid-February according to the latest official announcement.

TAX-CUTTING

Mr. Pearson told one audience —at Gananoque—that unemployment now is between 600,000 and 700,000 and said several times that the way to tackle it is by his party's program of tax-cutting to get more money circulating.

In different speeches referring to the government's announced program of providing jobs through a $1,100,000,000 public works program, he labelled it variously as "phoney" and "a hoax."

Canada was in trouble on unemployment, and the trouble would be deeper by June unless a government took action such as the Liberals proposed.

He said the right approach was through his tax-cutting program —including a six-week tax holiday in the coming summer — to prime the economic pump by putting more money in individual income taxpayers'p pockets.

Prime Minister Flying Home To Vote Monday

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today winds up his campaign for Monday's general election with one of his favorite techniques — attending receptions.—

Four are to be held for him in Ottawa and suburban Eastview in support of Progressive Conservative candidates in the Ottawa area ridings of Carleton, Ottawa West, Ottawa East and Russell.

The prime minister flies tonight to Prince Albert, Sask., his home riding, where he will vote Monday.

Accompanied by Premier Frost of Ontario, Mr. Diefenbaker Friday made a tour of Ottawa Valley towns. He stressed development of Canadian resources by Canadians and promised a full investigation of reports that United States policy prevented a Canadian automobile company from selling cars to Communist China.

At Arnprior, about 40 miles west of here, Mr. Diefenbaker told a church hall luncheon audience Canada welcomes foreign investment but asks that foreign companies have the building up of Canada for Canadians as their objective when they set up subsidiaries in this country.

About 350 party supporters turned out to hear him. The town's population is about 5,200.

He said he had read news reports that a Canadian company was "denied" a car sale to Red China "because the parent country of that company did not believe in that sort of trade."

"We intend to have that matter fully investigated with a view to assuring that Canada's interests are safeguarded, insofar as her domestic affairs are concerned, from direction or interference from any other country, however friendly.

"We, in our own country, reserve the right to determine our own destiny, at all times and in our own way, without interference from any other source."

At Renfrew, 60 miles west of Ottawa, he said it does not make sense for Canada to export "a maximum" of her forest and mineral resources instead of using them to make jobs for Canadians. He addressed 550 persons in a separate school auditorium in the town of 8,500.

At Pembroke, about 90 miles northwest of the capital, he said unemployment, increasing in the United States, is on the decline in Canada.

About 1,700 persons crowded the town armories to hear the prime minister review his government's record in foreign affairs, citizenship and resources development.

VOTE YOURSELF A "TAX HOLIDAY"

ADD $100,000,000 TO TAKE-HOME PAY

BOOST INCOMES • SPENDING POWER • JOBS

The Liberals will make tax cuts effective from January 1, 1958

This means a tax refund of $100 million on personal income taxes alone. Beginning June 1, 1958, it means no payroll income tax deductions for over three million Canadians for a period of seven weeks. And it provides similar relief for the self-employed. After the "tax holiday", taxation will be at the new lower rates.

It means that newly-weds will get refunds to give them the enjoyment, for the full year, of their own special "Dowry" tax plan.

And it means small businesses will get the benefit, for the full year, of a 50% tax cut on their first $10,000 profits — down from 20% to 10%.

The whole purpose of immediate tax cuts is to create jobs — and create them quickly. People will be able to spend more of their own money on the goods Canadian farms and factories produce. That is what makes jobs.

We must make up the ground lost through months of faltering and confusion in our national affairs. We must start Canada humming again.

The Pearson Plan is a bold and practical course of action to do just that.

HALF WAY HOME

"Three down and three to go."

When Minnie Menard fired the Macs' sixth goal of the game at 6.33 of overtime on Thursday night to eliminate the Porkies, it placed the Merry Macs at the halfway mark to the Allan Cup.

Three clubs have bitten the dust, Kingston, Pembroke and South Porcupine. And if the men from the shores of Quinte Bay expect to bring home the highest honor available to senior "A" teams, they must vanquish another trio before hanging up the blades.

The next series, which will get under way here sometime early next week, will be for the all-Ontario championship. At the time of writing the set between Kitchener and Windsor was not over but the Bulldogs were on the ropes, trailing their best-of-seven series three games to one with one tied. Thus even a tie for the Dutchies last night would give them the series. The result will be found elsewhere on today's sport pages. If the Bulldogs won, the teams meet again tonight.

The only sure thing is that the provincial finals will begin here next week, a best-of-seven affair.

Winners of the Ontario title will take on the Quebec victors in the Eastern Canada final. Hull downed Levis 7-3 in that Allan Cup quarter-finals opener on Thursday night and the second game is slated for Hull this evening. That is a best-of-five set.

Then comes the long haul out west when the big chips will be on the line. But first come the NOHA-OHA champs, and that should be a series long to be remembered, regardless of who emerges victorious.

More about that later, when we know for certain whether the Macs' next opponents will hail from the home of the auto or the land of sauerkraut.

FLASH:—Windsor defeated the Dutchmen last night 7-2, so the Dogs are still very much in the running.

BASILIO VS. ROBINSON

Don't forget to reserve either Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday night of next week to take in the Sugar Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio fight film at the Park Theatre.

Many veteran fight fans say you get a better view of every blow on film than you would in a $40 ringside seat. And after watching other great bouts on the big screen, we must agree. You are right in the ring with the battlers and see all the important blows, brought so close you can almost feel the impact.

And by the way, there is a topnotch twin bill also showing for the same ticket fee. Rock Hudson and Dana Wynter star in "Something of Value," while Ava Gardner, Stewart Granger and David Niven star in "The Little Hut."

How about that, Dad. You can see the fight and keep the rest of the family happy too.

SOFTBALL CONFABS

While senior "A" hockey, with the Macs battling toward the Allan Cup, is still uppermost in the minds of most local sportsmen, the men who run softball in Belleville and district are not losing any time preparing for the 1958 season.

The city's main loop, the Belleville and District League, has held one meeting and has another on tap for tomorrow. President Harry Morgan has asked that all executives, team representatives and any other interested parties attend tomorrow's meeting. The place is Moira Stret firehall and the time is 2.00 p.m.

This will be the loop's final meeting before the OASA annual convention, being held next weekend in St. Catharines. The executive, consisting of President Harry Morgan, Vice-president Gord Booth and Secretary-treasurer Bob Blaind, hope to make as many plans as possible before the convention.

It is expected the entry deadline will be decided upon tomorrow and the entry fee will also be set. A representative from the Bay of Quinte Umpires' Association, which met Thursday night, will be on hand to discuss officials' fees for the coming season.

Much important business is scheduled so all teams are urged to have representatives present. Don't forget the time, 3.00 p.m.

And from last year's secretary-treasurer of the City Commercial League, Bill Muirhead, comes word that his loop will hold a general meeting on Tuesday evening.

The meeting place is the City Police Station and the time is 7.30 p.m. All teams are asked to attend and any new entries are welcome. Last season's executive consisted of President Jack Fullerton, Vice-president Bob Tulloch and Secretary-treasurer Bill Muirhead.

An election of officers will likely take place. That's Tuesday evening, City Police Station, at seven-thirty.

Coach of Bruins Thinks Team Better on Home Ice; Habs Expect to Win in Four

BOSTON (CP) — "We've got to be favored now," says coach Milt Schmidt whose Boston Bruins meet New York Rangers tonight in the third game of their semi-final Stanley Cup playoff.

Schmidt was talking about the advantage of home ice since the remaining games of the best-of-seven series, now tied 1-1, will be played at the Boston Garden. A circus is taking over New York's Madison Square Garden where Bruins and Rangers split their first two meetings.

"Thursday night's game was the key one for us," Schmidt said. "If we had lost it, home ice wouldn't have been enough. But we won it and now we've got all the edge."

He referred to the Bruins' come - from - behind 4-3 victory over Rangers, furnished by Jerry Toppazzini's deciding goal at 4:46 of sudden - death - overtime play.

SIMMONS IN NETS

Schmidt said he would go again with Don Simmons tonight in place of veteran Harry Lumley, who was in the Boston nets for the opener last Tuesday night, won by the Rangers 5 - 3. Simmons was outstanding Thursday night and made 27 saves.

For Rangers the picture has darkened considerably. There is a strong possibility their great defenceman, Bill Gadsby, will be on the sidelines due to a shoulder injury. They already have lost captain Red Sullivan with a broken jaw.

Gadsby, one of the key men on the club, banged up his right shoulder in the third period Thursday night and it was feared he suffered a dislocation.

Actually it was an inflammation of the muscles and tendons and while not as serious as a dislocation, it might well keep him out of tonight's game. He received a shot of cortisone Friday but still was unable to raise his right arm and he felt pain all over the injured area.

NOT DISCOURAGED

Gadsby will make the trip to Boston but coach Phil Watson won't know until game time if he will be in the lineup.

"We lost the game but the boys aren't discouraged," said Bruins for two periods. Then we just waited for time to run out. We didn't think they'd tie it up. But we're still in there. We've been better on the road all season long. The boys like to do things the hard way."

Meanwhile, Rangers have called up John Hanna from their Trois-Rivieres farm in the Quebec League. He is a 23-year-old 180 - pounder who was drafted from the Canadiens for $15,000 and is a well-regarded prospect.

The Rangers record in Boston this season was .500. They won three, lost three and tied one while goalie Gump Worsley had done some of his better netminding on Bruin ice. In the five games he has played in the Boston Garden he has allowed only nine goals while scoring two of his four shutouts this season.

MONTREAL (CP) — It won't be heartening news for Detroit Red Wings to know that Montreal coach Toe Blake is confidently expecting Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard to break out in a scoring rash.

The little Rocket hasn't scored a goal, although he has assisted on three, in the 8-1 and 5-1 trimmings Blake's Canadiens have handed Red Wings in the first two games of their Stanley Cup semi-final.

"It looks as if The Pocket has been left in the shadow by his big brother," mused Blake, preparing to lead his charges on to Detroit for the next two games of the best-of-seven series.

Maurice, The Rocket, has scored two goals in each game and has also collected two assists.

DUE TO BREAK OUT

"But I'm not worried," added Blake. "The little Rocket is due to break out, and he's just as likely to do it in Detroit as here. He will be getting his goals, and the Red Wings can take that as a prophecy and a warning.

"There has been nothing wrong with Henri. One reason he hasn't yet scored may be because he hasn't been in as much of the play."

Blake said he thinks the big Rocket's fighting spirit has meant much to the team in the playoffs.

"All the fellows look up to him. He's a real battler. He doesn't say much, but he's an inspiration to the boys just the same.

LIVELY BENCH

"The holler guys on the bench are Floyd Curry and Boomer Geoffrion. It's great to have fellows like them to give us a lively bench. Their encouraging chatter meant a lot in the second period of Thursday's game when the Red Wings were giving us trouble.

Blake had praise also for Bert Olmstead, who has had the unenviable job of checking Gordie Howe, the Red Wings' brilliant scorer.

"Olmstead's knee has been bothering him again and sometimes he was out there practically on one leg. But you'll notice Howe hasn't scored yet."

Canadiens leave tonight for the Sunday and Tuesday games in Detroit. Red Wings left by plane Friday, convinced they can win on home ice.

ABEL IS CERTAIN

Before leaving for Detroit coach Sid Abel said he not only thinks his team will play better at home but is sure of it.

"I doubt if Canadiens can do as well there as on Montreal ice.

"I think we will be better offensively. I'm not finding fault with our defensive work in Thursday's game. We have got to be stronger on the attack."

Blake said he was glad to know that the illness of defenceman Red Kelly of Detroit, who left for home ahead of his mates, was nothing more serious than a minor gastro-intestinal upset. It was at first feared Kelly had appendicitis.

"I guess we're even," said Blake. "I ate pizza pie in Detroit and had to go to the hospital. Probably Red couldn't digest our French-Canadian pea soup."

Mickey Crawford Hollers for Title Chance

Crawford, 24, fast - rising prospect from Saginaw, Mich., proved he belonged with the welterweight elite, by gaining a close decision over Turner, 27, fourth - ranked contender from Philadelphia, in their 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

If there was anyone to blame, Turner should have singled himself out. His low blows cost him the fight. He would have recei a draw except for the fouls.

Turner, pressing forward all the way and using his weight advantage—154½ to 149 — to bull Mickey to the ropes, led through the first six rounds. But from the seventh on, Crawford was a much sharper puncher than his mauling, swarming foe.

Four Veteran Hurlers Take Mound With Robin Roberts Pasted for Five Home Runs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four big league pitchers, plagued by a variety of ailments, were over another mound test today and only one—Robin Roberts—had any misgivings. The other hurlers are Frank Baumann of Boston, Bob Rush of Milwaukee and Jack Harshman of Baltimore.

The four-time 20 game winner and a 22-game loser in 1957, was pasted for five homers—four in one inning — by Pittsburgh Pirates.

Ted Kluszewski walloped two of Pittsburgh's homers as the Pirates won 8-7.

Baumann, a fastballing left-hander turned in his best showing of the exhibition season as the Red Sox downed Cincinnati 8-5. He yielded only two runs and three hits in a five-inning stint. Rush starred in Milwaukee's 11-2 victory over Chicago White Sox. He retired the last 10 batters to face him yielding a total of five hits.

Harshman, troubled by a back ailment while with the White Sox in 1957, was the winning pitcher as Baltimore whipped Chicago San FFrancisco 9-8. nings, yielded five runs and also hit the game's only homer.

In other games Washington Senators whipped New York Yankees 6-4 in a game marred by an injury to Mickey Mantle; St. Louis Cards beat Kansas City 4-2; Detroit outslugged Los Angeles 12-11 and Cleveland nipped San Francisco 9-8.

Mantle sustained a charley-horse in his left leg while grounding into a double play in the first inning. He retired in the third, but the injury is not believed serious.

Minden Defeats Madoc Blues 6-5 In Opening Game Int. Playdowns

MADOC (Special) — Minden scored threee unanswered goals in the first period in Marmora last night and went on from there to edge Madoc Blues-and-Whites 6-5 in the opening game of their OHA intermediate "C" playdown series.

The second game in the best-of-seven series is slated for Bobcaygeon ice tonight. Madoc is playing all home games in Marmora while Minden's home games will be played in Bobcaygeon.

The dates for the remainder of the series are Monday night in Marmora, Wednesday in Bobcaygeon, Saturday in Marmora, Monday, April 7, in Bobcaygeon and Wednesday, April 9, in Marmora.

The three-goal deficit in the opening stanza was a little too much for the Blues to overcome last night. But they gave it a great try before 912 fans, outscoring Minden 3-2 in the second and 2-1 in the third.

Madoc cut the margin to 5-4 in the opening minute of the final chapter when Bob Taylor scored from Fox at the 25 second mark. Minden got that one back at 4.42 while Madoc closed the scoring at 13.11 on Alex MacLellan's goal. They battled hard to even the score but could not net the equalizer before time ran out.

The Vasey brothers sparked the Minden attack, Gary and Glen each scoring twice and adding one assist. Larry Lonsberry and Lougheed had the other goals while Percival earned two assists, Whitney, Packer and Parnell each getting one.

Doug "Nobber" Day and Bob Taylor led Madoc with two goals and an assist each. Playing-coach Alex MacLellan had the other goal and two helpers while "Shaker" Baker, Fox and Wayne Brown picked up single assists.

Referees Art Casterton and Whitey Walton of Kingston handed out ten minor penalties with Minden drawing six.

Two bus loads of Madoc fans are travelling to Bobcaygeon for tonight's game which gets under way at 9.00 p.m.

TOKYO (AP) — Japan Davis Cuppers defeated Thailand's doubles team today to linch victory in the opening round of Eastern Zone play. The triumph gave Japan a 3-0 lead in the best-of-five competition.

Beavers Take One-Game Lead

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Buckingham Beavers defeated Cape Breton All-Stars 5-2 Friday night to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five Eastern Canada Memorial Cup quarter-final.

Beavers ended the first period with a 3-0 lead. The teams split four goals in the second and Beavers played defensive hockey in the third to hold Cape Breton scoreless.

Louis Beauregard, picked up from Ottawa Shamrocks shot a pair of goals for Beavers in the first period. Tom Lesnic, who joined the team from Pembroke Lumber Kings, also got two goals and helped Michel Lafrance with the other Buckingham tally.

Cape Breton marksmen were Huestis Reeves and Sonny Salyzyn.

Windsor Bulldogs Beat Kitchener By 7-2 Score

WINDSOR (CP) — Ches Warchol of Windsor Bulldogs, playing only his third game after an eight-week layoff with a broken jaw, Friday night gave his team new hope in their bid to secure a berth in the all-Ontario hockey final.

The Bulldogs thrashed Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 7 - 2 to narrow the Dutchmen's lead in the best - of - seven OHA-NOHA Senior A final to 3-2, with one game tied.

Warchol pumped three goals past Kitchener goaltender Boat Hurley—two in the second period when Bulldogs outscored Dutchmen 4-0.

Elmer Skov, Frank Bathgate, Irwin Grosse and Reg Abbott tallied the other Windsor goals, Ralph Hosking and Billy Graham counting for Dutchmen.

Referee Lou Maschio handed out 22 minor penalties and one misconduct. Windsor picked up 12 of the minors and the misconduct.

The teams move to Kitchener tonight for the seventh game, with Dutchmen needing only a tie to take the series. If Bulldogs should win and deadlock the series, the league is expected to order one or two extra games.

Gerry James In Middle Of Controversy

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gerry James, star hockey and football player, is in the middle of another controversy between Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union and Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

The Toronto club announced earlier this week that James had signed a contract for the 1958-59 season. But Bombers maintain he must first get permission from them before committing himself.

Bomber president Ralph Parliament said "We'll deal with Gerry's hockey career the way we did last time—at the end of the football season. Up to then, Gerry isn't free to sign anything."

"I told them in Toronto about the contract," James said in an interview Friday, "but they still wanted me to sign."

Switch of Martin and Kuenn Working Out Says Jack Tighe

By JACK HAND

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — It is spring again in Tigertown where pennants bloom each March. Manager Jack Tighe says the "big switch" of Billy Martin and Harvey Kuenn is working out. Even 37 - year - old Jim Hegan talks of catching 100 or 125 games.

Just for the record, the Tigers finished fourth last year, 20 games behind New York and only 1½ games out of sixth place. Fourth in batting, fourth in pitching, with many key men in sub-par seasons, they probably ended where they belonged.

Tighe talks about "potential" and points to new men like Martin, Hegan, Gus Zernial and Lou Skizas when he says, "we think we have helped ourselves."

The manager has reason to expect improved performances from Frank Lary, Billy Hoeft, Charlie Maxwell, Al Kaline and Kuenn. Lary slipped from a 21-13 record to 11-16 and Hoeft from 20-14 to 9-11. Maxwell dropped off 50 points to .276 and Kuenn fell 55 points to .277. Although Kaline led the club at .295 he has lost 45 points over a two-year span since he won the batting title with .340 in 1955.

Tighe says the "big switch" will carry over into the regular season. Many still insist Martin, a second baseman, can't make the plays required of a shortstop. Kuenn, voted the all -star shortstop the last three years, still must be tested in centre field in the big double - decked major league parks.

Detroit is tissue thin in extra infielders. Ray Boone, 34, may need help from Gail Harris (.240 with the Giants) at first base. Boone hit .273 last year. Frank Bolling (.259) at second is the solid man of the infield. Martin (.251 with the Yanks and Athletics) is the shortstop and Reno Bertoia (.275) at third.

In the spring games, Skizas (.245 at Kansas City also an outfielder) has been spelling Bertoia. Inman (Cool) Veal (.226 at Birmingham), a smooth-fielding shortstop, is the extra man.

Maxwell, Kuenn and Kaline form the regular outfield, with Zernial (.236 and 27 homers at Kansas City) to platoon with Maxwell against certain pitching. Johnny Groth (.278 at Kansas City and Detroit) and Bill Taylor (.274 at Minneapolis) probably will be kept. Jim Greengrass (.283 at Sacramento) also is a possibility.

Jim Bunning (20 - 8), who pitched more innings than any other in the American League and was second with 182 strike-outs, heads the moundsmen. Paul Foytack (14-11), Lary and Hoeft, will be the starters. Harry Byrd (4-3) and Lou Sleater (3-3) are Tighe's best relievers.

Phil Goyette To Get $1,000 From Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP) — Phil Goyette will get $1,000 whether he wins the National Hockey League's rookie award or not.

The slim little centre has co-starred with veteran Maurice (Rocket) Richard in Montreal Canadiens' two wins over Detroit Red Wings in their Stanley Cup series. Each has scored four goals.

In the mid - season voting Phil was far back of Frank Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs and Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks.

"We don't expect Phil to win the official award," said Canadiens managing director Frank Selke.

"But our club believes he is the best rookie in the league today. And, just as we did when Henri Richard was nosed out of the rookie award two years ago by Glenn Hall, we intend to give Phil $1,000 from the club, which is what he would get from the league if he were winner."

Goyette scored only nine goals during the regular NHL season, but he collected 37 assists, only three short of the NHL record for assists by rookies.

TV
NOTEBOOK

by John Wettlaufer

What with the TV industry so pre-occupied these days with Western drama shows, and with indications pointing toward even more horse-operas in the immediate future, we thought we might pass on a piece of information originating with Frank Gruber, a prolific spinner of Western stories.

Although the plethora of oaters on the air might seem to spring from one common plot, Mr. Gruber contends that there are in fact seven basic plots. They are:

The ranch story; the outlaw story; the revenge story; the marshal story; the Union Pacific story; the Cavalry and Indians story; the (cattle) empire story.

However, it's no story when we say that CIRCLE TV SERVICE can give your tired old TV set new ideas. Remember, we are not tinkerers. We have the equipment and the know-how to do the job right —quickly and economically. You can count on CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St., for 100% satisfaction. Phone WO 8-6791; in Trenton, phone Zenith 6-3800.

Vote to Retain CRU Affiliation At Meeting

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association, governing body of the Intercollegiate Senior Football League, Friday night voted to retain its Canadian Rugby Union affiliation.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union is to be held in Kingston today but is not expected to overrule the decision reached by the Ontario - Quebec branch of their union.

The Ontario - Quebec association also voted for a seven-game football schedule and increased to 23 from 26 the number of players permitted to dress for football games.

INTERNATIONAL RULES

The Intercollegiate union also adopted International rules for hockey games between the four member universities—McGill, the University of Western Ontario, Queen's, and the University of Toronto.

Secretary J. P. Loosemore said the exhibition football games scheduled for Sept. 27 will be made league games this year on a trial basis, raising to seven from six the number played by each team.

The exhibition games are to be played at McGill and at the University of Toronto. The visitors, Queen's and Western, are to get travelling expenses from gate receipts.

"The gate will probably be split, too," said Loosemore, "but that isn't final." He said the exhibition games were incorporated in an effort to increase interest in them.

OSSA Hockey Finals Held

TORONTO (CP) — Two out-of-town and two Toronto schools scored victories Friday in opening games of the Ontario Secondary Schools hockey tournament.

Toronto Weston Collegiate Institute and Vocational School will play North Bay Algonquin Composite School and Chatham Collegiate Institute will play Toronto Leaside High School in the winners' semi-finals today.

Weston defeated Copper Cliff High School 5-3 and North Bay whipped Toronto Agincourt Collegiate Institute 6-1. Chatham defeated Toronto Winston Churchill Collegiate Institute 6-3 and Leaside trounced London South Collegiate Institute 11-2.

FINALS TONIGHT

Winston Churchill plays London South and Copper Cliff meets Agincourt in consolation semi-finals today. Both finals are scheduled for tonight.

Brien Peifer and Al Hennegan paced Chatham with two goals each. Jim Abe and Sandy Davidson each scored once.

Barry Lucas scored twice for Winston Churchill and Pete Martin once.

Weston scored three goals with less than three minutes remaining to defeat Copper Cliff. Barry Johnson had two goals for the winners and Brian Robins, George Standing and Grant Kilpatrick one each.

Ron Corell, Eric Stone and Ken Cecchetto scored for Copper Cliff.

Pierre Gagne scored twice for North Bay with singles going to Neil Blundell, Jim Randle, Dave Brennan and George Wilcox.

Karl Winterstein scored for Agincourt to break goalie Ted Dunn's shutout.

Rustlers Win Over Maroons

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—Billy Reichart, a former Winnipeg junior, scored two goals Friday night to lead Red Deer Rustlers to a 3-1 win over Winnipeg Maroons in the opening game of their best-of-five Western Canada Allan Cup semi-final series.

The second game in the series is slated for Lacombe, Alta., tonight.

Former Calgary Stampeder star Ray Barry notched the other Rustler goal. The Maroon tally was batted in by Lou Joyal before the two-minute mark of the game.

WIN OPENING GAME

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Eilers won the opening game of the Western Canada Senior A men's basketball final Friday night, trouncing Edmonton Towne Hallers 65 - 33. Second game of the best-of-five series will be played here tonight with the third game scheduled for Monday.

AT THE PARK — Rock Hudson follows his outstanding hit in "Giant", with another big role in MGM's "Something of Value", which he co-stars with Dana Wynter in the filmization of Robert C. Ruark's best seller novel. Hudson went to Africa on location to film scenes of the explosive drama of the Mau Mau uprisings in Kenya. Also co-billed with this feature, Ava Gardner plays the beautiful London society woman who devises a hilarious means of recapturing her husband's (Stewart Granger) waning love when they become castaways on a desert island, with David Niven, a third member of the party in "The Little Hut", both features open at the Park Theatre Monday night, and an extra added attraction, Carmen Basilio vs. Sugar Ray Robinson, middleweight championship fight pictures.

Rangers Defeat Canadiens 2-1 For Peewee Title

The Rangers won the peewee city hockey championship at Memorial Arena this morning and they did it the hard way, by handing the Canadiens their first defeat of the season.

Rangers scored a 2-1 overtime victory to capture the series 4-3. The clubs fought to a 2-2 tie last week and bttled on even terms at 1-1 over regulation time this morning.

A ten minute overtime period was played but neither team could snap the tie. Then sudden-death was ordered and just two minutes later Carl Boomhower flipped home the deciding mark. The goal came from a scramble with both Boomhower and Jack Thompson banging away at the puck near the goalmouth. Thompson was given an assist on the goal.

Allen Mott tallied the Ranger's first goal with Boomhower and nerBobby Ethier assisting. Bob Skinner scored the lone Canadian goal unassisted.

Both goalies, Hurst of the Canadiens and Kiser of Rangers, played outstanding games. Hurst had beaten Boomhower on a clean breakaway in the first minute of the sudden-death play while Kiser robbed the Canadiens on more than one occasion.

Havana to Play In Int. League This Season

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) —Clark Shaughnessy, president of the International League, has denied reports that the revolt in Cuba will force Havana to move its AAA baseball franchise to Tampa.

"Why there's less violence in Havana than there is in New York," Shaughnessy said Friday night in a telephone interview.

"You can say definitely that we will start our season April 16 with the same eight teams we had last year." Shaughnessy said. "Havana is one of those teams."

There have been reports that some International League teams were reluctant to risk their players in politically-disturbed Cuba.

Maverick Among TV Stars, Jas. Garner Is Happy Fella

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —James Garner is indeed a maverick among television series stars — he's a most happy fella.

Many TV stars rankle over salary, scripts, billings, residuals, etc. Not Garner. When I visited him on the Maverick set he was happily signing autographs for visitors and swapping jokes with set workers.

I asked him about a report that he had been given a nice, new contract by Warner Brothers in honor of his gunning down Ed Sullivan and Steven Allen.

"I haven't had a new contract since last April," he said.

"Doesn't this cause him to have ulcers and hate his bosses?

"Not at all. This is the last Maverick we've got to make for this season. I suppose in a few weeks we'll sit down and discuss a new deal. Meanwhile, I'm eating regularly and having the time of my life.

BAD TIMES ONCE

"I can remember times when I wasn't so well off. Just 10 years ago, for example, I was in Odessa, Texas and I didn't have a nickel to buy a cup of coffee."

Another thing Garner corrected: Reports of a feud between him and his fellow maverick, Jack Kelly.

"Utterly ridiculous," he grinned. "I haven't got anything against Kelly — except that he's so fat." This is a running gag between the pair and not to be taken seriously.

Garner starred in the first eight of the series, has since been spelled by Kelly. The current sequence is the third in which they have appeared together.

"They don't dare do anything but make us play scenes with both our backs to the wall," he cracked. "If they didn't we'd be jockeying each other for position all the time."

See what I mean? A happy actor. But will success spoil James Garner? Tune in next season and see.

Dave Jenkins Wins National Skating Title

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Dave Jenkins' finest performance, a leaping, whirling burst of skating perfection, kept him at the top of the American and world figure skating pyramid today.

The little skating master retained his national title before a floor-stamping Minneapolis Arena crowd.

Tim Brown forced the 21-year-old Jenkins to excel. Brown had grabbed the lead in the previous day's school figures, which make up 60 per cent of the final score.

Jenkins had the class to overcome his classmate's advantage in a breath - catching way. He combined triple and double spins with intricate footwork and sweeping flourishes.

Carol Heiss, defending women's champion from Ozone Park, N.Y. piled up an all but unbeatable lead in the women's school figures and is the unchallenged favorite to keep her title in the free skating tonight.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, March 29th

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—It is best you consider the situation at home from the impersonal, analytical angle instead of causing a commotion. Bide your time and go about putting things in order, fixing utilities, etc.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—It is quite likely that strife and unpleasantness could easily occur today, but if you take care not to use caustic language to all kith and kin, friends, you make this a most happy day.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—While you may be under the impression that by simply taking out the checkbook or showing some cash you get your way, you may find it's not so at all. Do the right thing, instead, and learn a good lesson.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Here is a day when you want to give out with all the histrionics you possess, and they are boundless subconsciously. This will gain you nothing, and will ruin your nerves. Relax and improve your appearance and position.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A private anxiety today could make you act toward others in quite an alien manner, so be careful not to strike out at innocent parties. Analyze the situation calmly and don't take definite steps now.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Most volatile and bombastic friends could annoy you to tears with their problems today, if you permit and try to solve them. They are for the most part imaginative. Stick to own knitting and zip your purse.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — While you feel you should go to an authority or employer, Bigwig and lambaste him or her, remember that he is doing his job. So be sure you follow the law to the letter. P. M. take beautifying treatments.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You are most anxious to go into different fields than you have been used to, most fascinating persons, but this would be the wrong step now. Better hang on to present security and build it up.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It may seem smart to you today to argue with some really important person about a technical matter, but wisdom is the better part of valor. Give credit instead and be respectful for best results all around.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A forceful associate, regardless of how he or she may hide this quality, could today make you snap at the bit if you are not careful. Therefore, either take a little trip, or smile indulgently and don't give in an inch.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—It seems impossible to get any work done properly today, and anything you touch appears to either get damaged or broken. Relax a while, plan your duties intelligently, and then do them deliberately and with care.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—This is one of those unfortunate days when you would spend so much money on worthless pleasures that you would literally cry about it later. Avoid it now and let the sunshine of your smile see you through nicely.

If your child is born today.. The child born today is the delightful kind who feels he or she has to ruffle his feathers at the least provocation in order to gain success and reach the goals set upon.

Coldwell Says PCs Afraid to State Prices

BRODERICK, Sask. (CP) — CF Leader M. J. Coldwell says he Progressive Conservative overnment daras not announce ts agricultural price supports [illegible]

“[illegible] can be sure that if the guara[illegible]ed prices set by the government were good, then they vould have been announced long go,” he said Friday night. “The nly reason then for the silence s that they will be unsatisfactory.”

His remarks were contained in he text of a speech issued to the press in advance of delivery.

He said the Conservative government dares not let the facts be known for fear of an adverse eaction at the polls Monday.

Mr. Coldwell was referring to rices to be set under the Agricultural Prices Stabilization Act, pproved at the last session of Parliament, and in which, he aid, there is “a fatal flaw.”

AYS METHOD FAULTY

The flaw was the absence of a arity price formula for farm products, that a fixed method to measure price supports so that they bear a fair relationship to production costs and the prices of other products.

Mr. Coldwell said his party fought in Parliament for the establishment of parity prices, but the Conservatives and the Liberals voted against the CCF's attempts.

He argued that without a parity price formula the legislation is unsatisfactory and “a betrayal of the solemn Conservative pledges to assure agriculture a fair share of the national income.”

He said that the best safeguard for Canadian agriculture, as for the people generally, is to send “a solid contingent of CCF members to Parliament.”

The Most Important Question Put to Jesus

There is deep meaning for us all in Jesus' answer to John's searching question (Luke 7), “Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?”

He gave his works as proof of the truth of his words: “Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard; how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached” (Luke 7).

Low to Strive For 'Real Parity' In Farm Prices

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) Social Credit Leader Solon Low has pledged to strive "with all my might for improvement in the federal Agricultural Prices Stabilization Act, passed during the last session of Parliament.

He said Friday night he will work for "improvements that will establish real parity of prices for agricultural products as a means of ensuring to the farmers their fair share of the national income."

Mr. Low made the statements in a recorded election campaign broadcast in his constituency of Peace River.

Text of the broadcast was issued to the press in advance of delivery.

(In another recorded broadcast originating in Edmonton and carried over the CBC trans-Canada network as a free-time political program, Mr. Low repeated statements made earlier in the week in a nationally-televised address from Calgary.

ACCUSES BANK

(He accused the Bank of Canada of causing a "tight money" situation in the country and said Parliament, not the Bank of Canada, should set fiscal policies.)

In the Peace River radio address, he said parity prices can't be paid to farmers "unless the Canadian people are constantly supplied with enough purchasing power to enable them to buy all that has been produced in Canada at price levels that represent parity."

He reiterated Social Credit's belief in a two-price system for sale of farm products, with one price for domestic consumers and one for export, the federal government making up any difference in the latter to keep prices to producers the same.

Social Credit would abolish sales and excise taxes on commodity products in order to reduce the cost of living.

Sunny Skies May Bring Record Vote For Election

9,165,986 Canadians Are Eligible to Vote

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadians vote for a new government today for the second time in nine months.

The fate of 831 candidates competing for the 265 seats in Canada's 24th Parliament will be known tonight when some 44,000 ballot boxes are opened.

Sunny skies predicted for most parts of Canada may bring a record vote.

A peak 9,165,986 Canadians are eligible to vote in the first March election in 18 years. Last year's June election brought a record 6,-699,532 votes, about 74 per cent of the total eligible.

First indication of the trend may come from the Atlantic provinces. Because of differences in time zones, Newfoundlanders vote first. Polls open across the country at 8 a.m. and close at 6 p.m., local standard time. There's a difference of 5½ hours in time zones between Newfoundland and the Yukon where ballots were counted last.

MUST DECIDE

The big question is whether Prime Minister Diefenbaker, 62, will get a stronger hand for his minority Progressive Conservative government or give way to Lester B. Pearson, 60, the new Liberal leader. Voting last June 10 ended 22 years of Liberal government.

The Conservatives, Liberals and the CCF are the only parties with enough candidates to form a government. The Conservatives and Liberals each have a full 265; the CCF 169; Social Credit 82; others 50, including 18 Labor-Progressive (Communist) candidates, eight more than a year ago.

Issues were defined in a gruelling, seven-week campaign that saw Mr. Diefenbaker suggest that perhaps the time had come for a shorter appeal. Long campaigns, he said Saturday night, may have been necessary in former decades when travel and communications facilities were not so advanced.

Some of the other party leaders are known to hold similar views.

THE LIBERAL VIEW

Carrying his peace-and-prosperity message across the country, Mr. Pearson—elected party leader two weeks before the campaign opened—charged the Diefenbaker administration with having aggravated unemployment through harmful trade policies.

He proposed a $400,000,000 tax reduction — including a seven-week tax holiday—as an emergency measure to overcome the recession and unemployment problem. The Nobel Peaco Prize winner suggested also that his party could do a better job than the Conservatives in helping to bring peace to the world.

Call WO 8-5757 For Election Results

In keeping with its policy the Ontario Intelligencer will again relay via telephone the results of today's Federal election.

An augmented editorial staff will man a battery of telephones in the news rooms and results as they come over the news wires will be relayed to the calling public.

So call Woodland 8-5757 for election results tonight.

The first returns should be available at 7 p.m.

Plan to Give House Control Over State Bank

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton says the Bank of Canada will be made more responsible to Parliament if the Progressive Conservative government is returned in today's election.

Replying to a question about the bank from an audience of about 200 at a campaign meeting in his home constituency of Kamloops, Mr. Fulton said:

"I don't know what the move will be, but one thing is sure—the Bank of Canada will be made more responsible to Parliament."

He did not amplify.

Bank Governor James E. Coyne and the government were in disagreement recently over Mr. Coyne's annual report which said there had not been a "tight money" policy in Canada. The Conservatives maintained there had been a "tight money" policy while the Liberals were in power and said Mr. Coyne's definition of "tight money" apparently differed from that of the general public.

The finance minister is not empowered by law to direct the bank although it reports through him to Parliament.

The bank acts as fiscal agent of the government, manages the public debt and has sole right to issue notes for circulation in Canada.

Gunman Gags Watchman at Parking Station

TORONTO (CP) — A gunman gagged the watchman in a multi-level municipal parking station Sunday night and cleaned the office safe of $600 by somehow snaring two money bags through an air-vent in the top.

Watchman Charles Rocco, 53, said he was alone in the closed building in downtown Toronto when he stepped from an elevator to find himself staring into a gun-barrel in the hand of a stocky,masked intruder.

Rocco said the bandit returned to check his bonds twice before completing the job of removing the Saturday receipts from the safe.

Rocco's relief man freed him and called police.

Today's Chuckle

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Election day in Ontario will be sunny and mild with light winds. However, the first storm to approach our district from the west will make its influence felt in northwestern. Ontario.. during Tuesday afternoon. The remainder of the province will enjoy at least one more fine spring day.

POLICE OFFICER KILLS EX-CONVICT AT COLLINGWOOD

Man Seen in Store In Front of Safe

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP) — An ex-convict fleeing into the darkness from a police order to halt was killed early Sunday by a bullet in the back.

The rookie policeman of five months' service who fired it said he meant to hit the fugitive's feet.

The victim, Douglas McAvella, 39, of Hamilton, was felled by the last of three shots from the gun of Constable William Oldfield, who said he fired the first two into the air as a warning.

McAvella was not armed.

Oldfield and Constable Morris Lunan were passing a supermarket about 4:40 a.m. when they saw a figure crouched before the safe about 10 feet inside the store.

The man saw them about the same moment and vanished into the gloom of the interior. The policemen split up and began circling the building from opposite directions.

SAW MAN JUMP

Oldfield said he rounded a corner to see McAvella jump from the roof of a garage next to the supermarket and race off across the street. He said he yelled, fired twice and then aimed a third shot for the feet.

McAvella went down at the third shot moments before Lunan ran up to join Oldfield.

McAvella's record included a five-year stretch for possessing burglary tools and an offensive weapon.

Police Chief D. J. Beckett said he couldn't explain why Oldfield's third shot went so wild.

"It was just one of those things," he said.

Chief Beckett said an inquest into the death will be held.

Rumors Fly Princess Margaret Got Royal 'Dressing Down' From Sister

LONDON (AP) — Rumors flew today that the Queen gave Princess Margaret a royal dressing down for seeing Peter Townsend last week. But as usual with rumored royal rows, nobody who really knows is talking.

All that is known publicly about Sunday's two-hour meeting between the royal sisters is this:

Looking pale and worried, Margaret returned from a weekend visit to Germany after gaily dancing all night with officers of a British regiment of which she is colonel-in-chief.

A car was driven up to the plane ramp at the London airport to avoid newspaper men. Margaret was driven straight away to Windsor Castle to see the Queen.

There was no doubt that the sisters talked about the now-famous tea date at which Margaret again saw the ex-RAF hero she renounced in 1955 because he was divorced.

Most London newspapers which have palace sources told of Sunday's meeting between the two sisters, but reports of what they talked about probably are pure speculation.

"People close to the Royal Family," reports the Laborite Daily Herald, "say the Queen is cross because the meeting took place while she was out of the country on a state visit to Holland."

The Daily Sketch says the Queen was primarily upset over the "world publicity" given the reunion. The tabloid adds:

"Public reaction all over the world is believed to have led to the decision that there will be no more meetings. But the princess will of course be free to raise the matter again whenever she wishes."

Another newspaper, The People says Margaret was working on a long-range plan to bring her 43-year-old former suitor, who once served as an aide in her father's household, back to England "so that he can serve her as a faithful friend and royal counsellor."

Townsend dropped out of sight during the weekend. He is expected to return early this week to the Continent.

COLLECTS $56,000 IN SWEEPSTAKE

$56,000 richer thanks to a horse named Tiberetta, Alfred Lehmann of Oshawa shares his joy with his wife after they learned their horse placed second in the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, England. Three Canadians who held Irish Sweepstakes tickets on the long-shot winner, Mr. What, collected $420,000 each. At total of $616,000 was won by Canadians lucky enough to hold tickets on the first three horses.

Big Three Agree to Talks If Preparation Is Adequate

PARIS (AP) — The Western big three today sent a note to Russia agreeing to a summit conference if diplomatic negotiations plus a foreign ministers meeting come first, diplomats here said.

The new Western note reaffirmed the view that any summit conference must be preceded by adequate preparation and have some chance of success on at least some points.

The new note was unanimously approved by all 15 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Western thinking was that the summit conference might be held this fall some diplomats felt.

LONDON (AP) — United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold today began a round of confidential talks with British officials keyed to his appraisal of whether the Russians really want a summit conference and disarmament.

Arriving Sunday from a week's visit to Moscow, Hammarskjold said a summit meeting no doubt "would be most useful for relaxing tension." But he agreed with the Western allies that any such meeting must be preceded by "careful preparation so as to give reasonable promise of results."

Tank-Mortar Battle Fought On Israeli-Syrian Frontier

JERUSALEM (AP) — The United Arab Republic today accused Israel of new aggression following a 75-minute tank-mortar battle of Israeli-Syrian frontier near the Lake Huleh reclamation project. The Israelis issued countercharges.

There have been repeated clashes in the area. The Arabs oppose any work on the reclamation project since it signifies the Israelis are solidifying their hold in the sector claimed by Syria.

An Arab army spokesman in Damascus warned that "it is high time for Israel to realize that the UAR army (of Egypt and Syria) . . . will defend the lives of UAR citizens and their lands against any aggression aimed at murder and usurpation."

Egyptian information department director Asaad Affra said in Cairo repeated Israeli attacks on Syrian soil threatened peace in the area. He said the UAR had sent United Nations Secretary Dag Hammarskjold a note charging Israeli aggression against Syria between March 24-27.

The Damascus spokesman said two Syrians were killed, two wounded and an Israeli tank was knocked out in Sunday's encounter. The UN armistice commission achieved a cease-fire after 75 minutes of shooting.

The Syrians claimed Israeli tanks shelled two Arab villages and said the Syrians resorted to mortar fire only after Israel ignored a cease-fire ultimatum.

Israel filed her own complaint with the UN Syrian-Israeli mixed armistice commission. An Israeli spokesman charged the Syrians fired from strongholds near the truce line when Israeli laborers moved in to work on the reclamation area.

Israeli tanks fired back at the strongholds, the spokesman added, and the Syrians replied with mortars.

Observes 101st Birthday by Casting Ballot

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Charles Morgan was to celebrate his 101st birthday today by strolling to the polling station near his home and casting a ballot in the federal election.

Walking is Mr. Morgan's hobby, although he admits he's slowed up a little in the last 12 months. The day before his 100th birthday reporters tracked him down through four miles of bushland. He was on an eight-mile log-cutting expedition with a friend.

He uses a cane most of the time, but still enjoys a regular walk.

Mr. Morgan cannot read and can write only his own name. He was born on his father's backwoods farm in Renfrew County and says he didn't have much time for school. His main interests now are walking and watching television westerns. His eyes are in excellent condition.

After seeing Canada grow nearly 100 years, Mr. Morgan notes "an awful difference" since his younger days.

He is Peterborough's oldest active baseball fan. He hopes to attend a few games this year.

Mr. Morgan lives with his second wife, Lavinia, who is in her late 60s. He has had 14 children, all but two of whom are living. The eldest is 66 and the youngest 32.

The federation's executive deliberated for seven hours behind closed doors, then issued a communique announcing support for a plebiscite on the issue.

FATHER AND SON BURNED TO DEATH IN KINGSTON FIRE

Alwington House Famous Landmark

KINGSTON (CP) — A father and his only son died Sunday in a fire that destroyed the centre building of historical Alwington House.

Dead are Michael H. Montague, 27, of Winnipeg and his two-year-old son, Frederick George.

The house, once occupied by the governor-general of Upper and Lower Canada, is owned by descendants of James Richardson, who founded one of Canada's largest grain companies.

Two others were injured. Mrs. John B. Richardson, 58, the present owner, formerly of Winnipeg, broke both legs when she jumped from a bedroom window on the top floor of the three-storey limestone building.

SUFFERS CUTS

Gail MacDonald, 21, of Montreal and Winnipeg, suffered cuts to her hands and feet when she broke through a window.

Mrs. Richardson's son Henry, 24, and Mr. Montague's brother, George, of Toronto escaped uninjured. Damage and loss were estimated at more than $200,000.

Michael Montague, salesman for a Winnipeg construction firm, arrived in Kingston this week with his wife, Nancy, son and brother to visit the Richardsons. He picked up his family from a Florida vacation a week ago Saturday. Mrs. Montague was away visiting when the fire broke out. Miss McDonald was also a guest of the Richardsons.

Mrs. Richardson's husband was vice-president of James Richardson and Sons Limited from 1939 until his death in 1954. The company was founded by his grandfather.

Bracken May Be Called in for Liquor Advice

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the Ontario government is getting advice from former Manitoba premier John Bracken for study and revision of the province's liquor laws.

The paper says in an Ottawa dispatch the Ontario government intends to obtain Mr. Bracken's services as a consultant on both liquor and farm marketing legislation.

Mr. Bracken headed a royal commission in Manitoba which investigated all aspects of the sale and consumption of alcohol. His long association with co-operative farm marketing also qualified him as an expert on this subject.

Says The Globe:

"The Bracken commission report has been thoroughly studied at Queen's Park and by the Ontario Liquor Control Board and is regarded as a model work on the subject."

Rival Party Supporters Battle On Main Street of Quebec Town

FORT COULONGE, Que. (CP) Five carloads of Quebec Provincial Police moved into this Ottawa Valley community Sunday night to quell disturbances between rival Progressive Conservative and Liberal factions.

Additional police reinforcements are expected to be sent to the Quebec lumber town 75 miles northwest of Ottawa when averns are opened after polls close at 6 p.m. EST.

No arrests were made but the main street of Fort Coulonge, a community of 1,600, was, the scene of more than a dozen fights in a four-hour period. One angry group rocked a provincial police cruiser.

Some 1,400 persons, many from surrounding centres, gathered in the town to hear final speeches by Hugh Proudfoot, seeking his fourth term as Liberal member of the Commons for Pontiac-Temiskaming, and Paul Martineau, Conservative candidate. Mr. Proudfoot defeated Mr. Martineau last June by 764 votes.

Some 700 persons attended a meeting held by Mr. Martineau in a separate school. However, Mr. Proudfoot had to hold an outdoor meeting.

The Liberal candidate said Mr. Martineau had managed to get hold of all available space.

Mr. Proudfoot spoke to some 700 persons from a porch in front of a pool hall.

The disturbances started when a 300-car "Proudfoot" motorcade arrived from nearby centres. The main street was blocked by a car.

One man drove his car into a crowd which threatened to turn the vehicle over. When the car came to a stop men were sprawled on the road and across the hood.

Gerald Donoghue, photographer for the Ottawa Citizen, was warned by several persons to stop taking pictures "or we'll haul you off there and break your camera over your head." Donoghue was on the roof of a school.

"We fought Hitler and the gestapo in the last war," Mr. Proudfoot said. "Now we are up against the same thing here. The provincial police are the gestapo."

Hopes That U.S. And Britain Will Join In Test Ban

Bulganin Is Appointed State Bank's Chairman

MOSCOW (CP)—Russia today announced she will test no more nuclear weapons, declaring an immediate suspension regardless of Western plans for further tests.

The announcement was made to a joint session of the Soviet parliament, the Supreme Soviet, by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev earlier announced his new cabinet list to the same session, leaving virtually unchanged the team which governed under ex-premier Nikolai Bulganin, whom Khrushchev replaced last week.

Gromyko remains foreign minister and Anastas Mikoyan a first deputy premier.

BULGANIN TO BANK

Khrushchev said Bulganin will become chairman of the state bank, a post he held for several years before the war.

The Supreme Soviet approved Khrushchev's cabinet list.

In his announcement of the suspension of nuclear tests, Gromyko criticized the United States and Britain for being unwilling to agree to a ban on nuclear weapons.

AGREEMENT IS AIM

He said it is Russia's aim to reach an agreement with other powers on an "unconditional ban of all types of atomic and hydrogen weapons, the ending of their production and complete destruction of existing stocks with appropriate control.

Gromyko said one could not fail to perceive that some leaders in the West, particularly in the U.S., see in the stopping of atomic weapon tests a danger to the economies of the Western countries.

Any danger to the Western economies, he added, lay not in the stopping of nuclear tests or an end to the armaments race but in the militarization at present gripping the whole of the economies of countries belonging to the Atlantic bloc.

Gromyko said: "The Council of Ministers proposed that as a first step the Soviet Union unilaterally cease conducting tests of all forms of nuclear weapons in the hope that Britain and the U.S. will join."

If other powers did not follow the Soviet example and continued testing, the Soviet Union would have to take further measures for its own security, he said.

Gromyko's statement was greeted with a swelling roar of applause from the 1,400 deputies assembled in the great Kremlin chamber.

His proposal appeared to mean that the Soviet Union unilaterally ceases tests as of today.

NO LIMIT MENTIONED

No immediate indication was given of how long the Soviet Union will enforce the ban unilaterally.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today questioned the reliability of Russia's one-country stop order on H-bomb tests, and called on the Kremlin to operate in that field in an "orderly" manner under the United Nations.

A state department statement noted the United Nations recently approved overwhelmingly "a comprehensive first-stage disarmament proposal and called on the nations concerned to begin at once technical studies as to how these proposals might be carried out."

"The Soviet Statement comes on the heels of an intensive series of secret Soviet tests," it noted:

Thos tests themselves "should arouse world opinion to the need to deal in an orderly and dependable way with the testing and related aspects of the disarmament problem."

Moscow's announcement had been anticipated, and the U.S. statement obviously was ready in advance except perhaps in minor detail.

It said Soviet official propaganda "incessantly seeks to create abroad the image of a peace-loving Soviet government."

"But that same government openly defies the United Nations with respect to both the substance and the procedure of disarmament."

That was a reference to the Russian action in boycotting the disarmament commission set up by the UN General Assembly.

Moscow still boycotts that procedure even after expansion of the commission to a membership of 25 in an effort to meet Soviet objections that the earlier smaller commission had been stacked against the Communist bloc.

Says Reuther Greater Threat Than Sputnik

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee wound up its inquiry of the violence-studded Kohler strike Saturday night after an uproarious session in which Walter Reuther slugged it out verbally with three Republican senators.

Reuther accused them of taking part in a design to destroy him and the United Auto Workers union he heads.

One of the senators, Barry Goldwater of Arizona, told reporters as the hearing ended he still considers Reuther "more dangerous than the Russian Sputniks."

Another apologized to Mundt for some of his remarks, but did not include Goldwater or Senator Carl T. Curtis (Rep. Neb.) in his regrets.

BOOKS IN SHAPE

The union leader earlier smiled broadly as the committee's accountant investigator, Carmine Bellino, testified he had examined the UAW's books closely and found them in "excellent" shape—far different, he said, from the slipshod and false entries he has uncovered in some other unions.

The number of voters in South Hastings taking advantage of the advance poll to cast their vote for today's general election was down slightly from the number cast in the June 10th election, it was noted today by William VanTassel, riding returning officer.

Votes cast at the Belleville advance poll totalled 195, down nine from last June, while at Trenton only 10 votes were cast at the advance poll, also down nine from the June 10th election.

The only other advance poll in the riding was at Tweed, where seven votes were polled.

Two hours later the car was spotted by Oakville police, who took the two occupants into custody.

Could Have Been Serious Loss by Fire at Y.M.C.A.

Chance discovery by the police night patrol officer, who had happened to reverse his beat, prevented what could have been a serious fire at the Belleville YMCA Saturday night.

A firecracker is believed to have started the blaze outside a basement window, the fire being sucked through a ventilating fan to catch on the floor joists.

Firemen reported the fire had burned into two floor joists and blackened the floor above before it was extinguished.

"It was fortunate indeed that the fire was discovered when it was or a very serious fire might have resulted," Fire Chief Gerald Vance said today.

The blaze was discovered by Constable C. Peters, who had happened to reverse his beat. Otherwise the blaze may have gone unnoticed for some time before it was discovered.

A strict quarantine has been ordered in the Chippewa County area. Pets must be confined.

Bishop of Ontario Confirms 53 Candidates at St. Thomas'

A capacity congregation witnessed the ancient ritual of the laying on of hands at St. Thomas' Anglican Church Sunday morning.

The Right Rev. Kenneth C Evans, DD., DCL., Bishop of Ontario performed the sacred rites of confirmation receiving 53 candidates into full membership of the church.

The Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, MBE., L. Th., rector of the church conducted the service. The Rev. C. P. Heaven, L. Th., honorary assistant to the rector, acted as the Bishop's chaplain.

The choir under the direction of organist and choir director Robert H. Bell offered the anthem "Come, Holy Ghost".

Canon McConnell extended a cordial welcome to Bishop Evans on behalf of the congregation. The distinguished churchman met and talked with the candidates personally following the service.

In welcoming the candidates Bishop Evans said "This will be the most memorable Easter experience in your lives. When you take your first communion, you will be taking a pledge of loyalty to that extraordinary drama of the Lord's Supper".

He reminded them that people in the past have become known as "C. and E. Christians" because of the fact they only take communion at Christmas and Easter. In my journeys across the country however, I find this condition is changing."

Bishop Evans related the story of Christ prior to the Last Supper. He told the experience of the Saviour with the traitor Judas and how He kept him beside Him all through the day until the Passover. "It is an extraordinary story of betrayal and loyalty on the part of the disciples."

He said the story of the first sacrifice of man was one of hatred, fratricide and murder. God refused the bread and wine and took the Lamb. Later when Jesus accepted the bread and wine He said it was Himself. In communion, the two sacrifices are united in the sacrament.

Bishop Evans said in communion everyone is united ideally and actually with those who have gone beyond. It is a great time of reconciliation. "Next Sunday when I take communion, I will find myself reunited with John Knox and Cromwell although at one time they hated us. It is a pledge of loyalty, of Christian charity to all men and particularly to all believers."

Tangible tribute to Col. Fairman was expressed in a beautiful chest of crystal, the gift of the officers, and presented by Major Joe Black assisted by Captains Harold Vaughan and Charles Bristol.

Special guests at the dinner included representatives of the other armed services. They were AVM J. G. Bryans, air officer commanding the Trenton Training Command; Group Captain T. A. Spruston, commanding officer No 6 Repair Depot, Trenton, Group Captain C. Cox, commanding officer Station Trenton, RCAF; Lieut.-Colonel Gordon Vincent, commanding officer Royal School of Artillery, Picton; Brigadier Eric Snow, commandant Eastern Area, Kingston; Lieut. J. J. MacDonald, commanding officer Royal Canadian Corps of Sea Cadets here Leut.-Col. W. A. Daverr, Lieut.-Col. Milton Davison, and Major Colin Hepburn.

Also included were Lieut. Carl Hubbell, Camp Borden, Lieut. R. Q. Phillips, Montreal, Lieut. J. Campbell, Scarborough and Major Alex Brules, now the medical officer of health at Scarborough. These officers were associated with Col. Fairman when he commanded the 9th Anti Tank Regiment (ALI).

The dinner was chaired by Col Duffy.

The toast to Col. Fairman was proposed by the regimental chaplain Major A. S. McConnell, MBE.

Major McConnell reviewed the military career of the guest of honor stressing the invaluable work he had done in welding together and training three units into one efficient fighting regiment.

"Usually when a colonel takes over a regiment he has but one unit to train. Col. Fairman had three and through his diplomacy, and ability emerged with a single highly-trained co-operative regiment".

City Firemen Had Busy Day With Grass Fires

A warning to persons setting out grass fires that they will be held responsible for any damage which results, was issued this morning by Fire Chief Gerald Vance.

City firemen were called out on an even dozen calls on Saturday, most of the alarms being for grass blazes which got out of control.

Four of the grass fire alarms had firemen out at the same time, it was reported.

"The only way to stop the frequency of grass fires is to hold persons setting them responsible for any damage which might result," stated the fire chief.

Police Blotter

Property damage of about $200 resulted on the Bay Bridge Road over the weekend when a car driven by Elwood Cronk, R.R. 2, Bloomfield, was struck by another vehicle which failed to stop.

Louis Radonicich, Trenton Rd. R.R. 3, Belleville, complained that his station wagon had been stolen from outside 141 George St. The vehicle was later recovered on the Belleville Collegiate parking lot.

Goldie Mercer reported a car radio antenna and mirror had been taken from her car parked at 61½ Emily St.

IN MEMORIAM

McCANN. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Thomas Albert McCann, who passed away March 31st, 1957.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair;
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.

—Ever remembered by wife and Robert.

McCANN. — In loving memory of a dear father, Thomas Albert McCann, who passed away March 31st, 1957.

In tears we saw you sinking, dad,
We watched you fade away;
Our hearts were almost broken,
You fought so hard to stay.
But when we saw you sleeping,
So peacefully, free from pain;
We could not wish you back, dad
To suffer that again.

—Ever remembered by daughter Betty, Ed and boys.

DERMOTT. — In loving memory of a wonderful dad and grandfather, W. E. (Hap) Dermott, who was killed in an auto accident February 18th, 1953, and a wonderful mother and grandmother, Mrs. W. E. Dermott, who passed away March 31st, 1949.

Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughter and son-in-law Verna and Lyle Weese and grandchildren Ann and Bill

CLARE.—In loving memory of Mrs. William Clare, who passed away March 31st, 1949.

I do not need a special day,
To bring you to my mind;
For the days I do not think of you
Are very hard to find.

—Always remembered by Mrs. Codway.

CLARE. — In loving memory of a dear wife, Ann Clare, who passed away March 31st, 1949.

Oh what would I give to clasp your hand,
Your dear, kind face to see;
Your loving smile, your welcome voice,
That meant so much to me.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have such can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one I loved so well.

—Sadly missed by her husband and family.

SHOENER. — Treasured memory of our dearly beloved only son and brother, WO 2 Kenneth Frank Shoener, R.C.A.F., and all the crew killed on active service, March 31st, 1944.

Like falling leaves the years pass by,
But memories of you, Ken, will never die.
Dear son, you are in our hearts to stay,
Loved and remembered each long, lonely day.
Forever there will be that sad vacant place,
Dear Ken, your charm, your dear smiling face,
Though lost in this life so young and so fair,
Gone from the earth of sorrow and care.
Loved deeply in life and still living yet,
In the depths of our hearts we can never forget.
In memory's lane go our thoughts today,
Of our dear son who is just away.
We had him all those lovely years,
When he was small, through happiness and tears.
Every nook and corner of our place,
Is part of him, his laughing face,
It is not framed in rarest gold,
Nor hung for all to see,
It's carried deep within our hearts,
Our dear son's memory.
Sleep on dear son, 'till we meet by and by.
No flower can we place on the grave where you lie.
The great wide ocean doth keep us apart,
But your dear smiling face still shines in our hearts.
God in heaven, hear my prayer,
Leave him sleeping in Your care,
Be the Good Shepherd, don't let him roam,
Love him as I loved him when he was home.
To hold him in my arms again,
Would be my dearest wish,
Just to say "Goodnight son."
And give him one big kiss.
Deep in my heart the memory is kept.
Alone, loved, and will never forget.
And though the years be many or few,
I'll always be thinking, dear Ken, of you.

—Lovingly remembered by Mom Dad, sister Frances, Fred, Nancy and Kenny.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market dipped lower today in light morning trading as election discussions took priority over market talk on the trading floor.

Although the first-hour volume of 756,000 shares was the heaviest in more than a month, five mines selling at less than $1 contributed nearly one-half the total sales. Friday's volume at 11 a.m. was 419,000.

Most active stock was Martin-McNeely, up ½ cent to 23 cents, amid a turnover of 150,000 shares. Silver-Miller, which gained 8 cents at 73 cents, was active with a volume of almost 100,000 shares.

The major indexes were softer with industrials leading, off three-quarters of a point. Base metals eased a bit less than a half point and western oils were down a quarter. Golds added a few decimal points to their index.

Price changes in all sections were small.

Americans Await Outcome Of Election With Interest

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (DC) — Canadians voted today with a broad segment of informed Americans awaiting the outcome with an interest rarely displayed south of the border.

It can safely be said that this Canadian election, because of its possible effects on Canada - U.S. relations and the personalities involved, has drawn more attention in the United States than any other vote in Canada's 90-year history.

At the same time, despite this growing awareness that Canadian politics can produce influences felt here, it must be recognized that the interest is concentrated largely in a body of responsible Americans who, for one reason or another, realize the U.S. has a big stake in its northern neighbor.

VARIOUS FIELDS

These include federal government officials whose job requires a continuing study of Canadian policies as they affect the U.S., business and professional men with a natural concern about anything that might disturb economic relations, and newspapermen, who have shown an increasing editorial interest in what makes Canadian politics tick.

The average American is only dimly aware that Canadians are going to the polls for the second time in less than a year—if he is aware of it at all.

The financial community has a large stake in Canada, which provides fertile ground for American investment funds and a rich market for finished American goods. Canadian gripes over U.S. trade policies and the control exercised by U.S. capital figured largely in the campaign and the portents have not been missed in U.S. business circles.

Polling Booths Record Average Morning Interest

Morning activity at the various polling booths in the city indicated just average interest on the part of the public, it was stated at noon today by William VanTassel, riding returning officer for South Hastings.

"The polls are far from being busy," Mr. VanTassel said "and I hope the turnout is better this afternoon or there will be a big pile-up at six o'clock tonight when the polls close."

Mr. VanTassel said that the light morning vote was quite general throughout the city with all polls visited having anywhere from 20 to 25 voters out during the morning.

Most of these votes had been polled before nine o'clock by voters dropping in to the polling booths on their way to work.

In Trenton, a heavier vote has been recorded so far than in the June 10 elections. The Kiwanis Club there is conducting a campaign to get voters out to the polls. After each person casts his ballot, the club presents him with a lapel button, carrying the words: "I have voted, have you?"

Aluminum Fights Hard for Share Metal Business

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — In the battle of the metals aluminum has slugged hard — and early. Price cuts announced last week are one of its weapons.

Spurred by the general recession and by an expanded production capacity that makes for over supply, aluminum firms are eyeing new fields with what producers call confidence instead of cockiness.

Some predict that new uses will raise total consumption by 750,000 tons within the next three years. Lower prices could help.

Aluminum is making a big bid for wider use in ground transportation. It's eyeing the financially ailing railroads. With some 1,500 U.S. rail passenger cars now using aluminum, Aluminium Ltd. of Canada is starting a big push for more use in freight cars.

QUOTES SAVINGS

It says aluminum cars would be cheaper to operate because of their lightness, which also makes for faster hauling. Also claimed are large savings in maintenance, now estimated to cost the roads $600,000,000 annually.

Here are some of of the many other drives under way:

Aluminum Company of America and others are aiming at the home building market. Alcoa figures the average house now uses 40 pounds, believes this can be raised to 1,000 pounds.

Aluminum foil is making bigger inroads in cooking techniques and the metal is getting a foothold in the can industry. Reynolds Metals will supply 35,000,000 quart cans for motor oil to Esso Standard Oil.

Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical has an order for 5,500,000 cans from a food processor.

Aluminum's assault on the freight car market has to fight the fact that even if the cars weigh less, the price a pound is many times that of steel. Aluminium Ltd. officials estimate the cost difference is about $3,000 a car. Their talking point is the cost-saving ratio of weight to payload.

Child Burned

WINDSOR (CP) — Eighteen-month-old Cora Conlin suffered third-degree burns Saturday night when a hotplate set fire to a chesterfield. Police said her parents, Jim and Jessie Conlin, were in a beer parlour at the time.

Police said a young couple saw some curtains burning, entered the frame house and put out the fire. Seven-year-old Patricia Conlin had already pulled the burning sheet from off the baby.

Mr. Conlin said he had set up the sheet so the child would breath in steam from a pan on the hotplate to ease the baby's case of croup.

He said Mrs. Conlin came to the beer parlour to ask him to get medicine for the baby.

C.E. 'Red' Fhie Winner of Legion Euchre Title

TRENTON — C. E. "Red" Fhie, a member of the RCAF stationed at Trenton and also a member of Branch 110, was winner of the Legion Euchre Championship held in the games room of the new Trenton Legion Memorial hall recently, it was announced by the president.

Many good scores were turned in by the more than 40 entrants, but the popular "Red" emerged the victor and thus qualified for the "Tournament of Champions" planned by the Branch for early next winter.

Mr. Fhie will receive his trophy, a suitably engraved silver tankard, at the next meeting of the Branch in April when the presentation will be made by the Branch Sports Officer, W. H. "Bill" Milne.

Among the contestants was Charlie Baker, the oldest member of the Branch and a keen euchre player. Charlie's record for the day was one of the best as he demonstrated some of the finer points of the game to several of his younger opponents.

Large Portrait Of Her Majesty Hung in Legion

TRENTON — A painting of Her Majesty the Queen, which is three feet high, two feet wide and suitably framed has been presented to Branch 10 of the Canadian Legion for their new hall.

The presentation of the picture was made at a recent meeting and now the picture holds a prominent place of honor where it is visible to all who enter the new hall.

The painting was presented by Lloyd Woods of Peterborough on behalf of his company, the Molson Brewery. Mr. Woods had told the local legion members some time ago that he felt his company would be willing to donate a large portrait of the Queen to replace the smaller one the Branch had already been using.

The picture was accepted, on behalf of the Canadian Legion, by president John Farrell, who thanked Mr. Woods and asked him to express the sincere appreciation of the Branch to the company he represents.

Town Briefs

FIREMAN ILL

TRENTON — Gord Coughlin, a lieutenant with the local fire department, was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital on Friday night suffering from severe pains in the abdomen. He underwent x-rays and treatment over the weeknd and is reported to be resting much better today. It is not known when Lieut. Coughlin will be able to return to work.

HYDRO REPAIRS

The hydro power was turned off yesterday afternoon from 1.30 to 3.30 p.m. to allow workmen to make a changeover without endangering their lives. It was reported it was just a routine job in connection with one of the sub-stations and had been advertised in both the local papers well in advance. However, Hydro officials are anxious to make it known it was not a power failure as many citizens had believed.

BACK HOME

Freeman French of Wragg Street was discharged from the Trenton Hospital yesterday after he suffered a mild heart attack last Friday. It was reported Mr. French was found lying on the street and was rushed to the hospital. He had been on his way home when the incident occurred. He is reported to be in good health following his short stay in the hospital, but will have to "take it easy" for the next few weeks.

Firemen Answer Three Calls Over Weekend

TRENTON — Firemen were called out three times over the weekend to fires which, through their quick response, were kept from doing any serious damage to the property concerned.

The first call came from the home of George Ross, 96 West Street, where an oil burner was out of control. Firemen had little trouble getting it back in order.

The second came from the Dutch Mill Inn where fire had started in one of the sections of the new motel being built there. It was reported workmen had accidentally set fire to the paper on the insulation bats and it roared up inside the walls for a time. Firemen had it out with a minimum of damage to the new building. Firemen also reported a considerable amount of mud at the working area which did little to aid them getting around.

The third call came in from 247 Byron Street where a grass fire had gotten out of control. Firemen rushed to the scene to fight the blaze from one end while firefighters from the RCAF Station, Trenton, were battling it from the other end, near Middleton Park.

No buildings were threatened seriously by the grass fire.

Police Department officials report only three accidents on Saturday and one on Sunday with all of them being of a minor nature.

Twelve Teams Compete for Bowling Titles

TRENTON — Twelve teams from as far away as Oshawa competed in the District "F" bowling finals at Campbellford on Saturday afternoon, March 22.

Peterborough, Bowmanville and Trenton each were represented by two teams, with single teams from Oshawa, Campbellford, Belleville, Stirling, Marmora and Hastings.

The Trenton delegation was headed by Branch No. 110 sports committee chairman W. H. "Bill" Milne and consisted of most of the best bowlers in the branch.

Number One team, captained by Earl Whitney, included Tom Fletcher, Fred Yardy, Don Allison, Wally Dance and Horace Ketcheson, while Doug Ramsay was captain of the second team of Frank Ursich, George Mountenay, Eric Gordon, Ernie Stinson and Joe Hastings.

The team event was won by Peterborough No. 1, with Oshawa 2nd and Peterboorugh No. 2 third. Best individual scorer in the team event was Ernie Stinson of Trenton No. 2, with a fine 805 effort.

In the doubles competition, the Trenton duo of E. Whitney and Fred Yardy were the winners with an excellent 1376 total. Campbellford was the runner-up with Bowmanville in the show position.

In the singles events, Belleville was the winner with a great 812 score, closely followed by Peterborough.

The provincial playoffs will be held in Hamilton shortly and Comrades Whitney and Yardy will be on hand to represent Branch 110.

Spring Starts Lawn-Raking Garden Digging

TRENTON — Spring clean-up is just around the corner, but for some residents of Trenton it is already here.

A tour around the town Saturday afternoon saw many people out raking their lawns and burning the "winter debris" in their backyards or incinerators. A few residents of Middleton Park are included in these "early birds" giving the beautiful lawns in front of their homes a snappy new and clean look.

Some home owners are even out digging up their flower beds in preparation for spring planting. Others have taken the winter overcoat of mulch off their beds, and the early plants are being drawn out by the warm sunshine which has been the order of the day all last week, weatherwise, in Trenton.

A LITTLE EARLY

However, for most townspeople it is a bit on the early side to start the usual spring cleaning program when properties are cleared of paper, cans and leaves, but the warm weather warns it won't be long until the tinge of burning leaves and paper will fill the evening air.

The town gardener has already been on the job for the parks board and it has been noted some digging and tree planting has been done in the Fraser Memorial Park. It is also expected he will soon be able to get more work completed on the park board's project at Mount Pilion.

Another more hazardous phase of spring cleaning will also be taking place soon, this being the burning of old grass. Each year fire department officials are called out to various parts of town to fight grass fires which have become out of control. Already this year they have been called out to three. One in January and two last week.

Firemen urge that residents who burn grass on their property use extreme care and burn only small areas at a time, and in such a manner they will not become raging uncontrolled sheets of flames.

Perhaps one of the best ways is to burn an area near the end of the property and then burn strips of grass down wind from the burnt area which will form as a fire break and put the flames out when they reach it. In this manner grass fires are easily controlled and can be let burn without any worry towards damage to buildings or other property.

Landscaping around the office and in the yards of heavy industrial plants has not become noticable as yet but these plants have always been noted for their beautification projects and it is expected they will start soon.

Properties in front of the older plants in town are, however, easier to look after now that they have been established and it is just a matter of waiting for the opportunity to get at it.

FARMING EARLY?

In the surrounding farming areas some farmers are expecting to get their land ready for seeding a little earlier this year than last, due to the shorter than usual winter and the early spring. One farmer said he expected to get his early potato seed in at least two weeks sooner. This, of course, will depend on spring rains which could easily change his mind. Too much dampness after the seed has been planted could mean rotting in the ground at a considerable loss of money, time and energy.

Another farmer, speaking a little on the pessimistic side, said he felt that unless there was a considerable amount of rain this spring the crops would be poor. In explaining he said precipitation in the form of snow this winter was lower than usual and this could mean a lack of moisture in the ground. Heavy spring rains would, he said, make up for it.

Repair, Rebuilding Town Streets To Cost in Vicinity of $73,000

TRENTON — Repairing, rebuilding, widening of town streets and sidewalks coupled with the extending of the town sheds will cost in the vicinity of $73,000 for this year, town engineer Eric Aldersey said recently.

The figures and information were released after the town council had approved the new budget and struck a tax rate for 1958. The public works committee, under the chairmanship of Councillor Joe Gould, reported they had received most of the money they asked for to allow them to make the necessary repairs around town.

AN EXTENSION

The new building will be an extension to the present one at the town yards on Myers and Ontario streets. It will house machinery that, at present, there is no room for inside. The addition will be a 60 by 40 foot affair made of cement blocks and with a 20-year bonded roof. This is the same type of roof which covers the building now used. The older shed is housing the yard offices, stores and garage space for some of the town's machinery.

It is expected that tenders will be called for this in the near future.

In street and sidewalk repair it is expected that several portions of some of the main streets will be widened. This will include both east and west areas on Dundas St. as well as Division St. On the latter it will be a continuation from the work done previously and will be carrying on from King St.

The public works department also proposes to carry on some of their surfacing treatment program and plan to do about five miles of it which would be the same as last year. They also plan to carry on with last year's project of re-building some of the streets, other than the main streets, where traffic is considered heavy. This type of work means the complete rebuilding of the roadway to make it a more permanent job.

GAS LINE WORK

All street repairs and rebuilding will be guided, more or less, by the work to be done by the gas pipe line when they begin to lay their feeder lines along the various town streets.

The Public Works Chairman and the town engineer feel there is little to be gained by preparing a street for traffic and then have it dug up again to lay pipe lines, both along the street and then across it into the homes which decide to use it.

They say however, the Corporation will endeavor to ensure that the boulevards will be used to lay the pipe lines wherever possible. In this way, with the gas line coming down both sides of the street it would be necessary to dig up the streets to run lines into homes. They understand of course this would not be economically or physically possible in some cases.

SEE CO-OPERATION

The Public Works Department officials said they were anticipating the usual excellent cooperation from the Lakeland Gas Company in this respect.

Ordinary maintenance to gravel roads and the patching of hard-surfaced roads will be carried out all during the summer months.

The repairs to the town bridge which will close it to traffic for about six weeks, will cost in the vicinity of $60,000 with 50 per cent of it paid back in government subsidy. This will leave $30,000 for the town to raise through debentures. The bridge work is not expected to begin until the new 401 bridge is completed and ready for traffic.

Also included in the Public Works budget estimates was $11,000 for winter control which includes snow removal and sanding, etc. This amount was the same as had ben budgeted for the previous year.

Provisions were also made for the purchase of a new heavier road grader, a replacement for one of the department's four ton dump trucks and a new sander attachment for sanding streets which will be used on the rear of a truck. The town already owns one but found the need for a second one prominent.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The first indication that Belleville Wolf Cub packs may reactivate once-familiar Cubs Own services was seen last night at Eastminster United Church and St. Joseph's Church, when Cubs from the 10th, 12th, 13th, 17th, 18th and Melrose packs attended special Cub services.

All told about 80 Cubs and leaders assembled at St. Joseph's school and marched to Herchimer Ave, where the boys divided into two groups, the Protestants going to Eastminster and the Roman Catholic boys attending St. Joseph's Church.

Services in both churches were aimed at "the boy" and, judging from the favorable comments overheard after the services, Cubs Own services may again become familiar activities in this city, especially since the 24 packs have been divided into four families.

Wednesday evening Cubs of the 10th will attend a pre-Easter service in Holloway Street United Church. Instead of arriving at 6.30 for their regular pack meeting, the boys will arrive at 7.45 to go into the church in a body. Sea Scouts of the same group will attend the service.

KHRUSHCHEV TIRED OF BERGEN ROLE?

There's one feature about Russian politics which is pleasing to editorial writers.

The manoeuvres are so involved, the real reasons behind changes in policy and personnel so shrouded in secrecy, that almost anybody can equal the score of the self-styled experts when it comes to prognostications and analysis.

The ousting of that prolific letter-writer, Nicolai Bulganin, as premier of the Soviet Union, and his replacement by Nikita Khrushchev is good for another round of conflicting interpretations.

We shall be better able to assess the possible accuracy of these reports if we bear in mind the fact that the position of premier of the USSR is not necessarily one conferring wide powers on its holder. For instance, Molotov was premier from 1930 to 1941, but nobody suggested that his power was equal to Stalin's, and when Stalin replaced him as premier in 1941 Motoltov still continued to be one of Stalin's most important henchmen. It is worth noting that the position which really made Stalin dictator of the Soviet Union was the same which Khrushchev has held, first secretary of the Communist Party. While there seems little doubt that Khrushchev does not hold the same supreme power as his successor, his stepping into the premiership may have as little real significance as did Stalin's similar action in 1941.

Two sentences in a Canadian Press despatch from Moscow may give us a clue as to a possible reason for the switch. "The parliamentary machinery went into action to make Khrushchev head of government," states the despatch. "As such he will face Western leaders across the table if any summit conference is held."

Perhaps Khrushchev just thought it would be more convenient if he could speak out in his own voice, instead of playing Bergen to Bulganin's McCarthy, at any summit parley.

WITH APOLOGIES TO SOME RHYMSTER WHOSE NAME WE CAN'T REMEMBER

Away down south in New Orleans, the lawyers must be full of beans. After business they must go and a lot of folks now have new woe. Cancer claimed Frank J. Lartigue and now his widow's lawyers argue the firm which sold cigarets to him gave him warning mighty slim. Plaintiff says the firm which advertised should also have advised its product, besides being tasty, might bring an exit that was hasty. Seven hundred thousand is the sum the widow claims for damage done. If this suit should succeed, many more lawyers we will need. Gentlemen who like to drink will have to be warned first to think about the effects a party-giver has on everybody's liver. Firms that manufacture cars, as well as those who own bars, would be under obligation to give full warning to the nation of the often fatal tricks when rye and gas are mixed. Many a man who buys a ladder leaves a wife a whole lot sadder that his life insurance lapsed the month before they sounded taps. Even editors would be wise to remember groans and sighs brought about by dreary news and politician's gloomy views could cause a fatal leak in a heart whose valve is weak. This ain't prose and this ain't poem so I think I'll just go home.

A FERVENT HOPE

Spring is the season for the annual rounds of the head cold. The common cold has kept medical experts and scientists baffled for years trying to find the cause and cures of the malady. So far, they have not made much headway against one of Mother Nature's closely guarded secrets.

It seems astonishing that the virus of the common cold has never been spotted under a microscope, when mankind has been able to invade other more secluded nooks of Nature's cupboard and exit with at least an inkling of her more intimate secrets.

We sincerely hope that Mother Nature relinquishes another of her secrets to researchers before our current head cold advances another sneeze.

COSTS TIME

Another unfair thing is that women have to work hard and pay big money to achieve the sack look, whereas it just comes naturally to men with the passing of the years. (Hamilton Spectator.)

THE DEATH OF WINTER

Let's bury old winter down deep,
Down deep;
Let's put the old fellow to sleep,
To sleep;
Oh, under the crocuses let him lie,
'Neath the green of the grass and the blue of the sky,
And let him slumber, forgotten quite,
For the spring is here and the world is bright.

Let's bury our grouches down deep,
Down deep;
Let's put all our sorrows to sleep,
To sleep;
'Neath the bloom of a smile and a laughing eye,
Let us hide them away and let them die.
Though winter and sorrows must have their fling,
For the heart that loves, it is always spring

Mighty, Mysterious Mekong

National Geographic Bulletin

Rising in the snow locked Tangiha range of China's Tsinghai province, one of the world's mightiest and most mysterious rivers flows 2,600 miles to the South China sea.

As yet untamed, the Mekong may eventually be harnessed as a major source of power for southeast Asia. A single series of cascades and falls, eight miles wide, discharges a volume of water roughly twice that of Niagara. At present a United Nations mission is making an air-land survey to devise plans for the lower river's development.

The Mekong comes from a breeding ground of great rivers. Jagged gorges guard its passage from the Tibetan highlands through southwest China. There the Mekong, the Salween and the Yangtze race southward in huge parrallel canyons only a few dozen miles apart before fanning out toward distant seas.

The famed Burma road meanders alongside the Mekong before crossing on a suspension bridge.

Descending to lower levels, the river forms Laos' border with Burma and part of Thailand, then snakes through Cambodia and South Vietnam. All told, it drains an area of 350,000 square miles and brings water to some 17 million people of its lower basin.

But the Mekong is not a friendly river. Travelers find that it has a sinister, overwhelming force. Its sheer size, its dangerous rapids and shoals seem to shrink the environs into insignificance. The river has never been an outstanding commercial highway.

An air of mystery also hangs over the Mekong. It begins high in snowy regions linked to the legend of the Abominable Snowman. Overlooking the river in gloomy mountain wastes are rocks engraved with the prayer formula, "Om Mani Padme Hum" (O thou jewel in the lotus, amen). A colossal glacier grinds down to the Mekong from massive Kaakerpu.

In the wild country of Laos tribesmen, the river comes into a Stygian place where volcanic vents steam above the swirling current. Then the Mekong widens and bears teak logs downstream. It rushes past sand bars containing gold dust and gravel beds yielding sapphires.

The Mekong touches two capitals — Vientiane, Laos and Cambodia's easygoing trade hub, Phnom Penh.

Tropical lowlands finally subdue the Mekong. Green fields and bamboo thickets press upon its shores. Channels are as serene as lagoons. People live on thatched sampans. Bamboo floats are fastened to children's waists to keep them from drowning if they fall in, and tethered ducks swim about the boats.

The Mekong splits into three great arms in South Vietnam to form its delta, one of the world's greatest rice producing areas. Its long journey from the Tibetan highlands to the sea ends south of Saigon.

Last Year's Driver

New York Times

A few days ago the head of the house was driving along the Merrit Parkway, headed west to New York from Boston, which is Down East. He was going at his usual rate of speed, which is the statutory number of miles per hour, plus five for the pot. There was nothing unusual about this, and the trip so lacked incident that even the drivers in the back seat were still. Suddenly he saw on the road ahead a series of cones bearing signs, "Single Line," with a police car or two for emphasis. Shortly the single line came to a halt, where a larger sign said "Traffic Survey" and presently a young man stepped to the side of the car Saying the survey was one on behalf of accident prevention he asked this and that including the year of the automobile finally the age of the driver. They happened to be the same. "Quite a coincidence," the young man said, waving the car forward. The head of the house drove the rest of the way at a speed minus the five for the pot and well under the statutory limit. He also will never be the same again.

Now, while the car is not exactly a new car, it is no Model T, either. It came off the assembly line about midway in such of the Fifties as have passed to date. Presumably it has a number of good years still lying ahead as well as some pleasant excursions. To be sure, the Merritt Parkway will be bypassed on all these future excursions, but never mind. The car is O.K. and will do nicely until there is some money in the house. What happened to the driver during that depressing road block and interview is quite another matter. He never had considered himself as a last year's person driving a last year's car, and for the State of Connecticut to point this out seemed less than neighborly. Gone forever will be the five for the pot, the dreams of a Stutz Bearcat while driving a Ford. Never again will there be whimpers of caution from the back seat, for there on that Parkway the head of the house had it.

• • •

It was all done most delicately. "Quite a coincidence," was all the young man said. He should go far in life, Ambassador to the Court of St. James being well within his prospects. On the other hand, the head of the house never again will go much of anywhere. He will stay at home reading, looking at television and — at least for a time, brooding. A last year's person driving a last year's car — well, he never had thought of it in quite that light. Up until the time he hit the Merritt Parkway at a bad moment he had cruised along as though both were still young. A few hot-rods habitually passed him on the road, a police car bound for an emergency or fire engine bound for a fire. With all the rest he had held his own, cursing women drivers, swearing at slow trucks, ambling along at the statutory limit plus five.

• • •

Hopefully he told himself that night that you are as young as you think you are. He considered the fact that he still plays tennis, although perhaps finding it increasingly difficult to obtain doubles partners. He considers the fact that he still digs in the garden, looks at pretty girls, swims the width — if not the length — of the pool. All of these things should have made him feel young indeed, but due to that wretched encounter on the Parkway he did not. To be told, even obliquely, that he was nothing but a last year's driver in a last year's car was too much to be borne. A dark suspicion lingers that possibly Connecticut had all this in mind at the time. One thing about it is certain. If ever the head of the house gets on that Parkway again, he will be easily identified at any "Traffic Survey" at the end of a "Single Line." It will be he in the surrey, calling "whoa" to the horse, as the young man approaches.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

UNITY IN ONESELF

The best friend any man can have is himself. How often this fact has been demonstrated: Especially does it stand out as we grow older and more experienced. Then it is that the worthwhile things in life take on color. We see the futile and look away from it. There is a unity in oneself that we all ought to cultivate. It rounds out life, giving to it form and substance.

The building of a personality is far greater than the building of a cathedral, or even a city! A personality keeps spreading, often reaching around the world. All the time it becomes richer, leaving its imprint behind, wherever it runs into good soil. It is possible to feel this unity in oneself. It is both inherited and acquired. It gives to one the feel of power and a love of mankind.

This personal unity, however, must be kept in a state of constant repair and replenishment. Nothing goes on by itself for long. Even love has to be watered like a plant or flower. Unity in nature is what has inspired unity in the mind and heart of us all. Where there are unity and harmony there can be no anger or bitterness. Emerson said in one of his essays: "There is no beautifier of complexion, or form, or behavior like the wish to scatter joy and not pain around us." Emerson said further that "we must be as courteous to a man as we are to a picture, which we are willing to give the advantage of a good light."

I like to quote from one of my favorite writers — Marcus Aurelius. He said: "Men exist for the sake of one another." If this idea could become universal it would put an end to the slaughter of human beings in war!

Honors for the district's oldest trapper probably go to A. L. Garrison of Plainfield, who at the age of 83 years, is at present busily engaged at the annual task of muskrat trapping. Conditions are said to be unfavorable for profitable trapping this season.

Three inches of snow fell on Sunday followed by sufficient frost to improve the conditions for the making of maple syrup. Sap has not been flowing in any quantity worth while and the farmers have been doubtful of obtaining much syrup or maple sugar this season. However, farmers report today that the sap is flowing in a satisfactory manner.

Nurse Walks Eight Miles

B.B.C. Bulletin

A hospital nurse spends most of her working life on her feet, and some surprising mileages were recorded when nurses at the Middlesex Hospital, London, recently carried out an experiment to see just how far they walked in the course of a day or night duty. Talking about the experiment, Sister Keble-White who used a pedometer which measured definite steps but took no account of simple quick movements, said that on a very peaceful Sunday in her orthopaedic ward of 22 beds she found that she had walked a total of eight and a half miles in 12 hours, scarcely leaving the ward at all.

The Medical Officer whose duties include a complete tour of the hospital every day, with visits to the casualty department and the nurses' home, walked only four miles a day. One of the house surgeons walked five and a half miles, a consultant surgeon one and three-quarter miles and a medical consultant five miles. The record, however, was scored by a second-year nurse in a 20-bed medical ward, who during a night duty far less busy than usual, with only one short visit outside the ward, walked very nearly ten miles.

Strength for The Day

MONDAY — DAY OF CLEANSING

This day of Holy Week commemorates our Lord's cleansing of the Temple.

Herod the Great had erected a noble structure in which his subjects might worship. He was an evil man, as were all the Herods, but he was a builder of note, and he had spared no expense in the building of a house of worship to take place of the modest structure which had been built by the Hebrews after their return from captivity.

With the passing years, the religious life of the nation had suffered change. The places of honor had become occupied by unworthy men. Worship had lost much of its vitality. The spiritual life of the whole people was at a low ebb. As a symbolic act, indicating God's displeasure with the conduct of His affairs, Jesus entered the temple on the Monday before His crucifixion and overturned the tables of the money changers and cast out those who sold doves.

He did this to focus the attention of his contemporaries on the sad spiritual state of the nation's life. It was further meant to impress subsequent generations with the realization that the life of the church and the life of the individual must be cleansed before a healthy spiritual life can exist.

Let us look into our own lives at the beginning of this Holy Week.

To Your Good Health

MEDICAL SOCIETY SETTLES GRIEVANCES BETWEEN DOCTORS AND PATIENTS

It is always disturbing to me or any doctor to hear about a dispute between a patient and physician. We'd like to think that our profession is perfect. But it isn't; we aren't; and people have disagreements.

In my particular community, last year, there was only one complaint to the medical society per 30,000 population, which I think is a pretty good record, at that. After all, I imagine there are 30 or 40 divorces per 30,000 population. (That, also, is too bad).

Getting back to my own back yard again, some of the complaints, when investigated, showed the doctor to be at fault and some showed the patient to be at fault; a greater number of cases, however, were settled agreeably once the patient understood what had happened, and why.

What I'm driving at is clear to you, isn't it? If you have a disagreement with your doctor, seek an explanation before you decide to get mad about it. (The same holds true for your plumber, TV repairman, garageman and everybody else, I dare say.)

If, after you have asked for an explanation and still feel that thing's aren't right, then you can go to your local medical society and file a grievance. Far be it from me to stir up grievances. However, the experience in localities with which I am familiar shows that the public (or patients!) shows no inclination to start making complaints just because they know that there is a place where they can do it. There has been no increase in disputes after the medical society has taken pains to publicize the fact that the grievance committee exists for that purpose.

None of us can be certain that there won't be cases in which the doctor is definitely in the wrong. We have to accept the fact that in any basket of apples there will be an occasional bad one. But I'll promise you this: We try to keep the number of bad apples at a minimum, and we'll keep on trying.

To show you how emotions can stir up trouble, here's a real-life instance that I learned about recently. A woman had a spot on her lip and went to the doctor to see what it was. As is sometimes the case, it was a curious thing that could have been any number of things ranging from very harmless to very serious. She asked what.

The doctor said he would have to resort to microscopic tests before he could tell for sure — it might be a simple thing, or it might be cancer.

It happened to be minor, but the patient filed a complaint against the doctor for frightening her by mentioning cancer!

Well, she was scared, and why shouldn't she be? We can understand that. But it's a good example of the reason why any physician, at such times, is tempted to mutter some technical terms at you, and try to delay, before giving a definite answer, until he knows.

See where we are? Between the devil and the deep, sometimes. Still, my feeling is that it's better to speak out to a patient, candidly, even though sometimes there's a troublesome aftermath, as in this case.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes 'insanity at childbirth,' I mean the mother, of course. What are the chances of recovery? — S.J.E."

It's called a "post-partum psychosis," meaning it started right after childbirth. It is not caused by having a child; rather some already-present emotional strain breaks loose at that time of physical and mental strain. Perhaps no two cases will be exactly alike. The chances of recovery, with adequate care by a psychiatrist, tend to be pretty high, although it isn't an easy or simple matter, of course.

• • •

Mrs. L.L.C.: Lancing the abcess was just exactly what any doctor would have done to avoid needless expense and care. But now that the lancing has not succeeded, and the abcess continues, it most certainly requires more extensive treatment.

City Sits Atop Boiler

Moose Jaw Times-Herald

For long years the city of Medicine Hat has boasted that it sits on the lid of hell, due to the fact that underneath the city is an immense natural gas field.

It is a happy situation, but what about El Pillar, in Sucre State, Venezuela, which sits on top of an enormous volume of superheated steam. The subsurface boiler was discovered when drilling to determine the depth of sulphur deposits.

The company is now working out a project to use the superheated steam to generate electric power, and plans a plant capable of producing 400,000 kilowatts of electrical energy by 1960.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On the foulest day last week, when nobody but a fool or somebody who had run out of his favorite pipe tobacco would have ventured downtown to shop, I went into one of the big department stores.

The broad aisles were comfortably roomy. Only a fraction of the usual throng was on view. At a great many counters, no customers stood at all. The few who wandered the corridors had an air of idleness that was entirely out of keeping with the rush and tension characteristic of the big stores.

I encountered my favorite shirt salesman at his counter.

"A day like this," I greeted him, "must be a heavenly blessing to you people, however distressing it may be to the top management of the store."

"It certainly is," he agreed.

"A day," I reflected, "of comparative rest for all you employees."

"On the contrary," said he. "This is our day to do all the jobs we don't get a chance at, ordinarily. Re-arranging stock, listing it, bringing down fresh stock from the stockrooms. An off-customer day for us is a busier day than normal. When we wake up in the morning and see the foul weather, we snap out of it. We know we've got a hard day ahead of us."

And by the way his eyes darted this way and that way, I knew he had no time for idle gossip about the weather.

Lakewood H.S. Band to Give Concert in City

Coming to Belleville for a repeat of the performance which two years ago thrilled their local audience, the Lakewood High School Band of Lakewood, Ohio, one of the top high school musical organizations on the North American continent, will Tuesday evening, April 1, present a varied program at Quinte Secondary School auditorium.

The 122 member band from suburban Cleveland will present a program consisting of spirited march numbers, concert arias, as well as novel and special solo selections that are certain to be sure-fire hits for their Belleville audience.

Two years ago the famed high school band during its first Canadian tour, played to a capacity house in Belleville, their fine performance at that time being a conversational topic for weeks afterwards.

Since then the Lakewood Band has added laurels to an already fine record and their Belleville appearance is expected to be another sell-out.

Th current rock and roll craze will receive full recognition from the talented high school musicians. Other special features will be the band majorettes in their colorful drum majorette costumes, as well as solo numbers and novelty events.

It's a concert which Belleville and district band lovers cannot afford to miss. Tickets are available at the Quinte Secondary School and at the Quinte Bookshop. Student tickets are 75 cents with adult admission $1.00.

To Make Love Conquer Evil Just Dye Many Easter Eggs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Love will conquer evil—if you dye enough Easter eggs.

That, at least, is an old belief among farm and mountain folk of the Ukraine, now part of the Soviet Union. Easter-egg dying probably still goes on, for tradition is strong, and for centuries Ukraine peasants have believed that much depends on egg-decorating, or pysanky, as they call it

The myth underlying the superstition is that evil is a ferocious monster chained to a cliff. Each year, the monster's many servants circle the world, checking on the amount of egg-decorating in progress. If few people are engaged in the art, the chains are loosened. If many, they hold firm.

Because of this curious tale, Ukrainians have developed egg-dying to a fine art, using symbolic and geometric designs. Some Ukrainian eggs are collector's items 100 years old.

Palace accounts during the reign of England's Edward I in the 13th century show the purchase of "four hundred and a half eggs" to be "strained in boiling or covered with gold leaf" for distribution to the royal household.

It goes back much further, however.

Many a pagan culture celebrated a spring festival—the end of winter and the return of the sun – and it was the egg that held a place of honor as the fertility symbol of earth's reawakening. Earliest records show egg-dying was established custom among ancient Egyptians, Phoenicians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, Goths and Norse.

In the Christian Eastern festival, incorporating many ancient usages but transforming their religious significance, the egg become the symbol of the Resurrection, and the red coloring represented Christ's blood.

Meanings changed with geography and the passage of years, but the age-old technique of coloring delicate egg shells has remained much the same through the centuries. Today in North America, chemical dyes are used but much of the world still relies on the stains of fruits, berries, grasses and leaves for color. A basic tool is beeswax to protect the designs through successive baths of colors.

300 Canadians Share Bonanza Of $1,169,700 From Sweeps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than 300 Canadians shared a bonanza of at least $1,169,700 Saturday from sweepstakes based on the Grand National Steeplechase race at Aintree, England.

Only eight were in the big money from the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, winning a total of $672,000. Most of the others held tickets on starters and non-starters in the British turf classic, each ticket worth $1,534.

Three Montrealers held tickets in the Army and Navy Sweepstakes, collecting a total of $47,700.

Holders of tickets on the winning horse, Mr. What collected $140,000 each ;o the second place horse, Tiberetta, $56,000 each; and on the third - place horse, Green Drill, $28,000 for the one Canadian with a ticket.

Reactions by those who suddenly acquired wealth, ranged from stunned silence to hysterical happiness.

HOW THEY FELT

Here are the big winners and how they felt:

In Calgary, 53-year-old Mrs. Agnes Gordon, a widow with eight grandchildren, quietly sipped tea and smiled as Mr. What romped across the finish line to win the Aintree contest—a victory that meant $140,000 for her.

"I've always said what I wouldn't do with $140,000," quietly commented the $42-a-week cleaning woman. "Now that I've got it, I don't know what I'll do."

Another Calgary winner, Mrs. William Mackie, wife of an army sergeant major, didn't believe her $140,000 triumph at first. But a tumult of phone calls from well-wishers finally convinced her. She, too, held a ticket on Mr. What.

The mother of five even got a phone call from her son, Bob, 17, attending school at Kingston—"the call that pleased us most of all." The money will be used for a real holiday for Mrs. Mackie and her husband—the first in 19 years.

"We have the education of five children to think about, too," she added.

IT WAS STUNNING

At Chilliwack, B.C., Bruce Cowie, 32, a branch manager of a finance company, also held a ticket on Mr. What. "It was stunning," said the father of five.

He heard the news at work and couldn't think of a thing to do with the money immediately—except "take a few days off."

Four persons each held $56,000 tickets on second-place Tiberetta Alfred Lehmann, Oshawa, John Lynn, Toronto, Georges Durand and Rene Girard, both of Montreal.

Mr. Lynn, 38, Toronto truck driver who held a ticket on Tiberetta, was delivering beer when a customer told him "Your boss just phoned and said to tell you to wait here until he arrives."

Lynn said: "I was sure I had done something wrong and was going to get sacked." Instead the boss told him he had won $56,000 in sweep.

After getting the good news, he insisted on completing his deliveries. He said he'd turn over the money to his wife Edna and would remain in his job. Mrs. Lynn said the prize money would make no difference in her life.

CHANGES MIND

At Springhill, N.S., a coal miner with two young children who won $28,000 changed his mind Sunday and decided to go back to work in the pits.

James Harold McNutt, 36, told reporters earlier he doubted if he would ever return to the diggings. He said Sunday that "after talking it over with my wife" he decided to go back to Cape Breton where he got a job three weeks ago in Sydney Mines.

"If something turns up in the meantime, I'll give it a try," he said. "But for now I'm just going to carry on as though nothing has happened."

D.R. Ferguson New Assistant Field Worker

Donald R. Ferguson of Campbellford has been appointed as Assistant Field Secretary in the Quinte-St. Lawrence District announced P. I. Timmins, District Field Secretary, to replace Robert J. Padden who was transferred to Peterborough at the beginning of the year as Field Secretary of that district.

Mr. Ferguson is a graduate of The Ontario School for the Blind, Brantford, and following graduation he carried on as a piano technician in the Campbellford district. Last summer Mr. Ferguson decided to enter field service work with The Canadian National Institute for the Blind and began his training in September. From November 1st to March 21st he was at the C.N.I.B. headquarters, Baker Wood, in Toronto, taking the training course which the Institute for the Blind has developed for the training of field workers, placement officers and home teachers. Mr. Ferguson will be working in the six counties of the Quinte-St. Lawrence district. He is twenty-five years of age, and is well recommended for this important work with the blind of this district.

On The Hustings

Prime Minister Home to Cast Election Ballot

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) Home to cast his ballot in his own constituency, where his own seat is at stake in today's general elections, Prime Minister Diefenbaker retired early Sunday night in preparation for a long day.

He arrived in midafternoon by chartered aircraft, after an overnight stop in Saskatoon to visit his ailing mother in hospital. He also attended divine service there and picked up his brother, Elmer, who will spend election day here with him.

Relaxed and in good spirits, the prime minister spent the rest of Sunday quietly. He again went to church in the evening, dined privately with friends and went to bed.

Supporters who met him at the airport echoed his confidence that he will be Canada's first Conservative prime minister to lead his party into a consecutive term of office since Sir John A. Macdonald's day. The only other to have approached that feat was Sir Robert Borden, whose second ministry was a union government.

PREDICT VICTORY

Supporters here, recalling that Mr. Diefenbaker is the third prime minister to represent Prince Albert in Parliament, predicted a sweeping majority over Liberal opponent Ernie Unruh and CCF contender Mrs. Thora Wiggens today.

Prince Albert's other prime minister-members were Conservative R. B. Bennett, who later went on to a seat in the British House of Lords, and Liberal William Lyon Mackenzie King.

Sunday night Mr. Diefenbaker went quietly and unannounced to First Baptist Church here, to which he belonged when a permanent resident in this city of 22,000. A bare 75 persons were gathered in the little church when the prime minister walked in.

Rev. E. J. Church, the minister, waited until the announcements to take note of the visitor.

"This is the first time we have had the prime minister of Canada worship among us," he said. "We often had Mr. Diefenbaker before, but never as prime minister."

"In this, as in no other church in Canada, he is at home. We are honored that he should have come, in the midst of heavy obligations and only a day or two at home, to pray with us."

YOUNG MINISTER

In Saskatoon, where Mr. Diefenbaker attended morning service at the city's First Baptist Church, youthful preacher Gerry Brown found himself in the unexpected position of leading the prime minister of Canada in prayer and of preaching to him.

A final-year arts student at the University of Saskatchewan, Mr. Brown was filling in for Rev. Andrew G. Elliot, the pastor. Mr. Elliot had contracted a severe chill while in Toronto and returned to Saskatoon only Saturday night. Mr. Brown was called in at the last moment as a substitute.

Mrs. Diefenbaker, still using crutches in her recovery from the effects of a recurring back ailment, did not attend church. She does plan, however, to vote today, although she probably will visit the polls later than her husband's scheduled 8:15 a.m. visit.

The day is to be a long one for the prime minister, and already the congratulatory messages are rolling in. Many were delivered Sunday to the hotel at which he is staying. The family residence is remaining closed during his tenure of office in Ottawa.

Progressive Conservative party committee rooms here are linked by direct wire with the party's headquarters in Ottawa so that he may be abreast of results as they unfold throughout the country. It will be 2:30 p.m. here when polls close in Newfoundland and although the results may not be published in any province until their polls are closed, Mr. Diefenbaker will be able to follow them privately.

He is scheduled to make a television broadcast from Saskatoon, a 35-minute flight's distance, at 8:30 p.m. MST but whether he will be in Prince Albert, Saskatoon or in the air between them when the decisive flash goes out remains to be seen. Last year he was flying from Prince Albert to Regina for a television broadcast when the "Elected" flash went out. He expects to follow the results by radio while in the aircraft tonight.

Liberal Leader To Hear Results At Ottawa Home

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson tonight learns the result of his hustings battle to unseat Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative government and restore the Liberals to power.

The former external affairs minister wound up his campaign Saturday night at Pembroke, about 100 miles northwest of Ottawa, ending a day-long tour of the Ottawa Valley constituencies of Renfrew North and Renfrew South. He relaxed Sunday at his Ottawa home.

"I feel it's been a great campaign and that we got our message across," the 60-year - old party leader Sunday night told a reporter. "All I can say now is that it's up to the electors."

He was to vote today in Ottawa East riding, represented since 1945 by Liberal J. T. Richard.

HE IS CONFIDENT

In each of his speeches Saturday Mr. Pearson said he was confident the Liberals, upset in last June's general election, will have enough members to form the government after today's voting.

He criticized the Conservative administration for what he described as failure to grapple with unemployment. He also renewed accusations the government had alienated trade with the United States by its proposal to switch 15 per cent of Canadian imports from the U.S. to the U.K.

About 1,500 persons—a standing-room-only crowd—heard his windup speech at Pembroke, a lumbering town.

In it, the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize winner promised "peace, work, prosperity, security and national unity" for Canadians.

He looked exuberant and relaxed all day. He wore his familiar polka-dotted blue bowtie and spoke off-the-cuff with the customary left hand stuck in the trousers pocket of his rumpled blue suit.

At Renfrew and Deep River he scoffed at Conservative proposals to stem unemployment with a $1,100,000,000 public works program. He reiterated his view that his proposed $400,000,000 tax cut would be a better way.

His Deep River audience was made up mainly of technicians and other experts working at the atomic energy plant at Chalk River nearby. He told them 96 to 98 per cent of the country's uranium exports goes into the manufacture of missiles. He would like to see this percentage devoted to peaceful uses.

During an informal question-and-answer session Mr. Pearson replied he personally thinks a national commission to regulate use of all forms of energy—including atomic—will have to come about.

Asked whether he agrees with Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal of a semi-judicial body for all forms of broadcasting, including the CBC, the Liberal leader said "perhaps" the CBC board of governors should control all broadcasting as well as the CBC's own operation.

He did not want to do anything to weaken "the principle of public control of broadcasting." Yet perhaps there should be "a little more opportunity for the private broadcasters."

He favors trade with Communist China in all commodities except war materials.

A new "hard look" should be taken at the question of diplomatic recognition to Red China in the light of developments in the last year.

He would not say whether a Liberal government would give this recognition. The problem possibly could split the Western alliance. The U.S. was against recognition; Britain had already given it.

He does not think the prospective summit conference among Russian and Western chiefs of state is the way to approach East-West problems at this time. It would have heavy propaganda value for the Communists.

He would like to see the NATO Council work out the answers to some problems and then the council, or a spokesman for it, invite Russia to a meeting.

DUEL TO SETTLE BALLET DISPUTE

Despite efforts by mutual friends, the Marquis de Cuevas, celebrated ballet producer, and Serge Lifar, former star and now choreographer for the Paris opera ballet, are determined they will face each other on the duelling ground. The challenge was issued by Lifar who was "slapped" on the face by the marquis' handkerchief during a dispute in a theatre over Lifar's opposition to the use of his ballet "Black and White" by the marquis. Neither claims any degree of swordsmanship but both are training hard. Here is a study on contraction by the marquis as he practices with the epee.

Sales Are Legal Under Canadian Law--Pearson

RENFREW (CP) —, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson says the Progressive Conservatives have been slow in suggesting action on reports that a Canadian automobile company has been barred from shipping cars to Communist China because of United States influence.

Mr. Pearson was commenting Saturday on a statement by Prime Minister Diefenbaker Friday that the government intends to investigate these reports.

The Liberal leader said the United States government has no right to tell an American company to tell its Canadian subsidiary not to make sales that are legal under Canadian law.

He said the government, if it had been really concerned about this situation, should have done something last December when it was mentioned in the Commons.

"They could have let the United States government know . . . and warned them that, if this were done, there would be an outburst in Canada and that they had better watch their step," he said.

Shorter Period For Campaigns Is Suggested

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, at the conclusion of a seven-week tour of the hustings, said he felt fine but he had a feeling Canadian election campaigns were too long.

Before leaving Ottawa Saturday night for Prince Albert, where he will vote, the prime minister told reporters at the airport that the campaign had invigorated him.

"But I wonder if the time has not come when we should try to reduce the period of general election campaigns," he said.

A shorter period would meet the needs of Canada's modern democracy, he said, and he felt it would be welcomed by all political leaders.

Liberal Leader L. B. Pearson, who also finished the campaign in apparent fine fettle, was questioned Sunday on the prime minister's idea of shortening campaigns.

(He said it should be studied. If campaigns required six or seven weeks 50 years ago when transportation was not so easy, "perhaps this is something we should look into." He thought shortening the campaign would be in the general interest.)

AT ADVANCE POLLS

Mr. Diefenbaker also said he believed the classifications of those permitted to vote at advance polls should be enlarged. He had just been told by Charlotte Whitton, Progressive Conservative candidate in Ottawa West, that three potential supporters of hers were going with him to Prince Albert and would lose their votes.

The prime minister would not enter into any technical discussion of the proposals to shorten the campaign period but said he thought it could be done.

The prime minister's proposal to shorten the election campaign period runs into the problem of voters' lists, which under the Canadian system are prepared separately for every election.

Canada is one of the few countries that prepares a completely new voters' list for every general election. That task, coupled with the business of getting the electoral machinery ready for balloting in all the remote electoral districts, has established that a minimum of about 58 days is necessary to do the job efficiently and completely.

The alternative would be to keep a permanent voters' list which would revision every six months and would probably quadruple the cost of running the electoral machinery.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a committee should study the idea of adding to the classifications of those who can vote at advanced polls, now virtually restricted to commercial travellers, transportation workers, members of the reserve forces and commercial fishermen.

DAG IN SWITZERLAND

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)— Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations arrived by plane from Prague Friday after talks on disarmament and other world problems with Soviet leaders in Moscow. He left immediately for Geneva, where he is expected to spend two days at UN European headquarters. He declined to comment on his Moscow talks.

ST. ANDREW'S F.G.

GILEAD — The March meeting of St. Andrew's Friendship Guild was held March 21 at the home of Mrs. Embury and Irma.

The meeting opened with prayer by the president, Carman Huffman.

The April meeting is to be held April 18 at the home of Roy and Irene Huffman. The Guild decided to cater to a buffet luncheon for the St. John Ambulance group to be held on April 10.

Mrs. Embury and Irma took charge of the program with the former reading the Scripture, taken from Matthew 27.

Readings were given by Ruby Pound, "Is It Nothing To You?"; "The Fence Or Ambulance," by Wilma Huffman; a poem, "When You Frown" by Eloise Clare.

Irma Embury conducted an interesting tree contest.

Refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

Women's Institute

SPRINGBROOK W. I.

The March meeting of Springbrook W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. C. Gordanier Bonarlaw. The roll call — 'Prevention of Accidents' was answered by 14 members and one visitor.

After the usual opening exercises, several letters were read and discussed. Two birthday fees and several talent moneys were contributed. The president, Mrs. C. McKeown, auctioned a pretty crocheted dolly.

The district president, Mrs. E. Irwin gave an interesting and inspring address and stressed the importance of woman's work and place in the home and country.

The program was prepared by the convener of health, Mrs. Clayton Burkitt. Mrs. Gordanier read a paper, "Medicine yesterday and today". An excellent and informative topic on 'Tranquilizing and Wonder Drugs' was given by Mrs. Burkitt — who later gave a demonstration on bathing a sick patient and changing a bed.

Mrs. Clarence McKeown read a humorous selection, "Dedicated to all Sad Sack Ladies".

Bountiful refreshments were served.

Formation Of C.C. Society Detailed to W.A.

At the March meeting of the Women's Association of Bridge St. United Church, Mrs. Dallas presided over a brief business session, after which a beautifully arranged pre-Easter devotional period was conducted by Mrs. E. Gurnett, Mrs. E. Sutton, Mrs. F. Hinchey and Mrs. J. Marsh. The theme was "Woman, why weepest thou?" from St. John 20:15.

With Bible readings, prayer, and thesis the group developed the comforting thought and assurance that women need not weep if His presence is as real to women today as it was to Mary at the Tomb, for His radiance shines over all lives and lightens tribulations. One therefore, must not linger to mourn but go out and spread the glory of His love and comfort to all the world.

Mrs. R. Reidel, accompanied by Mrs. T. Franklin, sang two appropriate hymns "Throned Upon Thy Awful Tree," and "The Strife is O'er".

CRIPPLED CHILDREN SOCIETY

Miss Colton, district nurse, head of the Nursing Service for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, described the formation of the society telling how prior to 1922, ten service clubs cared for 75 crippled children. Then a more co-ordinated group was formed in 1927 with 200 service clubs caring for 12,560 children. Now there are 15 offices with a public health nurse in each. The office in Belleville has Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington under its jurisdiction, and provides for 661 children, who are crippled due to polio, cerebral palsy, deformities due to accidents or other reasons. These children are visited once a year or more often if needed.

Adequate treatment and care is the objective of the service clubs so dedicated. There are excellent clinical facilities in Belleville with Dr. Melvin, who has examined 501 children this past year.

In Bancroft the Lions club has a clinic treating 21 children and the Napanee Rotary club also sponsors a clinic. The Arthritic Society gives treatment within a 25 mile radius of Belleville by the physio-therapist, Mr. Wright, at Belleville General Hospital, and equipment is also lent out.

CAMP ESTABLISHED

The Society for Crippled Children has a camp near Perth, "Merrywood," which gave a holiday to 48 children last summer and also a ten-day holiday to handicapped adults at end of the season.

A variety village started in 1325 near Toronto, operated by this society has taken care of 24 boys at a time, from 16 to 18 years of age of which there are now 115 graduates gainfully employed.

There is still a great need for a treatment centre in Toronto to care for children from all over Ontario and provide room for administrative offices. The Easter seal campaign allows 50 per cent of funds to remain in local areas and 50 per cent to be sent to Toronto to maintain nurses, camps and remote areas without service clubs.

Mrs. Arnott thanked the speaker for her informative talk, and asked that all heed the appeal.

Tea was served by group in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thrasher are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in Bethel-Zion Church. (Photo by McCormick Studio, Belleville.)

THRASHER — RAY

Pink and white chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in Bethel-Zion United Church, March 1st., for the marriage of Betty Eileen Ray, of Halloway, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford D. Ray, to Donald Everett Thrasher, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett W. Thrasher. The Rev R. W. T. Middleton officiated.

The wedding music was furnished by Mrs B. Foster who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Floyd Ray as she sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Clifford D. Ray, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white lace and crystalette over satin, fashioned in ballerina-length with fitted bodice of white lace and skirt of crystalette and net over taffeta. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms and finger-tip lace veil, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. White satin pumps completed her ensemble.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Wayne Gow, of Plainfield, as matron of honor, attired in a gown of blue lace in ballerina-length, with matching feathered hat, and mitts, and white pumps. She carried a nosegay of white and yellow 'mums, with matching streamers.

Mrs. Harry Rhodes, Toronto, sister of the bridegroom, as senior bridesmaid, was gowned in shrimp-colored nylon chiffon in ballerina length, with matching feathered hat, mitts, and white pumps. She carried a similar nosegay of white and yellow 'mums with matching streamers.

Miss Helen Thrasher, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, as junior bridesmaid was in pale green nylon chiffon in ballerina-length with matching feathered hat, mitts and white pumps, and carried a nosegay of white and yellow 'mums, tied with white and yellow streamers.

Mr. Harry Rhodes of Toronto attended the bridegroom, while Mr. David Ray, of Halloway, brother of the bride, and Mr. Wayne Gow, of Plainfield, brother-in-law of the bride were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall, where the bride's table was appropriately appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake flanked by silver candelabra with tall white candles.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing navy blue faille with satin bow, matching accessories and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who was gowned in duty rose lace with navy accessories and corsage of bronze roses.

For the wedding trip to Detroit, Buffalo and points west, the bride chose a dark brown suit topped by a brown muskrat coat. Her accessories were of brown and turquoise, with corsage of yellow roses.

Guests attended from Detroit, Ottawa, Toronto and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Earl Groves, and at a presentation by the staff of the Canadian National Ticket and Telegraph office, when she was the recipient of two lovely lamps.

Mr. and Mrs. Thrasher will reside at 413 Bridge Street East, Belleville.

Club Activities

FELLOWSHIP CLUB

The Fellowship Club of Holloway Street United Church met on Wednesday evening with the president, Mrs. Fitzgibbon, in the chair.

It was decided to have the "Country Stall" this year at the bazaar. The president suggested a sympathy card be sent to Mrs. Hubbs and a get-well card to Mrs. Ferguson.

Devotions were taken over by Mrs. MacFarlane and her group and the Rev. T. F. Townsend led in prayer.

Mrs. Wrightmeyer read the Scripture from St. Mark, which was followed by a short reading by Mrs. MacFarlane and a solo by Miss Blatherwick. Both were enjoyed. Mr. Townsend took over the Bible study and a discussion followed with the answer from last month; each member was given a few more questions to have ready for next time. The meeting closed and refreshments were served.

Seven Girls Become Guides

POINT ANNE — The Girl Guide meeting was held on Tuesday evening in the Point Anne club house.

During the past two weeks, the 1st Point Anne Guide company has enrolled ten more Guides. This month, seven girls, Mary McDonald, Marilyn Ellis, Carolyn Chisholm, Ruby McDonald, Suzanne Insley, Leslie Wade and Patsy Cleary were enrolled by the Captain, Mrs. Laurence Horwood, assisted by the acting lieutenant, Mrs. Esmond Ellis. Mary Jane Weese, Peggy Jane Finlan and Nancy Fraser, who had been enrolled as Guides the previous week, acted as the color party.

For the recent enrollment service the Guides were honored to have both Mrs. D. G. Diamantides, newly appointed division commissioner, and Mrs. H. T. Floyd, district commissioner, present at this meeting.

Janice Files, Penny Hart and Linda Fraser were enrolled by the captain. The color party for this enrollment were Judy Hull, Peggy Hull and Dorothy Jacob.

While the Guides were in their horseshoe formation, Mrs. Diamantides presented Mrs. J. Juby with her lieutenant warrant.

During campfire, Mrs. Diamantides told the Guides that this was her first official visit to a Guide company since she was appointed commissioner, and it seemed especially appropriate to be making that first visit to Belleville's newest Guide company.

Mrs. Floyd extended an invitation to the Guides to a special viewing of the Guide camp film in Belleville on April 14.

After both ceremonies the newly enrolled Guides served coffee and refreshments to their parents and friends.

ADDRESSING EASTER CARDS TO THE CLERGY

When you address your Easter cards to a minister or priest, the little word the is the big word to remember. The should always be used before Reverend. Why? Because the word Reverend is not a title . . . not a title like "Mr." or "Dr." It is an adjective, an adjective of courtesy used in addressing those in the spiritual profession. So you address your card:

To a Protestant minister without degree:
The Reverend John Ely Brown
To a Protestant minister with degree (for example, D.D. or LL.D.):
The Reverend Dr. (or The Rev. Dr.) Paul Robbins
(Or: The Rev. Paul Robbins, D.D.)
To a minister and his wife:
The Rev. (or The Rev. Dr.) and Mrs. John Sargent
(Or also correct: The Rev. Dr. John Sargent and Mrs. Sargent
To a Roman Catholic priest:
The Reverend Joseph John Kenna
(This is the correct form of address also for Greek Orthodox priests and Anglican priests who are addressed as "Father—.")
The initials of the order may be added:
The Reverend Joseph John Kenna, S.J.
To a Monsignor:
The Right Reverend Monsignor Joseph E. Murray
Or: "The Very Reverend Monsignor—," depending on his rank.

HOW MANY INVITATIONS FOR THESE FOUR RELATIVES?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The groom-to-be wishes to invite to his wedding his aunt and her three sons, all of whom live in another city. Two sons are married and have their own homes. The other son lives at home with the aunt. How many invitations should be sent, and to whom should they be sent?
— M. R.

According to the best form, four invitations should be sent. But if the number of invitations is limited, three may be sent, but definitely not less than three. One invitation must be sent to each married son, and each of these must, of course, include the wife, must be addressed to Mr. and Mrs.—. The third invitation really should be addressed to the aunt only: Mrs. John Brooks. And, if possible, a fourth should be sent to Mr. Henry Brooks, the unmarried son who lives with his mother. If this is not possible because of limited supply of invitations, then the third may include the son's name. Like this:

Mrs. John Brooks
Mr. Henry Brooks

WEDDING ETIQUET QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please answer for us several questions on wedding etiquet?

(1) Does the bride's mother drive with the bridesmaids to the church?

(2) Does the mother of the bride remove her coat before entering the church for the ceremony?

(3) Do the women in the receiving-line at the reception wear gloves?

(4) Does the bride's mother shake hands with the women guests and the men guests as she greets them?

(5) What does she say to the guests she doesn't know?
— Interested Reader . . . .

(1) Very often this is the plan . . . that the bridesmaids meet at the bride's house, and drive with the bride's mother to the church, in the car following the car containing the bride and her father.

(2) Yes. That "back look" of her dress is most important as she proceeds up the aisle.

(3) Usually they do, particularly if the reception is of a formal type.

(4) Yes, the bride's mother, first in the line as hostess, shakes hands with the arriving guest as she greets her or him. (Just as she should when she greets a guest on any occasion in her home.)

(5) To a guest she doesn't know, she may say, and most graciously, "How do you do, Mrs. Hall. I am so happy that you could come . . . and Sallie and Bob will be delighted to see you."

QUESTIONS FROM THE MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am the mother of the bride (1) Do I carry a purse? (2) Should my hat and gloves match, or should I wear white gloves? (3) Could my shoes match my lace dress, or should they be black or brown? — Mother

(1) You will need a purse, to hold your compact, handkerchief, and other accessories. It should be chosen most carefully, as an interesting detail of your costume, either to match or contrast, and might be one of the new small clutch afternoon bags, or a flat envelope-purse, or perhaps a silk or satin or beaded bag with a short handle, very convenient for carrying. (2) Either is correct. (3) Your shoes should match your dress, dyed-to-match, if necessary.

WIDOW SHOULD INCLUDE LATE HUSBAND'S NAME IN ANNOUNCEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow. My only daughter's engagement is to be announced soon, and we would like to send the announcement to the papers, the engagement announcement now, and the announcement of the marriage in late June. Please tell me if, in these announcements, I should include my late husband's name as well as my name. If so, how?
— M. R.

Yes . . ." daughter of Mrs. Arthur Lee Richardson and the late Mr. Richardson."

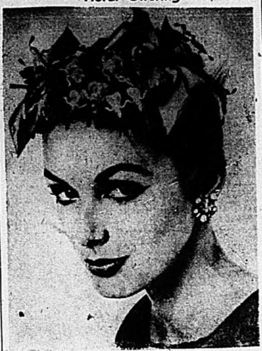
Floral Offering



By TRACY ADRIAN

Here's a bonnet that should see plenty of social life after its debut in the Easter parade. It's a versatile flatterer, for garden parties, cocktail dates, dinner and the theatre.

In designing it, Laddie Northridge introduced a new flower to millinery—the dainty bleeding heart. This high little floral cap, garnished with satin bows and rhinestones, is the silhouette he calls the "postscript" to a beautiful costume.

When you read this I will be back in Canada with you in the "coolth" and wind, and top coats. As I write it I am in my bathing suit in the sun watching four silly pelicans searching and diving for food about one hundred yards from shore. A plastic-domed helicopter just whirled past above our heads, paralleling the beach all the way.

About six or seven fishing boats are offshore, but constantly on the move. The chances are they are landing fish on them too, for my brother and his boy Paul, (13), went deep-sea fishing three days ago and caught six kingfish, the largest of which was eight pounds, and 40 inches long; the smallest four and one-half pounds and I don't know how long. The eight-pounder I had the fun of recklessly slicing into thick steaks, rubbing with French dressing and broiling in our own little "efficiency" kitchen. Not more than four hours elapsed between the time of landing and eating. This was served on the patio under the palm trees. When we sat down with our plates in our hands it was broad daylight; when we were halfway finished the main course it was pitch dark — just so quickly does night fall in this sub-tropical land of enchantment.

This morning, my cousin Dorothy, a permanent resident of West Palm Beach, took us to Conniston Junior High School to meet her sister-in-law who is head dietician in the school cafeteria and who, with her staff of nine, feeds fourteen hundred hungry children five days a week at noon. Sam, Dorothy's sixteen-year-old, reluctantly graduated from this school because it meant leaving Aunt Anna's superb cooking. We were given samples of the coconut cream and thick cherry pies which were on the menu for today. Because the cooking is of such high calibre I am going to see Anna Himes again and get some specific recipes from her for you and for me. I think some will help some readers in this audience who cook for summer camps. For instance in the huge ovens "Sloppy Joe" was baking — a hamburger creation of Mrs. Himes' that we tasted and found delicious. This, because of its name and flavor, is highly popular with the boys, and it is no wonder they do not want to pass on to Senior High.

Another item that Sammy nostalgically remembers is hamburger logs. Roughly these are the shape of a fat wiener and are served in a wiener bun. They are made from meat loaf mixture just as you would make it. A chunk of the mixture is taken out for each "log" and flattened into an oblong ½x2½x5 inches. A strip of process cheese about ¼x¼x5 inches is placed in the centre and the meat is rolled around it in a log shape. These are broiled on a greased pan until the meat is barely cooked. During the broiling time the cheese melts a little and seeps into the meat. Each one is served in a bun with relish. Anna says that there are never any of these left over. So there you have another item to add to your hamburger repertory.

I am testing a new recipe in Dorothy's kitchen tomorrow for a fruit salad cake. Doesn't that sound Florida-ish? It is served as a featured dessert with whipped cream in one of the big cafeterias in Miami and my cousin recommends it to me for you. We'l see tomorrow and if it is all it is cracked up to be you shall have it.

Now I must get on with my "eleven o'clock sun," recommended by the natives to be the best for a truly Indian coppertone.

Love to you across the miles from Mary.

Still Lavender Sellers on Vienna Streets

By GERDA HERMANN

VIENNA (Reuters)—There are still lavender sellers who wander through the streets of Vienna advertising their ware by singing a traditional song.

The rush and bustle of modern life have robbed European cities of one of their most picturesque features — the wandering street sellers.

In the middle ages and up to the 19th century, many such sellers sold a variety of things, from the essential water to the ribbons that adorned beautiful maidens on high days and holidays.

There were bakers selling pretzels, tinkers and scissors sharpeners, flower sellers and lavender girls, each with his or her own particular chant.

MOST HAVE GONE

In many cases, these goods and services could not be obtained in any other way.

Today, mass production and modern methods of advertising and distribution have replaced most of these sellers. Water comes out of a tap, and the big department stores display more ribbons than 10 men could carry. Motorized traffic, streetcars and buses make so much noise that the cries of the street sellers would in many cases be drowned out.

In Vienna, however, one ancient tradition has still not died. One can still meet women selling the lavender they have gathered on the hills around Vienna which is still used to perfume the linen in many Austrian homes.

The "Lavendl Weibl," or "Lavender wives" as they are called, are usually seen in Paris. Their traditional song is a duet with a lilting and melancholy air, which brings back memories of their childhood to many Viennese. The chant dates back to the middle ages.

WILLING BUYERS

On fine spring and summer days, the lavender sellers go out into the streets to sell their ware. In winter, they visit the taverns, and never fail to find buyers for their little bright pink and blue sachets. For the Viennese are great lovers of folk singers of any sort, and a sachet costs only about the equivalent of three cents.

The lavender sellers are usually poorly clad, with kerchiefs over their heads. They sing and speak in an old Viennese dialect. But there are not many of them left today, and those are mostly elderly women, whose mothers were lavender sellers before them.

The work they have chosen is not easy. They go out to gather the lavender the year round, except during frost. In spring, it is the blossoms, in winter the fruit.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Tom S. — She tricked me into marriage.

Janet S. — Mother knew him, all right.

Tom S. — My wife and I have been married for two years and have been bitterly miserable.

Jantt and I had known one another since we were kids and dated steadily at high school. We had relations together and she told me she was pregnant. I wanted to do the decent thing and we got married. My parents didn't know the real reason for my marrying and were very much opposed. They always said Janet was no good.

Now I see how right they were. Janet had lied to me. We have a baby now, but he was born only four months ago. I can never love her because of the way she deceived me. I have been unfaithful, but Janet says she will never divorce me.

Janet S. — Tom talks about his parents opposing our marriage, but what about mine? My mother told me he would walk out on me at the first chance. She knew him, all right. But I don't want to go back home now and have her say, "I told you so."

I never really lied to Tom. I just happened to be mistaken about my condition. It could happen to anyone, but Tom has always held it against me. The truth is that I was terribly frightened and so was he. Perhaps if we had told our parents they would have saved us from all this misery.

If I could meet another man I wouldn't mind getting divorced but I am tied down by the baby while Tom is able to gallivant.

The Council — Pity the poor, four-month-old baby who is being brought up by a pair of babies!

Tom and Janet seem to still see themselves as their parents' little boy and girl. They feel that they have been very, very naughty and they fear their parents' punishment, yet they would like their parents to save them.

Tom accepts his parents' verdict on his wife. He forgets the fact that his parents' words were spoken in opposition to a teenage marriage. It is quite possible that he has even distorted their words in order to place greater blame on Janet. He shows neither loyalty to his wife and child, nor any sense of responsibility for his share of the premarital indiscretions.

Janet writhes in fear of her mother's "I told you so." Yet she shows no recognition of the fact that she, herself, is a mother and must think of the welfare of her child above all other considerations. She is not responsible to her mother, but to her child.

Tom and Janet seem to feel that their parents' little boy and girl should not be allowed to suffer. Somebody ought to come along to make them happy. They must learn that their marriage, their child, their happiness or unhappiness are all their own creations. They must accept the responsibility for their decisions and their whole life.

They need guidance from a clergyman and probably from a social worker attached to a reliable family agency — not to dump their responsibilities, but to learn what their responsibilities are.

Man's World Doomed to Die By Fire, Water, Snow or Ice

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a matter of some billions of years, but man's world is doomed to perish by fire or water, in snow or ice.

Dr. Gerard P. Kuipier, famous astronomer of the Yerkes Observatory at the University of Chicago says that our planet, now estimated to be five to six billion years old, faces destruction in one of several ways, as a habitable place anyhow.

He spells out how and when in the first issue of a new magazine, Science Perspectives, published by the Library of Science, New York City.

Trouble would come when all radioactive elements in the earth's crust and upper layer disappeared.

SPLIT APART

These radioactive elements are splitting apart and producing heat. The heat creates magma or molten material which pushes up to create new mountains and volcanoes.

But when this natural heat dies out, there won't be new uplifting of land. Then erosion from rain and weathering would flatten existing mountains and continents, and more and more of existing land surface would be submerged under water.

Ultimately there is real danger the whole earth will become one vast ocean, Dr. Kuiper says. Humans might survive by building dikes.

But don't worry too much about this — it will take about 10,000,000,000 years to happen, Dr. Kuiper says.

The most likely fate awaiting the world is that the sun will burn us up.

HEAT INCREASES

Three to four billion years from now, the sun may have grown so large that its total radiation would be about 100 times stronger than now.

Then our earth would heat up, "destroying all life as we know it." Oceans would boil and steam would fill our atmosphere. This phase could last about one billion years.

Then the sun would likely shrink again, becoming a white-dwarf star, increasingly faint and cool.

Steam and water vapor would condense, forming oceans again. But as the earth's temperature dropped, the seas would freeze over. Some millions of years later, the earth would be covered with snow and ice.

All isn't hopeless even then for a rebirth of life on earth, Dr. Kuiper says.

The dwarf sun might collide with another star and flame up again to provide enough heat for life, but this "is so unlikely we need not consider it seriously." ADV FOR March 30

Mixing Science and Magic Proves Profitable for Pair

By JACK LEFLER

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Two brothers are stirring a mixture of science and magic into a fantastic business enterprise that could only be a product of the space age.

In five years they've made their boundless supply of ideas pay off in a business grossing $400,000 a year.

Robin Stevens, 30, a magician, and Carlile Stevens, 26, a physicist, are owners of Stevens Enterprises and an appropriately named subsidiary, Up 'n' Atoms Enterprises.

They operate out of a drab building jam-packed with electronics equipment, drawing boards and such gadgets as ray guns and death ray posts.

WHAT COMES NATURALLY

As Stevens Enterprises they design and manufacture science and science fiction gadgets and machines for motion pictures and industry. As Up 'n' Atoms Enterprises, they put on science shows for schools which this year will be seen by 1,750,000 students in 21 states.

Each brother is doing what comes naturally to him.

Robin got his degree in speech and drama at San Diego State College. Then he became a professional magician. Carlile received his bachelor of science degree at Stanford University.

Their business career started while Carlile was an undergraduate at Stanford and Robin was doing graduate work there.

"I built some weird - looking gadgets and set up a show," says Carlile. "With Robin's help we turned it into a play with a lot of hokum-like made professors making disintegrators."

TOURED COUNTY FAIRS

After getting out of Stanford, the boys put together a collection of gadgets and devices and toured California county fairs with their science show.

The school show business multiplied like splitting atoms.

In the first year, the show appeared at 400 schools before 250,000 students. The next year three shows were seen by 900,000 students in 1,200 schools. This year five shows will have an audience of 1,750,000 in 2,250 schools.

The brothers feel these shows are playing an important part in interesting students in studying science

Meanwhile, the Stevenses are up to their ears designing and building a mammoth rocket that will take people on simulated trips to the moon at a southern California amusement park.

REJECT VIOLENCE

ALGIERS (Reuters) — The assembly of Roman Catholic bishops of Algeria Friday called for "an unhesitating rejection of any solutions" to the Algerian problem "based solely on force and violence." The council of the French Protestant Federation said meanwhile in Paris that "the practice of brutality in the name of repression has become established in Algeria," and "no one in France is justified in keeping themselves in convenient ad guilty igorance."

OUTDOORS
with John Alden Knight

Printed Word Is Not Always True

One of the precepts of a reporter, any sort of reporter, and th[illegible]cludes outdoor writers such a[illegible]m, should be to tell the truth. Simply to put down words on paper is not enough. A reporter, to be worthy of the name and of the years of tradition which adds lustre to his trade, must, first of all, be sure of his facts.

There can be no excuse — hunger included — for a man or a woman to write a news story or a magazine article unless there is a sound reason for such writing. Faked stories are an abomination and half-truths are even worse. News is based on solid facts. Without these, it is worse than useless.

A few years ago, a group of news stories, sent out monthly by an organization that manufactures sporting equipment, came to my desk. The last page of this bulk shipment of releases was devoted to "fillers" — short paragraphs or sentences intended to be used to take up space at the end of a short column. Prominent among t[illegible] was the following — "There [illegible]o lion hunting in South Africa."

In that same mail came a letter and a small box from my old friend, G. Liguori, of Ficksburg, Orange Free State, South Africa. I read the letter with interest and then opened the box, and therein was a dew claw, taken from the foot of a lioness which Liguori had shot 60 miles from his home. Moreover, he shot the animal while it was hunting for food during a major solunar period.

Since the winter of 1948-49, we have spent from three to six weeks each year in the Florida Keys. During those weeks, a great deal of time has been spent fishing for bonefish. Inescapably, in all those weeks of fishing for them, even the stupidest angler will become rather well acquainted with bonefish and their habits.

PISCATORIAL SUICIDE

Bonefish, when feeding in shal[illegible] water and thus exposed to [illegible] enemies, are more shy than brook trout. Even the shadow of a passing bird will send them flying for the safety of deep water. And for a man to start an outboard motor within a quarter mile of a feeding school is to commit piscatorial suicide.

Yet, so help me, I read an article in which the author and his friends, equipped with two skiffs and outboards, rounded up a frightened school of bonefish, heading them back from deep water, and then proceeded to catch six fish out of the school. Oh, brother!

Another manufacturer of outdoor equipment turns out a publicity sheet, sent out once a month. Not once, but several times, has this startling item appeared in that column — "Outboard motor noise does not scare fish." That, my friends, is a half-[illegible]h; more properly, perhaps, a [illegible]rter-truth. As such it has done and is doing incalculable damage to the frayed nerves of thousands of anglers.

Only today this little gem came in, a "filler" in a batch of news stories sent out periodically, by one of the conservation commissions. Here it is, in toto — "Bass feed almost constantly, but early morning and evening hours are usually considered the best times for angling."

With the latter part of that rather forthright bit of fish lore, I can't quarrel too much. Early morning and late evening are good times for fishing as a general rule. Then all wildlife tends to be active and on the move. The day shift lays off and the night shift goes to work, or vice versa.

But the first part — "Bass feed almost constantly. . ." Think that one over a bit. For lo these 50 years or more I have fished for bass each season. Not only that, but I have spent many interesting hours sitting or lying quietly at the top of a bank overlooking a good bass pool, watching the behavior of bass and studying their habits. Believe me, they do not feed almost constantly.

FEEDS IN SHALLOWS

A bass, particularly an adult bass of three or four years, selects for himself each year two definite areas in his general stamping grounds. One is his feeding area, his cafeteria. This, of necessity, is in shallow water. There is little or no food in deep water for a bass. When he is hungry he must go where his natural food lives — the shallows.

The other spot of his choosing is his resting station, the place where he spends most of his time. This spot is selected with two things in mind, comfort and safety. It may be beside a convenient rock, log, stump or overhanging tree or bush. It may be in fairly deep water. In any event, there he will find congenial temperatures and comparative safety from his natural enemies.

Once in his resting station, he doesn't move about very much. Mostly he just sits there, finning himself in position. He doesn't feed for the obvious reason that seldom does any food come to his resting station. It is simply a comfortable place for relaxation and rest. As for feeding, he does that elsewhere when he is hungry and only then.

The probabilities are that this diatribe will have little or no effect on its cause. After all, a piece of blank paper in a typewriter can be a baffling thing indeed, particularly when the outdoors is calling and there is a deadline to meet. But it is to be hoped that the above will serve as a warning to avoid placing too much credence in the printed word. It can be, and often is, a misleading and dangerous thing.

Carol Heiss Repeats as Skating Champ

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Radiant Carol Heiss, unruffled by a fall at the end of one of her dazzling spins, repeated as the U.S. women's figure skating champion Saturday night with one of the most onesided sweeps in the history of the competition.

The beautiful 18-year-old university co-ed from Ozone Park, N.Y., three-times world champion, scored a clean sweep of the competitive scoring.

After winning first place from every judge in every school figure she performed in Friday's first phase of the competition, she outpointed all of her four rivals in both the content and performance of her free-skating Saturday.

Carol fell coming out of a difficult double axel manoeuvre in the middle of her program, but she didn't lose her composure and finished with a series of spectacular jumps and turns.

Two Goals in Third Give Minden Victory Over Madoc in 2nd Game

MADOC — (Special) — Minden Monarchs scored a pair of goals late in the third period in Bobcaygeon on Saturday night to shade Madoc Blue-and-Whites 5-3 in the second game of their OHA intermediate "C" playdown series.

Minden lead the best-of-seven affair two games to none while the third game is slated for Marmora arena tonight and the fourth in Bobcaygeon on Wednesday.

The loss was a tough one for Madoc. They trailed 1-0 after 20 minutes of play and 3-1 after two periods. But Jack Holmes' boys came back strong in the early minutes of play in the third to tie the score at 3-3. "Nobber" Day made it 3-2 at 5.58 and "Shaker" Baker tied it up at 7.15.

Playing - coach Alex MacLellan, John "Shaker" Baker and Doug "Nobber" Day were the Madoc marksmen. Assists were divided among Harry Brown, Fred Nickle, Palmer and Bob Taylor.

Referees Ned Vitarelli of Peterborough and Trent of Lindsay handed out penalties left and right, a total of 23 altogether. All sentences were of the minor variety with Madoc drawing 12 and Minden 11. Madoc coach Jack Holmes said this morning he was everything but satisfied with the refereeing.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

MACS PLAY WEDNESDAY

Manager Drury Denyes sharply criticized the OHA today after learning that body had ordered a two-games goal-to-count series between the Kitchener Dutchmen and the Windsor Bulldogs.

The winners of this series meet the McFarlands here Wednesday night in the first game of a best-of-seven for the all-Ontario senior championship. No further dates were announced.

Denyes claims the OHA should have ordered a sudden-death game between the western Ontario finalists. He said the Belleville-Pembroke Lumber Kings seven-game series was ordered to be played in seven nights in order to declare a winner to meet the South Porcupine Porkies in an abbreviated best-of-five series.

Furthermore, he said, the Windsor-Kitchener series was supposed by OHA orders to have a winner March 29. This was not done, nor were these clubs ordered to play seven games in as many nights.

"The McFarlands," Denyes said, "were rushed through two hard-fought series with a maximum of travel. Now they have to lay off for nearly a week. Just who is running the OHA, its executive or the western Ontario clubs?"

BOOSTER SCOOP

When the McFarlands rolled out of the Union Station, Toronto, shortly after nine o'clock Saturday morning they were utterly relaxed. Their spirits were high after subduing the battling Porkies from South Porcupine, and they exuded confidence over the upcoming battle with the OHA-NOHA champions. What was the difference, Windsor or Kitchener?

Joe Lepine's comedy had them in stitches the most of the time. Joe is no "Perry Como" but he has a droll humor and a talent for mimicry that helped reel off the final miles of a 650 mile (one way) trip.

But they didn't know what was in store for them. They had not the slightest knowledge of the all-out reception which awaited them. They did not know until they pulled into the station what their Booster Club and other fans had readied for them.

President Dick Beare, his executive and club members scored a clean scoop with a home-coming show that this reporter's eyes has never seen before in Belleville.

There were gasps of surprise in the coach as the train pulled to a stop. Players "creaked" their necks to get a glimpse of what was going on through the windows. They couldn't believe their eyes.

After detraining, the Macs, joined by their wives and families, pushed themselves through a corridor of over 1000 cheering fans. Signs of "welcome home" and "well done" waved over the heads of the shouting, waving crowd.

Then out to where a cavalcade of convertibles awaited them. Mayor Gerald Hyde, as happy as the smallest hockey "squirt" there, gave a brief address of welcome and congratulation.

It was a heart-warming sight and reception. A veteran sports fan standing near the station shook his head. "I have never seen anything like this in this city since the old Kilties Band took off for overseas."

One of the highlights was the ancient vintage automobile that Shannonville's Ken Vivian dragged out of the garage mothballs. With Ken in an uproarious comedy routine were the "Senator," Harry Rollins garbed as a belle of the gay nineties; Armand Duffy a "corpulent" mixture of a mammy, "Hawk-Eye" and whatnot, and the inimitable "Snipe" Matthews complete in derby-hatted blackface garb. Ken wore a derby with a Roman-nosed bewhiskered mask. It was a grand show, one that was greatly appreciated by the team.

One of the happiest people on the scene, both at the station and at the arena where the players were "dismissed" was His Worship H. J. McFarland of Picton. The mayor flew to Timmins to take in the game and took off immediately it finished, bringing Manager Drury Denyes and county clerk Erle Denyes with him.

So a tip of the columnar chapeau to Dick Beare and the Booster Club, with specials to Boosters Rollins, Matthews, Vivian and Duffy and the rest who did such a fine job, not forgetting Ed Lewis who arranged for the signs and Richard Ellis who donated them.

And speaking of Booster Clubs, the Whitby Booster Club has wired its counterpart here wishing the Macs luck in their bid for national honors. It says: "May good fortune continue, and continued wins be with your team in their quest for the Allan Cup. Go, Macs, Go."

Edge Punch-less Red Wings With 2-1 Overtime Victory; Boston Blanks Rangers 5-0

BOSTON (CP) — Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins doesn't like to be too optimistic.

"I still think it's going to be a long series," he said in the afterglow of Saturday night's 5-0 Boston triumph over New York Rangers.

It gave the Bruins a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final leading up to the Stanley Cup. This victory gave them the series lead for the first time and a big lift for game No. 4, scheduled for Boston Garden Tuesday night.

"Everything worked right for us," Schmidt continued in looking back on the brilliant shutout by goalie Don Simmons. "The New York club generally is good passing, ut Saturday night they were off. My boys had a little more go. One or two games don't mean a thing."

FOR BOTH WINS

Simmons was in the nets when Boston won the second game 4-3 in New York on Jerry Toppazzini's overtime goal. He was inserted after Harry Lumley guarded the nets in the opening 5-3 loss.

Asked about his goaltending plans for the future following Simmons' 28-save whitewash job, his third in two seasons in playoff games, Schmidt said:

"I don't want to change horses in midstream. As long as he plays as he has been playing, it would be silly to change."

Rangers' coach Phil Watson refused to allow Boston writers into the New York dressing room after the game but general manager Muzz Patrick said "those Bruins were hot."

Apparently prepped to outdo Boston's hard - checking tactics, New York got caught for three first-period goals while one of their number was sitting in the penalty box.

SCORES WITH 20-FOOTER

Defenceman Doug Mohns of Bruins made it 1-0 at 9:24 of the opening period on a 20 - footer while New York's Bill Gadsby was in the box for interference.

Ranger defenceman Jack Evan slashed Boston high scorer Bronco Horvath on the head. Horvath went to hospital while Evans collected a five - minute penalty.

In Evans' absence, Don McKenney stroked in a Mohns' rebound and connected on an 18-foot backhander. The Rangers were hopelessly down by then.

The other goals went to Buddy Boone and Norm Johnson.

Horvath is expected to be ready to play Tuesday night. He was released from hospital Sunday after being treated for a moderate concussion and an eight-stitch scalp wound.

DETROIT (AP) — Only a complete reversal of form can save the punch-less Detroit Red Wings from elimination in their Stanley Cup semi-final series with the rollicking Montreal Canadiens.

A Montreal victory here Tuesday night would sound the death knell for the Wings, who've been able to muster only three goals in three play-off games.

Canadiens Sunday night opened a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series by skating to a 2-1 overtime triumph. Andre Pronovost put the clincher past Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk after 11:52 of sudden-death play.

Pronovost picked up a loose puck at the Montreal blueline and skated the length of the ice before firing the winning goal past Sawchuk.

BIGGEST GOAL

"This was the biggest one I ever scored," said the jubilant Pronovost, who is in his second National Hockey League season. "I just grabbed the puck, got around Marcel Pronovost (no relation) and put it in the near corner."

Wings and Canadiens had played almost 72 minutes of bruising hockey before Pronovost's point-blank finisher. Except for a two-minute span in the wild second period, the game was scoreless until its sudden end.

Forbes Kennedy put Detroit ahead for the first time in the series with a fluke 75-footer that bounced past the kneeling Canadiens netminder, Jacques Plante at 14:07.

Dickie Moore provided the equalizer at 16:00 with a five-foot backhander after taking passes from Maurice Richard and Jean Beliveau. Detroit's Bob Bailey was in the penalty box at the time.

LAY UNCONSCIOUS

Bailey had been banished for cross-checking Plante and sending him reeling to the ice. The wandering Montreal goalie lay unconscious, face down on the ice for three minutes before he was revived. He was taken to the dressing room and the remaining 5:22 of the period was tacked onto the start of the third stanza.

Plante returned as good as new and was invincible the rest of the way. He showed a lump behind his left ear.

"It was deliberate, there's no two ways about it," fumed Montreal coach Toe Blake. "It's the first time I ever accused anybody of that, but it was."

After Plante was laid low, Bernie Geoffrion and Bert Olmstead attempted to get at Bailey, but were held off. Geoffrion also had a feud going with rinkside fans, and shoved his stick through the screen at them.

Referee Frank Udvari handed Bailey a minor penalty and added a 10-minute misconduct when the big wingman failed to go immediately to the penalty box.

WORTH THE TRIP

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico (AP)—A visit to the races Saturday was worth $27,000 to Norman Macleod, 45, real estate man from North Vancouver, B.C. Macleod's $32 multiple ticket was the only one to pick six winning horses, in the 5-10 handicapping contest, giving him the entire first-place pot of $27,248.80.

Canadiens Win Bantam Minor Hockey Title

Minor hockey for the 1957-58 season came to a close at Memorial Arena Saturday morning when the Canadiens captured the bantam championship in a double-header with the Bruins.

Canadiens took the first of a two-game, goals-to-count series 4-3 while the second was a 1-1 tie. Habs thus won the title 5-4.

Jerry Jones potted two of the winner's goals in the first game, including the winner, and also had one assist. Ray LaRue and Cliff McGrimmon had the other goals while Duvall and McGrimmon had assists.

Les Hall and Rob Burr each had a goal and assist for the Bruins. Wayne Williams added another goal with Wayne Gilroy getting two helpers. Andrews and Genereaux one each.

Gary Duvall netted the Canadien goal in the second game on a play with Skinner and McGrimmon. Jack Andrews was the Bruin marksman with Wayne Williams assisting.

The champions in all four divisions of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association have now been declared. Barons won the squirt title, Rangers the peewee honors, Canadiens the bantam title and the T.P.T.'s the midget championship.

Dunnies Get Warm Welcome

WHITBY (CP) — This town will open its arms to the world amateur hockey champions Wednesday night for the second time and bells will ring, crowds cheer and horns blare just as they did Saturday night.

But it is hoped the fire trucks will be used for their sirens—and not for their hoses as they had to be Saturday night to quell a riot of more than 200 fans who stayed over time to push and yell and bounce up and down on a police cruiser.

The victorious Whitby Dunlops were escorted to a shopping plaza to celebrate their homecoming. They were flanked by hundreds of cars, pedestrians and fire trucks.

RECEIVE GREETINGS

The players sped across the plaza to the arena for a warm, private greeting from their wives and families and then reappeared to receive greetings from Ontario's Lieutenant - Governor Keiller MacKay who said:

"It is a wonderful thing to welcome these sportsmen back home. You have written your names in capital letters in the history of Canada."

Labor Minister Starr extended greetings to the team from Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the federal government.

Replying to the official toast, veteran centre Bus Gagnon said:

"We are all glad to be back home. We knew you all would be here waiting. That is why we got home as fast as we could."

By midnight most of the noisy, boisterous crowd of 4,000 had left for home, but some stayed on.

Belleville District Softball Loop Opens 1958 Season at Point Anne

The Belleville and district softball league will open the 1958 season at the park of the champion Point Anne Cementmen on the holiday, Monday, May 19, it was decided at yesterday's meeting.

A good turnout attended including representatives from the loop's only three definite starters to date, Point Anne, Goyer's Marines and Cobourg. Three other teams, while not present at the meeting, are expected to enter. They are the Belleville Bobcats, Trenton Juniors and a team from the OHA senior "A" McFarlands, sponsored by the Macs Booster Club.

Hope was expressed that all six mentioned teams enter. It was felt this would comprise an evenly balanced grouping with three clubs, Goyer's, Bobcats and Boosters from the city. Cobourg was one of the stronger clubs in the Peterborough senior league last year.

President Harry Morgan chaired yesterday's meeting. Several items concerning last season were dsicussed before the coming year's business got under way.

As is the custom, last year's league champions, Point Anne, were given the choice of a date for the loop opener. The Cementmen chose May 24 civic holiday, being held this year on Monday, May 19 They announced that the second annual giant fireworks display will be held at the Point on the same night. Rain postponed the opener there last year but a crowd of around 2,000 people attended the fireworks display.

The entry deadline was set as April 20 and it was stated there would be no extension so all teams wishing to enter must do so by that date. The next meeting will be held on that same date, a Sunday afternoon, at two o'clock. No entry fee was set yesterday but it will definitely be less than last season's $35. It is expected to be in the neighborhood of $25 or $20, according to league officials.

It was moved and approved by all teams that the clubs pay the umpires the same fee as last season, $4.25 for schedule games and $5.00 for playoff games. It was also felt that only one umpire per game should receive mileage since in most cases both officials travel in one car and many times with one of the teams. The Bay of Quinte Umpires' Association, which supplied officials last season for the B. and D. league, was not represented at yesterday's meeting.

It was decided that the teams will be allowed to have 18 signed players at one time and that no player will be allowed to take part in a game unless he has signed a player's certificate. All certificates must be in the hands of secretary - treasurer Bob Blaind. No new player will be allowed to participate in a game unless his management has notified the secretary 24 hours before the game. Any team using an unsigned player will lose by default any and all games in which that player participates.

Kitchener Dutchies, Bulldogs Will Play Two-Game Series

KITCHENER (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, their best-of - seven OHA-NOHA Senior A final series even at 3-3 with one game tied, today start a two-game, total-goal series to decide who will meet Belleville McFarlands in the provincial senior A final.

Bulldogs squared off the series Saturday, scoring three over-time goals in three minutes to defeat Dutchmen 5-3. First game of the total-goals series is here tonight with the second in Windsor Tuesday.

Veteran Joe Klukay, Wally Maxwell and Andy Milne pumped in the Bulldogs' three overtime goals after Kitchener's Ron Howell had levelled the score at 2-2 less than three minutes before the end of regular time.

OPENS SCORING

Jerry Theberge opened the scoring for Dutchmen midway through the first period, but Windsor's Pete Pilote evened the account. There was no scoring in the second and the count remained at 1-1 until 4:05 of the third when Bulldog winger Maxwell scored his first goal.

Then Howell sent the game into overtime.

Dutchmen's other goal was scored by Billy Flick in the extra time.

Kitchener coach Bill Durnan pulled goalie Harold (Boat) Hurley from the nets with 50 seconds remaining only to see Milne block a slap shot by Jack McKenzie, break away and punch the puck into the empty net for the clincher.

McKenzie was making his first appearance with Dutchmen since returning from the world hockey tournament at Oslo where he played with the champion Whitby Dunlops.

Levis Defeats Hull Legion

HULL, Que. (CP) — Levis, Que., moved to within one game of a berth in the Eastern Canada Allan Cup hockey final by defeating Hull Legion 5-3 Sunday after winning 4-3 Saturday night.

Levis leads the best-of-five series 2-1, with the fourth game here Tuesday. The winner plays the Ontario champion for the right to meet the west.

The visitors led 2-1 at the end of the first period in Sunday's game, upped it to 4-2 after 40 minutes and traded single markers with the Legion in the last stanza.

Adjutor Cote led Levis with three goals. Jacques Guay and Guy Belanger got the others. The Hull marksmen were Paul Seguin with two, and Lally Lalonde.

In Saturday's game, Levis came from behind with three third-period goals, two by Noel Samson and a single by Gerard Lachance, to win the game. Belanger scored the other Levis goal in the first period.

Ron Limoges, Marcel Legris and Pit Richer scored for Hull, all in the second period.

Industrial Hockey

Point Anne Cementmen took a two-game stranglehold in their best-of-seven Industrial hockey league finals over the weekend by edging Don's Delivery 4-3.

The winners jumped into a big 3-1 lead in the opening stanza and upped the margin with the only goal of the middle heat. Don's came back in the final twenty minutes with the only two goals but they were unable to net the equalizer.

The Cementmen were at full value for their win, outplaying Don's most of the way. The Delivery crew had trouble with their shots on goal and also found themselves out of position time and again.

No date has been set for the third game.

Pat Maracle, Billy Strahan and Ron Hull with Doug Lucas assisting scored for Point Anne in the first period while Cam Buskard hooked up with Ron Aitkens and Bill Muirhead for the Don's goal. Pat Maracle netted his second goal of the game for the Pointers in the second.

Bob Hughes fired the losers' second goal with Cam McKenna assisting at 4:40 of the third. Ronnie Archer completed the scoring on a play with Bud Payette and Jack Calnan at 16.51 but that was all as the Cementmen kept the play in the losers' end of the rink in the final minutes.

UPSET FAVORITES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Edmonton Towne Hallers surprised Vancouver Eilers with a stunning 79-67 victory Saturday night to even the Western Canada Senior A men's basketball final at one game each. Third game in the best-of-five series will be played here tonight.

Hershey, Barons Lead Calder Semi-Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears, who finished first in the American Hockey League's regular schedule, parlayed a couple of spectacular finishes over the weekend into a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven Calder Cup semi-finals.

While the Bears were downing Providence Reds twice by one-goal margins, Cleveland Barons were swamping Springfield Indians twice to move into a 2-1 lead in the other series.

Ed Stankiewicz' goal three seconds before the final buzzer gave Hershey a 7-6 victory Sunday night, after they had downed the Reds 2-1 Saturday on Gordon Hollingworth's goal with 25 seconds to go.

The Bears almost blew the Sunday game, as the aroused Reds scored four goals in seven minutes to take a 6-5 lead with two and a half minutes to go. Dunc Fisher then rapped in his second goal of the game to tie it, and Stankiewicz won it.

Other Hershey scorers were Len Haley with a pair, Obie O'Brien and Willie Marshall. Providence scorers were Gary Collins, Ivan Irwin, Bill Sweeney, Zellio Toppazzini, Paul Larivee and Ray Ross.

SCORE FIRST

Saturday, Marshall scored for Hershey and Jimmy Bartlett for the Reds in the first period. That was all until Hollingworth won it. The Reds lost Bruce Cline in the second period when he suffered a gash across the face which took 17 stitches to close.

Cleveland won 9-1 Saturday night and 5-1 Sunday, to go ahead of the Indians who had captured the series opener.

Saturday, Fred Glover had three goals, Gord Vejprava two, and coach Jack Gordon, Dan Poliziani, Bill Shvetz and Gordon Hudson one each while Cal Gardner was scoring the only Springfield goal.

Sunday, rookie Bob Barlow rapped in the opening two goals. Other Cleveland scorer were Poliziani, Glover, and Jimmy Moore. Gerry Ehman was the Springfield scorer.

Records Fall At Swim Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Sara Barber of Brantford YMCA clipped nine-tenths of a second off the Canadian senior women's 100-yard backstroke record Saturday at the Ontario junior and senior swimming championships. Her time was 1:05.

Two other Canadian records also fell at the meet. Ken Williams of Etobicoke Memorial Acquatic Club knocked three seconds of the men's 440-yard freestyle with a clocking of 4:53.8 in a heat. George Park of Hamilton also broke the old record as he won the final in 4:56.4.

Williams led off as the Etobicoke senior men's relay team smashed the 400-yard freestyle mark. They covered the distance in 3:38.4—2.1 seconds under the old record.

Etobicoke captured the club championship with 304 points. Brantford was third with 102.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces, not given too much of a chance in the Quebec Hockey League playoffs after ending the regular season in fourth place, are now favored to make the final.

Aces scored a 3-2 overtime win over Chicoutimi Sagueneens at Quebec City Sunday to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final series. Sagueneens had finished the season atop the league.

John Sleaver got the winner for Aces at 10:56 of a sudden-death overtime period. Jean Marie Cossette and Gary Blaine got the other Quebec goals while Georges Roy and Jacques Deslauriers counted for Chicoutimi.

In the other semi - final, at Montreal, Shawinigan Cataracts, second-place finishers, whipped Montreal Royals 6-2 to take a 2-0 lead in their series. Royals ended the season in third position.

Believes Birds Better Club Other Teams' Luck Is Factor

By BOB MYERS

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Manager Paul Richards, who guided Baltimore in somewhat miraculous fashion last year and missed the first division by one game, believes he has a better team this year.

Will the Orioles do any better in the American League in 1958?

"That depends on how much good luck or bad luck the other clubs have," replied Richards, whose Orioles finished in front of Cleveland, Kansas City and Washington.

Richards' conservative optimism was based on several factors, mainly the acquisition of centre fielder Larry Doby from Chicago White Sox "and the anticipated improvement of such players as Al Pilarcik and Brooks Robinson."

NEEDS HITTING

Richards conceded the club needs hitting punch.

Much of this is anticipated from the 33-year-old Doby, one-time mainstay at Cleveland before spending the last two seasons with Chicago.

Pilarcik, a lefty, came to Baltimore from Kansas City last year and made good.

There are still several arguments for regular duties in the infield, including the one between Bob Boyd and Jim Marshall at first base, and the liveliest of them all, at shortstop between veteran Willy Miranda and a 19-year-old rookie Ronnie Hansen.

Just now it is Boyd on top, and Willy facing a tough bout with Hansen, a kid whose only professional experience was in 1956 with the class C Stockton, Calif., team.

SET AT SECOND

Marshall, up from Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast League, can alternate with Boyd and play outfield. Billy Gardner seems set at second while duelling for utility infield play are veteran Eddie Miksis and Spider Jorgensen, a familiar 37-year-old face in the PCL.

Oriole supporters can count on fair to good pitching from a small army of hurlers in camp. Included are Don Ferrarese, Connie Johnson, Billy Loes, Bill O'Dell, Jerry Walker, Hal Brown and reliefers George Zuverink and Ken Lehman, all with the club last year.

Also aboard, aching back and all, is Jack Harshman, late of the White Sox, and Chuck Beamon, a good prospect from Vancouver.

Regulars in the outfield read: Bob Nieman in left, Doby in centre and Pilarcik in right, with veteran Jim Busby also on the payroll, along with Lennie Green and Bert Hamric.

Richards isn't sure whether he'll carry two or three catchers. But Gus Triandos is No. 1 with Joe Ginsberg probably next in line. Youngster Frank Zupo has possibilities.

Marlies Take Two-Game Lead Over Hamilton

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros, who shocked first-place finishers St. Catharines Teepees in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-finals, are giving second-place finishers Hamilton Cubs an equally tough time in the finals.

Marlboros, who finished third, won the first game of the best-of-seven series 8-1. Saturday they whipped the Cubs 6-3 to take a 2-0 lead in the series. Third game is in Hamilton tonight.

After taking a leisurely 2-0 lead in the first - period, Marlboros burst into life and cracked in four unanswered goals in the second. Then they got casual again and the Cubs scored three goals in the last period.

Beavers Even Cup Series

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Cape Breton All-Stars squared their Memorial Cup playoff series with Buckingham Beavers at two games each Saturday night when they rolled to a 8-2 victory. Fifth and deciding game will be played here tonight.

Sonny Salyzyn scored three times for Cape Breton. The other goals were divided among Ross Keeping, Lou Roy, Doug Polly, Bob Tubrett and Huestis Reeves. Mike Lawliss and Guy Lafrance tallied the Buckingham goals.

Dunlops Trim Quebec Aces By 3-1 Score

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada's hard-skating world - tournament hockey champions from Whitby, Saturday defeated Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League 3-1 on two goals by Bob Attersley and one by Connie Broden.

The game ended the exhibition tour—begun in Europe—of the champions.

Broden and Jean-Paul Lamirande, who played with the Canadians in Europe, have returned to pro ranks since then but rejoined Whitby for this game.

Bob Sabourin was the lone scorer for Quebec, his goal coming in the third period after Whitby had a 3-0 lead.

Whitby was sparked by the spectacular net minding of Roy Edwards, who kicked out 33 Quebec shots.

TWO IN A MINUTE

Broden opened the scoring in the first period. Attersley triggered his two goals within a minute late in the second period.

The game was played under International rules, which prohibit bodychecking except in the defenders' end and icing when shorthanded. The seven penalties, four against Quebec, did not figure in the scoring.

The Whitby team outskated the pro Aces and played a steady positional game. Their first shot on Quebec goalie Al Millar was a goal. Broden broke in from the left boards at 7:23 of the first period and let fly with a hopping 15-footer.

APPLIED PRESSURE

Aces were applying pressure towards the end of the middle period when Attersley scooped up the puck in the Whitby end and raced alone from his blueline. A high, hard 10-foot blast caught the upper left corner of the net to give Whitby a 2-0 lead.

Less than a minute later, at 17:40, he picked up a relay from Bus Gagnon and captain Harry Sinden and let fly with a short shot which skimmed in off Millar's pads.

Aces finally spoiled Edwards' shutout bid during a final-period scramble. Gary Blaine let a short shot fly and Edwards trapped it but was unable to smother the puck. Sabourin came in from behind the net and jammed the puck between the goalie's foot and the post.

Palmer Meets Johnson in Golf Playoff

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A history - making playoff was scheduled today when Arnold Palmer met Howie Johnson to determine the $2,000 first-prize winner in the $15,000 Azalea Open golf tournament. They shot closing 68s Sunday for 282 totals.

This was the 10th year of the tournament and no player has ever successfully retained his title or, for that matter, ever won it any two years. In addition, today's playoff was the first the tournament has had. Palmer won here last year.

Johnson had rounds of 74-68-72-68 in leading the field with the highest 72-hole total of the 13-tournament winter season.

Billy Casper took third money of $1,200 with his 286 total on rounds of 69-70-74-73. Sharing fourth place, worth $862.50 each on scores of 287, were George Bayer, Roberto De Vincenzo, Art Wall and Dow Finsterwald.

Calgary's Bob Wylie was top Canadian, tied in 21st place with Bob Hill of Rochester, N.Y. Wylie's 74-71-76-76 — 297 won him $175.

Al Balding of Toronto finished out of the money after a disastrous Sunday morning round. His scores: 77-76-80-71—304.

Vic Wertz Fractures Ankle Lost to Tribe for 9 Weeks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The injury jinx still is dogging Cleveland Indians, this time cutting down veteran Vic Wertz—the one solid man in manager Bobby Bragan's infield.

The 33-year-old first baseman, the slugger who belted polio for a loop in 1955 and was voted The Associated Press come-back-of the-year award in '56, suffered a fractured ankle Sunday and will be out of action for at least nine weeks.

That means it might be June 1 before Wertz is ready for even pinch-hitting assignments.

The injury came as Wertz slid into second base in the third inning of a 12-10 exhibition loss to the San Francisco Giants at Tucson, Ariz. His spikes caught in the dirt.

Wertz was second only to Washington's Roy Sievers among American League runs-batted-in leaders with 105 last season. Vic led the club with 28 homers last season and hit 32 the year before.

Indians are expected to recall Joe Altobelli, sent to the minors just last week, while getting as many games as they can from Mickey Vernon, the 40-year-old first baseman collected from Boston Red Sox for the waiver price last January.

Autobelli divided last season between Columbus of the International League and Cleveland, batting a mere .207 in 83 games with the Indians. He drove in only nine runs, failed to hit a homer. Vernon played in 102 games with the Red Sox, batting .241.

Cal McLish was the victim as the Giants came from behind with four runs in the ninth Sunday. Rookie Orlando Cepeda's second home run of the game, with two on, made it 11-10 and Bobby Thomson then hit the Giants' fifth home run of the day.

CONSECUTIVE HOMERS

Rookie Willie Kirkland, Ray Jablonski and Cepeda connected for consecutive home runs off Cleveland starter Dick Brodowski. Curt Barclay, fourth Giant pitcher, was the winner as San Francisco smacked 16 hits.

Only one other exhibition game was played Sunday, in which Chicago Cubs defeated Baltimore 2-1 in 12 innings on Ken Lehman's bases-loaded walk to Dale Long. Rookie Dolan Nichols, pitching perfect ball in his 2 2-3 innings, was the winner.

All of the Florida games were rained out, but Detroit Tigers were busy, bundling pitcher Pete Wojey, and $20,000 off to Cleveland for infielder Milt Bolling, and pitcher Vito Valentenetti.

Milwaukee Braves acquired southpaw pitcher Dick Littlefield from Chicago Cubs in a straight cash transaction. No amount was disclosed.

Forts Defeat St. Boniface 11-3

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Fort William Canadiens showed a startling reversal of form Sunday as they drubbed St. Boniface Canadiens 11-3 before 2,478 fans in the third game of their best-of-seven Memorial Cup quarter-final.

St. Boniface defeated Fort William 6-1 and 6-2 in the first two games in Winnipeg.

Dave Merrifield scored three goals and Tinker Mithbrush and Ernie Dupuis each scored twice for Fort William. Bob Ellett, Gary Olney, Gary More and Joe Szura scored one each.

Claude Normandeau scored two for St. Boniface with Jerry Kruk getting the other.

The fourth game of the series will be played tonight.

Bassey Defends Title Against Mexican Moreno

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The world featherweight title goes on the block Tuesday evening and champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey still expects to be wearing the crown after his 15-round showdown with Ricardo (Pajarito) Moreno, the pretender from Mexico.

"I rather fancy I'll thrash the chap," said the champion from Nigeria in his crisp British West African accent.

The mysterious men who set the odds think so, too. The ebony-muscled Bassey is an early 2-1 favorite to ruffle the pinfeathers of Moreno, whose nickname, Pajarito, means Little Bird.

The 25-year-old champion holds an advantage in experience and, in the opinion of most railbirds, an edge in boxing skill. Bassey can box or slug, as the occasion demands. He has stopped 17 of his 61 opponents, including Cherif Hamia for the vacant featherweight title last June.

Moreno, anything but fancy, is like a midget Marciano who continually trots forward with both hands cocked. He'll take a punch to land one. His best punch is a crushing left hook that he frequently throws in double sequence.

Moreno, 21, has stopped 29 of his 33 foes. In fact, the little Bird has gone 10 rounds only once—in losing to his countryman, Memo Diez, in 1956.

HOW'S YOUR I.Q.?
TODAY'S INSURANCE PROBLEMS ANSWERED

QUESTION—
Suppose a driver hits his brakes so hard he wears flat spots on all his tires trying to avoid a collision. Shouldn't the insurance company pay for the tire damage? After all, the driver has probably saved the company a big collision repair bill!
ANSWER—
The answer is "No". Tires are worn a bit every time a stop is made, and if insurance companies paid for that damage there would be a million arguments as to degree of damage and whether or not the damage was necessary in avoiding a collision.

Academy Award Show Was Real Family Affair

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Most old-timers agree that the 1958 academy award show came the closest to the warm, family affair of pre-war days, before television intruded on Hollywood's biggest night, bringing with it the taint of commercialism.

This year it was entirely the movie industry's show, and the town reacted with an esprit de corps that hasn't been seen here in years.

Gone was the defeatist talk of the falling box office. The spirit at the board of governors' party after the show was infectious. You could feel the confidence from the famous revellers that they had put on a good show.

Said Academy President George Seaton: "I think we put on the best program we possibly could."

Added Jerry Wald, who produced the telecast: "I believe we achieved what I aimed for in the beginning—to be funny without being silly and distinguished without being dull."

I'd say it was a splendid show—with some reservations.

AWARDS STREAMLINED

The awards were somewhat streamlined—the envelope opening and long walks were minimized.

But there is still a lot of uninteresting folderol. Surely there must be some way of compressing the time used for all the minor awards with their dreary stage waits and acceptance speeches.

But the film industry has every right to be proud of its performance. It was exciting to see Mae West in her famous parody of sex . . . Rosalind Russell, a vision of Auntie Mame in black pajamas . . . Lana Turner looking tan and terrific . . . Bob Hope, everbody's favorite wise guy . . . .

The bouncy zest of Betty Grable . . . Maurice Chevalier, a charmer from the past . . . Clark Gable, John Wayne, Jimmy Stewart, Rock Hudson . . . .

The spectacle made you realize anew how tragic it would be if this magical medium fell victim to the latter-day cowpokes, crooners and quiz masters of the living room screen.

19 Canadians Die in Mishaps Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nineteen Canadians were accidentally killed this weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday found 13 dead in traffic accidents, four burned to death, one suffocated and one drowned.

The count by provinces (traffic deaths in brackets): Ontario 6 (3); Quebec 5 (5); Manitoba 4 (4); Nova Scotia 1; New Brunswick 1 (1); Saskatchewan 1; British Columbia 1.

ONTARIO DEATHS

Michael H. Montague, 27, of Winnipeg and his son, Frederick George, 2, in a house fire at Kingston Sunday.

James R. Horton, 42, of Oshawa, Saturday night when his car was in collision with another vehicle near Port Hope. William Roblin, of Picton, Ont., driver of the other car, was not injured.

Near Niagara Falls, Grace Wachetti, 26, of Hamilton, was killed early Sunday when thrown out of a car which was struck by another vehicle on the Queen Elizabeth Way.

Audrie Carey, 22, also of Hamilton, was taken to hospital with a deep laceration at the base of her skull.

Miss Carey and Miss Wachetti were returning from Niagara Falls, N.Y., to Hamilton. Their car, hit by an automobile which came out of a side road, went into a ditch. Miss Wachetti was thrown out of the car and an oncoming vehicle passed over her body.

Pallice said the car in collision with the Wachetti auto was driven by Henry Wilson, 44, of St. Catharines and the third car involved was driven by Barry Carr, 22, of Port Dalhousie.

CAR HIT POLE

Sgt. Clyde R. White, 37, of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, was killed Saturday when his car went out of control and hit a hydro pole.

It was first thought he had died of a heart attack, but an autopsy showed a severed artery responsible. Sgt. White, captured at Dieppe during the Second World War, was a prisoner in Germany three years. His wife and two children, Gary, 4, and Kenneth, 6, survive.

Earl Vanderhart, five-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vanderhart, was suffocated Sunday in their Scarborough home when his head became wedged between a crib and guard rail and mattress.

Money Only Reason Menjou Returned to Television Series

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Adolphe Menjou is as proud of his new anthology dramatic series, Target, as any performer possibly can be. But he went one step further when pressed to describe the reasons that made his return to television.

"Money," he said succinctly.

"I'm not positive," said Menjou, who has made more than 250 motion pictures, "but I don't think I could make a living out of pictures at the moment—if I had to which I don't. They just aren't making enough pictures these days. If they want you badly enough they'll get you, but they don't want most actors that badly."

KEEPS RECORD RIGHT

In fairness to Menjou, however, it must be pointed out that he is currently, or was recently, visible in movie houses playing in Paths of Glory, The Ambassador's Daughter, I Married a Woman and Bundle of Joy.

Menjou is the host and plays frequently in Target.

"Who is the target? It varies each week. Sometimes the villain. Sometimes the hero. As with life, it changes all the time."

ONE OF BEST DRESSED

The other morning, when planning to do nothing more than transact a day's normal business, he was wearing striped trousers, double - breasted vest (pardon, waistcoat), stiff white shirt, dark coat . . . yes, a tie, socks and shoes too.

When we rather awkwardly backed into a question about a TV host wearing "formal" or "informal" clothing, he asked mildly:

"Who's formal? I'm informally dressed no. I believe you're talking about television masters of ceremonies who are dressed in what I call the sloppy style. That form of dressing is a quaint old California country custom that has crept into the cities—and onto television. I deplore it.

Menjou, who recently turned 68 and doesn't look it, believes that the two best - dressed men performers on television are Jack Benny ("we share the same cutter") and Perry Como ("his collars are too large, but that's all right because he's a singer.")

GOOD SIGN OF SPRING

Southern Essex County, often referred to as the sun parlor of Canada, is living up to its reputation this spring. Farmers already are busy outdoors with their spring planting. Here Mrs. Irene Mastronardi and Mario Baltazar are transplanting head lettuce. (CP Photo).

HAWAIIAN WELCOME

SUNNY SKIES

Mr. Diefenbaker countered with a $1,185,000,000 public works program as an unemployment cure, a program which Mr. Pearson called a "hoax." Mr. Diefenbaker said unemployment was an inheritance of the Liberals' "tight money" policy, restraining the expansion of credit to business and other borrowers.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell, 69, said both leaders were so busy assaulting each other over the unemployment issue that they ignored the basic need — a state-controlled investment program to eliminate fluctuations in the economy.

Solon Low, 58, the Social Credit leader, propounded his party's main belief, the control of the country's monetary machinery to provide consumers with extra dividends so they could buy more of the country's production.

TO THE FINISH

The fight went right to the wire. Radio and television political broadcasting ended at midnight Friday night, as required by law. In most parts of Canada, electioneering ended Saturday night. In Quebec, campaigners put in some last-minute blows Sunday.

Mr. Diefenbaker swung through the Ottawa area Saturday, saying the campaign has disclosed "the greatest restoration of interest in public affairs we have had for years."

Then he flew to Prince Albert, Sask., to cast his vote in his home riding after visiting his ailing mother at Saskatoon.

Mr. Pearson sped through the Ottawa Valley area, predicting a Liberal victory and pledging to try to work for "peace, work, prosperity, security and national unity."

He cast his vote in Ottawa East, where he resides. He has represented the Northern Ontario riding of Algoma East since 1948. Now he faces stiff competition in that constituency from Progressive Conservative Basil Scully, a Sudbury television announcer.

Neither Mr. Coldwell nor Mr. Low were able to vote. Both reside at Ottawa but remained close to their Prairie home ridings during the weekend. Mr. Coldwell has represented Rosetown - Biggar in Saskatchewan since 1935; Mr. Low Peace River in Alberta since 1945.

PARTY STANDING

Main interest will be centred on party victories and defeats. The standing at dissolution of Parliament: Conservatives 113; Liberals 105; CCF 25; Social Credit 19; Independents two. A party must win at least 133 seats to form a majority government.

But interest also will be focused on some key areas and personalities. The Conservatives hope to break the Liberals' stronghold in Quebec where in the last Parliament the Liberals held 64 of the 75 seats. The Conservatives got nine and the Independents held two.

Many of the Conservatives feel they must capture a substantial share of the Quebec representation if they hope to build a strong majority government. Mr. Pearson has predicted that the Liberals' strength in Quebec will not weaken.

One of the strongest Liberal seats is Quebec east, vacated by 76-year-old former prime minister St. Laurent. His economic adviser, Maurice Lamontagne, is trying to retain that seat.

CABINET DEFEATS

Nine Liberal cabinet ministers were knocked out in the 1957 defeat. Only one of them, former associate defence minister Paul Hellyer, is trying for a comeback, in Toronto Davenport.

In Ottawa West, long-time Liberal member George McIlraith faces fiery Progressive Conservative Charlotte Whitton, one-time Ottawa mayor.

At Port Arthur, Liberal Edward Anten is trying to restore the seat to his party. It was wrested from former trade minister C. D. Howe by CCFFer Douglas Fisher. Mr. Howe held the seat since 1935.

Interest also is centred at Melville, Sask., where former Liberal agriculture minister James G Gardiner, 74, faces CCF and Conservative competition. He has been unbeaten since 1935.

PLAN TEST-BAN VOTE

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The first of 17,000,000 British voters soon will receive ballot forms in a world referendum asking whether nuclear tests should be banned. The Referendum Institute, a private organization claiming the support of United Nations associations in several countries, Friday posted 100,000 ballot forms to Britain from its Brussels headquarters. Britain was chosen as the starting place for the world referendum because of interest there in a recent university ballot on nuclear weapons.

HOPES

Stressing the dangers of continued bomb tests, Gromyko said one hydrogen bomb could extinguish all life in any average-size nation.

With the development of rockets such destruction could reach any part of the globe, he said. "It does not require a rich imagination to feel what would happen if tests continue."

DOESN'T ASSURE PEACE

"We realize that the ending of tests does not yet avert the danger of war. When one side tests a series of bombs the other side tries to catch up.

"People write touchingly about clean bombs but all this is simply to divert people from the main problem.

"There are some people in the United States who think that atomic and H-bombs are necessary to prevent war. They are doing the same as former president (Harry) Truman—trying to justify the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

"They are trying to make it seem that atom bombs are for the good of the people. But this conception is alien to the interests of peace and mankind."

SOLUTION POSSIBLE

Gromyko said: "If the United States and Great Britain join the Soviet Union and in their turn decide to cease testing atom and hydrogen weapons, the question deeply affecting all peoples in our time will find at last its solution.

"Experimental explosions of nuclear weapons will then be ended everywhere and for all time.

"It is self-evident that if other governments possessing nuclear weapons do not wish to follow the Soviet Union's initiative, but continue exploding atom and hydrogen weapons, the Soviet Union will be forced to act further in the matter of nuclear explosions, taking into consideration her own security.

"The Soviet Union has already once taken unilateral measures concerning the reduction of its armed forces and armaments.

"If the organizers of military preparations expect that the cause of disarmament will also in future be promoted unilaterally by the Soviet Union alone, while the Western powers are building up their armaments, then their calculations are wrong."

SIX FIRST DEPUTIES

Khrushchev appointed as first deputy premiers Mikoyan and F. R. Kozlov, and four additional deputy premiers, Alexei N. Kosygin, Demitri F. Ustinov and Josef Kuzmin from the old Bulganin cabinet, and former economic plan member Aleksandr Gassyadko.

Khrushchev announced no changes in the heads of the 19 government ministries.

The appointment of Kozlov as a first deputy premier is new proof that the Leningrad Communist party leader is on the way up.

Koslov won a seat in the 15-member Communist party praesidium after last June's shakeup and subsequently was appointed premier of the Russian federation.

LOUD, LONG APPLAUSE

Khrushchev disposed of the appointment of his new government in a matter of three or four minutes, racing through the list of names without time for applause between them.

There was loud and long applause as he finished.

Khrushchev set the stage for his cabinet announcement by discussing his agricultural policy. He said the Russian parliament and people approve his plan to take farm machinery away from central machine stations and distribute it among the collective farms.

Khrushchev rejected all suggestions that poor collective farms should receive machinery free and instead offered credit for three to five years.

"The way to help out poor farmers is not by giving them machinery but by reinforcing their manpower and giving them training by experienced farmers," he declared.

Khrushchev, wearing a black suit with two gleaming Orders of Lenin on his chest, called for main emphasis on the drive to overtake the United States in agricultural and economic production.

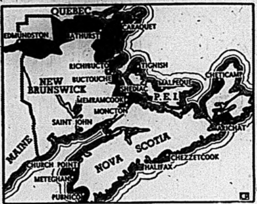
Acadians in Maritimes



There were only 6,000 Acadians in Nova Scotia when British soldiers sent them into exile in 1755. Many returned and now nearly 300,000 of their descendents live in the Maritime provinces.

Shaded areas on this map show where most of the Acadians now live. White dots mark the main Acadian centres in the three provinces.

Most Acadians live in New Brunswick which is home to 192,000 living along the north shore and the counties bordering the province of Quebec. Moncton, where the Acadian population is concentrated, is recognized as the centre of Acadian life.

The Acadian heritage is strongly preserved in New Brunswick because of the influence of French - language schools and universities.

Acadians in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island are widely scattered. In Malpeque the residents have not spoken French for 100 years, but they are proud to be called Acadians. (CP Newsmap).

Acadians, Descendants Of First French Settlers In U.S., Growing Rapidly

By JOE DUPUIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Two youngsters walk down a street here talking animatedly in French. One is Anglo-Saxon, the other Acadian.

Unheard of 20 years ago, it's an every-day scene today in this bustling railway city on the Petitcodiac River, fast growing into its Acadian suburbs.

Significantly, the youngsters reflect the acceptance by the English-speaking majority of the durable Acadians, descendants of the first French settlers in Nova Scotia. Their numbers have increased tremendously since some 6,000 to 10,000 were expelled by the British in 1775.

200-YEAR GROWTH

Hundreds found their way back to Nova Scotia later in the century and today the Acadian population in the Maritimes is about 270,000. The bulk of these—192,000 — live in New Brunswick. About 62,000 are in Nova Scotia and 16,000 in Prince Edward Island.

"Our Acadian people have acquired a sense of belonging, of togetherness," says Emery LeBlanc, editor of the province's only French daily, L'Evangeline. For Archbishop Norbert Robichaud the growth of the Acadians has special meaning.

By human reckoning, he says, the Acadians "should no longer exist." However "not only are they very much alive today . . . they are brimming with vigor and look forward to the future with justified optimism."

Dr. W. T. Ross Flemington, president of English - speaking Mount Allison University at Sackville, N.B., says the Acadians "have caught the fancy of us all." In church, state, industry and in the professions "they are making an outstanding contribution."

Mayor M. M. Baig of Moncton says the Acadians are "a vital factor to the economy." With a wave of his hand, he exclaims: "Just walk around the city, look at their schools, colleges, churches and see for yourself."

USE OF FRENCH

In New Brunswick's Gloucester, Madawaska and Kent counties more and more people recognize French as their mother tongue. However, in P.E.I. and N.S., the Acadians have become widely scattered. Lacking French schools and isolated from the French influence they lean strongly to the non-French population. At Souris, P.E.I., a French word meaning mouse, Acadians haven't spoken French for 100 years.

In Halifax, a mere 5,053 Acadians still speak French. At Amherst on the Nova Scotia - New Brunswick border, once a strong Acadian settlement, only the older Acadians speak the language.

As early as 1887, Moncton was recognized as the centre of Acadian life. Here is concentrated most of the Acadian population. It was for this reason editor Valentin Landry in 1905 moved his newspaper, L'Evangeline, here from Weymouth, N.S.

For similar reasons, headquarters of the powerful Societe L'Assomption was moved here from Fitchburg, Mass., in 1913.

PROUD OF GROWTH

Editor LeBlanc, who studies Acadian history as a hobby, believes the development of French-English unity came about because "we needed something to cling to."

"In my day, we had no reason to be proud of our language," he says. Churches were in cellars. There were no French schools. Acadian families, mostly rural, were large and their children "couldn't afford to finish schooling."

"That's all changed now," Mr. LeBlanc says. Today the Acadian youngster knows his church is big and elaborate. There is a French daily newspaper, radio station, hospital, college and the archbishop "lives in the most expensive home in the city."

In earlier days, parents of French-English marriages raised English-speaking children. Today many of the Steeves, Murphys, Finns and MacDonalds speak French. Upwards of 150 English-speaking people attend French night classes here.

Noted Acadians have contributed greatly to their people's resurgence. Aubin Arsenault was premier of Prince Edward Island and later a Supreme Court judge. Msgr. Francois Marcel Richard built 15 churches in New Brunswick's Kent County and founded several villages.

SLOW, SOLID GAINS

In the political realm, Acadians have made slow but solid gains. There are 13 French members of 52 in the N.B. legislature. Until 1952, there was no French spoken in the assembly. Now the odd snatch of French is heard even though it is strictly an English-speaking chamber. Premier Flemming is learning the language.

Acadians have many colleges and universities — St. Joseph's University at Moncton and Memramcook; St. Louis College at Edmundston, N.B.; St. Anne's College at Church Point, N.S. and Moncton's Notre Dame D'Acadie for girls.

Playing a key role in the Acadian survival is Societe L'Assomption which insures the lives of Acadians, awards scholarships to their children and pays sick benefits. It has 72,816 members, assets of $16,000,000 and last year did $80,000,000 worth of business.

The society has spent $721,000 for scholarships to 922 students. Founded in 1903, it grew from an original membership of 5,000.

Each member contributes by paying 10 cents a month toward the scholarship fund. Up to five years ago, members' children wrote examinations to qualify. Today 50 names are selected by lot each year.

The society's president, Senator Calixte F. Savoie, says his organization is "the greatest single factor in the growth and unity of the Acadians." It has so far poured $25,000,000 into schools, colleges and churches.

He says the Acadians will continue to grow "because we now have the economic strength, organization and funds." He believes New Brunswick should set an example to all Canada "of what two peoples working together can accomplish . . . because we have a typical bi-cultural, bilingual populace."

The co - operative movement also had a big impact on the Acadian economy. Forty-five per cent of the full-time commercial fishermen of the Maritimes are Acadians. Aided largely by co-op unions, their industry brings in more than $33,000,000 a year. Forty-five per cent of the members of New Brunswick agricultural societies are Acadian farmers.

Early Acadians, returning to their native land after the expulsion, were without money, schools, institutions or priests. One author wrote "they dragged out an existence so precarious that the race seemed doomed to total and definite extinction."

The first group of dispersed Acadians settled in the nearby Memramcook Valley destined to become the cradle of secondary education in the area.

Rev. Robert Lavoie, superior of St. Joseph's University, founded in 1864 believes the Acadians "are living better today than they ever did."

NEW YORK (AP) — Producer Mike Todd left an estate of $250,000 in immediate assets and $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 in future income from his film Around the World in 80 days, the Journal-American says. The will of the showman, killed last Saturday in a New Mexico plane crash, will be filed in Surrogate's Court next week.
